Thief River Falls students complete STAR Team training

Sixth-grade students from Franklin Middle School, along with advisor Jenny Hanestad, recently completed the Students Teaching Attitudes of Respect (STAR) Team Program sponsored by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation. They were among a group of 39 students and advisors attending the three-day STAR Teams training at Concordia Language Village near Bemidji.

STAR Teams nurtures young people in the development of their character, values and relationships. Focus is on communications skills, media awareness, personal styles in conflict management, non-competitive games and thought processes. Training is provided by STAR trainers, a team led by Sue Liedl that includes Sandra Pascoe Robinson, Candy Roberts and Susan Smith. Along with team and individual training for the students, team building training for advisors is also provided. STAR Teams sessions include Personal Reflections, Cooperative Skills, Skills to Build Self-Awareness, Preparation for Potential Conflicts, Communication Skill, and Bringing Back Skills to Our Families and Communities.

STAR Teams training sessions are held in the fall with a follow-up retreat in April. STAR Teams is available to sixth- and seventh-grade students from schools throughout the 12 northwest Minnesota counties, including Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. To date more than 657 students from area schools have taken part in the program.

Minnesota Commissioner of Public Safety Charlie Weaver and Minnesota State Patrol Chief Anne Beers met with local law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls on November 7. "We pick their brains to see how we can to a better job for them," said Weaver. The topic of terrorism and vulnerable targets around this area were discussed. Weaver named water treatment plants, pipelines, and bridges as vulnerable spots. Ways of ensuring the the United States/Canadian border is adequately patrolled were also discussed. Pictured left to right are Minnesota State Patrol Captain Dick Wittenberg, Commissioner Charlie Weaver, Minnesota State Patrol Chief Anne Beers, and Senator LeRoy Stumpf.

MN third in environmental, economic and social progress

States are playing an unprecedented role in protecting the nation's environment and boosting the economy, yet most lack the tools needed to ensure that development is sustainable over the long term. Minnesota is one of a handful of exceptions according to a new report from the Resource Renewal Institute, a nonprofit, non-governmental organization that supports policy innovation in the United States and worldwide.

"Basically, this is another side of smart growth. To me it's smart to plan a future that has both a strong economy and a healthy environment," said Governor Jesse Ventura. "I'm happy to report that Minnesota ranks third on this topic. I'd be happier still if we were number one."

Minnesota is singled out for having the most comprehensive forecasting, planning and sustainable development research operation of any state. It also got high marks for its renewable energy requirements, pollution prevention efforts, recycling and waste management, metropolitan livable communities activity, sustainable forest management and regulatory innovation.

The study based its rating on a new statistical measure that evaluates 65 indicators in four categories: strength of the environmental management framework, level of policy innovation, fiscal and program commitment, and quality of governance.

The State of the States is available from the Resource Renewal Institute, Fort Mason Center, Pier One, San Francisco, CA 94123, or by calling 415-928-3774, and is posted at www.rri.org.

NCTC welcomes archaeologists for presentation

Representatives from the Duluth Archaeology Center will present findings from recent digs at Northland Community and Technical College on Tuesday, Nov. 20.

Stephen Mulhollund and representatives from the Center will be Northland's guests of honor. A presentation for NCTC students will be from 12 p.m. to 1 p.m., and a free presentation open to the public will be from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. in room 601.

In 1996, archaeological investigations were conducted on property owned by Northland College. The investigations were part of a larger archaeological examination of the reservoir on the Thief and Red Lake Rivers. This work was done at the request of the City of Thief River Falls as part of their Federal Energy Regulatory Commission requirements to relicense the reservoir.

In August 2001, additional investigations were conducted on the four archaeological sites located on the College property. This work was requested by the City's Utilities Department in response to requirements set forth by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

In presentations at the College, Center representatives plan to review the history of the project and display what was found during the archaeological investigations.

Coping financially with tough times

Recent events and a slowing economy are raising financial challenges for more and more Americans. Some have lost their jobs. Others find it tougher to pay the mortgage or send in the rent check. Still others are working hard just to make ends meet.

Personal bankruptcies are an unfortunate measure of these tough times. In 1998, a record 1.4 million Americans filed for bankruptcy. Now it looks as though 2001 will set yet another record. The American economy loses more than $40 billion a year in debts not paid and obligations left unmet. The cost of products and services — and interest rates — rises for all Americans as a result.

For most people, bankruptcy isn't the best option. Bankruptcy makes it tougher to get credit in the future. Bankruptcy stays on your credit report for up to 10 years making it difficult to get a mortgage. Any credit you get will probably cost more in terms of interest rates and fees charged. And alimony, child support and most taxes survive bankruptcy; they'll still have to be paid.

People who face the prospect of filing for bankruptcy should explore every other option first. Talk to lenders. Ask them about programs and options they offer to help stretch out payments. An impartial financial counselor can help you in sorting through your options. The goal is to gain control of your finances.

Americans who find themselves in financial difficulty can, and should, seek help. To schedule an appointment with a financial counselor, call Consumer Credit Counseling Service of The Village Family Service Center — in Fargo call 235-DEBT — or call toll free 1-800-450-4019 to schedule an appointment in your area.

The Village is a United Way agency and CCCS of The Village is a member of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, Inc.

SPECIAL AGRICULTURAL HOMESTEAD

The special Agricultural Homestead Provision was created to extend homestead status (which can result in lower property taxes) to those property owners, or their sons and daughters, who actively farm the land. The 1999 Minnesota Legislation passed legislation that extended the homestead classification to certain farmland that is not immediately adjacent to an owner's place of residence. The 2000 Legislation also extended the homestead to members of a family farm corporation, joint farm venture, limited liability company or partnership. The legislation provides for homestead for non-contiguous farmland under the following conditions:

Agricultural property consisting of at least 40 acres shall be classified homestead, to the same extent as other agricultural property, if all the following criteria are met:

1. the owner, or the owner's spouse, or a son or daughter of the owner or owner's spouse either on the person's own behalf as an individual or on behalf of a qualified entity in which they are a partner, shareholder or member actively farms the agricultural property;
2. the owner of the agricultural property is a MN resident;
3. neither the owner or their spouse may claim another agricultural homestead in MN;
4. the owner does not live farther than four townships or cities, or a combination of four townships or cities, from the agricultural property; and
5. be listed as the farmer/operator by the Farm Service Agency (Form 156 EZ)
6. file a Schedule F with their federal income tax return.

The following definition constitutes "actively farming." Persons engaged in actively farming must participate in the day to day labor, administration and management of the farm. They must assume all or a portion of the financial risks and they must participate in any profits and losses.

Additionally:
- The farmland must be a minimum of 40 acres in size and;
- The farmland must meet the definition of agricultural property contained in MN Statutes 273.124, Subd. 14(b).
- Land enrolled in CRP or RIM do not qualify for the homestead classification. It will continue to be classified as agricultural.

This special homestead provision is only available to qualified individuals that make application by the filing deadline of December 15. To find out how to apply for the special agricultural homestead and receive the proper application form contact:

Northern Pride Inc. succeeds in a competitive market

by David Hill
Editor

Northern Pride Inc., turkey processing plant in Thief River Falls, has managed to survive in an economy that has kept retail prices relatively the same from year to year. In fact, between 1985 and 1997, there was no change in the retail price for turkey.

Russ Christianson, general manager of Northern Pride cooperative, said the only way to compete in this market is by continuing to grow and produce a better product.

Thirteen years ago, growers were given an option of purchasing the processing plant in Thief River Falls. They took that challenge. At the time, there were 33 growers and they produced 33 million pounds of turkey. Today, there are 22 growers, and they produce 38 million pounds. That's 1.7 million pounds of turkey each.

"It's all economy of scale," said Christianson.

They also succeed because of careful management and marketing.

Northern Pride is among the top 25 plants in the nation but it is probably the only plant in the Top 25 that operates on a seasonal basis. The plant operates from April 30 to December 7. During the off-season they have about 10 to 12 employees performing maintenance, administrative duties and procurement. Christianson said there are two primary reasons why it's a seasonal business — it's more expensive to operate during the winter months, and the market slows down considerably after Thanksgiving.

The National Turkey Federation estimates that approximately 45 million turkeys are eaten at Thanksgiving, 22 million at Christmas, and 19 million at Easter.

During the past 13 years, the market has changed as well. Christianson said that when they started, 70 percent of the turkeys processed at the plant were tom turkeys. Next year, he said, they might not have a single tom turkey processed at the plant. That's because today's families are smaller, they buy smaller turkeys, and growers can grow larger hens.

During the past 13 years, government requirements have changed as well. Christianson believes that has been good for the industry. As far as quality control, the USDA no longer uses a a command and control style, but allows individual plants to establish specific control points.

Christianson said, most people do not realize that there are four USDA inspectors in the plant all day long.

To survive in an economy that hasn't seen a significant change in the retail cost of their product, turkey growers have had to be good growers.

Christianson said in the past 10 years, Minnesota has lost 22 percent of its growers. The growers who have survived have done so because they have a good understanding of the cost of inputs, and understanding of husbandry.

Minnesota is currently ranked number one for turkey production in the United States. Until a few years ago, it traditionally produced the most turkeys. According to the National Turkey Federation, growers in Minnesota raised an estimated 43.5 million birds in 2001.

Christianson pointed out that Minnesota has been rated number one for the past couple of years. Prior to that, North Carolina held the distinction of being number one. He said one of the differences between North Carolina and Minnesota is that many growers in

FAA wants partial deer fence at TRF airport

■ Measures will help alleviate wildlife hazards

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

The FAA is requiring a partial deer fence be installed at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport by September 2002.

The request is to ensure that immediate measures are taken to alleviate all possible wildlife hazards. Under a new mandate, the City may also be required to build a fence around the entire airport for security reasons.

In response to FAA officials' visit two weeks ago, the City has determined what it will cost to construct a secure pre-boarding area inside the airport. The enclosed site is estimated at $30,000. Public Works Director Ronald Lindberg said the City should be eligible for assistance.

In addition to the enclosed site, Mesaba will be installing an x-ray machine and a metal detector. The new security features need to be installed, and be in operating condition by February 1, 2002.

The following items were approved from the agenda: payment of October prepayments and first half of November bills; final payment to Davidson Construction for the 2001 Street and Utilities

Friday night, about 1,400 people from throughout the region attended the unveiling of the new Arctic Cat ZR440. The Friday night event was also the Ice-breaker Reception for the annual racing school sponsored by Arctic Cat. Washington, D.C. is not the place for students now

■ School board hears reasons why Close Up trip cancelled

by David Hill
Editor

At a school board meeting Monday, November 12, School District 564 board of directors listened to several reports. Lincoln High School Principal Tom Hunt and Scott Brekke presented what could be considered a round up of activities taking place at the school, and Lincoln High School Instructor Charlie Cornell announced that he would not take students to the Close Up Foundation program in Washington, D.C., because "it's not the place place to be taking students right now."

Connie Stock, School District 564 Teacher of the Year, and one of nine finalists in the statewide Teacher of the Year competition, described her experience in the competition as "interesting."

In addition to hearing her report on the event, School District 564 presented her with a plaque in appreciation for her efforts on behalf of School District 564.

Stock thanked the board for recognizing her efforts. She said she thought the experience was worthwhile, but was glad to be home and in the classroom.

Close Up

This would have been Charlie Cornell's 11th year taking students to the Close Up Foundation program in Washington, D.C. Monday night Cornell revealed his reasons for deciding not to take students to Washington, D.C. this year.

Cornell said in view of the events taking place in New York and Washington, D.C., he decided to review plans to take kids to Washington, D.C. As part of his decision-making process he consulted some friends who have also taken kids to the Close Up program. They said they either weren't going or the numbers were way down. He said Close Up had come up with some alternatives, but he did not feel they had come up with anything that would provide students with a sound educational week. His major concerns are not with terrorist attacks or the liability he has for students. His concerns are based mostly on his own fears, particularly of biological attacks (anthrax), the fact that events and activities would be subject to cancellation with little or no notice, and with the apprehension of students and parents. After visiting with parents and students, only a few said they would be willing to go.

"I feel bad about doing this, but at the same time, it's where we're at and the time we're living in."

Fern Bruggeman has much to be thankful for this holiday season. She extends a special thank you to the police officers who helped save her life last month.

Fern Bruggeman gives thanks at Thanksgiving for a second chance

■ Portable defibrillator used by Police becomes important asset

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

Tomorrow families will sit down together during a holiday that has been marked as a time to give thanks. Gratitude will be given where it's due. Simple prayers of thanksgiving will linger with the sweet aroma of mom's home cooking.

This year Fern Bruggeman's appreciation will extend beyond that of the past. She's thankful for a second chance at life.

"It's a miracle," she said of the experience.

October 11 may be a date she will never forget, even though her memory won't reproduce the events. It started off as a regular fall day. She was in the yard raking leaves with her son Robert, who hadn't noticed anything seemingly different.

About an hour into the chore it happened. Fern went down, and was unresponsive. Only seconds before the episode, Robert says he was talking and joking with her. In a matter of moments, he turned to find her lying on the ground.

It seems to have become human instinct to call 911 in this type of situation. A common, yet lifesaving decision that Robert made.

"Maybe three minutes went by before the police arrived," he said. "But every minute felt like an hour."

First to respond was Thief River Falls Police Officer Vern Cleven, and close behind was Officer Ryan Kezar with a defibrillator in tow.

"It was impressive to watch him in action," said Robert. "Using the defibrillator was automatic for him."

Every police officer on the Thief River Falls force has been trained to use the machine. The department is in the process purchasing another defibrillator through donations and the Law Enforcement Center budget, which is managed by the Public Safety Committee. Having machines in two cars would provide a greater chance for saving lives. The time that is most crucial is the first five minutes after a person goes down. A person who goes without oxygen much longer than this time period is risking brain damage. The defibrillator shocks the heart back into a normal rhythm.

"To have someone come back after using this, and walk out of a hospital is a miracle," said Officer Brent Monroe, who trains other officers to use the machine, and is also an EMT for Great Plains Ambulance.

The word miracle is used often to describe Fern's recovery. According to her son, the defibrillator used by the responding police officers, and their quick reaction time, are the reasons Fern is here today.

"Her doctor has his doubts about the machine, but after this he swears by it." "He said, 'that's what saved your mother's life.'"

Fern doesn't remember anything from that day or the week to follow. She said the scariest part of the whole ordeal is that she talked to family and friends who came to wish her well, and she doesn't even remember. To look at her, one could never tell that she went through the ordeal. However, when she turns her arms, it's visible where the doctors took veins to use during open-heart surgery. She complains of no pain, before or after surgery. The doctors have ruled out a heart attack. Fern says her heart basically just stopped, and there isn't really an explanation for it right now. As her son said, and putting all medical reasoning aside,

Jessica Liden of Thief River Falls attended Target Market's second Kick Ash Bash in St. Cloud recently. She was among 400 teens selected from around the state to attend the Bash.

Attendees learned how the tobacco industry has targeted teens with its marketing tactics. In addition, the teens learned more about fighting back against the tobacco industry in a series of teen-led breakouts about street marketing, the Internet, branding, media relations and more.

Finally, teens that attended the Bash got the chance to meet one of the instigators in the fight against Big Tobacco, Dr. Jeffrey Wigand, the former Brown and Williamson chemist made famous by Russell Crowe's portrayal in the 1999 film "The Insider," spoke to the teens about the tobacco industry's tactics and answered their questions.

Young people interested in learning more about Target Market can log on to www.tmvoice.com.

Thief River Falls Education Association held a special Recognition Social on Monday during American Education Week. During the social, the group recognized retiring teachers, Jane Oberg, Don Hajlik, and Mary Tyler. Also recognized, but not present, was Ken Johnson.

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary offers tours

The Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary near Warren is offering educational guided interpretive hikes.

Two groups of elementary students from Warren/Alvarado/Oslo have already taken advantage of the opportunity. They were directed along the trails by Sanctuary Director Blane Klemek. The students and their instructor, Rachel Peterson, belong to the after school program "kids.com." They learned first-hand about the forces of nature that help to shape the environment. Many Sanctuary trees and branches had been bent or were broken as a result of the Oct. 24 blizzard, and much of the debris from the storm was still evident along the Sanctuary trails and woodlands. Other observations included beaver-cut trees, mouse houses, and wood duck nesting boxes.

To schedule a field trip, call the Sanctuary at 218-745-5663, or e-mail at wpp@wiktel.com.

DPS streamlines Hazardous Materials response

In an effort to streamline the hazardous materials response program in Minnesota, the Minnesota Department of Public Safety (DPS) has announced that it is consolidating all hazardous materials planning, preparedness and response functions into one division.

Effective December 1, those hazardous materials responsibilities will be assigned to the Division of Emergency Management (DEM).

"The tragic events of September 11 changed emergency response dynamics in Minnesota and throughout the nation," said Public Safety Commissioner Charlie Weaver. "This streamlining of special emergency response functions will ensure that Minnesotans receive a swift, coordinated and efficient response to any hazardous materials incident."

Prior to Weaver's announcement, responsibility for administering the hazardous materials response program had been shared between the Fire Marshal division and DEM.

Bradley Nelson completes basic officer course

Army Reserve Sgt. 1st Class Bradley J. Nelson has graduated from the Army Basic Noncommissioned Officer Course (BNCOC) at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

The soldier received leadership and job specialty training during the common leader and technical training phases, which focus on leadership assessment and development. The noncommissioned officer received the skills needed to supervise, communicate and motivate subordinates; and learned to assist, operate and install communications systems at the strategic and tactical levels.

The training prepares the soldier to act and perform duties and responsibilities in the noncommissioned officer's particular job specialty while serving as a squad leader, team or section chief, or platoon sergeant. Leaders learned the theories and principles of warfighting skills required to lead small units in combat.

Nelson, a light-wheel vehicle mechanic sergeant, is the son of James R. and Joan A. Nelson of Thief River Falls.

He is a 1981 graduate of Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls.

Jessica Liden attends Kick Ash Bash 2

Jessica Liden of Thief River Falls attended Target Market's second Kick Ash Bash in St. Cloud recently. She was among 400 teens selected from around the state to attend the Bash.

Attendees learned how the tobacco industry has targeted teens with its marketing tactics. In addition, the teens learned more about fighting back against the tobacco industry in a series of teen-led breakouts about street marketing, the Internet, branding, media relations and more.

Finally, teens that attended the Bash got the chance to meet one of the instigators in the fight against Big Tobacco. Dr. Jeffrey Wigand, the former Brown and Williamson chemist made famous by Russell Crowe's portrayal in the 1999 film "The Insider," spoke to the teens about the tobacco industry's tactics and answered their questions.

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary offers tours

The Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary near Warren is offering educational guided interpretive hikes.

Two groups of elementary students from Warren/Alvarado/Oslo have already taken advantage of the opportunity. They were directed along the trails by Sanctuary Director Blaine Klemek. The students and their instructor, Rachel Peterson, belong to the after school program "kids corp." They learned first-hand about the forces of nature that help to shape the environment. Many Sanctuary trees and branches had been bent or were broken as a result of the Oct. 24 blizzard, and much of the debris from the storm was still evident along the Sanctuary trails and woodlands. Other observations included beaver-cut trees, mouse houses and wood duck nesting boxes.

Little Brother/Little Sister program in TRF

Yvonne Ode steps down as director

Sue Dupree takes on new duties as director of the program

Sue Dupree (left) has taken over Yvonne Ode's (right) position as director of the Little Brother/Little Sister Program. Ode had been director of the program for the past five years.

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

After several years of dedicated service to the local Little Brother/Little Sister Program, Yvonne Ode is stepping down as director.

"I've enjoyed the program and I've enjoyed being with the kids," said Ode at the program's annual Thanksgiving supper held this past Sunday at Trinity Lutheran Church. "I'm going to miss them."

New director Sue Dupree is excited to be involved in the program, and looks forward to "working with youth again, and with some wonderful volunteers."

The program piqued Ode's interest when it was organized locally in 1987. She volunteered as a big sister and a member of the program's Advisory Board. Becoming a single parent after the death of her husband, and encouragement by her daughter, prompted her to get involved.

"My heart goes out to children in need," said Ode. "I see them, and just want to help them."

Ode spent six years volunteering as a mentor to her little sister Lou. Their relationship began 12 years ago, and the bond formed only proved to grow stronger.

"She has never met me yet without a big hug," said Ode.

This type of relationship seemed to be characteristic of the program as Ode reminisced about her experiences.

She relayed a conversation she had with a young man who was mentored by the program. Once discovering Ode was involved in the program, he instantly began to tell his story, while pouring out his gratitude.

"He said 'the program really kept me going in the right direction,'" said Ode. "It meant a tremendous amount to him."

An elaborate activity doesn't need to be planned for a child to come away with positive memories. Involvement in everyday activities is a way to give these kids social experiences they wouldn't normally get. The program is seen as a preventative method. Kids who have a strong relationship with a mentor may be less likely to try drugs, skip school, or make other kinds of harmful decisions. A mentor offers one more listening ear, and advice that a child may take to heart. A child in the program looks to his or her big brother or sister as a friend.

Each month the Little Brother/Little Sister Program sponsors an activity that all volunteers and children attend. Events vary from camping in the summer to sledding in the winter. Whatever is on the agenda, Ode said she has never seen a child who wasn't excited about participating.

A belief of the program is that a child's life can be greatly influenced by a consistent, positive adult role model. Youth involved in the program generally come from single parent families. They may be having trouble adjusting, or need someone to spend time with them.

Currently the program has 15 children who are waiting to be matched with a caring adult. Dupree said the program is always in need of big brothers. Matches are made according to personal interests a child and a volunteer have in common. Great care is taken in finding just the right big brother or sister for a child. Volunteers need to be at least 18 years old, and have two or more hours available a week to spend with their little brother or sister.

The Advisory Board reviews and approves all matches. Since the board is made up of 12 volunteers from the community, there is a pretty good chance that one of them will know the individual, said Ode. Community involvement is one way of helping to ensure a child's future.

The Little Brother/Little Sister Program is completely paid for by community grants, fund-raisers, and donations.

For more information on the program contact Sue Dupree at 681-8711, ext. 241.

Rebekah Solem excels at National FFA competition

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

Drive is something to be desired. Everyone may possess it, but not all know how to use it.

There are many clubs, organizations, and teams in which today's youth can be involved. The opportunities are either seized, or taken for granted.

As a senior at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, Rebekah Solem has chosen to seek out these opportunities, and use them to her advantage.

Recently Solem placed third in the botany category at the National FFA Agriscience Fair. In her division, there were 14 students competing from various states. The event was held in Louisville, Ky. during the 74th National FFA Convention, which ran Oct. 24 through the 27.

Solem was given a $550 scholarship, and much more from the experience. She said participating in these types of events "helps build communication skills, and offers practice in public speaking." Achievements like this doesn't hurt a college or scholarship application either.

At nationals, a chance to view all of her challengers' projects never presented itself, but a quick glance showed some stiff competition. As judges stepped forward to interrogate Solem about her undertaking, she didn't waiver. No feelings of nervousness were noted prior or during the National Convention. She does, however, admit to feeling some anticipation at the state competition.

"I was more worried about state because there was the opportunity to advance." After all, many hours of hard work were riding on the performance. Her experience obviously didn't end there. She took first place at the state competition in March.

The trip wasn't all stress and work. Participants were rewarded with a private concert by country music artists Diamond Rio and Chris Cagle. Dances and a hypnotist also aided in relieving the pressure presented by the competition.

Her award-winning project is entitled, "The Effects of Cycocel on the Transpiration Rate of Wheat and Corn." Solem said the significance of the project is difficult to explain without giving the full presentation. Describing it in vague terms, she basically conducted tests to show what might happen when a plant dwarfer was applied to wheat and corn under different conditions.

The project has been in the making for two years. She said it's "a continuation from last year's competition." Prior to beginning the project, possible topics were discussed with her biology teacher. Together, they came up with the idea.

For "three full school days," Solem locked herself in a classroom to conduct the actual experiments. She says she spent around 40 hours on the project. After contemplating the time Solem spent researching, writing and planning, one tends to wonder if she is being just a little modest about her efforts.

As many may have guessed by the complexity of the project, this wasn't her first venture into the world of science fairs. She has been involved in several others. Science seems to be her knack. It may seem correct to assume she will eventually go onto a career in the scientific field. The assumption is wrong.

The political world is where Solem plans to reside. "I've always been into politics."

"I wouldn't mind being a congresswoman or senator," said Solem. "Or something with campaigning." As a former page for the nation's capital, she's well on her way, and has already been involved in political crusades.

After graduation this spring, she seeks further schooling at either Carlton College or Gustavus Adolphus. Gaining national recognition for a hobby is an awesome accomplishment, but just think what will happen when she steps into her proposed career. Move over Senator Stumpf, Solem is on her way.

Proud parents are Peter and Valerie Solem, who farm near Thief River Falls. Her dad teaches at the Alternative Learning Center in Thief River Falls, and her mom is the regional director for Senator Mark Dayton.

The agriscience program and scholarships for the event are sponsored by the Ford Motor Company Fund as a special project for the National FFA Foundation. FFA is a national youth organization of over 450,000 student members from all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Agriculturists honored at NDSU event

Jim and Linda Potucek of Warren, were among a group of outstanding agriculturists from each county in North Dakota and western Minnesota honored at the North Dakota State University Harvest Bowl awards dinner November 2. The presentation of the Agriculturist Recognition Award was made by NDSU President Joseph A. Chapman.

The recipient of the 2001 Harvest Bowl Agri-business Award was Michael Warner, a fourth-generation farmer in the Red River Valley. During his career, he has actively farmed 4,300 acres near Hillsboro, with primary crop production consisting of spring wheat, barley, soybeans, edible beans, sunflowers and sugarbeets. Warner, a 1972 NDSU graduate, has been active in agricultural policy, agribusiness, agricultural research, economic development and agriculture education.

Among his many activities, Warner was among the original stockholders of American Crystal Sugar Co., helped start Dakota Growers Pasta Co., served on the steering committee of Progold and chaired the formation of Spring Wheat Bakers Cooperative.

The Harvest Bowl was established in 1973 to recognize respected community citizens who are dedicated to agriculture as a vocation. In 1979, the first Harvest Bowl scholarships were awarded to Bison student athletes. During its 28 years, Harvest Bowl has recognized more than 1,700 agriculturists and awarded more than $50,000 in scholarships to students with agricultural backgrounds.

The Potucek family, who represent Marshall County, run a farming operation that features wheat, sugarbeets, soybeans and beef production.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

Sometimes just before Thanksgiving dinner somebody will suggest that everybody share one thing that they are thankful for. This suggestion usually arises after everybody has been seated, when the mashed potatoes, dressing, and gravy are already steaming on the table.

Everybody is starved. Further delay will just cause the corn to get cold and the gravy to develop a layer of scum. But nobody dares argue with the notion that a little suffering is necessary, probably to ease our guilt for eating such a sumptuous feast. We're commemorating the Puritans, after all!

The men look down at their laps, dreading their turn, hoping this is quick and easy, and that nobody gives a sermon. The worst case scenario? Tears. Emotion. Drama. Please, let's just say the table grace and eat.

Little Jeremy announces that he is thankful that the Vikings won. Oh for cute! The humor breaks the tension, and brings much more laughter than such a remark would normally merit.

The tension resumes when Cousin Polly launches off on what she clearly intends to be a complete list of the good things in her life. There are only 14 items. Sad for her, but fortunate for the rest of us.

The steam is by now barely visible over the mashed potatoes. The surface of the gravy has become dull and lardy. The lettuce is going limp.

Uncle Joe says he is thankful for his 8-point buck. That brings laughter, until it becomes obvious that he was completely serious, on the verge of tears. Somebody quickly says, "Well, that's nothing to sneeze at!" and Uncle Joe looks down at his lap.

Great Aunt Nora, over for the day from Sunny View, closes her eyes and announces, "I am just tankful for my 'helt'." Her "helt" has been iffy for the past 10 years, but this past summer was good, and everybody agrees that being "helty" is nothing to sneeze at, either.

Some smart aleck says he is thankful that we aren't having lutefisk, another says something about the roads being good, and another comments about the high hopes for this year's basketball team. Uncle Joe snitches a pickle, a clear indication that things are spinning out of control.

To restore order, Aunt Molly announces the table grace, which is sung in good harmony, and then the clinking of glasses and the clanging of dishes begins.

The mashed potatoes pour out steam again as soon as the outer crust is broken by the spoon. The gravy underneath the layer of lard is runny and warm. The corn is cold, but if you mix it with the potatoes as you are supposed to, it doesn't make a bit of difference.

After the first couple of bites, the trauma of the long wait fades. The food tastes so good and goes down so easy — it makes one feel truly "tankful."

...Happy Thanksgiving

Don't get me wrong. I really like Thanksgiving. It's a wonderful holiday when families get together to enjoy one another's company, partake of a sumptuous feast, and be thankful.

But mothers have such responsibility during the holidays. They have to make sure the house is clean and suitably decorated. They have to buy all of the groceries and remember the special holiday treats like cranberries and pickles and stuffing stuff and, especially, the turkey. Then they have to cook and bake the feast and, most important, make sure it all gets done cooking and baking at the same time.

Then, when dinner is over, Mom has the extra added responsibility of putting all the leftovers away and getting things cleaned up again, even though she is stuffed full of holiday goodies just like everyone else and would like to go take a nap.

Yes, I can tell you, it's quite a job being in charge of the Thanksgiving feast.

But I don't mind that I spend weeks before the big day cooking things and baking enough breads, rolls, pies, cakes and cookies for a hungry army and packing them away in the freezer until I can't fit another thing in there.

I don't mind that I have to struggle home from the grocery store with bags full of turkey and special holiday feast things the week before the Big Day.

I don't mind that the house has to be cleaned and decorated and the good dishes brought out and polished and the big roaster found and the boards for the table put in and candles gotten ready.

I don't mind that on Thanksgiving morning I have to get up alone in the dark to get the 25-pound bird stuffed and into the oven so it will be ready to eat by noon and I can't possibly go back to sleep after all of that anyway so I stay up and do strange things like stuff cheese into celery and create little carrot curls and peel pounds of potatoes.

I don't mind that after the feast I am left staring at a table full of leftovers and dishes covered with congealed gook and a mountain of dirty pots and pans and I have to try to find room in the refrigerator for all of those leftovers and I have dishpan hands all week and thing fall out of the refrigerator every time I open it.

I don't mind that I eat entirely too much of the holiday feast and have indigestion for the rest of the day and forgot to buy that bubbly stuff that tastes terrible but takes care of the problem and all the stores are closed for Thanksgiving.

I don't mind that I gain 10 pounds during Thanksgiving every year and none of my clothes fit for at least three weeks after the holiday and that just about the time I finally lose the extra pounds it is Christmas time and then I gain 15 pounds more.

I don't mind that I have to come up with inventive ways to cook leftover turkey for the next week, even using it in desserts.

I don't mind that the stores are open the day after Thanksgiving and I don't have to work so I could go take advantage of all of the sales and get a lot of my Christmas shopping done early but I am too full of turkey and can't get myself going so I stay at home and eat more turkey and lots of other leftover things and get indigestion again.

But I really like Thanksgiving, when families get together and enjoy one another's company and partake of a sumptuous feast and be thankful. I especially will remember how much my family has to be thankful for this year, when there are so many families with empty chairs at their Thanksgiving tables.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Brittany Larson, Lincoln High School

I've heard that life is a succession of choices. Sometimes it is difficult to assess whether our choices are good or bad until we know the outcome. In my case, deciding to take pre-calculus was this type of choice. While I knew that the goal of a student should be to learn as much as possible, I've always been mathematically challenged and realized that taking pre-calculus could put my Grade Point Average (GPA) in great jeopardy.

My encyclopedia told me that students usually take calculus "after they have mastered algebra, plane geometry, trigonometry, and analytic geometry." Although I have had the "pleasure" of taking these courses, I'm afraid it would be quite a stretch to say that I have mastered them. But knowing pre-calculus would only last nine weeks provided some comfort. After all, how tough could anything get in just nine weeks? Little did I know that calculus is the mental equivalent to the physical act of walking barefoot on a bed of hot coals. More precisely, like walking barefoot on hot coals for nine consecutive weeks.

The panic set in on the first day of class. Hand outs were issued that revealed how the final grade was calculated. To my horror, test scores accounted for an unfortunate 50%. And to make matters worse, there would only be two tests within the entire nine weeks. Looking back on it, I now believe that each pre-calculus book should carry a government-mandated label like those Surgeon General warnings on cigarette packages. "CAUTION," it would read, "Pre-calculus may create great stress and inflict severe and permanent damage to your self-esteem."

Now I'm sure some of you are asking, "What in the world convinced you to risk taking pre-calculus?" At this point I would give the same response Sir Edmund Hillary offered as to why he climbed Mount Everest: "Because it's there." Of course there is one slight difference between Hillary and me. He achieved that exhilarating thrill of victory when he reached the pinnacle. I achieved something slightly different, something more like a combination of frustration, humiliation and the agony of defeat.

As I pressed forward in my never-ending pre-calculus struggle, I began to second guess my capabilities. Dropping the course would have been painless, but to me, that was basically the same as giving up. Besides, I was learning. Even my teacher, Mrs. Baron, reminded me that my mind was being stretched so much that it would never resume the same form. Great, I thought. My mind was probably so whacked out of shape that I'd need a transplant.

By now it was clear that my valedictorian dream would remain a dream. There was no chance I'd pull off an A in pre-calculus. I won't pretend that I'm not disappointed. But then I have to remember that taking pre-calculus was my decision and as the saying goes first we make our decisions and then our decisions make us.

I know I need to put things into perspective and that grades are only grades. Right? If grades determined success, Albert Einstein would never have accomplished anything. Furthermore, I did learn a lot in precalc and even considering the outcome, I feel I made the right decision in taking the class. After all, "That which does not kill us makes us stronger."

PARENTING TIPS

Family Traditions

Traditions are those things that you do over and over again. Sometimes a tradition is a carefully planned event that you do each year. Sometimes it is something that you just happened to do once, and now your children say "we always do it." How it starts is not as important as the fact that it exists and that children and parents recognize it as an important part of their family's identify.

Traditions enhance a family's togetherness. Here are some hints for strengthening yours:

•Build traditions around your family history. Keeping photo albums, adding pictures to them as the family grows and looking them over on special occasions can give children a sense of stability.

•Listen to your children. Because they know when things have "always been done that way," they may be more adept than their parents in identifying routines that can become family rituals.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the last time you had the holiday or event. See what your children remember. Then build on those things, those ideas for traditions.

Grygla to host blood drive on December 6

The holiday season is just around the corner and even after suffering so many losses in September, Americans have much to be thankful for. United Blood Services thanks all those who will turn out to donate blood at Grygla's upcoming blood drive at the community center on Thursday, December 6, from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The blood drive will help replenish the local blood supply.

The blood drive comes at a critical time. United Blood Services is concerned about a serious blood shortage during the holiday season when the tremendous amount of blood donations that were given during the terrorist attacks will no longer be available to hospital patients since blood can be stored for only 42 days.

To make a commitment to donate blood, contact Roy Nordhy at 294-6122; or Ralph Rundell at 294-6177; or Ione Aune at 294-6323.

Volunteer blood donors must show identification, be at least 17, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good health. The entire donation process takes less than an hour and begins with an interview about medical history and current health. The donation itself takes less than 10 minutes, then donors enjoy refreshments before resuming their days' activities.

Mn/DOT suspends work on Highway 310 north of Roseau

The Minnesota Department of Transportation is advising the public that it is suspending its work connected with the bridge replacement on Trunk Highway 310 north of Roseau until next spring.

According to J.T. Anderson, Mn/DOT's resident engineer for construction in the Thief River Falls office, "replacing the bridge is complete, however, paving of the highway at both ends of the bridge will not be done until next spring." Anderson added, "Highway 310 has a gravel surface which extends approximately 400 feet on each end of the bridge and the area is signed warning drivers that the pavement ends and there is loose gravel."

Anderson said work will resume as soon as spring road restrictions are lifted and weather conditions permit next spring. It is anticipated that once work resumes, it will only take a few days to complete.

Cabinet Report

Lincoln High School has had a very smooth start to the year, according to Lincoln High School Principal Tom Hunt. Hunt and Scott Brekke presented their cabinet report to the board.

Among the highlights of the report:

- All of the programs have good numbers when you look at the ratios, said Hunt.
- They believe the curriculum is well balanced.
- Additional staff in the special education department has made a world of difference for these students:
- "Skinnies," or 45-minute periods of time scheduled during the third block, have been working well. (The third block is 95-minutes long.)
- Work has begun on new North Central Accreditation requirements.
- 110 clocks installed in the hallways of Lincoln High School are reducing confusion.
- The old bell system has been eliminated because there are no parts for the old system. A new system based on a series of four different tones has been installed, and seems to be working well.
- More art projects in the hallway are getting underway.
- There will bo three more recognition ceremonies.
- The first round of teacher evaluations have been completed.
- There has been very little change in enrollment numbers.

The school board approved a resolution canvassing returns of votes of the School District special election, certifying the results of the election. The School board found and declared that the election was, in all respects, duly and legally called and held. It found that a total of 1,841 voters in the district voted at said election, of which 981 voted in favor of the levy referendum request and 858 voted against the levy referendum.

The school board recognized the following: the following football players for being named to the Sea-Range All Conference Team — Trent Christensen, Aric Berg, Robby Anderson and John Swanson, and honoroble mentions to Nathan Dlson, Peter Mebrkens, Preston Johnson, Dane Kjono and Trevor Swanson.

The following personnel items were approved from the Consent Agenda: the resignation of Angie Hoglo as the Knowledge Bowl Advisor; the resignation of Tim Magnusson as head middle school baseball coach; the resignation of Wendy McCullough as education assistant/playground at Challenger; the resignation of Yvonne Ode as coordinator of the Little Brother/Little Sister progrom; the employment of Merton Hutchinson as regular route bus driver; the employment of Peggy Swanson as a cleaner, the employment of Charles Tuthill as a regular route bus driver; the following extra-curricular assignments for the 2001-2002 school year — Luke Miller as co-head boys swimming coach, Matthew Okeson as eighth grode head boys basketball coach, Mandy Schuster for Knowledge Bowl, and Kelly Weets as co-head boys swimming coach; establish and post for a Lincoln High School Vocational Educational tutor for student days, up to but not to exceed 762 hours; a leave of absence without pay for Donna Nelson; and the family/medical leave of absence without pay for Elizabeth Quick from January 2 through the end of the school year.

The next regular meeting of the school board will be held at 7 p.m. on Monday, November 26, at the School District Service Center.

Arctic Cat rewrites the rules with all new racer – the real skinny on the '02 Sno Pro

Each year the competition looks to the undisputed leadership of Arctic Cat for ways to make their race sleds comparable in design and technology. Of course, this means they're always playing catch-up – as evidenced in the domination by Team Arctic racers every season. For 2002, the Arctic Cat ZR 440 Sno Pro has jumped to a whole new level of race sled design, the result of three, clear working goals: lighter, lower center-of-gravity; and centralized mass, resulting in a better racing experience.

The new from the ground up Sno Pro is noticeably skinnier front to back and top to bottom thanks in part to a revolutionary, unprecedented design accomplished by compiling all the knowledge and experience Arctic Cat engineers have amassed since the inception of the original 1993 440 racer. It begins at the nucleus with a narrower, longer aluminum chassis and tunnel, now 14-inches wide versus the traditional 17-inch.

Its track is narrow, now 13.5-inches wide with just two large rear idlers (versus the traditional four). Making up for lost traction and better bridging the moguls is the track's additional 7-inches in length, making it 128-inches long. It will spin 1.375-inch lugs. For more efficiency and to enable a better track angle-of-attack for the long travel rear suspension you'll find 10-tooth drive sprockets instead of nine-tooth drivers.

The seat is also narrower, providing for improved comfort and ergonomics for the racer whether sitting or standing. With new geometry to accommodate the now narrow chassis, the A-arms are noticeably longer, providing the same amount of travel and ski stance as last year. Carving duties will be compliments of green Arctic Cat skis featuring punched (read: lighter) saddles.

Updated and back with a vengeance is the Cross-Link rear suspension system, which utilizes a fluid link between the front and rear shocks of the rear suspension that allows communication with each other. Remote reservoir "ACT" gas shocks (manufactured to Arctic Cat specifications by Fox) provide dampening for the returning FasTrack long travel rear suspension. Adjusting track tension will be accomplished via a new sliding-block system.

The injection-molded hood is strikingly different, complete with telltale cat-eyes featuring dual halogens and crafted to accommodate the most sophisticated air-induction system to date. Unlike any competitive design, this cat breathes all of its air from the front of the hood for a cooler, more consistent airflow. As air enters, it passes upward through a filter, against gravity (virtually eliminating snow and water ingestion) before flowing downward into the nose-mounted airbox before reaching the dual 34 mm flatslide carbs.

Other, less noticeable changes you'll notice upon closer inspection is the "multitasking" duties incorporated into the racer's design. A 13-gallon gas tank useful for both snocross and cross-country serves as the steering post upper support, toe holds, and a mounting surface for the oil and coolant reservoirs. Likewise, the new brake caliper, (previously bolted to the chain case) is now cast as part of the chaincase, eliminating unnecessary fasteners and weight. The brake is now mounted on the drive shaft, inside the tunnel and next to the track. This results in a lower center of gravity, a cooler brake, elimination of brake dust under the hood, and less noise for the racer.

Running boards – which once served primarily as boot traction – now double as heat exchangers effectively transferring engine coolant to a rear heat exchanger, then back to the front exchanger. A simplistic, single unit, digital/analog speedometer/tachometer allows riders to select their view of choice. If the rider prefers a digital speedometer readout, the tach will automatically be displayed via an analog readout and vice versa. For further simplicity, new hand/thumb warmer switches provide more settings and easy operation.

Like a thwack up-side the head, spectators glancing under the hood for their initial peek will be stunned as they begin to realize the changes that have taken place. For starters, an all-new laydown motor design fits snugly inside an aluminum box-type front end. A three-point mounting system on the sides of the case is more consistent than traditional top of the bulkhead, four-point "cradle" mount.

The major benefits of the box front/laydown motor include moving the engine's weight down and back 1.69-inches towards the sled's center, allowing easy mid-air pitch for the rider. The brand new design necessitated placing the case-reed intake and the exhaust port on the same side of the engine – a first of its kind for a snowmobile engine. In addition, it also allowed the steering arm to be placed above the engine, which meant the engine could be further lowered.

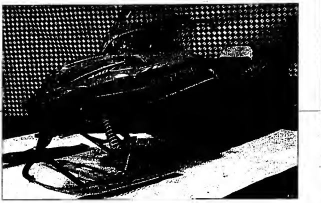
The Exhaust Pipe Temperature Sensor (EPTS) also returns with some new tricks. Not only does it use pipe temperature to determine one of five ignition timing maps, it also affects the exhaust valve opening/closing. Indeed, by further connecting the engines vitals to ignition and valve height, the new engine produces more power across the range, particularly during acceleration. It produces 99 hp on 92 octane fuel. A solid plate between the engine case and the jack shaft means fixed center-to-center distance between the clutches, eliminating variations when the engine torques under load, transferring more consistent power through the drive train. And a solenoid contrals the venting area of each cylinder via the valve tract.

The new machine will also better keep its cool under pressure as water flow is reversed through the engine with coolant entering the cylinder heads first, (while it's still cool) and then flowing down the cylinders and into the case before flowing to the exchangers. The new re-route has practically eliminated detonation, and allows higher compression and more advanced timing.

With 26 percent fewer parts than last year's Sno Pro (itself the lightest in its class), the new 2002 racer is the lightest sled of its kind ever produced, tipping the scales at a mere 424 pounds. Credit the revolutionary re-design, which has rewritten the rules of snowmobile design and performance.

To catch a glimpse of the new racer's first mid-air performance, check them out in Duluth, Minnesota at their first battle, November 23-25, 2001; Team Arctic's first WSA effort.

Arctic Cat Inc. designs, engineers, manufactures and markets snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) under the Arctic Cat brand name, as well as related parts, garments and accessories.



Arctic Cat unveiled the new Arctic Cat 440ZR Sno Pro at its annual race school in Thief River Falls last weekend. Officials with Arctic Cat are calling the changes and modifications, nothing less than revolutionary.

North Carolina are contract growers. Growers in Minnesota, and certainly Northern Pride growers, are still risk takers — they control their costs, veterinary bills, and buy their poults. Christianson is also proud to say they're a cooperative, and a successful cooperative.

One of the frequently asked questions is, "where can I buy a Northern Pride turkey?" Christianson explained that Northern Pride has had an alliance with Cargill. The plant has limited capabilities of marketing their own product under Northern Pride, but most consumers can buy Northern Pride turkeys under the brand name of Honeysuckle. Northern Pride also sells turkey to some limited markets. Many of their turkeys go to the West Coast, a lot goes to Super Valu. A big surprise to many may be the fact that the biggest importer of turkeys is Mexico.

Northern Pride has 210 employees. Christianson said many people do not realize how many employees they have and that six truck loads of turkeys leave the factory each day. "That's essentially new money to Thief River Falls and growers," said Christianson.

Most of the turkeys processed at Northern Pride are shipped by truck. Northern Pride's two primary shippers are Hartz Truck Line and Paradis, both are local haulers. Most turkeys shipped from Thief River Falls to the West Coast also leave by CP Rail.

The region has had a tight labor market, and the processing of turkeys is not for a lot of people. Christianson said to get the labor they needed for the jobs at the plant, they have recruited in southern states, many from Texas and California. Those employees have filled vital jobs, and have done a good job. To attract those workers, Northern Pride has gotten involved in housing. Christianson said the jobs are competitive regionally, therefore it's important to have affordable housing. That has been one of the primary issues for the entire region, he added.

While Northern Pride has been able to survive lean years for many reasons, their main goal has always been to be a good citizen, a good neighbor, and good producers.

Thirteen years ago, while in his 40's, Christianson changed careers. Looking back, he said he wouldn't do it any differently. "It's been a real exciting ride," he said.

Northern Pride Inc., turkey processing plant in Thief River Falls, has found many ways to survive in a competitive market. One way it has found to survive is by establishing an alliance with Cargill. It also has contracts with other brand names. River Side is a Cargill product. DaMoules is a company on the East Coast. Northern Pride also produces turkeys under its own brand name, Honeysuckle, and Super Valu.

Prowler girls notch win at Park Rapids

Sophomore wing Jamie Dahlen scored twice and junior center Steph Hoard had a hand in all four Thief River Falls goals Friday as the Prowlers picked up a 4-1 girls high school hockey win over Menahga/Nevis/Park Rapids Area.

It was the end of a busy season-opening week for the Prowlers, who made a Monday debut with a 7-2 win over East Grand Forks and lost a 9-1 next-night decision to Warroad. The trip to Park Rapids was their first road game of the 2001-02 season.

A 1-1 first period tie included Dahlen's first goal of the night and a shorthanded goal by the Panthers' Kaitlyn Pickett.

Hoard and Dahlen scored 4:31 apart in the second period to make it 3-1, and Meagan Lunke completed the scoring with a third period goal.

Hoard collected three assists to go along with her goal.

The shots ended up even at 23-apiece. Thief River Falls freshman goalie Trudy Erickson made 13 of her 22 saves in the second period.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Jamie Dahlen (Meagan Lunke-Steph Hoard), 8:20; M/N/PR, Kaitlyn Pickett (LaRae Gooden), 12:05.

The Prowlers' 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams had the same line-up for the 2001 Minnesota Class A girls state swimming and diving championships Nov. 19-21 at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis. The foursome includes, from left, eighth grader Allyson Helling, sophomore Cami Hendrickson, junior Brittany Haviland, and senior Chelsea Haviland. They won a Section 8A title with a meet-record 1:42.74 in the 200, then met the state meet-qualifying time with a third place school record 3:49.92 in the 400. Top two finishers in sectional competition advance to the state meet, with additional spots available to those meeting qualifying times. Chelsea Haviland also won the Section 8A titles in the 200 freestyle and diving. Helling joined her as a state meet qualifier with a fourth place finish in Section 8A diving – an event where the top four places advanced.

Pioneers start year with win at Providence

Jerry Shorter, one of just three sophomores on the 2001-02 Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball roster, showed his second-year leadership Friday with a game-high 20-point performance that helped carry the Pioneers to an easy 106-49 win over Providence College. The game at Otterburne, Man. was the season-opener for both teams.

A year ago Northland beat Providence twice, but by closer margins, 88-68 and 69-61. "They're not quite as strong as they were last year, and we're better than we were last year," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "That combination accounted for the score."

Shorter, a 6-0 guard from Madison, Wisc., was joined in double figures by Matt Ulmer, a 6-4 sophomore from Frazee who scored 11 points, and Reggie Gaddis, a 6-8 freshman from Madison, Wisc., who netted 10. Fourteen different Pioneers put their names in the scoring column.

"You really never know how things are going to go in the first game, especially with a young team," said Nikunen. "But we played pretty well as a team. We made the extra passes on offense and we played great half-court defense. We played everybody, and they all got a lot of minutes."

Northland led 48-29 at halftime.

The Pioneers were 45-for-96 from the field (46.9 percent) and 6-for-13 at the the free throw line (46.2 percent). They had half as many turnovers as the host school, 35-17, and finished with a sizeable 56-33 advantage on the boards, with Gaddis and 6-6 sophomore Llewellyn Marshall of Chicago both grabbing 8 rebounds.

Providence made just 17 of 58 field goal attempts (29.3 percent) and went 5-for-10 at the free throw line (50 percent).

"It was a good way to start the year, but we still have some things to work on, especially on offense," mentioned Nikunen.

Northland will open its home schedule tonight (Wednesday) with a 7:30 p.m. game against Minot State University-Bottineau – the second half of a doubleheader that starts with a 5:30 p.m. women's game. The Pioneers host Alexandria Technical College Monday at 7:30.

TRF could be strong, again

■ Girls basketball team has tools to face changes

Top three scorers on last year's 18-7 Section 8AA semifinal team were lost to graduation, and Thief River Falls finds itself back in the larger school Class AAA ranks this winter. But don't expect the Prowlers to throw in the towel for the 2001-02 girls high school basketball season. That's because there's still reason enough to think the program can continue to play at a high level.

Reason for optimism: there are 12 letter winners on hand, and three of them – seniors Chelsea Haviland, Nikki Tvedt and Meghan Nelson – are beginning their fourth year of varsity basketball.

Ayla Donlin (11.4 points per game), Sara Jensen (10.9) and Kylie Rogalla (8.7) led the Prowlers in scoring a year ago and are all currently college athletes, with Donlin at Concordia and Jensen and Rogalla at Northland.

To replace the 31 points per night that trio produced, the Prowlers will look primarily to Nelson (8.1 ppg), Haviland (6.8) and Tvedt (4.8), along with fellow senior Brenda Kopari (4.4).

Haviland (5.8 rebounds per game) and Nelson (5.5) led the 2000-01 team on the boards.

Other returning letter winners are seniors Jenny Blazejewski and Brooke Brekke, along with juniors Kelsey Christensen, Brittany Haviland, Stacia Kalinoski, Kayla Loe, Katie Olson, and Melissa Skjerven.

The varsity candidates also include senior Tiffany Peterson, junior Andrea Stenson and sophomore Shara Guidry.

There are eight other sophomores listed on the junior varsity roster: Ryan Braswell, Ellen Heschke, Cami Hendrickson, Kari Johnson, Renae Pagnac, Heather Podlack, Holly Peterson, and Lexie St. George.

Freshmen out for basketball this winter are Megan Barry, Trista Curry, Allison Dallmann, Jackie Fossum, Kayla Grahn, Jenny Grove, Nichole Gryskiewicz, Kristi Joppru, Ashley Langevin, Casey Leach, Kindra Trontvet, Leah Trontvet, Tammy Mehrkens, Maggie Peterson, Ashley Read, Brianna Reierson, and Christina Schneider.

"We have good numbers in each grade," pointed out Thief River Falls head coach Jeff Loe. "Hopefully everyone will understand their role as the season progresses."

The Prowlers have won 32 games over the past two seasons, and with their experience and depth, could add to that total this winter, if the players maintain a proper work ethic, according to the coach.

"We fee we should have a competitive team," said Loe. "I have a concern (however) that we may try to feed off last year's success without working hard to achieve another season such as that. We have some talented athletes, but none so talented that we can become complacent and still win."

The Prowlers will open the season Tuesday on the road against Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

"We are back up in 8AAA," noted Loe. "Our schedule will remain the same as last year, but the tournament format will be different. We need to improve throughout the season in order to advance in the section."

The Prowlers' home opener will be Thursday, Nov. 29, vs. Crookston.

NCTC women open with win

Ten Pioneers put their name in the scoring column Friday as the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team opened the 2001-02 season with a one-sided 83-21 win over Providence College in Otterburne, Man.

Misten Hoie led the winners with 15 points. Sara Gross and Candice Solie both netted 13, while Mandy Caspers scored 11.

Northland led 42-10 at halftime.

"We did okay," reported Northland coach Mike Zachow. "There are still a few things we need to work on."

With the two teams combining for 79 turnovers, it was a little ragged around the edges, acknowledge Zachow. "You could tell it was the first game for both teams," he said.

Northland was 34-for-79 from the field (43 percent) and 10-for-15 at the free throw line (66.7 percent). Providence struggled through an 8-for-46 shooting night from the field (17.4 percent) while going 5-for-9 at the free throw line (55.6 percent).

The Pioneers finished with a 45-34 rebound advantage. Providence topped the turnover charts 53-26.

"They were missing some kids," explained Zachow. "They still have volleyball going on, and they have some kids playing both sports."

The Pioneers make their home debut tonight (Wednesday) against Minot State University-Bottineau. The 5:30 p.m. contest will be followed by a 7:30 p.m. Lumberjacks vs. Pioneers men's game.

Prowlers' strength is in numbers...

Boys hockey team counting on depth

Scott Bergland likes his team's chances this winter. The Thief River Falls boys high school hockey coach thinks there is enough talent and enough depth on hand to elevate the Prowlers' program to contender status.

"I think we have as much depth as we've had in eight years," offered Bergland, who said there is a great deal of competition for the final spots in the Prowlers' line-up, both at the forwards and on defense. "We not only have depth, but there's talent, too. In all honesty, we can go four deep at the forwards. I would not be afraid to put a fourth line out there – kids who would probably be playing third line for us in the past."

The competition also extends into the goaltending situation, where junior Ben Worker and sophomore Justin Klinkhammer are the front-runners in a four-man race for the starting spot. Worker took over as the Prowlers' No. 1 goalie late last year. Klinkhammer is trying to make the jump from Bantams to varsity. Junior Ben Weigelt and sophomore Shawn Olson are also candidates for the netminder job.

A year ago the Prowlers were playing .500 hockey with a 6-6-2 record through mid-January, but they struggled to an 0-9 finish. Lack of scoring was the biggest culprit. Bergland figures that area will be improved by committee. "We're not going to have 30-goal scorer, but I think we have five-six kids who can score 10-15 goals," he said. "And that would be big for us. Last year our leading scorers had eight goals. We have to improve on that."

Top scoring forwards back from last year include senior Dan Almquist (8 goals, 7 assists, 15 points), junior Dane Kjono (8-6-14) and senior Rohby Anderson (5-6-11).

In addressing the Prowlers' scoring problems, Bergland introduced a new forechecking system this year that could lead to more opportunities on offense.

Defensemen on hand with varsity experience are Justin Barron, a senior, and Jay Tuthill, a junior.

Wendell Grand, Jeff Tunberg and Jeff Vacura return as members of the Prowlers' hockey coaching staff this winter.

Thief River Falls will open the season with three first-week home games: Tuesday, Nov. 27, vs. Roseau; Friday, Nov. 30, vs. Armstrong; and Saturday, Dec. 1, vs. Maple Grove. The Rams are one of the Prowlers' keenest hockey rivals. The Falcons from Robbinsdale and the Crimson are first-time Thief River Falls foes.

Treavor Peterson starts third year with Cobbers

Treavor Peterson of Thief River Falls is a 6-4, 195-pound junior defenseman on the Concordia College men's hockey team in Moorhead.

Peterson has a goal and three assists in the Cobbers' first six games this winter.

As a freshman in 1999-2000, Peterson played 11 games, picking one assist.

His playing time increased dramatically a year ago as a sophomore when he appeared in 24 games, scoring three goals and finishing with five points.

Concordia is 3-2-1 for the year following a Nov. 16/17 weekend split when the Cobbers lost a 6-3 Friday game to the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire, but came back for a 4-3 Saturday victory over the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

The Cobbers have an early-season second place 2-1-1 record in the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, where first place St. Thomas has started the year 4-0.

Another Thief River Falls connection in the MIAC is Hamlin head coach Pat Cullen, who coached the Prowlers when Peterson was a high school sophomore. Cullen is beginning his third year directing the Pipers' program. They are off to a 1-5 overall and 1-3 conference start.

Three Pioneers selected all-division in volleyball

Three Northland Community and Technical College volleyball players earned Minnesota Community College Conference All-Northern Division honors in 2001, it was announced recently by school officials.

Christel Berube, a freshman middle hitter from Fisher, was named as a First Team all-division selection. She ranked among the division leaders in hitting efficiency, blocks per game and kills per game.

Outside hitter Becky Bray and middle hitter Kylie Rogalla, a pair of freshmen from Thief River Falls, were Second Team all-division picks.

Berube, Bray and Rogalla were all singled out during the course of the season when they were given Northern Division Player of the Week honors.

"Christel, Becky and Kylie all had major roles in the season's team success," noted Northland coach Mike Zachow. "They are all outstanding athletes and wonderful to work with."

Northland finished 22-11 overall and 9-5 in the Northern Division this fall, finishing the year with a consolation title at the MCCC state tournament.

Minnesota muzzleloading deer hunting season will be open Nov. 24 - Dec. 9

Muzzleloader deer hunters continue a tradition that started more than 200 years ago when our forefathers stuffed black powder and shot or a lead bullet down the snout of a front-loader. They could count on only one shot at an animal, and knew enough to take their time while aiming and shooting. There were no second chances.

The two-week long Minnesota Muzzleloader season runs Saturday, Nov. 24, through Sunday, Dec. 9.

Despite the required patience, practice, attention to detail, and steady nerves, muzzleloading has grown steadily over the years. Minnesota held its first muzzleloader season in 1977 when 32 hunters took to fields statewide in search of deer. Today, about 10,000 hunters enjoy the sport.

Department of Natural Resources officials want to remind regular firearms deer hunters that their license does not apply to the muzzleloader season.

"If you were unsuccessful during the regular firearms deer season you may not use that tag during the muzzleloader season," said DNR Enforcement Chief Bill Bernhjelm. "It is also unlawful for a regular firearms season deer hunter to buy a second firearms deer license of any kind including muzzleloader licenses or multi-zone buck licenses."

A person may purchase no more than one firearms deer license (including muzzleloader and multi-zone buck licenses) and one archery deer license in a calendar year. However, additional deer management permits and intensive harvest permits, which allow the taking of additional antlerless deer, may be purchased.

Muzzleloader Tips

- Only open and "peep" type sights (including those with fiber optic material) are legal during the muzzleloader deer season. Scopes are not legal for this season.
- All hunters and trappers during the 16-day muzzleloader season must meet blaze orange requirements (see page 32 of the 2001 Hunting Handbook).
- Legal hours are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.
- Muzzleloader hunters may hunt on both public and private lands statewide except for the closed areas listed on page 75.
- Muzzleloader option allows hunters to take deer of either sex, except as explained on pages 75/76.
- Muzzleloader hunters may also apply for one of the muzzleloader special permit areas listed on page 76.
- Hunters should refer to the Big Game section of the 2001 Minnesota Hunting and Trapping Regulations Handbook or call 888-MINNDNR for detailed information concerning muzzleloader hunting regulations.

A pair of Thief River Falls divers appearing in the 2001 Minnesota Class A girls state swimming and diving championships at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center include Allyson Helling (left) and Chelsea Haviland. Helling, an eighth grader, earned a state meet spot for the first time with a fourth place finish during Section 9A competition at Warroad. Haviland, a senior, became a state meet qualifier for the sixth straight year and in the process won her fifth straight Section 9A diving title. The state meet was scheduled to be held Nov. 21-21 in Minneapolis.

Rose Sollid celebrated her birthday with Thelma Dahl and Leonard Larson at Valley Home on Wednesday.

Thursday noon dinner guests at the Mable Anderson home in Thief River Falls were Dale and Marion Stark, Lenelle Peters, Edythe Franson, Millie Fossell, LeRoy and Ruth Sustad and Roger and Ruth Sockett.

Family, relatives and friends gathered Sunday evening at the Dan and Donna Sustad home to celebrate Dawn Gustafson's birthday.

On Saturday evening Gerrel Swenson and Regan and Cody Hawk visited at the Liz Swenson home.

Monday afternoon visitors and coffee guests at the LeRoy Sustad home were Juliette Molskness and Dagny Irwin.

Saturday afternoon guests at the Bud Kron home were Bernyce and Alvin Grandstrand.

Pearl Johnson attended the funeral for Mrs. Rufus Olson at Redeemer Lutheran Church on Monday.

Those from Viking who attended Christian Women on Tuesday night were Leona Gustafson, Betty and Lori Ranum, Ardelle Anderson, Arlene Hanson, Ruth Sustad and Betty's friend Marty Larson.

Monday was such as nice day so Bert and Joyce Kron went for a long drive south and enjoyed a meal in Erskine.

Lloyd Ranum was a Tuesday afternoon visitor and coffee guest at LeRoy Sustads.

Vern and Marty Larson were up for deer hunting so Marty spent a few days with Betty Ranum while Vern hunted with his brother.

Earl and Joyce Erickson went to a Lutheran Brotherhood meeting in Argyle on Monday night.

First deer shot by Lacy Bengtson of Strandquist was this eight-point buck taken on her grandfather Hilton Hjelle's farm west of Newfolden. She downed the deer with one shot from her .309 Winchester. Lowell Lefrooth accompanied his stepdaughter on her second deer hunting trip, and captured much of the hunt on video.

Strandquist News

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The weather in northwest Minnesota surprised us with seven more lovely sunshiny fall days - real short sleeve weather. It is helping to shorten the winter for us, but we may have to water the lawn if it stays bare much longer.

The calendar says that Thanksgiving Day moved up a week, giving us an extra week to get ready for Christmas, which is only five weeks away. After Christmas we can watch the daylight hours begin to grow again. There is a remarkable change in most people, a look of expectancy on their faces and a quickening in their step as they wait for spring. I guess you know I was raised on the farm and now am married to a retired farmer, and that was the way most farmers behaved.

The Strandquist Seniors met last Thursday and had lunch and visited. This week they decided to have Thanksgiving with their families and have the rest of the season together at restaurants or in their homes.

Judy Kleinvachter has had her visitors and guests this week as she usually does. This week, Wayne and Pat Larson and Rebecca, Elmer Holmstrom, Evelyn Albaugh, June Kasprowicz, Marie Steffen, and Claudia Berggren were at Judy's home. Vance and Kelly Lefrooth were there and took care of all the leaves and there were plenty of them this year.

Richard and Carol Thompson of Red Lake Falls visited Isaac and Betsy Thompson on Sunday afternoon.

Sorry I have to cut this off as Roy needs to get ready for the hospital tomorrow. We thought we could put it off for a couple of weeks, but he's one we don't take chances with.

New Arrival

Melvin Eskell is proud to announce the arrival of a new granddaughter born on November 6th. Her name is Samantha Ann and she weighed 9 pounds and 5 ounces. Her parents are Eric and Gina Eskell of Elk Grove Village, Ill. She joins siblings Nick and Alexandra in their home. Other grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Reale of Rantoul, Ill. Congratulations and good wishes to all!

Mervyn and Lex Pederson of Strathclaire, Manitoba were Tuesday afternoon and overnight guests of Effie and Burnel Byer. They have been our next door neighbors at our park in Texas.

Lon, Sarah, Gene and Brian Oberpriller of the Cities spent the weekend at the Rick Frolland home sharing in the deer hunt. They visited at the Art Frolland home before returning to their home on Tuesday.

Donnie Hesse of Elk River, Tom and Teresa Hesse of Brandon, Florida spent a week with their mother, Loretta Hesse and visited other relatives and took part in the deer hunt.

Homemakers Meet

The Holly Hock Home Study group met at the home of Jean Carpenter on Tuesday evening. The entire membership was in attendance with president Myrtle Hamrum in charge. The group made Christmas decorations with bells, ribbon and bows and Jean served lunch.

Albert and Evelyn Tervo returned on Tuesday from a trip to Chanhassen, stopping overnight on Friday at his sister Edna Carey's home. On Saturday they went on to daughter Renee and Robb Vaules in Chanhassen until Tuesday. Enroute home they visited with Arnie and Evelyn Lucken in Royalton.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Roy Steltz, who died on Tuesday at Altru Hospital in Grand Forks. He was formerly of rural Red Lake Falls, well-known there. He is survived by daughters Judy and (Merlin) Carlson of Plummer, Margaret and (Frank) Ehling of our area, and Kathy Hilley of Buxton, N.D. Funeral services were in Hillsboro, N.D. and burial at Oak Grove Cemetery in Red Lake Falls.

Gloria Fossum, Fern and Darlynne Eskell were Wednesday coffee guests of Jean Carpenter.

Our blessings are many this Thanksgiving

Even after the suffering in New York and Washington Americans have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving. In fact, as Russ Christianson of Northern Pride said this week, "This Thanksgiving will mean more than it has in many years."

As we look at images from throughout the world in newspapers and television, or at images from around our own neighborhood, it must be obvious that we are blessed with a great abundance.

There are many things we can be thankful for. While seated around the table on Thursday, I know that each of us will focus on what we are thankful for this holiday season. It may be for friends and family, plentiful food, and good health. After what we've experienced as a nation, we may all be thankful that our friends and family are with us, and/or all safe. While we're at it, I'm sure many of us will be thankful that we have the kind of freedom that allows us to celebrate in a house of worship of our choice.

On an even more personal level, you may be thankful for that big buck that you shot this fall. It may be for that bountiful crop of wheat your fields produced last summer. It may be for the wonderfully warm weather this fall that allowed us to get chores done around the house. If you're Fern Bruggeman, you may be thankful for being given a second chance at life by an automatic defibrillator carried by local law enforcement, and great medical attention.

There may be many reasons to be grateful. It may be for that break in school work, or a good grade. It may be for the safe return of children from college. It may be for that special dessert that didn't flop. Whatever we are thankful for, as Times Reporter Kate Morberg put it, "Simple prayers of thanksgiving will linger with the sweet aroma of mom's home cooking."

The editorial cartoon appearing on this page struck a chord of agreement with me as well. Yes, it might take awhile to list all of our blessings.

Instead of focusing on what has gone wrong with our lives this year, and there may be plenty. . . it is time to give thanks for the many blessings we enjoy. Even through suffering and periods of emptiness, we know that as long as we have hands to hold, voices to give thanks, hearts to fill with happiness and joy, we can give thanks.

Have a good Thanksgiving.

Still uncomfortable?

Recently, I purchased a new pair of glasses. Looking through these new lenses there is a feeling of awkwardness. Everything seems a little new, a little clearer. The awkwardness, I'm sure, is due to feeling a little self-conscious about the new look, but my view of the world through the lenses of these new glasses has not really changed. Following major world events it must seem like we're looking through a new lense. For media outlets, terrorism has chonged the way we look at the world.

Every morning since September 11, we have awakened and turned on television sets in hope that our world has not changed. But above hope, we want reassurance or assurance from the reporters that appear on our television screens that things are okay, or not. We need to know.

The trend has not escaped regional and local news outlets. For the most part, the light, early-morning fare of most news stations has been upset by interviews with terrorism experts and hard news. Local media are not necessarily concerned that they may not get the news impact of national outlets; that's to be expected. But they are concerned, and rightly so, that our audience wants us to make the news relevant to what's taking place in their town.

How has the Sept. 11 attack and events since then, changed our lives?

We have a new appreciation for,

- and understanding of, the duties and responsibilities of police, firefighters, ambulance personnel and all individuals who respond to emergencies.
- National guard soldiers who guard our airports;
- Farmers and agricultural chemical suppliers who have been asked to be on guard for suspicious behavior, and protect our food supply;
- what it means to be an American. As a result, a feeling of patriotism has swept across the nation, and we have new appreciation for the American flag, and national anthem.

The world, as we see it, has changed, but this temporary awkwardness we feel will soon pass.

this might take awhile, Lord...

Where does your food come from?

In this harvest time and season of Thanksgiving, which celebrates the safest and most abundant food supply in the world, have you given any thought to where your food comes from? How your food is raised or processed? How much work goes into bringing food and fiber to you?

The Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council (MAELC) in cooperation with the Minnesota Agri-Women, is working as part of a special project to provide additional agricultural literacy information to all Minnesotans. Recently representatives of nearly 20 agricultural organizations met at the Minnesota Farm Bureau headquarters in Eagan, Minnesota to coordinate agricultural literacy efforts to ensure that all people, particularly school children, better understand agriculture and the food and fiber industry. Organizations shared what they are doing to promote agricultural literacy education efforts, including showcasing materials that they utilize in K-12 schools. The goal of this effort, sponsored by a special $5,750 MAELC grant, is to coordinate activities among the many agricultural organizations in Minnesota providing agricultural literacy materials in Minnesota's K-12 schools.

This multi-phased project includes: surveying schools to assess what materials they currently have in the schools; publishing survey results; reviewing agricultural educational materials to find the best materials and then recommend those materials; starting a pilot program to improve materials in schools; and developing more collaboration and partnerships with organizations interested in agricultural literacy. MAELC and the Minnesota Agri-Women are working closely with the Minnesota Ag in the Classroom Program on this project.

Free teaching resources available include Agricultural Aviation, Ag-tivity Books, Backyard Magic, Commodity Cards, Environmental and Protection Agency, Farmfacts, Food for Thought Mapping Curriculum, Healthy Foods from Healthy Souls, Kids Gardening, Land Stewardship Congregational Tool Kit, MiniGrant, Minnesota Beef Council, Minnesota Farmers Union Summer Camps, Minnesota Zoo, Ropin' the Web, Sustainable Agriculture, Tech Watch Video Tape, Tips for using the Food Guide Pyramid for Young Children, Travel Time Video Tape, and World of Corn to name a few. Visit www.learnagriculture.com <http://www.learnagriculture.com> to find a comprehensive listing of free teaching resources.

For more information on this agricultural literacy project, contact Doris Mold, Minnesota Agri-Women, at (651) 645-3275 or e-mail at moldx001@umn.edu. Additional information about MAELC grants and activities can be obtained on the web at www.maelc.stat.mn.us <http://www.maelc.stat.mn.us>.

New ag bill corrects many problems

Senator Mark Dayton said recently that the Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a new Federal Farm Bill that would correct many of the problems with current farm policies that have failed farmers and rural communities in Minnesota and across the country.

Dayton, a committee member, said the bill strengthens the farm safety net, substantially increases funds for conservation programs, and safeguards taxpayers by reducing the need for annual emergency farm payments.

"When I was elected, I promised Minnesota farmers that I would work to pass a new farm bill this year to help restore the farm economy to health," Dayton said. "This bill is an important step in improving current failed farm policy and helping producers and rural communities in Minnesota and across the country."

Dayton To Continue Push For Higher Loan Rates

Dayton said a critical component of the new farm legislation is a measure that guarantees higher loan rates than the House-passed farm bill allows. This safety net will protect farmers against severe price fluctuations and saves taxpayers billions of dollars in emergency payments to farmers.

During the committee's farm bill debate Thursday, Dayton pressed to attach his "Farm Income Recovery Act," which would have pushed loan rates even higher. While the measure failed in committee, Dayton said he plans to offer the measure on the Senate floor. Last week, the committee did approve Dayton's measure to increase funding to educate the public about the benefits of renewable fuels.

"Because of the failure of the 'Freedom to Farm Act' of 1996 to provide our family farmers with an adequate safety net, the Federal Government has had to spend tens of billions of dollars in emergency assistance for farmers over the last five years," Dayton said. "I am pleased that the Farm Bill passed by the Agriculture Committee begins to address this problem, but I strongly believe that we need to do more. I intend to again offer my legislation as an amendment to the Farm Bill when it comes to the Senate floor."

Senate Also Approves Aid For Minnesota Sugar Beet Farmers

In other action, Dayton said the full Senate has passed the equivalent of $5 million in assistance to help sugar beet farmers in 16 central Minnesota counties who were hit by frost last year. The aid is part of the final version of the Agriculture spending bill for next year. The measure directs USDA to make 10,000 pounds of excess U.S. sugar - worth $5 million - available to sugar beet growers in southwest Minnesota, who could use it to recoup some of their losses.

Keep to our commitments

by Sen. Roger Moe

Earlier this year, lawmakers and the Governor struck a deal on a two-year budget. We made commitments to students in our public schools, seniors and the disabled in nursing homes, and invested in protecting the environment and maintaining our transportation system.

These investments met only basic needs at a time when the state anticipated a considerable surplus of funds. Virtually all of the existing surplus went into another rebate check, and most of the projected surplus went into tax cuts sought by Gov. Ventura and House Republicans.

In fact, more than $2 of the surplus went into tax cuts and rebate for every $1 invested in schools, health care, transportation and public safety combined. Given this situation, we were barely able to meet our commitments when we set the two-year budget in the June Special Session.

In early Dec., the state will receive a budget forecast that will almost certainly trigger the painful process of preventing a budget deficit. With a shortfall looming, we must keep our commitments. Fortunately, the state has some budget cushion available, but not as much as Senate Democrats had proposed earlier this year.

The state has slightly more than $650 million in its rainy day fund — money set aside for this exact situation — to be used during unforseen times of financial need. In addition, just over $250 million is built into the state budget's bottom line, much like the balance in your personal bank account. This sounds like a big cushion, but it might not be enough.

Governor Ventura has already indicated the direction he would like to see the state headed. "If certain things are shortchanged here for a few years, then so be it," Ventura commented in an interview. The Governor might soon need to be more specific.

If the will of the people is any indication, shortchanging students isn't a viable option. Minnesotans have indicated a strong desire not only to keep our commitments to students in public schools, but to voluntarily raise their own taxes to get the job done.

In an unprecedented showing, voters in more than 125 school districts this month clearly indicated that the state's efforts to pay most school costs is falling short. In more than two-thirds of the excess operating referendums offered, school districts seeking increases in local property tax effort gained the voters' stamp of approval.

In other areas, voters did not have the opportunity to register their opinion. No one has formally asked voters if they want the state to shortchange higher education, as though double-digit tuition hikes for students and their parents over the next two years aren't already difficult enough.

No one has asked voters if they want their transportation system shortchanged, so the potholes don't get fixed and congestion on our major roadways continues to worsen. And no one has asked voters if our public safety and public health efforts should be shortchanged.

Minnesotans have reasonable expectations of their elected officials. It is called the public trust. We have a duty to keep our commitments.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Schools should not schedule events during holidays. Holidays are for families!

To the Editor:

I am very disappointed in the scheduling of athletic events around holidays. The holidays are a special time of the year to be with family and celebrate life, but this time is cut short by children's sports. There are Basketball and Hockey tournaments days before and after Christmas. How is it possible for a family to travel out of town to visit relatives when they have to be back the very next day for a practice or game? Why are children given these days off from school if those very days are spent participating in school sports? If the holidays aren't busy enough, let's add sports to the mix. Stressful situations are compounded during the holiday season and spending precious time trying to get kids here and there for sports activities is not a productive use of time.

Time is an important resource in our on-the-go lives and I believe it is important to take and make time to focus on our families. I know sports are important in some families, mine included, but I also think that schools (and whoever else is involved in planning the schedules), should be more considerate and thoughtful when planning these events. I don't understand why coaches schedule practices the day after Thanksgiving and Christmas. It is so infuriating to have to change and reschedule your plans around sports. It's completely ridiculous to have practices and games that kids are "required" to attend during holiday breaks.

I think we need to re-examine what is really important in our lives and bring the focus back to our families.

Sincerely,
Shanon Langlie

Fire At The Sawmill

"The fire department was called out this morning by an alarm turned in from the sawmill. The boys responded promptly and on arriving at the mill it was found that the burner and tramway leading to it were blazing fiercely. By hard and well-directed work the fire was soon under control. The tramway and framework close to the burner were badly scorched but the loss will not be very heavy. The origin of the fire is not known."

IMPORTANT HOMESTEAD PROPERTY TAX NOTICE

All property owners or qualified relatives who changed residences during the past year that they are using for homestead purposes must make application for homestead with their county assessor on or before December 15, 2001.

Property owners or qualified relatives wishing to claim homestead on a property that was not receiving the homestead classification in the past, must contact their county assessor and make application to receive homestead on or before December 15, 2001.

Qualified relatives include: a parent, stepparent, child, stepchild, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, niece or nephew. The relationship may be by blood or by marriage.

Once you have been granted the homestead classification, no further applications are necessary unless the county assessor specifically requests them.

Property owners or qualified relatives who sell, move or for any reason no longer qualify for the homestead classification, are required to notify the county assessor within 30 days of the change in homestead status. Failure to notify the county assessor within this 30-day period is punishable by recalculation of tax as non-homestead, in addition to a penalty equal to 100 percent of the homestead benefits.

To find out how to apply for the homestead classification and receive the proper application form, contact the Marshall County Assessor at 208 Colvin Avenue East, Warren, MN 56762 or call (218) 745-5331.

Application deadline for payable 2002 taxes: December 15, 2001.

IMPORTANT AGRICULTURAL HOMESTEAD NOTICE

The legislation provides for homestead of noncontiguous farmland under the following conditions:

(1) agricultural property consisting of at least 40 acres;
(2) the owner, owner's spouse, owner's child, spouse's child, partnership or family farm corporation is actively farming the agricultural property;
(3) the owner and operator is a MN resident;
(4) neither the owner nor their spouse may claim another agricultural homestead in MN; and
(5) the owner and operator do not live farther than four townships or cities, or a combination of four townships or cities, from the agricultural property.

The 2000 Legislature expands homestead treatment for agricultural land held under newly defined conditions and combinations of ownership. It extends agricultural relative homestead treatment to detached agricultural land for the 2000 assessment and thereafter if the owner's (or spouse's) son or daughter actively farms the land. The son or daughter must also be a Minnesota resident, and live within four townships or cities of the land. In this situation, the qualifying land will be considered a part of the owner's homestead; which allows the son or daughter to maintain his or her own residential or agricultural homestead. The referenced relationships may be by blood or marriage. Land that is held in a trust may qualify if the trustee is actively farming the land.

Actively farming includes participation in the day-to-day labor, administration and management of the farm. They must assume all or a portion of the financial risks and they must participate in any profits or losses.

The applicant can live in their own home but can still qualify even if they live in an apartment, a rental home, a manufactured home park, a condominium or a cooperative.

An additional provision extends homestead treatment to detached agricultural land that is owned/leased by a family farm corporation, joint farm venture, limited liability company, or a partnership operating a family farm, if there is a shareholder, partner or member actively farming the land.

Homestead application. This special homestead provision is only available to qualified individuals that make application by the filing deadline of December 15, 2001. In order to monitor this homestead provision, the owner is required to make annual application. If you made application last year and were denied, we strongly urge you to re-apply due to the current year changes.

For applications, contact the Marshall County Assessor at 208 Colvin Avenue East, Warren, MN 56762, or call (218) 745-5331. Application deadline for payable 2002 taxes: December 15, 2001.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Pennington County Board Room in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, Tuesday, September 25, 2001 at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Charles Naplin, Donald Jensen, Arden "Bud" Comstock, and Bob Carlson. Also present was County Attorney David Olin and County Auditor Kenneth Olson. Oliver "Skip" Swanson was absent.

Acting County Engineer George Broadwell met with the County Board. The first item discussed were the quotes received for placing an additional two inches of Class 5 gravel on CSAH #18. Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the placement of two additional inches of Class 5 gravel on CSAH #18 by Thygeson Construction for $40,680 as the lowest and best quote received. Motion unanimously carried.

George then discussed a request from the Fair Board to level fill around the new grandstand. George was to inform the Fair Board that they would need to pay all costs for this work if the highway department supervised the work and hired equipment off the equipment rental bids. The highway department would need to rent a dozer to do the work.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to offer the position of Highway Technician III to Randy Aamodt at the two-year step level for the position. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to replace the 36" centerline pipe with a new 36" pipe near the intersection of Sections 7, 8, 17 & 18 of Black River Township. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Auditor was to draft a letter to Mr. Flaagan informing him of the Board's decision.

Howard Person then met with the County Board to discuss correspondence he has had with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency regarding the new feedlot rules. The MNPCA asked what rules the counties are willing to administer as non-designated counties. The County Board asked Howard to organize a meeting with the other counties to discuss this.

Howard noted that Northland Community College asked if they could get four to six more paper recycling bins. Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Carlson to approve the use of SCORE funds to purchase four to six more paper recycling containers for Northland Community College. Motion unanimously carried.

County Attorney Olin discussed dropping out of the Paul Bunyan Drug Task Force. Attorney Olin reviewed the sheriff's suggestions that would amend the budget to allow for the change.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Carlson and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners withdraw from membership from the Paul Bunyan Drug Task Force.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Carlson seconded by Commissioner Jensen and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners hereby approves membership in the Northwest Drug Task Force.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, on September 11, 2001 was suddenly and brutally attacked by foreign terrorists, and

WHEREAS, these terrorists hijacked and destroyed four civilian aircraft, crashing two of them into the towers of the World Trade Center in New York City, and a third into the Pentagon outside Washington, DC, and:

WHEREAS, thousands of innocent Americans were killed and injured as a result of these attacks, including the passengers and crew of the four aircraft, workers in the World Trade Center and in the Pentagon, rescue workers, and bystanders, and;

WHEREAS, these cowardly acts were by far the deadliest terrorist attacks ever launched against the United States, and, by targeting symbols of American strength and success, clearly were intended to intimidate our nation and weaken its resolve, and;

WHEREAS, these horrific events have affected all Americans. It is important that we carry on with the regular activities of our lives. Terrorism cannot be allowed to break the spirit of the American people, and the best way to show these cowards that they have truly failed is for the people of the United States and their counties to stand tall and proud.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the governing board of Pennington County condemns the cowardly and deadly actions of these terrorists; and

REGULAR BOARD MEETING INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT 564 THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA OCTOBER 22, 2001 7:00 P.M. S.D.S.C. CONFERENCE ROOM A

A regular meeting of the Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, October 22, 2001, in the Conference Room of the District Service Center. Chair Steve Young called the meeting to order at 7:00 p.m.

The following Board members were present: Jean Larson, Barb Kalinoski, Mike Spears, Randy Twistol, Mike Barry and Steve Young. Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by B. Kalinoski and seconded by M. Spears to approve the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Paul Johnson, representing the Swim Team Parents, addressed the Board regarding the recent resignation of the swim coach. They are concerned about the administrative response to the resignation and the code of conduct contract signed by student athletes and parents before a sport season begins. Steve Young and Irv Peterson both responded to the parents to let them know that these processes are currently under review. Steve thanked the parents for coming to the meeting.

The Board reviewed information on the Advanced Board Academy. If any Board members are interested they should let Chris Beste know.

Terry Blacklance reviewed the Multicultural Student Services Program. There are 193 students currently registered with the program. The program originated in 1997 providing academic assistance, social assistance, and cultural resources. In 2000-2001 the program provided 650 hours in tutorial services and 100+ hours promoting diversity in our classrooms and community.

Mike Barry and Steve Young updated the Board on the ALC Advisory Meeting. The ALC has made tremendous progress. They reviewed the changes that have taken place in curriculum to date. It will take up to three years to complete the curriculum update. Parent teacher conferences were very successful this year, 25 parents attended. Strengthening the program and curriculum has also increased student participation in the program.

Harry Nelson reviewed the Investment Report. Interest rates are very low since September 11, which will cause a loss of approximately $100,000 in interest. He doesn't see the interest rates increasing much in the coming year.

Irv Peterson updated the Board on upcoming community meetings to discuss the referendum. Community meetings will take place as follows: Thursday, October 25 at 7:00 p.m.: LHB Cafeteria; Monday, October 29 at 8:00 p.m.: St. Hilaire Community Center; Tuesday, October 30 at 7:00 p.m.: FMS.

The TRF Chamber of Commerce has voted unanimously to support the referendum. The German exchange program has been cancelled at this time due to the current travel concerns.

Jean Larson updated the Board on the Staff Development Meeting. They approved Best Practices Grants for Reading Recovery Program - $5,000 to train two teachers and SMART training for two phy. ed. teachers - approximately $2,000. Our region was approved for a $100,000 Mentorship Grant. TRF has four teachers who would like to participate in the program.

Recognition was given to Wennbergs for their donation of pipe rails to the BMX Park.

A motion was made by R. Twistol and seconded by J. Larson to approve the Minutes of the October 8, 2001 regular Board meeting as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by R. Twistol and seconded by J. Larson to approve the bills as submitted and on file in the school district business office. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by R. Twistol and seconded by J. Larson to approve the employment of Jaclyn Miller as the WSI assistant at the Franklin Pool for 7 hours/day at a rate of $8.19/hour. Motion carried unanimously.

Jaycees form chapter in TRF

Thief River Falls - The Junior Chamber, better known as the Jaycee's has been re-established in Thief River Falls. After a long absence from our community, the group has been actively seeking members since October 1.

The Bemidji Chapter of the Jaycees has been instrumental in assisting in the re-formation of the Jaycees organization in Thief River Falls. They have been in Thief River Falls each week helping to start the TRF - Jaycee Chapter. The Bemidji Jaycees have donated $100 to establish the Thief River Falls Jaycees Bank account and Dave Bieto of Northern State Bank of Thief River Falls is the sponsoring business and has donated $250 to start the Charter.

The service organization held its third general meeting last Tuesday night at the Evergreen Eating Emporium. Twenty-seven of the current 42 members (and still growing daily) were on hand to discuss their winter civic activities. The primary item on the agenda was the discussion of which activities and events to include in the inaugural "Winter Carnival" which is tentatively scheduled for the weekend of December 15 at the Armory in Thief River Falls.

Chapter President Josh Balmer said, "The focus of this event is to raise food donations for the local food shelf. We also wanted to have numerous activities that are geared for the whole family. We want all of north Minnesota to be able to come to this event and help a worthy cause, hang around and have fun."

The Junior Chamber, or Jaycees, is a young person's leadership training organization with members between the ages of 21 and 39. The Jaycees' programs stress the development of the individual member's leadership and managerial skills through the running of projects that benefit the community and the Jaycees movement as a whole. In short, the Jaycees build leaders!

If you would like to become a member of the Jaycees, or if you would like to learn more about the Jaycees, call Josh Balmer at 218-681-7293.

Hospice provides care for terminally ill

When it's forever, saying goodbye is never easy

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

Saying goodbye may never be easy, and becomes even harder when it's forever.

Each day families struggle with loosing a loved one to a terminal illness. There is an organization that was founded for the soul purpose of offering support to families and their dying loved ones. Hospice is there to offer assistance at all skill levels.

Donna Mae Hogberg of Newfolden was first a volunteer, and then a patient of Hospice. She began volunteering after being diagnosed with breast cancer in 1995. For over four years she gave her time freely. Family members describe her as a caring woman who loved to help people.

"She was just that type of person," said her husband Lowell Hogberg. "She was everything I could ever hope for."

Her interest in Hospice stemmed from her daughter, Marinell Waterworth, who works at the Thief River Falls Hospice office.

The desire to help people started before Hogberg became involved in Hospice. After raising her family, Hogberg received her degree in teaching. Determination is what brought her through school, and helped her begin a career she loved. Hogberg and her husband were involved in several mission trips. While on location, she always seemed to find something to do with teaching said Waterworth.

In May 1995 she retired from teaching with plans that didn't include the diagnosis she received the following September. Waterworth said her mom was "never really angry, but cancer interfered with her plans." Despite her illness, the woman family members describe is someone who took each day in stride. She did what she could with the strength given her, and brought joy to many people.

Toward the end of her illness, Hospice became involved in caring for Hogberg. Lowell Hogberg said he had plans of being the primary caregiver for his wife, but found Hospice to be a blessing. While their four grown children were around often, Hospice was there to offer experience to the family "during this part of life called dying," said Waterworth.

Hospice organized the use of equipment such as a hospital bed, oxygen tanks, and a seat for the bathtub. Not having to find outlets for resources like this eases the strain on families. Myles Hogberg said Hospice was a great help to them while his mom was ill. "It gives so much comfort to the fami-

The Hollywood Festival Orchestra is best known for its special arrangements of both current and classical movie themes. The group is made up of 32 instrumentalists and several vocalists who are under the direction of John H. Head.

The Christmas program might include such instrumental tunes as "Silver Screen Overture," "Somewhere in Time" from "Beauty and the Beast," "Nutcracker," "The Apartment," "The Sound of Music," "Star Trek," "The Magic of Mancini," "The Wizard of Oz," and "Tribute to John Williams."

Vocal selections, sure to put one in the Christmas spirit, will include a handful of holiday favorites.

One of the few orchestras in the country to specialize in music from the "Silver Screen," the Hollywood Festival Orchestra retains some of the finest musicians and singers in the country.

Prior to performances in the midwest on its current tour, the orchestra toured Japan and Hong Kong this fall. A tour of Spain and Portugal is planned for next spring.

The Hollywood Festival Orchestra has performed with guests such as Frank Gorshin, a movie star impressionist best known for his role as the Riddler in the Batman television series, and more recently, with singer/dancer Donald O'Connor.

Upcoming Concert Series performances will include Marcoux Comer on February 14, the Tom Prin Trio on March 8 and the Foothills Brass ensemble on May 2.

Christmas Trees to brighten weekend events

Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice held this weekend

Second Annual Thief River Falls Lions and Eagles Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls.

Representatives of numerous organizations have participated in the Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice by decorating Christmas trees at the Eagles Club. These trees will be on display this weekend. The event this year features a number of additions.

Event Chairman Mike Melby said he's looking forward to the event, which this year will include performances from local musicians throughout the two-day event. This year's program will also include an appearance by Santa Claus who will be handing out treats to children on both days, a pancake breakfast on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and the Light Up A Light Ceremony for Hospice, which has been held at Northwest Medical Center for the past several years, that will be held this year at 2 p.m. on Sunday at the Eagles.

"It's an event guaranteed to lift your holiday spirits," said Melby.

Melby also pointed out that it's an event that benefits the Hospice program, and families in the community that might not be able to afford a Christmas tree.

The Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice began with Jim and Robin Bitzegaio several years ago as a way to raise money for the local Hospice organization. When the Bitzegaio's relocated to the Twin Cities in 2000, the Thief River Falls Eagles and Lions organizations agreed to co-sponsor the event to keep the tradition alive.

This weekend, the trees decorated by representatives of the various 20 to 25 organizations participating in the event, will be on display in the ballroom of the Eagles Club. As in the past, the public is invited to vote for their favorite tree with a monetary donation. All funds raised in the voting buckets are donated to the Thief River Falls Hospice program. The organization that receives the most votes for its beautifully decorated tree through monetary donations, will receive a plaque. All of the decorated trees are then donated to area families through the "Christmas in Pennington County" program.

TRF Tree lighting ceremony on Sat.

Thief River Falls Lighting of the Community Christmas Tree ceremony will take place at 6 p.m. on Saturday, December 1, in Floyd B. Olson Park.

Following the lighting ceremony, the event will move to the Eagles Club. Due to predictions of poor weather and a desire to add to this special event, organizers have decided to provide refreshments and conduct the remainder of the program at the Eagles ballroom where the Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice is being held.

Grant Wentz, chairman of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, will be the master of ceremony at the Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony in Floyd B. Olson Park. Special music at the event will be provided by Kelsi Holland, Miss Thief River Falls.

Following the lighting ceremony, participants will be asked to travel to the Eagles Club where refreshments will be provided, and a community sing-a-long will be conducted. Kelsi Holland, Miss Thief River Falls, and Ashley Read, Miss Minnesota Junior Teen 2001, will provide additional music selections.

Santa Claus is also expected to make an appearance at the Eagles Club following the Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony.

The Wildes are named 2001 Outstanding Conservationists

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

When Leslie Wilde was notified that he and his wife, Trudy, had been named Pennington County's Outstanding Conservationists for 2001, he responded with a chuckle. "Did you run out of real farmers?" he asked Brian Malone, Pennington County Soil Water Conservation District program director.

While Malone responded good naturedly to Les's inquiry, he and his co-workers at SWCD are confident that the Wildes are the right folks for the annual award, as their stewardship for the land has been demonstrated over and over again throughout the years.

Noted conservation measures on the Wilde farm include a wildlife pond called a "doughnut" because of the ditches that surround it, four stock ponds, field drainage, farmstead windbreaks and land set aside under the Conservation Restoration Program (CRP) where native grasses are planted and wetland restoration takes place.

While he owns a bulldozer and could have cleared his land completely, Les mentions that he's intentionally left 10 acres of wooded land on every quarter. That's because he and his family enjoy the wildlife that lives there. After a long, monotonous day on the tractor, he says, it's fun to see an assortment of wildlife sharing their space. "I've seen moose, deer and a fox in a single evening," Les says.

Along with other Outstanding Conservationists from throughout the state, the Wildes will be honored at the Minnesota Association of Soil Water Conservation Districts annual convention on December 4 in the Twin Cities. The event is sponsored by The Farmer magazine, which will list all of Minnesota's Outstanding Conservationists in an upcoming edition.

Leslie and Trudy Wilde purchased their original farmstead southeast of Thief River Falls from Les's uncle and aunt in 1972. The farm kept them both close to home as Les grew up about two miles down the road on the farm where his father continues to reside, and Trudy was raised in nearby Plummer. In 1976, the couple bought additional acreage.

While Les and Trudy have been involved with a variety of agricultural products, the most precious commodity the couple has raised on their farm is their three children, and no conservation measures have been practiced in the areas of love and pride.

Photographs from daughter Jenny's September 8 wedding to Paul L'Heureux at The White House in Kragness near Moorhead remind Les and Trudy of the joyful occasion. The newlyweds are making their home in Fargo where Jenny is a photographer for Channel 10 Fox News.

Since son Kevin graduated from Lincoln High School in 1997, he spent time working with the Minnesota Conservation Corp. Currently, he's residing at home and is in his second year at Northland Community and Technical College.

The Wilde's youngest child, LeAnn, turned 19 last Friday and, while she is currently working at three jobs in and around Thief River Falls, she's on her way to bigger places and plans to attend a cosmetology school in Minneapolis this winter.

When Les asked Brian Malone if he'd run out of real farmers he did so because, in recent years, the Wildes have scaled back their farming operation. The herd of 100 or so beef cattle that they managed in the early 1980's has been reduced to about 40 cows that they calve out each year, and the land that isn't used for pasture, hay and 40 acres of grain is set aside under CRP.

Scaling back on the farm operation has afforded Les time to think of himself, which is important, given his health history. After completing a stint as a heavy equipment operator in Vietnam, the 22-year-old returned home not feeling well. Suffering from excessive thirst, frequent urination, fatigue and weight loss, the young man didn't recognize the classic symptoms of Type I diabetes. It wasn't until at the urging of the minister, he finally went to the doctor and received a diagnosis during the first week of his marriage to Trudy.

Over the years, the disease took its toll and was complicated by kidney disease. In 1995, Les received a kidney from his sister, Sharon Forsberg, during a transplant operation at the University of Minnesota. A year later, he found himself on the transplant table again, receiving a pancreas from an anonymous donor which freed him of the insulin-dependent diabetes that had plagued him for more than half his life.

With an assortment of anti-rejection drugs to take every day, Les's health, Trudy says, continues to require careful monitoring. Frequently put in positions where it has been necessary for her to act as his health care administrator, Trudy has tales to tell of her experiences also and is probably deserving of an honorary medical degree.

During the coming months, the Wildes will be making more decisions about the future of their farming operation as additional land which now qualifies for CRP under the new criteria, and government regulations will soon require farmers who have more than 50 head of cattle to register their operation as a feedlot.

While working "eight days a week" no longer appeals to Les, one won't look for him and Trudy to venture far from their comfortable rural home. He enjoys deer hunting, duck hunting and fishing, and together, the couple appreciate all of the places they can enjoy during day trips.

Last week, the Wilde family motored to Fargo where they enjoyed Thanksgiving with Jenny and her husband, and Trudy did her part to keep the economy going while doing some Christmas shopping. They are also looking forward to traveling to the Twin Cities and spending several days there during the MASWCD convention.

Back at home, preparations for the upcoming holiday season are sure to take place in the Wilde kitchen. Remodeled in 1981, the room is the heart of the family home and includes not only an enviable amount of storage and counter space, but a unique pass-through to the porch. Over the years, the opening has enabled Trudy to serve meals to Les on the porch without his having to come all the way into the house. This, he says, has saved him some housekeeping detail as, had he tracked in the soil that frequently accompanies farm work, "I would have had to clean it up!"

There will always be something to do on the Wilde farm. They are members of Ebenezer Lutheran Church, and Les served 22 years as his township's clerk. Les jokes that as the kids have grown up they're busier than ever and that they and the neighbors could chip in to buy a moving trailer for as often as they have to move their children around.

Without a doubt, the Pennington County SWCD found "real" farmers for its 2001 Outstanding Conservationist award. Our congratulations to the Wildes.

Leslie and Trudy Wilde have been named this year's Outstanding Conservationists by the Pennington County Soil Water Conservation District. Wildes raise cattle, feed and small grain on their farm southeast of Thief River Falls. They will be among Outstanding Conservationists from across the state honored at next week's Minnesota Association of Soil Water Conservation Districts annual convention in the Twin Cities.

A different digital divide in agricultural e-commerce?

Whether individual agricultural producers will have full access to e-commerce technology is a question of technology development and control, not one of access to computers and the Internet.

"This is the real digital divide question," says W. Parker Wheatley, one of the authors of a research paper from the University of Minnesota's Department of Applied Economics. "You can buy a computer for $500 and get Internet access; that's not the problem. However, a digital divide in the development of strategic applications is still possible."

"First, the 'big players' will develop marketing and information software to fit their needs. Second, they will consider the needs of individual producers to attract them as users as well," Wheatley says.

"Who develops commercial applications as well as who owns them will have important strategic implications for how individual producers engage in and benefit from electronic commerce."

E-commerce can bring concerns of collusion and price-fixing. For example, owners of one e-commerce "platform" control about 70 to 80 percent of the total meat processing capacity in the U.S. "Electronic information can be shared very efficiently," Wheatley says. "It would be quite easy for processors to simply link buying protocols and begin to manipulate markets."

"But this doesn't mean there is or will be collusion and price-fixing," Wheatley says. "It's an issue for us to be aware of, not upset about. Legislators and regulators are starting to ask questions, and the digitization of market exchange leaves an electronic trail that could provide an excellent vehicle for monitoring transactions and verifying trading practices."

Also, ownership of Internet markets by "large" players could simply be driven by the fact that they have easier access to capital to set up the e-commerce ventures, Wheatley says. "And by their sheer size, they can attract users to the market."

E-commerce can help small niche producers if they work together with others in a cooperative venture to form a critical mass. "But unless they've already established markets, it's usually not cost effective for an individual small producer to develop his or her own website," Wheatley says. "With millions of websites out there, it's very difficult to gain the attention of potential customers."

"Although individual producers may find it difficult to generate their own electronic agents or applications, they probably won't be at a large disadvantage," Wheatley says. "And they probably won't be worse off using Internet market places than conventional ones."

"Overall, e-commerce is only one factor in market development," he says. "It's not a panacea for market problems, and won't bring a short run revolution in agriculture. Its effects on markets will evolve over the longer term."

"E-Commerce in Agriculture: Development, Strategy and Market Implications," is available at http://agecon.lib.umn.edu. Other authors are Brian Buhr, economist with the U of M Extension Service, and Dennis DiPietre, a food industry consultant. Buhr and DiPietre worked for an agricultural e-commerce firm in 1999-2000.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
Snow People Masks

Make a mask by cutting eye holes in a large white paper plate. Add some rolled-up orange construction paper or tissue paper for a "carrot" nose and torn scraps of black construction paper for the mouth. If desired, cut a top hat from black construction paper and glue it to the mask. Attach a piece of string to the paper plate, so that it can be worn as a mask. Wear the mask while acting out the poem below.

I'm a Snowman
I'm a snowman
Round and fat.
And I have a
Tall black hat.
See me move this way and that
I'm a snowman, round and fat.

PARENTING TIPS
Learning Social Skills

Becoming sociable, happy and emotionally secure is a basic learning task for children. You, the parent, are the key person in helping your child become emotionally healthy. You may have opportunities throughout your day to show him/her love and to help him/her learn the social skills needed to get along with others.

According to Alice S. Honig, professor of Child Development at Syracuse university, children need to learn self control. For example, they need to obey the rule about no playing with matches. They need to wait if someone else has the toy that they want. They need to learn that they can feel jealous about a baby sister or brother, but they must not hurt the baby. Preschoolers need parents to teach them how to express and to handle emotions.

You can help your child learn polite ways to behave with others. Show him/her ways to solve problems. For example, if your child wants the toy that someone else has, help your child think of different ways to get the toy. Encourage ideas that allow both persons to work out the problem. The aim is for both children to feel okay.

Children who feel good about themselves use their energy for learning about the world. They do not need to fight or pester others for attention.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Use the "what if" approach to help your child think of ideas to solve problems before the situation occurs. "What if you and Jenny both want to play with the doll stroller at the same time?"

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Interesting Thought

One evening a grandson was talking to his grandfather about current events. He asked what his grandfather thought about the shootings at schools, the computer age, and just things in general.

The granddad replied, "Well, let me think a minute... I was born before television, penicillin, polio shots, frozen foods, Xerox, contact lenses, Frisbees and the pill. There was no radar, credit cards, laser beams or ball-point pens. Man had not invented pantyhose, air conditioners, dishwashers or clothes dryers, and man hadn't yet walked on the moon.

"Your grandmother and I got married first and then lived together. Every family had a father and a mother, and every boy over 14 had a rifle that his dad taught him how to use and respect. And they went hunting and fishing together. Until I was 25, I called every man older than I, 'Sir,' and after I turned 25, I still called policemen and every man with a title, 'Sir.'

"Sundays were set aside for going to church as a family, helping those in need, and visiting with family or neighbors. We were before gay rights, computer-dating, dual careers, daycare centers, and group therapy. Our lives were governed by the Ten Commandments, good judgment, and common sense.

"We were taught to know the difference between right and wrong and to stand up and take responsibility for our actions. Serving your country was a privilege and living here was a bigger privilege. We thought fast food was what people ate during Lent. Having a meaningful relationship meant getting along with your cousins. Draft dodgers were people who closed their front doors when the evening breeze started.

"Time-sharing meant time the family spent together in the evenings and weekends, not purchasing condominiums. We never heard of FM radios, tape decks, CDs, electric typewriters, yogurt, or guys wearing earrings. We listened to the Big Bands, Jack Benny, and the President's speeches on our radios. And I don't ever remember any kid blowing his brains out listening to Tommy Dorsey.

"If you saw anything with 'Made in Japan' on it, it was junk. The term 'making out' referred to how you did on your school exam. Pizza Hut, McDonald's, and instant coffee were unheard of. We had five and dime stores where you could actually buy things for five and 10 cents. Ice cream cones, phone calls, rides on a streetcar, and a Pepsi were all a nickel. And if you didn't want to splurge, you could spend your nickel on enough stamps to mail 1 letter and 2 postcards.

"You could buy a new Chevy Coupe for $600, but who could afford one? Too bad, because gas was 11 cents a gallon. In my day, 'grass' was mowed, 'coke' was a cold drink, 'pot' was something your mother cooked in, and 'rock music' was your grandmother's lullaby. 'Aids' were helpers in the Principal's office, 'chip' meant a piece of wood, 'hardware' was found in a hardware store, and 'software' wasn't even a word.

"We were the last generation to actually believe that a lady needed a husband to have a baby. No wonder people call us 'old and confused' and say there is a generation gap.

And how old do you think this grandfather is?

ANSWER: This grandpa would only be 59 years old.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Kate Levinson, Lincoln High School

I never thought I'd say this, but I miss play practice. The grueling, five-hour rehearsals for Peter Pan were dreaded at the time, but now I feel lost without somewhere to be every weeknight.

For the past month, the drama room at Lincoln has been my second home...or maybe my primary one. I ate, slept, and studied there between countless takes of every scene. The exhausting hours of practice completely drained my energy.

Connie Stock, our director, wouldn't settle for "okay" or even "good." She pulled and stretched us to be flawless because she knew we had the ability to be nearly perfect. At times, we wanted to strangle her, but I knew she was thinking the same thing about us. We were all relieved at the end of our last dress rehearsal.

Then for two awesome nights, I was eight years old and lived in Never, Never Land. I had a cute twin and lived in a starry, rainbow-colored tree, and I forgot about all the work that went into the production. I was my character, which was a feeling nothing can match. Every hour of rehearsal was worth it. But after the curtain closed on Saturday night, the spell was broken.

Now the play is over, and I am 16 again. I get to eat supper and do homework at my own house each evening. The unbelievable stress has faded, along with my bruises. I actually have time to sleep at night. But even though the play is done, the effects it left on me still linger. My clothes still glitter from hours spent on the stage, and my legs are decorated with the many bruises I received from practicing falls. I subconsciously use lines from the play in my conversation, and my sword fight sequence frequently plays in my mind.

Although I don't miss the fast food, injuries and frustration, I do miss the people. I had a great time getting to know so many talented people in the cast and crew. Even through the worst practices, we stuck together and kept each other going. I was also privileged to work with Connie, who is an incredible director and person. She constantly forced us to do as well as we possibly could, even when it required pushing us to our limits and guiding us beyond them. I miss feeling the whole performance come together. I also miss seeing delight on the faces of the children in the audience. But most of all, I miss the world of make-believe.

NFO convention set for Dec. 8

National Farmers Organization (NFO) members will attend their annual state convention on Saturday, Dec. 8, at the Best Western Victorian Inn in Hutchinson. State President Bob Arndt will call the convention together at noon and the afternoon session will run until about 5 p.m.

Mychal Wilmes, editor of the Agri-News of Rochester, and well-known advocate of improving conditions for family farmers, will be the featured speaker at the 6 p.m. banquet.

Eastern Pennington Co. to elect FSA representative

Farmers and landowners in eastern Pennington County will elect or re-elect a Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committee representative on Wednesday, December 5. Mail-in ballots have been sent to eligible voters in Clover Leaf, Goodridge, Reiner, Kratka, Highlanding, Star, Deer Park and Hickory townships. The ballots must be returned or postmarked by Monday, December 3, in order to be included.

Orlan Stolaas, who lives and farms in Deer Park township, was the only nomination received prior to the October 29 deadline. FSA requires that at least four eligible candidates be included on the election ballot. The current County FSA committee contacted other farmers in Local Administrative Area III (LAA-3), who would be willing to serve if elected, and developed the following slate: Orlan Stolaas, incumbent, Diane Solberg, who lives and farms in Star township, Richard Pamow, who lives and farms in Kratka township, and Mike Hanson, who lives and farms in Reiner township.

Voters are reminded to sign the upper left portion of the ballot where indicated.

Andersons to observe 40th anniversary Dec. 1

An open house celebrating the 40th wedding anniversary of Wally and Darlene Anderson will be held on Saturday, December 1, from 1 to 4 p.m. at Ekelund Lutheran Church.

The event will include a program at 1:30 p.m. No gifts please.

What I am thankful for

I have many things to be grateful for this Thanksgiving, but I will only write about one of them.

That one is adoption. Adoption may sound like a word that is not commonly used — a word that is different, but for me it is not. Well, it may sound weird but adoption is the basis of my life; it is used often in my vocabulary. The reason is, I was adopted at the age of three-and-a-half, and my biological brother was adopted at the age of one-and-a-half.

The meaning of adoption is very significant to me. It has a sort of ring to it. You know. . .the way you feel when you say words or have words said to you that make you feel very special. Well, that is the feeling I get.

I find it very amazing how God chose my brother and me to be adopted. Not just adopted, but adopted together. This doesn't occur too often. (I think taking in two children would be a huge responsibility.) I also think that my parents are doing a great job at it. Of course, God knew that and that is why He gave us to them.

When I think about Thanksgiving this year I think, "Wow, God has really worked in my life for it to turn out this way." I also think of how God has given me so many blessings. He has stood faithful to my every need; He has made my life a lot easier than it could be. He let me be adopted and I am grateful for that. I now see that the Lord has a plan for me.

I hope someday to get a good education and be a good citizen in this wonderful country. When I get older, I plan on adopting also.

Sarah Mattison is the eighth grade daughter of Pete and Val Mattison of St. Hilaire.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

Spent Thanksgiving on the banks of the Ohio River in southern Indiana. I was on important business: An uncle who lives down there needed a wood stove from up here delivered down there.

Of course the stove could have easily been shipped. But one can't let an excuse to travel slip by, especially a chance to see a new part of the country and meet new people.

The stove in question was one of those external jobbies, a tin hut with a chimney sticking up. With that thing in the box, my pickup looked like something out of the Beverly Hillbillies. Boy, was I popular on the interstate. People stared, waved and laughed.

One couple followed me into a rest area to settle a bet. The woman approached the pickup. "What is it?" She said. When I said it was a wood stove, she let out a whoop.

Her husband had bet that it was an outhouse. The kids were sure that it was a playhouse. But the woman had correctly guessed that it was a wood stove. She ran back to their car before I could even ask what she had won.

Some redneck at a gas station in southern Illinois asked me what the heck that thing was. I tried to convince him that I had a wood burning pickup, one of the first off the assembly line. He didn't fall for it, probably because I had a gas nozzle in my tank at the time.

By the end of the 1,000 mile trip the novelty had worn off, and I was eager to shed the 1,000 extra pounds so I could quit driving like an old lady.

After the forklift removed the stove from my pickup, I sat down with my uncle's in-laws for an Indiana Thanksgiving dinner. It was even more excessive than a Minnesota Thanksgiving dinner, and every bit as scrumptious.

The only real surprise was oyster dressing. As far as I can tell, it is just regular dressing with some oysters thrown in. Delicious, much better than lutefisk, but I suspect it is a tradition that won't catch on north of Des Moines.

Another new thing to me: The turkey was deep fried outside in a big vat over a flame, not baked in the oven.

There were six pies for twelve people. Two pecan pies, two pumpkin, one apple, and, much to my surprise and consternation, one gooseberry pie. Fortunately, the two gooseberry pie fanatics present split the pie between them, thus saving me the guilt of having to turn it down.

Oh, and one other difference from a typical Minnesota Thanksgiving. It was so warm that we ate outside in the shop. As the sun set, a chill did set in, and the new wood stove wasn't hooked up yet.

To offset the cold, somebody broke out a bottle of high-octane homemade wine decanted in an old Jim Beam bottle. I am telling you, that stuff warmed me up every bit as good as if that wood stove had been hooked up and ready to go.

53 donate blood at Goodridge blood drive

Goodridge has once again demonstrated that it is a town with a heart. At the November 15 blood drive, a total of 62 people volunteered to donate blood and 53 were actually able to give. Fifteen of the donors were first timers.

Rhonda Ellefson, community relations representative of United Blood Services said, "This is a clear example of concerned people in this area responding unselfishly to a great need — the need for blood. You can all feel proud that these volunteer donors are your friends and neighbors."

The Goodridge blood drive was sponsored by the Goodridge Lion Tamers Club. Cindi Kotrba coordinated the drive. Others who assisted with the drive were: Sylvia Wiseth, Frances Aandal, Orvin and Myrtle Sunsdahl, LeRoy Johnson, Vernon Rogalla, Marlin Kotrba, Marlys Drangstveit, Ruth Sanders, Deb Swanson, Dorothy Wayne and Donna Horechek. Space to hold the drive was provided at St. Anne's Catholic Church.

United Blood Services is this area's nonprofit blood service provider. More than 800 units of blood are needed by patients in area hospitals every week. "On behalf of the patients who benefited, United Blood Services appreciates all the thoughtful people who volunteered to help others by giving of themselves," Ellefson said.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I just became representative payee for my dad because he is no longer able to handle his own affairs. Can I set up a bank account for his checks?

A. You certainly can. Just be certain that the bank account clearly shows that the funds belong to your dad. Having a special checking account set up for direct deposit of his Social Security benefits would make your record keeping easier since you can readily identify funds received and how they were used.

A representative payee is an individual or organization that receives Social Security and/or SSI payments for someone who cannot manage or direct the management of his or her money. Payees should use funds for the current and foreseeable needs of the beneficiary and save any remaining funds for the beneficiary's future use. A lot of information about serving as a representative payee was recently added to the Social Security Administration's web site at www.ssa.gov. Go to the Benefits Information column on the left side of the web page where you will find a link to representative payee information with frequently asked questions and answers and materials for both the payee and client of the payee.

Q. Are only United States citizens eligible for Social Security benefits?

A. Persons other than US citizens can receive Social Security benefits because they are based on work requirements, not citizenship. In fact, the Grand Forks office service area includes Manitoba, Canada in addition to 16 Minnesota and North Dakota counties.

While citizenship is not necessary, foreign born SSA clients living in the US must establish that they have legal status to be in the United States before monthly benefits can be paid, and legal work authorization must exist before a visitor can receive a Social Security number. Individuals who have met benefits requirements can receive Social Security monthly benefits if they are not currently residing in this country.

Q. Will Social Security taxes increase next year?

A. The taxable rate for Social Security has not increased for several years and will not go up next year either. The tax rate for employees is 7.65 percent, and this is matched by employers. The self-employed pay a rate of 15.30 percent. Of the 7.65 percent, the Social Security portion is 6.20 percent, and the Medicare portion is 1.45 percent.

What will increase in 2002 is the amount of earnings that are taxable. In 2001, the maximum taxable earnings are $80,400. In 2002, this maximum will be $84,900. In other words, unless you earn $80,400, you will not notice any difference. For those above that earnings level, the Social Security portion of the tax ends, but the Medicare portion continues for all gross wages or net self-employment.

Q. Do I need to take Part B (Medical) of Medicare?

A. Virtually all people eligible elect both parts of Medicare, but it is optional. If, for some reason, you do not want Part B, you should make sure that your existing insurance is not negatively impacted. The most common reason for not electing Part B is when a person remains covered by the group medical insurance of an employer. Even if refusing Part B, you will still have the hospital (Part A) portion of Medicare since there is usually no monthly premium for it. The Medicare (Part B) premium will be $54 per month in 2002. The choice is yours.

Reminder: The Social Security Administration's national toll-free telephone number is 800-772-1213. To reach this number, one must dial the 800 or he or she will reach a private party not connected with the Social Security Administration. Despite the coincidence of the 772 prefix, the SSA national toll-free number does not ring in Grand Forks.

When calling this toll-free number, phone switching routes the call to any of several agency numbers around the country to allow continuous live national coverage from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. local time. During these hours, SSA employees staff the telephone centers. After-hours operation uses an automated system for selected topics.

The national toll-free number is the best way to contact Social Security for making an appointment at any local office, obtaining general information about the program and making simple changes, such as changing your address, to ongoing benefits. Again, remember to dial 800 when calling the Social Security Administration.

Pharmacy Remarks

Meeting The Public's Health Needs

The American public is becoming increasingly responsible for its own health. Not only do we seek to maintain our health through adherence to exercise regimes and proper nutritional intake, but we are equally given to self-diagnosis and treatment of illness when it does arise. As a result, anyone with symptoms of minor illness is as likely to take an over-the-counter medication as he or she is to visit a physician. More severe, chronic episodes of ill health are likely to need prescription medication. In either case, the massive quantity of new medications on the market requires that we all increase our knowledge of drug and food interactions, possible side effects, appropriateness and effectiveness, and dosage. This regularly appearing column is to help the public meet its responsibilities concerning its own health.

Welcome to our column!

We hope you will not only find the contents interesting and informative, but will also take the time to call on us whenever you have a question regarding a medication. DAKOTA CLINIC is located at 1720 Highway 59 SE, and our telephone number is 683-2725. We are an independent pharmacy serving patients of all doctors, not just those at Dakota Clinic.

School board hears update on Audio Enhancement

By Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Independent School District 564 Board of Education heard an update on the ongoing Audio Enhancement program at Challenger Elementary School at its meeting Monday evening at the District Service Center.

Kathy Olson, Diedre Nordin and Joyce Kopari provided board members with information about fund-raising efforts and the impact the audio enhancement units have had in classrooms at Challenger thus far. Currently, all four of Challenger's kindergarten rooms are equipped with the units. Also, three portable units have been purchased with funds from Parents, Teachers and Students in Partnership (PTSP).

To date, funding or commitments for funding have been received from PTSP, Swenson Foundation through the Thief River Falls Education Foundation, Lutheran Brotherhood, Sons of Norway, Noper Charitable Fund, VFW, Hardee's and District 564.

Grant applications have also been submitted for review to the Hartz Foundation, Tiger Woods Foundation and Minnesota Teacher Foundation. Because the equipment does not meet the criteria of many foundations and other organizations, the fund-raising group also reported that it had been denied funding by several organizations.

Currently, cookbook sales are at the top of the group's agenda. Two thousand books were published last summer, and to date, 700 have been sold. Aggressive attempts are being made to get rid the books which will net a $18,920 profit when all have been sold.

Olson, Nordin and Kopari told the board that additional units for four of Challenger's first grade classrooms will be purchased prior to the first of the year when prices for the units will go up. Eventually, it is hoped that funds will be raised to purchase units for all of the elementary school's classrooms, preschool, media center, music rooms, computer rooms, activity rooms and cafeteria.

Board members asked a variety of questions of the women and heard testimony about the effectiveness of the audio enhancement equipment from a board member who had used it in a classroom and Superintendent Peterson who had witnessed its use during a physical education class.

The cost of the equipment the school hopes to eventually acquire would be $77,115 prior to the new year and $82,455 after the January 1 price increase.

• In recognition, board Chair Steve Young extended the board of education's thanks to all to worked and contributed to the November 18 telethon that raised for $11,000.

• The board of education heard reports from the following committees: Staff Development, Jean Larson.

• In his report to the school board, business manager Harry Nelson discussed the ventilation upgrade for the bus garage at the District Service Center, budget adjustments and bond refinancing that the board acted on later in its meeting.

• Superintendent Irv Peterson updated school board members about upcoming meetings and conferences and the meeting he attended with Senator LeRoy Stumpf, ag educator ADawn Melbye and Marshall County Central Superintendent Ron Paggon about the proposed Ag Magnet Program.

• The board of education approved the following personnel items in its Consent Agenda: the resignation of Faith Myhrer effective November 19, 2001; the employment of Harold Green as kitchen helper at Lincoln High School effective September 5, 2001 for two hours per day, school days only; the employment of Karen Thompson as a minority education tutor effective November 19, 2001 at a rate of $7.34 per hour; a leave of absence without pay for Nancy Swanson effective January 2, 2002 through February 28, 2002; and lane changes for the following: Bruce Jean, BS45; Diane Johnson, BS60, Eloine McGeary, BS75; Jane Miller, MS15; Julie D. Olson, BS30; Sara Olson, BS30; Darlo Prickett, BS30; Elizabeth Quick, BS45; and Tom Schafer, BS60.

• In Old Business, the school board approved Policy 410— Certified Staff Evaluations.

• In its New Business, the board of education voted to adopt several recommended resolutions including: development of specifications for heating and ventilation upgrade for the bus garage area at the District Service Center; adjusting the 2001-2002 Revenue Budget from $18,581,390 to $18,590,755 and the Expense Budget from $19,070,849 to $19,733,013; making facilities of School District 564 available to the American Red Cross upon its request in the event of a disaster; establish and post for an assistant principal or intern assistant principal at Challenger Elementary School for the second semester of the 2001-2002 school year; and the following make-up days for the 2001-2002 school year: first and second completely cancelled school days because of adverse weather will not require that student days be made up. The third snow day missed will be a student day made up on Wednesday, March 27, 2002. Fourth snow day missed will be a student day made up on Thursday, March 28, 2002.

• The next regular meeting of the board of education is scheduled for Monday, December 10, 2001 at 6 p.m. in the Conference Room of the District Service Center.

ly," he said.

Time has passed since Donna Mae Hogberg's death in 2000, but her memory will stay strong. A bereavement library is being established in her honor.

"Hospice is about more than taking care of the people we serve," said Waterworth. "It's a resource for the community."

Death is a normal part of life, but often people need help to deal with feelings of loss. The library will offer information on dealing with death.

About hospice

Hospice provides care for the terminally ill and their families. The Hospice team consists of doctors, nurses, social workers, clergy, home health aides, volunteers, and professionals trained in speech, physical, and occupational therapy.

The staff is willing to help with any concern. From administering medication to helping with housekeeping, nothing is thought to be too big or too small. Hospice is available to offer medical attention and a listening ear. Three important components of Hospice are the physical, spiritual and emotional well-being of clients. The program is intended to treat the person instead of the illness, emphasizing quality in his or her life.

There are 35 Hospice volunteers in the Thief River Falls area who provide support and companionship for those in need. Hospice is available to all people with a terminal illness, once the need for care has been certified by a physician. Medicare, Medicaid, and most private insurance and managed care plans cover Hospice.

The Thief River Falls office is part of First Care Medical Services Hospice Care. There are additional offices located in Fosston, Fertile, Oklee and Mahnomen.

Chelsea Haviland wins fourth straight Class A diving title

Illness might have slowed Chelsea Haviland down, but it didn't keep her off the victory stand. Despite a three-week battle with a bug that made breathing difficult, the Thief River Falls senior completed her high school swimming career by winning a fourth straight Class A diving title during the 2001 Minnesota girls state swimming and diving championships.

The state meet was held Nov. 19-21 at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis.

Haviland collected 440.85 points and finished with an easy victory margin over second place Holly Schlingmann, a sophomore from Mankato East/Loyola, with 376.55 points. Linda Keskey, a senior from Dassel-Cokato, finished third at 373.10. A year ago Schlingmann was fourth and Keskey was second behind Haviland.

It was the sixth straight state meet appearance for Haviland. She was a qualifier in the single-class state competition as a seventh grader in 1996 and was the Class A runner-up as an eighth grader at the first two-class state meet in 1997. Her championship reign began as a freshman in 1998.

Only one other girl in state meet history has won four diving titles – Jamie Songer of Wayzata (1995-98).

Haviland's victory celebration was tempered a bit, however, because the all-time state meet diving record of 507 points escaped her grasp. The Class A record of 500.85 belongs to Haviland, but she made no secret that the second mark was a season-long goal.

The illness robbed Haviland of the opportunity to challenge that record.

"It was definitely a disappointment that I didn't get the record," Haviland said. "I was disappointed the whole ride home. I really wanted it. I was pumped. I was saying, 'look out record, here I come.' Then I decided to wake up sick. I'm happy to win it four years in a row; it's a great feeling. But losing the chance to set the record is something I'll think about the rest of my life."

Haviland is the second Thief River Falls girl to win four state meet gold medals. Nicole Kopari did it in track by winning both the discus and shot titles as a junior and senior before accepting an athletic scholarship from the University of Minnesota.

It was a busy state meet for Haviland, who also placed 16th in the 200-yard freestyle and swam on two relay teams – the 200 freestyle that finished 11th and the 400 freestyle that wound up 15th.

In diving, the state meet field is pared to 20 after one round of eight dives, then three more dives produces the 16 finalists. In swimming, prelims advance the top eight times into the championship finals, while places 9-through-16 compete in the consolation finals.

Sophomore Cami Hendrickson, eighth grader Allyson Helling and junior Brittany Haviland joined Chelsea Haviland to form both Thief River Falls state meet relay teams.

That group set a school and Section 8A meet record in the 200 with a 1:42.72, but went 1:43.04 at state. They bettered their school record 3:49.92 set at the Section 8A meet with a 3:49.86 state swim. Red Wing was the state champion in both events with a 1:39.35 in the 200 and a 3:39.99 in the 400.

Chelsea Haviland turned in a personal-best 2:02.02 to win the Section 8A 200 freestyle. She went 2:04.26 at state, where Katie Wind of Trinity School at River Edge in Bloomington swam a 1:53.26.

Hendrickson and Brittany Haviland joined Chelsea Haviland on the sick list at state. Helling was the only one of the four who was bug-free.

"I tried to fight it off with antibiotics," explained Chelsea Haviland, "but I just couldn't shake it. I had a really difficult time getting a deep breath."

Thief River Falls coach Dawn Couette praised the efforts of her state meet participants. "I'm very proud of the way they performed," she said. "They probably didn't do as well as they would have liked, especially in the 200 freestyle relay, but the illness had a lot to do with that. They just didn't have the energy or endurance. To be honest, they were looking for more, but we're very happy to place. Chelsea was disappointed she didn't get a chance to break the record, but we're very happy to see her win four straight diving titles. It was very exciting."

Helling was also a state meet qualifier in diving, but she did not advance into the finals.

In addition to her four diving titles, Chelsea Haviland was a Class A state place finisher in three different individual events during her career, including a third in the 100 freestyle as a junior, a 12th in the 200 I.M. as a sophomore, and the 16th in the 200 freestyle this year.

Chelsea Haviland will leave the Prowlers' swim program with her name on eight school records.

"It's been wonderful," said Haviland in looking back at her high school swimming career. "I wouldn't have traded it for anything. I've learned so much from the sport – the value of your teammate's friendship and the ability to balance school, sports and work schedules."

Swimming has been a nearly year-round part of Haviland's life since she first stepped onto the diving board, yet she never tires of the work and competition. "I love the sport," she said. "I never get tired of it. If the season started today, I'd be ready."

Looking back at her first year as a diver, Haviland says composure has been an area of steady year-to-year improvement in her performances. "The biggest difference is nerves," she said. "I remember standing on the end of the board as a seventh grader and thinking, 'what am I doing.' Now, it's just another dive, and I just think about the things I have to do."

Haviland's future is as a diver in a college swimming program. However, as soon as the state meet ended, her thoughts turned toward basketball, where she is one of the Prowlers' top returning players this winter. "I have no idea what I'm going to do next year," she said. I'm just in the process of sorting out the (recruiting) letters. I'll go wherever my family and I feel comfortable. But right now, I owe my teammates and my coaches complete concentration during the basketball season. I'll think about the rest of it later.".

A state champion for the fourth straight year in Class A diving, Thief River Falls senior Chelsea Haviland (right) stood with Prowlers head coach Dawn Couette. Haviland capped her high school career in the pool by adding to her string of wins on the one-meter board during the 2001 Minnesota girls state swimming and diving championships Nov. 19-21 at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis.

Thief River Falls native invited to officiate top amateur hockey tournament...

Rick Looker will work World Junior Championships

by Mike Lundgren

Rick Looker began his hockey officiating career at age 15 by working Saturday morning Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association in-house games at the Old Arena.

Fifteen years later, after receiving an invitation to officiate in the upcoming World Junior Hockey Championships, he finds himself at the top of his profession.

The tournament, featuring the best under-20 hockey players in the world from International Ice Hockey Federation Pool A countries, will be played in the Prague area of the Czech Republic Dec. 25-Jan. 4.

Considered the IIHF's premier tournament, the ten-team event will start with round-robin pool play match-ups leading to the medal round. Group A will include the Czech Republic, Sweden, United States, Slovakia, and Belarus. Group B features Finland, Canada, Switzerland, Russia, and France.

The talent pool in Prague will include most of the top selections in the National Hockey League draft.

Since few USA officials ever get the opportunity to work the tournament, Looker is in select company. "The United States only gets one, maybe two spots a year to send officials to these World Championships," he explained. "The IIHF uses all European officials, so the American officials are lucky to get one international assignment."

Looker has put time and effort into reaching this level, but it still took a lucky break for a window of opportunity to open for the 1989 Lincoln High School graduate. "I wasn't expecting this one," he said, "but the referee that was supposed to go, backed out and USA Hockey called and asked if I wanted to go. Needless to say, I didn't hesitate to say yes."

In years past, the natural progression from officiating at the World Junior Championships might be the opportunity to work at the Olympics. But with the Olympics now open to professional players, those assignments go to the NHL referees.

Looker has experience officiating at nearly every level of hockey, from the youth games to high school, Junior A, college, professional minor leagues, and internationally.

"Last year I was fortunate enough to have three international assignments," mentioned Looker, who went to Lake Placid, N.Y. for an Elite Experience in August, refereed the Five Nations Cup in Salt Lake City for the for 2002 Olympic Organizing Committee fall preview, and worked the under-18 Pool B World Junior Championships in Riga, Latvia in March.

"What an experience that was," said Looker in describing his overseas trip. "First time in Europe and I had to go by myself. I was the only American at the tournament, held in an Old Eastern Block country."

Looker's officiating assignments included the Western Collegiate Hockey Association before he accepted a job offer doing hockey scheduling at a Dallas area arena.

The facility is one of four arenas owned and operated by Southwest Sports Group, the parent company of the Dallas Stars in the National Hockey League and the Major League Baseball Texas Rangers. Kent Holmes, a long-time friend from Thief River Falls who works with Southwest Sports Group, called Looker about the job opportunity in Texas.

Looker said the invitation to work the World Junior Championships is a "high-point" of his officiating career. "It's an awesome opportunity," he acknowledged. "Not many people get a chance like this. I'm really looking forward to it."

It takes work, desire, and a few breaks, admitted Looker, to climb the ladder in officiating. "I have been fortunate enough to progress through USA Hockey Officials Development Camps," he said.

Officiating camps are run in conjunction with USA Hockey's player development program, giving both officials and players an opportunity to gain attention from college and professional scouts.

The journey starts with the Minnesota Hockey Officials Association camp that is held in St. Cloud.

Those who do well at St. Cloud have their names sent to USA Hockey for the opportunity to be one of the 25 officials selected to participate in the organization's Western Regional Camp that covers an area from Ohio to Alaska.

Following the regional camp, invitations are given to 25 officials from around the country to attend the USA Hockey National Camp in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Final level in the USA Hockey developmental program is the Select Camp in Lake Placid that is open to just 12 officials.

Presented by the top officials in the country – many of them from the National Hockey League and leading college conferences – all three camps are week-long programs that are physically and mentally demanding, according to Looker. Participants wake up at 5:30 a.m. and run two miles before they take the ice for a one-hour session of power skating that will be followed by four to six hours of classroom work and one to two more hours of on-ice instruction before they officiate a game that night. Games are taped by instructors, who evaluate the work of each official.

At that point, according to Looker, an official decides whether they will try to work in the professional leagues, or stay in amateur hockey, mostly at the college level.

Those electing to pass on the professional route are directed to one more camp run by USA Hockey to prepare officials for the international scene – the Elite Experience.

"The Elite Experience is the complete opposite from the other camps," pointed out Looker. "USA Hockey tells you to bring golf clubs to this one. The camp has only seven officials and one supervisor.

National teams from different countries take part in the Elite Camp. "When I participated last year, Finland, Switzerland and the United States had their under-20-year-olds there," explained Looker. "Many of the country's best young college players were there – like the No. 1 overall pick in the NHL draft, goalie Rick DiPietro of the New York Islanders."

Looker will leave for his tournament assignment Dec. 23, flying from Dallas to Paris before making his way to the Czech Republic. While expenses are covered, it's not a financial bonanza for tournament officials, he pointed out. The experience, however, is reward enough. "You just don't get many opportunities like this," he said. "It's something I've worked for. I'm excited about it."

Rick Looker, a Thief River Falls native, has been selected to work as a referee at the World Junior Hockey Championships Dec. 25-Jan. 4 in the Czech Republic. He began his officiating career doing Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association in-house games at the Old Arena.

Pioneers handle Alexandria Tech by 113-60 score

First four baskets by Northland Community and Technical College shooters were 3-pointers, providing the Pioneers with a quick 12-2 lead that turned into a 113-60 Monday men's basketball rout of Alexandria Technical College.

Matt Ulmer hit three treys and T.J. Super had one in the Pioneers' game-opening run.

"They (Alexandria) came out in a zone, and we've got some good shooters who can hit those outside shots," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen.

The host Pioneers led 48-26 at halftime. "We played well on defense," noted Nikunen. "We forced some turnovers and got some easy baskets. They weren't as strong as I thought they might be."

It was the first time the Alexandria team, a familiar foe to other Minnesota Community College Conference schools, appeared on the Pioneers' schedule.

Fifteen of the 16 Northland players used in the game put their names in the scoring column, led by Dustin Johnson with 15 points, Ulmer and Jerry Shorter 14 points each, and Super with 13.

Northland will take a 3-0 record to Devils Lake, N.D. tonight (Wednesday) for a 7:30 p.m. game against Lake Region State. The Pioneers host an alumni team Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

Pioneers' depth is factor in 85-70 win

A halftime tie turned into a 15-point Northland Community and Technical College win over Minot State University-Bottineau in a Wednesday (Nov. 21) men's basketball encounter.

The host Pioneers won 85-70. It was a 38-38 tie at the half.

"We're deeper than they are, and in the second half, our depth wore their better players down," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen.

Bottineau, thanks to some long range shooting, had the upper hand early. "We fell behind by double-figures right away," pointed out Nikunen. "They hit some threes, and we were not very patient on offense. In the second half, we were a little more patient with our half-court game, and we got some fast break baskets."

The Pioneers' offense featured an inside-outside combination from 6-8 freshman Reggie Gaddis, who scored 26 points, and 6-0 sophomore Jerry Shorter, who had 25.

Northland contributions also included a 17-rebound night by freshman Justin Skjorven and 5 assists from freshman Evan Barnett.

"It was a good effort," noted Nikunen, who watched his team pick up its second win in two starts this season. "They played together as a team."

Northland was 34-for-78 from the field (44 percent) and went 12-for-21 at the free throw line (57 percent). Bottineau had a 23-for-70 shooting night from the floor (33 percent) and a 19-for-34 showing at the line (56 percent). The Pioneers finished with a 53-49 rebound edge over the Lumberjacks, who topped the turnover charts 16-14.

MAELC announces scholarship/ grant programs for 2002

The Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council (MAELC) has earmarked $28,000 for agricultural education scholarships and $20,800 for a special new biotechnology grants program, according to a recent announcement by Patrick Plonski, MAELC executive director.

The announcement followed official action by the MAELC Council at its November 13 meeting at the Minnesota World Trade Center in St Paul. "We are very pleased that we will be able to make these financial resources available for agricultural programs in Minnesota," Plonski said.

MAELC's scholarship programs are designed as an incentive for high quality students to pursue studies at the University of Minnesota Division of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Education and its partner programs at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, Ridgewater College in Willmar, Central Lakes College in Brainerd, South Central Technical College in Mankato and Minnesota West College in Worthington.

MAELC will be providing a total of $28,000 in scholarships under three programs: $16,000 will be provided in cooperation with the University of Minnesota Division of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences for agricultural programs on the St. Paul campus; $10,000 will be provided for students participating in one of the partner programs; and $2,000 will be provided for scholarship stipends to help defray costs related to student teaching experiences in rural Minnesota.

MAELC will also continue to seek scholarship funds from alternative sources. In the past two years, it has provided $40,000 in scholarships.

MAELC also announced that it will soon be accepting applications for a new biotechnology grant program designed to provide a package of biotechnology equipment and instructor training for high school agricultural programs. It has secured $20,800 in private grant funds to leverage these projects with donations provided by the Medtronic Foundation ($10,000), CHS Foundation ($10,000), MINN-DAK Farmers Cooperative ($600), and AgCountry Farm Credit Services ($200).

MAELC will continue to raise funds for its biotechnology initiative. Plonski expressed his appreciation to the organizations that have provided funds so far and said, "Biotechnology is one of the cutting edge sciences of our day, and we want to ensure that agricultural education students in Minnesota are well versed in this topic and fully understand its implications."

MAELC has provided over $748,000 in grants and scholarships since 1998 and will announce an additional $84,000 in grant recipients in January of 2002.

Established by State Legislature in 1997, MAELC is comprised of 16 educators, legislators, government officials and agri-business and community organization representatives. EQIP funds available for education

Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) for Minnesota has approximately $82,000 for local education and demonstration programs within Minnesota that will assist working family farm producers and professionals enhance management of natural resources.

All proposals, due January 11, 2002, should focus on education about conservation practices, and there is no requirement to provide matching funds. The local Minnesota Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) will assist in the coordination of the proposals.

After proposals have been coordinated with Local Work Groups (LWG), they need to be presented to the local RC&D. LWG's are chaired by local Soil Water Conservation Districts (SWCD) and include representatives of FSA, Minnesota Extension, NRCS and others interested in local conservation efforts. Proposals may cover a portion of a county, an entire county or multi-county areas such as a watershed.

While each proposal is limited to $10,000, proposals exceeding this amount will be considered. All grant program funds must be expended or obligated before September 30, 2003.

For an application or more information about EQIP, call the local RC&D at (218) 253-2181, ext. 103, or SWCD. Information can also be found on the Minnesota Association of Resource Conservation and Development web site at http://www.mn.nrcs. usda.gov/rcd/.

EQIP was established in the 1996 Farm Bill to provide incentives and cost share to agricultural producers for making changes in their farming operations that would protect natural resources. Incentive payments are provided for development and implementation of management plans for irrigation, nutrients, manure, pests, grazing and tillage. Cost share for conservation practices that control erosion, improve wildlife habitat, facilitate intensive rotational grazing, promote forest management and protect water quality are major components of EQIP. Practices include grassed waterways, grassed filter strips, fencing and animal watering facilities. EQIP encourages the development of conservation plans that address all resources on all acres controlled by an individual.

Department of Public Safety provides homeland security site

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety has added to its Web site a special section devoted entirely to the topic of preparedness for acts of terrorism.

The Homeland Security Web site is a link from the DPS site located at www.dps.state.mn.us.

Although domestic preparedness information is available in many places on the Internet, the DPS set out to provide uncomplicated, "one-click" access on its site. The topics range from Anthrax and terrorism through contaminated mail and coping suggestions.

Public Safety Commissioner Charlie Weaver says the site will change along with Minnesota's need for updated information. "Our goal is to provide what people need to know right now," he said. "There is a 'Contact Us' button on the site, because users may be aware of a good, up-to-date source of information we haven't seen yet. Or they might want to ask questions for which Public Safety can provide an answer. We want this to be a meaningful tool for the people of our state."

Rural employment rates holding up under economic downturn

As concerns mount regarding the rising unemployment rate caused by the economic slowdown and the Sept. 11 attacks, the Center for Rural Policy and Development in Mankato has reported that unemployment rates in Greater Minnesota have been dropping steadily through the summer and are now actually lower than the unemployment rate for the Twin Cities metro area for the first time since 1991.

"This is bucking the trend of the last 10 years, but it just seems to indicate that Greater Minnesota's employment is holding up under the economic downturn," said Marnie Werner, data analyst at the Center for Rural Policy and Development. "Add to that the significant layoffs at Northwest Airlines resulting from the Sept. 11 attacks, and it would appear that the Twin Cities are being hit harder by job losses."

When unemployment rates are not seasonally adjusted, rates in Greater Minnesota and the Twin Cities follow a distinct pattern during a typical year. Rates drop in the spring as construction starts in urban areas and agricultural and tourism work starts in rural areas, then rise again in September as these seasonal jobs end. They then drop in October as the retail sector gears up for the holiday season and rise again in January after the shopping season.

During the 1990s, the combined unemployment rate for the 80 counties outside the Twin Cities metro area has tended to be a percentage point or more above the Twin Cities' rate. This year, instead of going down in the spring and up again in the fall, unemployment rates in Greater Minnesota started relatively high, around 5.6 percent, and stayed high but dropped steadily right through to its current October rate of 3.0 percent. In the Twin Cities area, rates started low, around 2.6 percent, and have been rising steadily, to its current level of 3.3 percent. And instead of dropping from September to October, as is the usual pattern, unemployment rates appear to be staying up in the Twin Cities, reflecting the large number of September layoffs.

"This steady drop seems to indicate that Greater Minnesota worked through its layoffs earlier in the year, and hopefully the downward trend will continue or at least hold steady," said Werner. "In fact, Greater Minnesota's unemployment rate in October 2001 is actually a bit lower than in October 2000, back when we still believed the economy would come in for a 'soft landing.'"

Majorettes Drum And Bugle Corps Gets More Bugles

"The Marching Majorettes drum and bugle corps has added to its equipment list a number of bugles recently purchased by the parental group. The corps now has a 20-piece percussion section and a 20-piece bugle section, in addition to the 40 twirlers. There are also 30 children in the beginners corps, who receive weekly training and will be used during the appearance season for substitutes for regular members when they are unable to appear.

"The instrumentation section of the corps has been re-organized by moving some of the girls into other sections enabling 15 boys to enter the corps. The unit from now on will use boys and girls in the drum and bugle section while the twirling section will remain restricted to girls."

EAST SIDE DITCH
Rocksbury Farmers Want It Extended South.

"The proposed county ditch on the East Side which is to drain what is know as the Connelly slough will undoubtedly be extended about three miles further south into the town of Rocksbury than was originally intended. A number of farmers living in that vicinity will petition to have it built and their request will undoubtedly be granted. This ditch, while not very long, is sure to be one of the most important in this section, and will effectively drain a large territory."

Christmas trees brighten holidays

Sometimes it's difficult to get into the spirit of the holiday season. In the past, crass commercialism, a poor economy, and maybe even greed seemed to conspire to steal away my Christmas spirit. This year, worry about our country during a time of war may be the culprit. In times of holiday stress, I find that there's nothing like a good holiday concert or holiday event to get me into the spirit of the holiday season.

This weekend, residents and visitors will have a couple of opportunities to attend events that will help you get into the spirit of the holiday season.

I always look forward to the lighting of the Christmas tree in Thief River Falls. I remember many times when only a few of us gathered near the tree to sing a few songs before quickly dispersing to huddle around car heaters. This season's weather has certainly provided us with some surprises. As I write this editorial, however, I have the feeling that we can bid our green weather goodbye. We may not be shivering in sub-zero holiday cheer on Saturday, but it won't be green and warm like it has the past several weeks. The other event I look forward to is the Christmas Tree Walk For Hospice. This year residents and visitors will be able to take in both events at the same time.

Because of the threat of a storm, organizers of the Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony have decided to hold the lighting ceremony at 6 p.m. on Saturday, December 1, in Floyd B. Olson park, and then have refreshments at the Eagles where children will be able to visit with Santa, and parents can survey the beautifully-decorated trees set up for Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice.

If you don't have time to attend the lighting ceremony and Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice following the ceremony, the Second Annual Thief River Falls Lions and Eagles Christmas Tree Walk for Hospice will be held Saturday and Sunday, December 1 and 2, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, at the Eagles Hall in Thief River Falls. Your voting dollars placed under decorated trees will help a worthy cause.

This weekend, let the light of these Christmas trees lift the darkness the time of year imposes on all of us, and let it lift your holiday spirits as well.

Keep an eye on the pages of The Times; as Christmas day approaches, there will be many other events to help lift your spirits this holiday season.

Helping youth is vitally important

As leader of the local Little Brother/Little Sister program, Yvonne Ode has demonstrated the type of leadership that provides youth in our community an example of civic responsibility, and the kind of nourishment that builds self respect and confidence. She is now stepping down and turning the reigns over to Sue Dupree. Rather than focus on the able and exemplary leadership of these two individuals, I am confident that both would be the first to ask that the focus of any story or editorial be on the program and the youth served by the program because the Little Brother/Little Sister program is vitally important to the youth of this community.

Those involved in the program understand that a child's life can be greatly influenced by a consistent, positive adult role model. Typically, but not always, youth involved in the program are in need of assistance and understanding. The kind hand of mentors involved in the program, guide youth in positive activities, and positive directions, and that's why it's vitally important to the community.

Kate Morberg, a reporter at The Times, wrote a story about the change of leadership last week. In that story, Ode described the relationship she developed with her "little sister," which continues 12 years later. She also relayed a conversation she had with another youth who had been a child in the program. "He said, 'the program really kept me going in the right direction,'" Ode said.

Research indicates that youth who are involved in such programs are less likely to use drugs, start drinking, or even skip a day of school. It builds self respect and confidence, and lasting relationships; it provides youth an opportunity to participate in activities they might not otherwise have an opportunity to participate in, improve academic performance, and provides youth an example of what citizenship means.

Currently, the local Little Brother/Little Sister program has 15 children who are waiting to be matched with a caring adult. If you would like to donate to, or participate in the Little Brother/Little Sister program, please contact Sue Dupree at 681-8711, ext. 241. It's all about the children.

No place to hide: Drug abuse in the Heartland

by Clark Carr
President Narconon International

Drugs and alcohol have been around for thousands of years. They have been intertwined throughout various cultures and time periods throughout the recorded history of this planet. They have been labeled and/or promoted as everything from the work of the devil, to a miracle cure for disease, to the key in finding God. Some drugs have healed; others have destroyed lives and even entire cultures.

As we begin to search for effective solutions for today's drug problem, we must first understand the origins of drugs in America. How did they come to be such a strong influence in today's society?

Heroin, which is a very popular drug of choice in the American drug culture today, is not a new drug that just showed up in the late 1960's nor are its negative effects unique to modern times. Heroin is an opium derivative and, as with any of the opium derivatives, there is a severe physical/mental dependency that develops when it's abused.

American Heroin Addict

In the mid to late 1800's, opium was a fairly popular drug. Opium dens were scattered throughout what we know today as the wild West. The opium influx during this period was due in large part to the drug being brought into the country via Chinese immigrants who came here to work on the railroads.

Accurate American history tells us that famous names of the period like Wild Bill Hickack and Kit Carson actually frequented opium dens more often than saloons. The stereotyped picture we have of the cowhand belly up to the bar drinking whiskey straight after a long hard ride on the dusty trail is only part of the story of the old west. Oftentimes the cowhand was not belly up to a bar at all. He was in a prone position in a dim candlelit room smoking opium in the company of an oriental prostitute. It was not uncommon for some of these cowhands to spend several days and nights at a time in these dens in a constant dream state, eventually becoming physically addicted to the drug. Nonetheless, it was true that alcoholism was a bigger problem. Alcoholism was one of the major sources of violence and death during this period. Eventually, however, opium was promoted as a cure for alcoholism by the late 1800's.

It was from opium that morphine, a derivative, was developed as a pain killer in approximately 1810. It was considered a wonder drug because it eliminated severe pain associated with medical preparations or traumatic injuries. It left the user in a completely numb euphoric dream state. Because of the intense euphoric side effects, the drug in 1811 was named after the Greek god of dreams, Morpheus, by Dr. F.W.A. Sertumer, a German pharmacist. By the mid 1850's morphine was available in the United States and became more and more popular with the medical profession. The benefits of using the drug to treat severe pain was considered nothing short of remarkable to doctors of the time. Unfortunately, the addictive properties of the drug, on the flip side, went virtually unnoticed until after the Civil War.

During the Civil War the numbers of people exposed to morphine in the course of being treated for their war related injuries skyrocketed. Tens of thousands of northern and confederate soldiers became morphine addicts. In just over 10 years time from its arrival into this country, the United States was plagued with a major morphine epidemic. Even though no actual statistics were kept on addiction at this time, the problem had grown to large enough proportions to raise serious concerns from the medical profession. Doctors became perplexed and were completely in the dark as to how to treat this new epidemic.

By 1874, the answer to this increasing problem was thought to be found in the invention of a new drug in Germany. This new wonder drug was called Heroin, after its German trademarked name. Heroin was imported into the United States shortly after it was invented. The sales pitch that created an instant market to American doctors and their morphine addicted patients was that Heroin was a "safe, non-addictive" substitute for morphine. Hence, the heroin addict was born and has been present in American culture ever since.

From the late 1800's to the early 1900's the reputable drug companies of the day began manufacturing over-the-counter drug kits. These kits contained a glass-barreled hypodermic needle and vials of opiats (morphine or heroin) and/or cocaine packaged neatly in attractive engraved tin cases. Laudanum (opium in an alcohol base) was also a very popular elixir that was used to treat a variety of ills. Laudanum was administered to kids and adults alike — as freely as aspirin is used today.

There were of course marketing and advertising campaigns launched by the drug companies producing this product that touted these narcotics as the cure for all types of physical and mental ailments ranging from alcohol withdrawal to cancer, depression, sluggishness, coughs, colds, tuberculosis and even old age. Most of the elixirs pitched by the old "snake oil salesmen" in their medicine shows contained one or more of these narcotics in their mix.

Heroin, morphine and other opiate derivatives were unregulated and sold legally in the United States until 1920 when Congress recognized the danger of these drugs and enacted the Dangerous Drug Act. This new law made over-the-counter purchase of these drugs illegal and deemed that their distribution be federally regulated. By the time this law was passed, however, it was already too late. A market for heroin in the United States had been created. By 1925, there were an estimated 200,000 heroin addicts in the country. It was a market which would persist until this day. In part IV of this series we will discuss how cocaine and LSD found their way into American culture.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Not everyone's wild about Harry Potter

To the Editor:

As a Christian I am very concerned by all the attention the Harry Potter books, movie, etc are receiving. In Deuteronomy 18:9-13 God's Word says "When you enter the land the Lord your God is giving you, do not learn to imitate the detestable ways of the nations there. Let no one be found among you who sacrifices his son or daughter in the fire, who practices divination or sorcery, interprets omens, engages in witchcraft, or casts spells, or who is a medium or spiritist who consults the dead. Any one who does these things is detestable to the Lord, and because of these detestable practices the Lord your God will drive out those nations before you. You must be blameless before the Lord your God."

With such a direct warning, I cannot understand why we are feeding our children, the future of our nation, with things that are "detestable" to God. You hear so many complaints about how young people behave today, but what can we expect when we are filling our children with this type of material.

As you look for gifts for the holidays, please think carefully about what you expose your children to (and grandchildren, nieces, nephews, etc). I pray it will be things that will encourage them to walk with the Lord and seek God for the wisdom, guidance, strength, comfort, and the answers to any other needs they may have.

Sincerely,
Vicki Brown

Why enforce calendar parking when there's no snow?

To the Editor:

I think the enforcement of calendar parking when there is no snow on the ground is a bit much.

This past holiday weekend we ended up with five cars at our house. In the back of our house we have a two-car garage and a small driveway. To pack five cars into such an area is not easy or enjoyable to do. Because of this, one car was left on the street and subsequently ended up with a greeting card from the TRF law enforcement center. I do understand the need for calendar parking. However, ticketing at a time when there is hardly any snow to be seen seems ridiculous.

Sincerely,
Matt Gustafson

Farmers must now focus on repercussions of Sept. 11

by Gene Hugoson
Commissioner
MN Dept. of Agriculture

In my last article, I described how the Minnesota Department of Agriculture and other government agencies are working together to combat the ongoing threat of terrorism in America. As we move forward, the farm community now must focus on another side of this issue: the economic impact of the September 11 tragedy and the terrorism threats we still face.

The current downturn has hurt some areas more than others. The airline and travel industries, for example, are reeling. In general, we are seeing businesses and families scale back their expenditures where possible. When business activity slows, state government revenues drop as well. So it shouldn't be a surprise that Minnesota's state revenues are expected to be significantly lower than what had been projected previously.

State government revenue forecasts for fiscal years 2002 and 2003 have steadily dropped in the last 12 months. Economists now tell us Minnesota is in the midst of a recession that is likely to last into the first three months of the next year. They also tell us that while the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11 certainly have hurt the U.S. economy, our state was already in a recession before that terrible day.

To illustrate this point, Minnesota's June 2001 unemployment levels were nearly double what they'd been in June 2000. As you would expect, our recession has only gotten worse since September 11. The U.S. economy lost more than 400,000 jobs between April and September 2001, and then 400,000 in October alone. State revenues were down $53 million in October, and $178 million so far in fiscal year 2002. Projections now suggest things may still be rocky in the first part of 2002.

For state agencies, the sharp decline in state revenues means we will all have to be conservative with our spending decisions. This need for belt-tightening is aggravated by the fact that there will need to be a considerable amount of new spending on public safety efforts to protect America's citizens and infrastructure from terrorist attacks. With declining revenues, it's reasonable to assume that the money needed to pay for these new public safety initiatives will have to be reallocated from other government projects.

Of course recessions are nothing new for most of us in agriculture. Much of America's farm sector has been in an economic rut for several years. However, one saving grace has been that the strength of the rest of the economy has allowed federal and state governments to assist struggling farmers with significant emergency relief packages. This is not as likely to happen during a widespread recession.

The news is not encouraging, but a sluggish economy can also offer some opportunities for farmers. For example, interest rates are very low and likely to go lower. That means farmers can look at refinancing existing loans or borrowing money at a much lower cost. Also, we're seeing fuel costs drop as overall demand weakens. Interest payments and fuel purchases are significant costs for Minnesota farmers, so paying less in these two areas could be quite helpful for our bottom line.

Perhaps the main consolation for farmers and agribusiness is that, regardless of what's happening in the rest of the economy, people will always need to eat.

Plummer Community News

Effie Byer • 465-4375

Note from Effie:
This will be my last week of reporting Plummer news for awhile. Please call Edna Hyde at 465-4538, if you have anything to report.

John Halley spent early november visiting Army buddies and friends in Fargo, Bismarck, Minot, Devil's Lake and East Grand Forks, and reported a wonderful time. The tour ended with a Veterans Day program in East Grand Forks.

The Elizabeth and Ruth and Anna circles met jointly on Wednesday night at the church. Bec Willett and Carole Wright led the 12 ladies in the Bible study, followed by each group meeting separately for their business. Emilie Skjervan served the lunch for the group.

Clara Hesse visited Jean Carpenter one day last week. Judy Kelley and granddaughter, Jade, were there on Sunday.

Seniors Meet

Plummer Senior Citizens met on Thursday noon for a potluck dinner and regular meeting. Birthdays announced were Laura Smith, Jean Matt, Crystal Martell and Eddie Eskeli, but none were present. Table grace was sung and everyone enjoyed the good meal. The meeting was called to order by vice-president, Howard Greenwald, in the absence of Anna Jaeger. The flag pledge was given and the treasurer's report was given by Clara Hesse. There was no secretary's report. It was voted to give $30.00 to the school for the yearbook. Several communications were read and discussed, including one on "Crime Victims Services." Anyone in need should call Dan Gelier in Red Lake Falls. The next meeting will be on December 20, and will be the Christmas party. Door prizes were won by Evelyn Tervo and Doris Malwitz. Karen, the blood pressure lady, was present for the readings, but no flu shots yet. Watch for announcements.

Beverly and Joann Fallon, formerly of Plummer, visited with Frances Schiefert on Friday at the CHC of Northwest Medical Center.

As part of the Sunday morning worship service at Immanuel, the youth who had attended the junior high gathering in Bemidji recently, gave a report of their trip, led by Deb DuChamp who accompanied them. Attended were Mallory Gerardy, Molly Hagen and Danielle Gilson. The theme was "Press On," and the main speaker was a crippled lady who had succeeded in life in spite of difficulties. They all wore T-shirts with the theme of the gathering on them. This was followed by the Thank-Offering service for the women of Immanuel, and was led by Carole Wright. It included readings, scriptures and songs, followed by a sermonette by Pastor Ehling, using the theme from the Thank-Offering service of "Thanks-Giving Hands." At the close of the service, Marci Kloety gave a short talk about the AAL and the benefits available for the church and individuals in the community. The AAL furnished Dixie Cups to add to the morning coffee hour, and Marci had a game with prizes to interest people in the "Welcome, New Member" event.

New Arrival

Inga Linder proudly announces the arrival of a new great-granddaughter, born on Sunday, November 18, 2001, to Tad and Jannie Linder of rural Plummer. She is their first child and will be named Sophia Rae. Congratulations to all!

Dinner guests at Carol and Jerry Gerardy on Sunday were Peter and Mary Gerardy and girls of Fargo, N.D., Kevin and Jeremy Gerardy, Tammie and Josh Gerardy, Ronnie Gerardy, Barbie and Mike Kanickson, all of Thief River Falls, and Tony and Sheila Gerardy and family of Plummer. The occasion was to honor the birthdays of Peter and Mary's daughter, Hannah, and also Kevin Gerardy's birthday.

A potluck hunter's dinner was enjoyed by members of the Joe and Helen Fisher family at their home. Attending were Tom and Brenda Fisher and family of Thief River Falls, Jan and Diane Anderson and boys of Twin Valley, Clare Evarson of Greenbush, John Fisher and a friend from the Twin Cities, Charles of Thief River Falls, Kenny and family of East Grand Forks, Roy and Marilyn and family, and Linda and Riley Hamly of Plummer. It was the celebration of a successful hunt!

Sunday visitors at the home of Paula and John Praska were Ruth Wilkens, Della Rawartz, Sharrie and Donnie Wilkens, and Sheila and Greg Hall and Jakob of Thief River Falls.

Dalla Janson of Erskine visited Sunday afternoon with Edna Hyde, and later supper guests were Herb and Esther Welter and Roger Hyde.

Peggy Hesse spent Sunday and Monday with her mother, Esther Oehl of Middle River.

Howard and Margaret Greenwald treated Lorena Westerlund to a long drive on Sunday and eating dinner at Wingor. They then went around the Union and Sarah lakes area and also saw a lot of places where Howard had worked. Everyone appreciates these sunny days that are extending way out in November.

Effie and Burnel Byer visited on Sunday afternoon with Fritz and Crystal Martell, Rodney and Jody Dudan in their new home.

Olga Konickson and Helen Sampley of Thief River Falls were Friday visitors of Art and Avis Froiland.

Farm, 273 cows, 81 percent in milk, producing an average of 61 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.8 pounds of protein; 8. Wayne Vettleson 3X, 160 cows, 86 percent in milk, producing an average of 58 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.8 pounds of protein; 9. Northwest Ag Experiment Station (large), 43 cows, 74 percent in milk, producing an average of 55 pounds of milk, 1.9 pounds of fat and 1.8 pounds of protein; 10. Excel Dairy, 1,088 cows, 87 percent in milk, 54 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.7 pounds of protein; 11. Beyer Brothers Farm, 72 cows, 88 percent in milk, producing an average of 54 pounds of milk, 2.0 pounds of fat and 1.6 pounds of protein; 12. Herb Torstveit, 25 cows, 88 percent in milk, producing an average of 50 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat and 1.5 pounds of protein; 15. E. Duane and Faith Knott, 89 cows, 84 percent in milk, producing an average of 49 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat and 1.5 pounds of protein.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low, even though the cow that is milking, produces a lot of milk.

Rural church adds technological advances

Church leaders at Trinity Lutheran Church in Crookston want to make church a little more interesting. To break the "church as usual" perception, they are planning to reach out to families in the community who currently don't have a church home through a new program called Full Blast. The program is funded in part by a $19,000 grant from Aid Association for Lutherans.

The Full Blast program includes the installation of a new sound and video production and cable/radio broadcast abilities in the church for contemporary worship services. Praise and worship teams of instrumentalists and vocalists would be trained and equipped to produce songs and services to help current members and visitors explore new ways to praise God.

"There are numerous success stories of churches in major metropolitan areas reaching out with the Gospel to young adults," said Rev. Charles Lane in his grant request. "Together, we are convinced this grant provides a great opportunity that will benefit the unchurched young adults of Crookston, and also small towns across our synod and our country that have too many young adults who live their lives with no connection to the body of Christ."

Funds were provided to the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America's Northwest Minnesota Synod in Moorhead, through AAL's Opening program. The program is designed to help congregations encourage unchurched people to attend worship. Projects are intended to provide openings for those without a church home.

The Openings programs provides funding opportunities for motivated congregations that have potential for significant growth and are in the position to realize that potential. "We look for innovative, creative risk-taking programs that will increase church attendance," said Jim Yagow, director of AAL Church Relations.

Debunking rumors

7 Clans Casino not bankrupt

by Dovid Hill
Editor

Occasionally, we at The Times are asked to debunk rumors. Usually by the time we're asked to address the rumors, the rumor has already taken on a life of its own. Such has been the case recently.

Have you heard. . .

The 7 Clans Casino has declared bankruptcy?

This rumor has been circulating throughout the community and region for some time. According to Jeff Jasperson, hotel executive at the 7 Clans Casino Resort in Thief River Falls, the rumor has become so persistent that the casino has begun to receive inquiries from customers and area businesses. Representatives of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa, which owns the casino near Thief River Falls, have been so concerned about the rumor that they even sat down last week to discuss how to deal with this rumor, which Jasperson said, is completely false.

Even before visiting with Jasperson, The Times began investigating the rumor.

Whether or not the 7 Clans Casino, its hotel or casino, under its present name or past names, has declared bankruptcy, is not something that is recorded in local courts. The Pennington County Court administrator's office directed The Times to the federal court in this area that deals with bankruptcies, which happens to be located in Fergus Falls. According to their records, 7 Clans has not filed for bankruptcy or protections from creditors.

The Times also visited with some local financial experts regarding the rumor, and they said that while they had also heard the rumor, they had doubted its veracity (truth) from the beginning. These experts, who wished to remain anonymous, indicated that profits from the casino have continued to grow, and are growing enough to cover other expenses.

In fact, the casino is in the midst of another expansion on its gaming floor; and, not only are they expanding the gaming floor, but they are adding a 50's style malt shop.

As with many rumors, a kernel of truth may exist within. Casino officials believe that earlier

Other Rumors:

• Following the Sept. 11 attack on the United States, a widely circulated E-mail claiming that an "Arab male warned his wife not to fly on Sept. 11, and not to go to any shopping mall on October 31, 2001," was discredited by the FBI. The FBI sent out a terse one-sentence response on October 15 that stated: "The FBI has conducted an inquiry into the source of this e-mail and determined that the alleged threat is not credible."

• Following the Sept. 11 terrorist attack on the United States, a rumor claimed that a 1654 Nostradamus prediction said World War III would begin with the fall of "two brothers," a reference to the destroyed World Trade Center towers. The rumor was discredited when it was discovered that Nostradamus did not write the quatrain being attributed to him. Nostradamus died in 1566.

City Council goes with new safety provider

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

Northwest Service Center and MacNeil Environmental, Inc have been chosen to administer the City's Employee Safety Program for 2002.

Currently Minnesota Municipal Utilities Association has been managing the safety program. A proposal by NWSC and MEI shows their cost to be significantly less than MMUA's quote. For 2002 MMUA would charge the City $14,447.34, compared to NWSC and MEI's quote of $6,355. NWSC will serve as a mediator between the City and MEI. An $2000 dollar installation fee will be paid to MEI over a period of three years.

Irv Schmitke, Chairperson of the Safety Committee, appeared before the Council regarding the matter. The Safety Committee was in favor of keeping MMUA as overseer of the City's safety program. The committee regards the work done by MMUA as high quality, and wants to ensure this type of training continues.

The contract proposed by MEI and NWSC extends over three years. If services are unsatisfactory after a review, they may be terminated. The remaining portion of the $2000 installation fee will be required to be paid in full if this happens. The contract with MEI and NWSC includes full day monthly visits to the City. MMUA has been visiting the City twice a month.

Stop signs have been installed in two new areas for safety reasons. A four-way stop has been put at Second Street and Knight Avenue. Two stop signs have also been installed on the Highway 59 frontage road in front of Kmart. The signs replaced the yield signs used for north and south bound traffic.

The Grand Sounds of Holiday Cheer

Barbara Hauger of Thief River Falls will be among the organ performers participating in the organ recital at United Methodist Church 7:30 p.m. on Friday, December 7. The new Allen Renaissance 360 is the largest of its type in Pennington County. The public is invited to attend this event, which is sponsored by the American Guild of Organists.

United Methodist Church in TRF hosts organ recital on Friday, December 7

by Dovid Hill
Editor

Barbara Hauger of Thief River Falls really hopes there will be a lot of people at the organ recital at United Methodist Church in Thief River Falls on Friday.

Hauger, a retired educator who spent nearly 30 years at Northland Community College, is one of those individuals who conform to the belief that musicians never retire, they just stop when there's no more music in them (Louis Armstrong). Hauger has been an organist at the church for the last 10 years, but has made a lifetime of learning out of playing the organ. She confides that she's really an amateur who has had one serious year of training at Concordia College, but it's something she really enjoys.

This year has been something of an exciting challenge. She explained that the church purchased a new Renaissance organ by Allen. It was dedicated last August, but the interest in performing on the organ hasn't abated. The Renaissance 360 is a three-manual, 56-rank organ, making it one of the largest organs currently owned in Pennington County. The organ features a seven-channel audio system, plus full antiphonal division in addition to the main division. While 56 stops is standard, this organ adds 17 solo voices to the mix, plus the 100 other additional voices available through use of the MIDI technology.

To music lovers, particularly those who love the sounds of notes from the fingertips of performers, running across ivory-coated keys; and the resonance of deep notes that strike a chord within us as quickly as feet deftly strike the pedals, Friday evening will be an outstanding opportunity.

Friday, Hauger will be one of the performers participating in an organ recital at the church. The event is sponsored by the American Guild of Organists. During the evening, many Thief River Falls and area musicians and vocalists will be featured. Scheduled to appear are Reid Emiland, Ruth Stenson, The Sunrise Singers of Franklin Middle School, Darlyne Voruva and George French, Linda Samuelson and Vanessa Anderson, Jillian Larson, Andrea Stenson and Kari Johnson, Tom Hanson and more. In addition to enjoying these local talents, the audience will have the opportunity to sing many Christmas carols.

Miguel De Cervantes said, "Where there's music, there can be no evil." The holidays have often been a time to enjoy music, but this year, our need for music may not be surpassed.

School orchestras perform concert on Monday

The Franklin Middle School and Lincoln High School Orchestras will present their first concert of the year Monday, December 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln High School Auditorium. The concert is free and the public is invited to attend.

The Franklin Middle School sixth grade orchestra will open the concert by playing two holiday medleys. "Holiday Special" is a medley of three seasonal songs — "Chanukah, O Chanukah," "Jolly Old St. Nicholas," and "Jingle Bells." They will close with a popular fiddle song "Frog in a Tree."

— The Franklin Middle School Seventh Grade Orchestra will open their part of the concert with "Cindy," an American folk song. They will feature their viola section with "Santa Plays the Viola," a medley of Christmas songs where the violas get to play the melody. The Franklin Middle School Eighth Grade Orchestra will play "Excerpts from Beatus Vir," which was originally a choral piece by Antonio Vivaldi. They will feature electric bass and guitar on "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," as well as a drum set. The Franklin Middle School Seventh and Eighth Grade Orchestra will combine and play "Oxford Overture" by Elliot Del Borgo, and an arrangement of "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by the same composer. They will finish with "Russian Dance," an arrangement of Peter I. Tchaikowsky's famous "Trepak" from the "Nutcracker Ballet."

The Lincoln High School Ninth and Tenth Grade Orchestra will open the last half of the concert by playing "Mantras," a modern piece by Richard Meyer. This piece is constructed by the layering of small musical fragments, giving the piece a mysterious and hypnotic effect. The Lincoln High School 11th and 12th Grade Orchestra will play the "Capriol Suite," a collection of Renaissance dances in a modern arrangement by Peter Warlock.

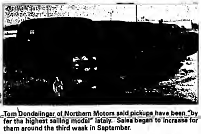
Special financing helps local auto dealers make sales



Tom Dondelinger of Northern Motors said pickups have been "by far the highest selling model" lately. Sales began to increase for them around the third week in September.

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

The recent trend in sales among new automobile dealers in Thief River Falls has been attributed to the zero percent financing offered by manufacturers.

Right now deals like this can be found at almost any new automobile dealer outside of Thief River Falls. However, something keeps car seekers shopping locally. Westside Motors, Northern Motors, and Tunberg Motor Company offer trust, service and loyalty to customers. The past few months have brought a high rate of sales to the dealerships.

Westside's story

"We had a very strong month in October because of the programs," said Roger Shaffer of Westside Motors. "November is going to rest pretty much head to head with last year."

He said Westside's four best months are usually September, October, April and May. Things begin to slow down in November, and believe it or not, the reason is hunting. With 25 years of experience in auto sales backing him, Shaffer said the hunting season seems to affect their sales, as does the holiday season that comes in December. "People generally don't give new cars for Christmas presents."

Shaffer said, "the car market went into a slump before Sept. 11, but it put the finishing touches to it."

"It shut us down in sales." Because this is a smaller area, Shaffer said they "bounced back quicker" than a metro dealer.

Shaffer said a big advantage of buying a car locally is knowing the people who work at the dealership.

A larger dealership won't necessarily offer the best deal he said. They buy vehicles for the same prices as smaller dealerships.

Currently, Westside Motors is still offering zero percent financing on new cars. They also have a seven year, 100,000 mile warranty through December. Rebates are also being offered. Westside is a Chrysler Plymouth, Dodge and Jeep dealer.

Northern lights up the lot

Tom Dondelinger of Northern Motors said they had "a real solid September, a fantastic October and a great November" regarding sales. In fact a sales record was set by Northern salesperson Merlin Stone for selling 34 units in October.

Sales "dramatically increased" for Northern Motors around the third week in September. "Before this, the sales were average to a shade below average," said Dondelinger.

Vehicles were literally being sold faster than they could be replaced. It generally takes around five to six weeks for a vehicle to be

Did You Receive Your Advance Refund? Millions in Tax Checks Returned to the IRS

This past summer, the IRS issued most taxpayers an advance refund check as part of President Bush's plan to reduce taxes and stimulate the economy. Unfortunately, several thousand checks, representing millions of dollars, were returned to the IRS.

According to the IRS, more that 390,000 taxpayers did not receive the advance refund check because it was returned to the service as undeliverable. In most cases the checks were returned because the taxpayer moved and did not inform the IRS, or the taxpayer was married or divorced during the year. In either case, the taxpayer only has until December 5, 2001, to supply the IRS with a correct address. Taxpayers can inform the IRS of an address change by filing Form 8822, Change of Address.

"All we need is a good address," states IRS Commissioner, Charles Rossotti. "As soon as we get the correct address, we'll start the check on its way. We need that information before December 5 so we have time to process the checks."

Taxpayers who think they may be missing a check should first check their records [illegible] their tax preparer, then call the IRS toll-free number 800-829-1040, and request assistance. The added urgency for the advance refund checks is because the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Act of 2001, which authorized the payments, states the checks cannot be issued after December 31, 2001. There will not be enough time to process claims made after December 5. This doesn't mean that those taxpayers who don't receive a check are completely out of luck. Taxpayers eligible for an advance refund check who do not receive one before the end of the year can claim it as a credit on their 2001 income tax return when they file beginning in January.

If you are unsure of whether you are due an advance refund check, you can seek the advice of a qualified tax professional. You can locate a professional tax practitioner in your area to assist you by accessing the National Association of Tax Professionals (NATP) member listing on the World Wide Web at www.taxprofessionals.com, or by calling NATP at (800) 558-3402, Ext. 3.

Marshall County informational meeting on feedlot registration

The Marshall County Water Plan Office and the University of Minnesota Extension Service, Marshall County, are planning an informational meeting regarding feedlot registration on Thursday, December 13 at 7 p.m. at the Spruce Valley Community Center in Middle River.

The meeting is intended to help producers determine whether their facility falls into the guidelines of a feedlot. In October 2000 revised feedlot rules took effect that require owners of feedlots and manure storage areas to register their feedlots with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. All feedlots must be registered by January 1, 2002.

Since Marshall County is undelegated, registration will be made to the MPCA. Feedlot pamphlets and registration forms will be available at the meeting. Assistance will be provided for those requesting help completing their forms. For more information, please call Jan Kaspari at the Water Plan Office at 218-745-4217, or Bill Craig at the Extension Office at 218-745-5232.

John Lawrence Lubitz, Thief River Falls, driving a 1981 Lincoln Town Car, was eastbound on Third Street. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Small town wings take Klein kids to big places

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

So, what does it feel like to sit in a theater at the premiere of a major motion picture and see your son's name listed among the credits? Dixie Klein found out, and although nearly two months have passed, she has not forgotten the experience that she describes as one of the most extraordinary of her lifetime.

On October 20, Klein attended the premiere of the blockbuster movie, Monsters, Inc., in San Francisco, the guest of her son Kris, the film's technical director.

Editor Dave Hill used the contents of a letter from Dixie as fodder for a November 14 editorial, "Grateful Parents Thank the Community." In her letter, Dixie thanked the many people who had touched the lives of her children, writing, "I believe it is because of the roots we gave them together.. that they have the wings to fly. . ."

Information accompanying her letter that detailed her recent experience and the careers of her three children, Kris, Susan, and Brock, inspired this reporter to tell the rest of the story — just how far the Klein kids have flown, so far that is.

All three of the Klein children were born in the Midwest: Kris in Fargo, Susan in Linton, N.D. and Brock in Mobridge, S.D. While with a population of 20,000, Great Bend, Kansas was the largest community the family lived in during the years the Klein kids were attending school, the trio attended St. Rose Catholic School in classrooms that included between nine and 13 students. From there, they ventured to Linton, N.D where class sizes ranged between 24 and 40 students.

Kris Klein

After graduating from Linton in 1989, Kris attended the University of North Dakota, graduating in 1994 with a degree in business education. From Grand Forks, he went to Orlando, Fla. where he graduated from Full Sail as an animation artist in 1995. From there he was off to Stuttgart, Germany where he was employed as an animation artist.

He began working as an animator for Media Publishing in Staggart in 1996, and in 1997, Kris' career brought him to Thief River Falls with director Suzanne Franzel. Footage was shot for "Flight of the Stone," a 15-minute short film. A story about Franzel and her visit to Thief River Falls appeared in The Times. Before the film was completed, Franzel had enlisted the help of more than 500 people as five hours of footage was shot in Germany, France, the United States, Japan, Thailand, India and Greece. All told, the filming process took six months before it was edited down to 15 minutes, the maximum length of a short film produced with German film funding.

The creative computer process is where Kris came in as he and another animator modeled and animated the stone, inserting it into digitized film scenes before the combined footage was transferred back to film.

Reward for the finished product, which featured several "actors" from Thief River Falls, came in 1999 when it received the German Short Film Award in Gold 1999, the highest award presented for German short films. The film has also been shown at a number of film festivals, including the Sundance Film Festival in February of 2000.

Prior to his employment with Pixar of California as a technical director for the Disney-Pixar movie, Monsters, Inc., Kris was employed as an animation artist with Interplay of Irvine, Calif., maker of the video game, "Of Light and Darkness," and Cowen-Brown Management in Los Angeles.

Since its release on November 2, Monsters, Inc. has met with huge success and remains at the top of the current Box Office list. The animated comedy-adventure tells the story of a big, furry, spotted, horned James P. Sullivan and his best friend and roommate, a feisty, little one-eyed green monster, who, after making a mistake, are forced to live in the human world. John Goodman provides the starring voice for James P. Sullivan, and Billy Crystal is the voice behind the one-eyed green monster. Directors include Lee Unkrich, David Silverman and Pete Doctor, nominated for an Oscar for his work in the original Toy Story.

Susan Klein-Holmen

Susan Klein graduated with about 50 classmates from Langdon (N.D.) High School before attending the University of North Dakota. After graduating from UND in 1998 with majors in Norwegian language and psychology and a minor in women's studies, Susan began graduate school at the University of Oregon where she continues to major in architecture. Currently, she is residing in Oslo, Norway where she is spending a semester focusing on Scandinavian architecture. While living in Eugene, Ore., Susan worked for Looking Glass, supervising the employment of homeless area teenagers.

In August of 2000, Susan married Carl Holmen in an international wedding at Norsk Hus Inn in Thief River Falls. Carl is a native of Ski, Norway and a 1998 graduate of UND. In May, he received his master's degree in political science from the University of Oregon. Carl is employed with the Parent Management Training Program in Eugene, which applies the psychology of the book, Parents Living with Their Teens, by Jerry Patterson in helping parents learn child management skills. While residing with Susan in Norway, Carl continues his work at the University of Oslo, translating Norwegian to English.

Brock Klein

Brock, the youngest of the Klein trio, attended small schools in Linton and Langdon in North Dakota before moving to Thief River Falls where he graduated from Lincoln High School in 1996.

He resides in the Twin Cities where he attended Music Tech, has played with numerous Minneapolis bands as a percussionist, guitarist and vocalist and released his first CD in 2000, "How Does It Feel to Be Real," produced by Rakeop Entertainment of Minneapolis.

Currently, Brock is modeling for Aveda and Claypac. A recent photo shoot took him to Houston, Texas, and Claypac will feature a photo of Brock and another model in an ad in upcoming fashion magazines.

A Premiere Experience

Prior to attending the premiere of Monsters, Inc. and its ensuing wrap party, Dixie Klein says she had never attended an event of such grandeur. Due to the events of September 11, security was tight at both events, she says, and provided a unique experience as well. Every person was required to walk through security gates and empty the contents of pockets and purses.

After meeting at the San Francisco City Hall where the wrap party was held, premier-goers were taken to the historic Castro Theater on a charter bus. Dixie describes the theater, with its hand-painted walls and ceilings, chandeliers and gold leaf décor, like something out of the 1930's. For an hour prior to the beginning of the movie, music was played on the pipe organ that seemed to rise up out of the floor at the front of the theater.

Dixie describes dress for the affair as "creative black tie" and notes that some were more creative than others. All of the men were attired in tuxedos, she says, and nearly all of the women wore evening gowns. Even Dracula, she says, was there and "cleaned up well."

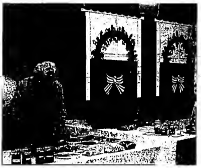
The wrap party at San Francisco City Hall, Dixie says, was magnificent, and she describes the setting, which included massive marble floors, grand stairways, pillars and elegant archways, to that of the ballroom in the opera, "Cinderella." Among the thousands attending the affair were notables and the not-so-notable parents, wives and significant others. Dixie describes three grandiose rooms on the main floor of the building that housed an abundance of food, drink and entertainment. Coffee, she says, was her choice of beverage as she enjoyed samplings from the sushi and potato bars and the wide array of sweets.

All and all, Dixie was left with memories the self-proclaimed "prairie woman" will never forget.

And what does it feel like to sit in a theater at the premiere of a major motion picture and see your son's name appear among the credits? "It's a super nova experience!" Dixie says.

St. John Lutheran Church in TRF:
Olde World Christmas Fair

Meri Jo Kirchner provided the ideas for the decorations at the Olde World Christmas Fair at St. John Lutheran Church. Painted store fronts added to the ambience as shoppers strolled down Christmas Lane, taking in the offerings of Ye Olde Book and Stationery, Ruby's Sweet Shoppe, Christmas Emporium, Merry Mercantile, Culinary Collection and the Vine & Branch. The Christmas Tree Cafe was also a new feature at this year's event held Saturday.



▲ Baked goods were set out Friday in Ruby's Sweet Shoppe at St. John Lutheran Church in preparation of this year's Olde World Christmas Fair held Saturday. New this year were the bright, hand-painted "store fronts" that decorated Christmas Lane.

Bicycles From Jesus Give Away kicks off

New Life Family Worship Center is at it again. For the third straight year the church is giving away bicycles to kids who otherwise might not ever own one.

The program is called The Bicycles From Jesus Give Away. Since it began, Pastor George Bunnell said the church has given away over 100 bikes.

"We wanted to do something for the community," said Bunnell. "Christmas is really all about giving, and we want to portray that."

One year, a 12-year-old boy was on the list to receive a new bike. Holding true to the spirit of Christmas, he told Bunnell that his old bike was good enough, and they should give the new one to someone else.

This year's campaign is just getting under way. Bunnell is still collecting names of children who would like to receive a bike. So far he has about 10 names. Bunnell may by chance hear of a child who needs a bike, or parents will call him and ask if he can find a bike for their children. He says the program only works if people call him with names of children, and donations for bicycles are made.

Contributions are accepted at any time. Bunnell's former neighbor donated a bicycle last year. Before moving away earlier this year, she presented Bunnell with a check. She wanted to be able to give a bike to a child this holiday season also.

The bikes will be given away on December 16. Bunnell would like to have names of children who need bikes submitted by December 14. Things seem to pick-up as the deadline nears. Bunnell said this is when his phone begins to get a workout.

A majority of the bikes are purchased by Super 8 Motel. Bunnell said they have been involved since the program began.

Kallamey Printing, located in Winnipeg, contributed funds to the program last year, and have said they will do the same this year. Northern Motors and Tunberg Motor Company have also made sure childrens' dreams of new bicycles were filled.

The bikes will be given away at a church program on December 16. The Heart of Christmas program will feature christian artist Kathy Banta. Her vocal stylings include a blend of traditional and contemporary music. The program will also feature drama presentations from members of New Life Family Worship Center. The Concert begins at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, December 16. The church is located at 246 Kendall Avenue North, Thief River Falls. All are welcome to attend the special Christmas event.

Anyone wishing to donate money towards a bicycle can contact Bunnell at 218-681-4716.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...CHRISTMAS is Coming

December has managed to sneak up on us again. Everywhere one looks, people are scurrying about shopping, gleeful grins on their faces and bags filled with goodies in their arms, happily in pursuit of the Perfect Present.

But all of this December holiday shopping makes it really difficult for one to do a little non-holiday shopping. Like the other day when I had to rush downtown to get a whatchamacallit. I really needed one badly. I had to have it and I had to have it right now.

Normally I would have just hopped in my car and gone downtown to the store where they sell whatchamacallits, parked outside, hurried into the store, and found the whatchamacallit with a minimum of fuss. I would have taken it to the check-out counter, paid for it, left the store and hopped back into my car and gone home with my whatchamacallit.

But we can't do that in December!

First of all, in December there are no parking spaces. A person must park far, far away from the store where they sell whatchamacallits and walk through heaven knows what kind of weather to get there. In December, temperatures are often in the minus double-digits, wind blowing so strong that bullet-like projectiles of snow or icy sleet blow sideways, directly into one's ears or under one's glasses.

From the full parking lots, we come to realize that stores are filled with people shopping for CHRISTMAS presents. They are on a quest, have no time to fool around, can't stop to talk, are set in the "shop 'til they drop" mode, so get out of their way.

Once you manage to shove your way into the store through the hordes of people, you see that Christmas elves have been at work in the store. Nothing is where it usually is. Everything has been shifted and moved around to make room for CHRISTMAS things. How will you ever be able to find the whatchamacallit aisle?

Ask a clerk - good idea - where are they? Gussied out in their red and green CHRISTMAS togs and Santa hats, they are scurrying about the store like mice. None of them has time to spare. They are busy waiting on little old ladies and mothers with many children, checking out and bagging gifts, giving out change, smiling, smiling, smiling. Now that you notice, they move as if automated, smiles frozen in place. You can see there will be no help from them. You must find the whatchamacallit by yourself.

You start down an aisle, but come to a screeching halt. You suddenly notice that you are the only person in the store without a shopping cart. You hardly need a cart for one whatchamacallit, but everyone has a cart. On all sides are the squeaky-wheeled devices, pushed with wild abandon by, of course, little old ladies and mothers with many children, who ram them violently into one another's legs, into shelves of merchandise, and into you.

The only thing to do is to arm yourself with a cart for protection. At least it will keep the front of you from harm. But all of the carts are being used. The only thing to do is jump right in a grab one that has been left unattended.

But be careful when you grab your cart. Make sure you are not running off with a cart in which there is a little old lady's purse or a baby. Little old ladies are very possessive of their purses, as are mothers with their babies. Both groups of people can retaliate with a vengeance if their possessions are threatened.

Now, time to jump into the fray and get that whatchamacallit. Get ready...get set...go!

You see a whatchamacallit! There it is! Down the aisle you go, heading for the whatchamacallit. You reach it...you stretch out your trembling hand and move to grab it. Suddenly...

It is gone!

In the corner of your eye you see the back of a little old lady, legs pumping, pushing her cart for all she is worth away from you. The last widget on the shelf is tucked securely into the corner of her careening cart right next to her purse.

As she drives wildly down the aisle and out of sight, you hear a faint sound wafting back to you from where she disappeared...."Merry CHRISTMAS to all...and to all a Good Night...and I'm finally done with my shopping!"

School News & Views

Irv Peterson, Superintendent
School District 564

Accountability is a word that has been used a lot in the past couple of years regarding education. People, particularly state legislators, the Governor's office and Congressmen and Senators in Washington, talk about making schools more accountable. They talk specifically about making school leaders, teachers and students more accountable. When you look at test scores, dropout rates or other statistics nationwide, we may have a long way to go. The United States is not first in the world in test scores. However, we often do not see dropout rates from other countries. We also do not see other negative effects from the education system in other countries.

We sometimes hear that test scores, 30, or 40, or 50 years ago were higher than they are today. We sometimes hear that tests were more rigorous and, if a student did not pass a certain test, he was not allowed to go on to high school. Sometime I will share test scores and statistics nationwide and statewide. We forget that dropout rates were much higher years ago. We forget that only a small percentage of high school juniors and seniors took college entrance tests compared to many more students today. We don't always realize the many new demands that are put on teachers and students today. Accountability can be demonstrated in various ways. I think the competition of school choice through post-secondary enrollment options, school choice within the public sector, the increase in private schools and home school options has made accountability a "front burner" issue in education.

In the United States, public education is responsible for the education of all students. That is not the case in all countries. School choice is not an option in all countries. In the United States, all students have choices. In the United States, it doesn't matter if a student has issues or handicaps or other problems that would keep him out of the educational system in other countries. Here, a student is educated, offered help, given second and third chances, and given instruction and opportunities regardless of his background.

In the United States, we seek to educate the gifted, the average, and the struggling, all at the same time and in the same classroom. We still have classes or sections that give the gifted students opportunities in their field of expertise. We have classes that give the struggling student special help.

We have specific classes for students who have specific interests in vocational, technical, and technological areas. We have work experience, advance placement college classes and a variety of such that most students can find specific areas of interest. For those students who can't, we have the post-secondary option, the alternative learning center, and private schools. It seems to me we are quite accountable to the student population. In Minnesota, public school test scores are always in the top three in the nation. Usually we are first or second. These are for elementary, junior high, high school and college entrance test scores.

Right now in Thief River Falls, we are examining our entire assessment program. Much in that program is dictated by others, like the state assessments in third, fifth, eight and tenth grades, also college entrance tests. However, we have some choices for other testing in the district and that is what we are examining. The federal government is considering what testing they may mandate in the future. The state government is planning for additional mandated testing. We must consider how those mandates will affect us also. Regardless of mandates, we are accountable for student learning throughout our curriculum and throughout all grade levels. We must ensure that our assessment program provides that information. Assessment tools must be able to give us information that we can use in making decisions regarding curriculum improvements and enhancements. These tools must be able to give us information regarding individual learning results as well as institutional learning results.

Accountability is something we take very seriously. It is also something of which we are very proud. We have, in addition to a district-wide assessment team, a variety of other curriculum committees meeting and working throughout the year. These committees all report to the district-wide Systems Accountability Committee (SAR), which also reports to the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning (CFL) annually. The local SAR committee has several community people on it from outside of the school and they meet monthly. This may seem rather complicated, cumbersome and time consuming, however, it is a process that looks closely at our system and helps us to guarantee quality and accountability.

Currently our school board is planning for a retreat where we can spend a full day to examine our system, plan for our future and set direction for initiatives to help ensure that quality is involved in every aspect of our school district. This will permeate all grade levels and classrooms in our schools. Learning is a lifelong process. Improvement is something we strive for every day. We will keep you informed and updated with our progress. Thank you for your involvement through committee membership, through our volunteer program, and involvement through helping your son or daughter, grandchild, niece or nephew, and neighbors with the learning process.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Andrea Hagen, Lincoln High School

Recently, I have learned one of life's many valuable lessons. One of my dearest friends, Adam, died just a few weeks ago, and my life has not been the same since. I have never gone through the experience of losing a friend before, and it has proved to be one of the most difficult things I have ever had to deal with. He was an amazing person and the world should mourn for the loss of such a great mind. I know of very few people who were able to astonish me the way he did. His soul was clean. He always had a way of making things seem peaceful. The guy could take a single thought, examine it closely, and show me a completely new way of looking at it.

I was scared to go back to school the Monday after it happened. I couldn't tolerate all the people who pretended to be concerned. Everyone agreed it was sad, but didn't really take it in. The announcements came on as they do every day. I kept waiting for words of comfort to be projected. What could be more important to talk about than this? I was disgusted when nothing was said officially. He was so young, just out of high school. I lost respect for school officials that day. I am sure they had their reasons for not saying anything. What really was there to say? I do think there are situations where nothing needs to be said, but this was not one of them.

The only comfort I received from his funeral was seeing all the young adults. I was not surprised at all. It was just nice to see all the people who had been touched by him throughout his life. The church was filled with people who had many memories of him. It was wonderful seeing so many people who truly cared about him. I am sure he loved that.

My mind has been racing ever since I found out about the tragedy. It has made me look at the important things in life. I have been gettting my priorities in order. I learned to appreciate more the ones I love. Sometimes, it isn't enough to simply say you love someone. You have to prove it to them everyday because you never know what will happen tomorrow.

I do not know what words I can use to better explain the kind of man he was or how his death made me feel, but I do know that I am a better person for knowing him.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Vegetable Christmas Tree

Christmas is a time of extreme emotions for children. The waiting and waiting seems to build so high that Christmas and the time afterward are times of extreme highs and lows. The child needs to have a little low level activity without a lot of stress.

A vegetable Christmas tree may be just the answer. It will provide quality time with an important adult in the child's life and a no-sugar snack at the same time. You will need:

- a cone-shaped form toothpicks
- a variety of each vegetable such as broccoli, cauliflower, celery, carrots and cherry tomatoes.

Cut each vegetable into bite-size pieces, punch a toothpick into it and stick it into the cone. Children can help with this.

Eat this healthy snack with any favorite vegetable dip.

PARENTING TIPS

Giving Gifts

Many of you are struggling with the problems of a materialistic society at a time when gift-giving is not only appropriate but expected! We expect to give things to our children. We give food, shelter, clothing and love all year as best we can. We also expect to give to them at Christmas. But what does all this giving teach children? If children are always on the receiving end, will they think that only big people give and only little people receive?

All children start out as selfish, self-centered individuals; as they grow so does their ability to give and share. The holiday season is an ideal time to reinforce a child's developing spirit of generosity.

Young children don't yet have a real understanding of giving, but are aware of the good feelings associated with it. So even though you'll have to pick out the gifts they give, you can involve a toddler in the act of giving the gift. By giving gifts with you, your child will share your good feelings and will also begin to learn the joys that are associated with giving.

Even though each child's generosity develops at a different pace, you should try to keep him or her involved in the entire process of giving as much as possible. The ability to give as well as receive is a life-long process which begins at birth.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When your child gives you something such as a hug or a "drawing" be sure to show and express your appreciation.

NCTC Foundation begins fund drive

by Jared R. Goldesberry
Executive Director

The NCTC Foundation marks its 25th anniversary of service to Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) this year. In the upcoming months, a complimentary Foundation publication entitled, "Real College, Real People, Real Futures," will be reaching the homes and offices of over 8000 alumni and friends. Our theme, "Strengthen our Future," reflects the enthusiasm felt by everyone involved in the Foundation in successfully reaching a milestone.

During its 25-year history, the Foundation has advanced in many ways. It has grown to an established entity with assets of $1.2 million. Last year the Foundation awarded over $65,000 in scholarships.

The Foundation realizes that the future of our community lies with the skilled workers, educated young leaders and NCTC graduates. Join the Foundation in supporting tomorrow's workforce. Gifts to the Foundation are the backbone of support for NCTC. These dollars do not replace other revenue streams, but serve to "Strengthen our Future."

Please request a copy of this publication or to have one sent to a friend. Your gift will be a catalyst for quality, for opportunity. It will make a difference!

Finally, I extend gratitude to the dozens of Foundation Board members and staff members whose years of dedicated service have made this anniversary and Annual Drive possible. These relationships are helping to make a great college even greater.

Look for your publication coming to you soon!

Mn/DOT issues caution against illegal dumping of snow

Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is cautioning the public, and especially commercial snow removal operators, that it is illegal to place or dump excess snow on highway right of way. Highway right of way includes the driving surface, shoulders, ditch and clear zone on the outside edge of the ditch backslope.

Minnesota Statute 160.27 prohibits the plowing, blowing, shoveling or otherwise placing of snow on sidewalks, driveways and parking lots onto public roadways. Violation of this statute is considered a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of $700 and/or 90 days in jail.

A Notice of Violation can be issued by Mn/DOT with a specific time frame to correct the infraction. Failure to do so, will result with Mn/DOT doing the clean up and billing the responsible party for the work.

Dumping or piling of excess snow on highway right of way can cause frozen and slippery bumps on the roadway and can also cause sight obstructions. Other problems which can be created include damage to trees, vegetation, signs, fences and ditch drainage. When clearing snow, special attention should be made to keep sidewalks, crosswalks, intersections, driveway openings, and other access areas clear and unobstructed.

Reflections

by Brittany Larson

This is one of a series of articles that will focus on local senior citizen's memories. "Reflections" is a project by Brittany Larson for the Governor's Scholars program. This program is sponsored by the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation (MAEF) and challenges young people to implement positive change in their communities.

Chances are, if you live in Thief River Falls, you either know Bob Reeve, recognize Bob Reeve, or have heard his name mentioned in one way or another. An undisputed community leader, Reeve is perhaps best known for his contribution as mayor of Thief River Falls, an office he held from 1992-1998. But even before Reeve became mayor, he understood the value of service. Throughout his lifetime, Reeve has dedicated himself to serving our community, our state, and even our nation.

"Growing up, service was the thing to do in our family," said Reeve, who was born in Bemidji in 1925. Although Cub Scouting didn't exist at that time, Reeve was able to join the Boy Scouts when he turned 12. Scouting had a significant impact on Reeve, who said that his Scoutmaster was one of his greatest role models. But his carefree Scouting days would soon be left behind. For after graduating from high school, Reeve was drafted.

"In those days the draft was very evident," said Reeve. "You didn't have much choice-it was expected at that time. If you were eligible, age-wise and physically, that was it." After extensive training, Reeve, an only child, set off for England-the very country his mother had emigrated from following WWI.

As a member of the Combat Air Crew, Reeve was a gunner on a B17. This meant he had to fly over Germany (enemy territory) and risk being shot at while the crew bombed targets. Of course, the Germans also made use of the bombs, such as the V1's and the V2's. "The V1's had a ramjet engine. They flew over to England and exploded. They weren't very accurate, but boy, they were sure scary." As for the V2's, they were "like rockets," said Reeve. "They went way up and came down. You didn't know where the heck they were - we couldn't even hear them until they exploded. Those were the scariest."

Reeve said that although he was scared at times, he understood that everybody on the crew depended on each other, so it was important not to let each other down. While he "didn't enjoy getting shot at," Reeve knew he had to do his job. "If you get so scared you can't move that's no good either," he reasoned. "You just have to buckle up and go. You were maybe apprehensive, but then you had faith you were going to get through."

Because of the time Reeve spent in the service, today's war lives for him in a very real way. He particularly empathizes with the soldiers. "Anybody that goes into harms way, I can identify with them. There's no question-it's tough for them, it's tough for their family."

Still, Reeve does find some comfort in the recent rush of patriotism. "To me, patriotism is so important. I've grown up with that. It used to be just about everybody in town flew a flag and every day in school you began with the Pledge of Allegiance. . .patriotism was all part of the life," Reeve said wistfully. State commander of the American Legion from 1985 to 1986, Reeve still feels very proud when he can take part in observances such as Veteran's Day or Memorial Day. "You still get choked up when the flag goes by... you know, when you lose comrades or family members and their caskets are covered with the flag, it takes on a different meaning."

Fittingly, the American Festival was initiated when Reeve was mayor. Reeve cited several major accomplishments during his term as mayor of Thief River Falls. The expansion of the water treatment plant and the reconstruction of the depot into the City Hall were the biggest projects. "They took time," Reeve said. "You didn't just do them overnight." But Reeve was always quick to deflect the credit. "I would certainly emphasize that anything that's accomplished is a joint effort." He spoke of accomplishments such as the Gazebo, the MEC Center, the Riverwalk, and the decision to put the electrical line underground. Yet in the next breath, he reminded, "But don't misunderstand. Not me alone."

When asked about his advice for young people, Reeve first responded with "stick-to-it-ive-ness," then elaborated. "Don't get discouraged. Don't be afraid to try something different and don't be afraid to be a little different from everybody else." He paused, and then qualified by saying, "As long as it's legal and ethical-and all that!"

By the way, Bob Reeve did attend college after the service. He taught in Elbow Lake before going to the University of Minnesota to get his Masters Degree in educational psychology. He worked as a counselor at Lincoln High School before transferring to the Area Vocational Technical Institute, where he was in charge of Student Services. He retired in 1983. In 1947, he married JoAnn, a beautiful woman who had been Miss Bemidji. She stayed beside him for over 50 years, passing away in 1999. Reeve does not hesitate to say that losing her has been the most difficult thing he has faced. He gives thanks for their two children and five grandchildren and wishes they lived closer. Yet Reeve still lives in Thief River Falls and is still as involved as ever. He remains very active with the American Legion, the Lions Club, and his church (United Methodist). He also helps with the Nutritional Council at the Heritage Center. "I believe strongly in service," said Reeve. "And I guess I've always felt that way."

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. A few months before my birthday, Social Security mailed me information about my SSA record. My husband, however, did not receive one on his birthday. Will he be getting one?

A. you are referring to the Social Security statement which includes a copy of your personal SSA work record and various estimates based on your earnings for retirement, survivors and disability benefits for you and your family. The statement is an excellent tool for personal financial planning and checking the accuracy of your record.

With a few exceptions, such as someone who is already receiving Social Security benefits, most employed and self-employed people 25 years of age and older receive the statement about three months prior to their birthdays each year.

It is possible that a statement was sent to your husband using an incorrect address. Another possibility is that an internal SSA system prevented it from being sent. In any case, it is easy to request one.

To receive a statement, contact any SSA office or call the national toll free number at 800-722-1213 to request form SSA-7004. It can also be requested via the agency web site at www.ssa.gov. The "Social Security Statement" link is at the top of the SSA home page. The web site also offers additional information, including answers to frequently asked questions about the SSA statement.

Note that the statement provides information about only your record and does not include information about benefits you may qualify for on someone else's record. It also does not consider any potential offset from government employment not covered under the SSA program.

Q. Will collecting unemployment insurance prevent me from getting Social Security retirement at the same time?

A. Collecting unemployment will not prevent you from collecting Social Security, but in some states, it is possible that collecting Social Security might impact your eligibility for unemployment.

Minnesota Dairy Days will be at 8 locations in January

Practical ideas for success in dairying will be the focus of Minnesota Dairy Days 2002 at eight locations in January. The events will feature plenty of time for interaction, and discussion among producers, according to Marcia Endres, University of Minnesota dairy scientist.

Endres says the events are designed for producers, but are also open to veterinarians, educators, consultants, agribusiness representatives and other interested persons. The program will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at each location, following a half-hour for registration. While the progrom will be similar at each location, there will be a presentation by a local Extension educator on a different dairy management topic at each site.

A dairy research update will lead off the progrom. That will be followed by a session on dairy modernization. Kevin Janni, U of M Extension engineer, will cover facilities and manure handling. Jeff Reneau, U of M Extension dairy scientist, will discuss milking systems. Bill Lazarus, U of M Extension economist, will cover financing modernization.

A time for open questions and discussion will begin the afternoon session. Then Endres will discuss the basics of transition cows. She will be followed by a local Extension educator covering a dairy management topic. An update on the state's Dairy Enhancement and Profitability Program and Business Planning Grants by Bob Lefebvre of the Minnesota Milk Producers Association will close out the program.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

There is something very good about wood heat. I don't care what the thermostat reads, heat from a wood stove feels warmer than does heat from any other source.

When I purchased my house, it took me a week to discover that I had a wood stove in the basement. It was a little J.C. Penney wood burner. It looked too small to heat the whole house, but once I started using it, the furnace rarely ran.

I'll never forget how thrilled I was when my father decided to put a cast iron Ashley stove in the house at the home place. That stove went in during the mid 70's, when the first energy crisis caused many people to go back to the fuel we have right on our farms.

I found the wood stove exciting and romantic. I read many history books as a child. The thought that we would be burning wood just as my historical heroes had done intrigued me.

Until Dad had me help haul wood. What a drag. Up the stairs, down the stairs, out into the cold, then into the heat, alternately sweating and freezing. Once you finished hauling, you had to clean the sawdust, bark, and melting snow off the carpet.

After I left home, and not a minute before, my parents put in a super duper wood stove fireplace. Behind it was an enclosed room called "the wood room." It had a removable window through which wood could be merely tossed in.

So, baby brother had it easy, as all baby brothers do. He just had to stack the wood and sweep the cement floor. No trips in and out of the cold, no steps, no sawdust in the carpet.

Child labor considerations aside, not only does wood heat feel better, but heating with wood has many psychological and aesthetic benefits.

Nothing is more cozy than sitting by the fire. A wood fire, especially if it is visible, warms the soul. An occasional little waft of wood smoke makes the house smell good and spicy.

Then there is the physical work involved, work I used to despise. Now, however, hauling wood gives me needed exercise. If I have the winter blahs, hauling wood gives me a sense of accomplishment, and gets the blood pumping as well.

I leave the cutting and splitting of the wood to Dad. He cuts twice as much wood as he can use, so I sneak off with the rest. I am very sure it would be inhumane of me to deprive Dad of the thrill he gets out of sawing and splitting wood.

I also know that my father enjoys the ritual of tending the stove, especially when it is 30-below zero. As a child, the sound of Dad clanking around with the stove at 4:30 a.m. on a cold winter morning reassured me.

Although I don't get up at 4:30 a.m., tending my home fire makes me feel in control of an important part of my life. In a world where so much is out of our hands, heating one's own home with wood is downright therapeutic.

Columnist publishes second book

Thief River Falls Times columnist Eric Bergeson has published his second book, entitled "Still on the Farm." The book is a collection of the columns he has written for several area newspapers over the past three years.

The 190-page paperback will be available in stores after the first of the year. The first printing is available immediately through the mail.

The book will be officially launched at Bergeson Nursery, three miles east and this Saturday, December 8, with a book-signing party which runs from 10 a.m. to six p.m. Coffee, cider and goodies will be served. The book will be available for purchase, and the author will be on hand to sign copies for those who wish.

Bergeson's first book, "Down on the Farm," published in 1996, sold 3,800 copies in northwestern Minnesota.

To purchase "Still on the Farm," send $12.95 plus .85 tax to Country Scribe Publishing, 4177 County Highway 1, Fertile, MN 56540.

Farm organization congratulates U.S. dairy producers for cow culling efforts

Several weeks into a campaign encouraging dairy farmers to cull cows to shore up national milk prices, a leading farm organization is applauding their efforts.

"National Farmers stepped up its supply management program after USDA announced in September that they had "found" 31.4 million pounds of cheese in storage, which had not been previously reported," said National Farmers vice president, Leonard Vandenburg. "The subsequent price fallout emphasized the need for producers to act on their own behalf to bolster milk prices that had fallen nearly 25 percent, and they have done just that."

The block cheese price fell from $1.72 per pound on September 21, to $1.16 October 24. In response, National Farmers conducted special cull cow sale events in several regions of the country, involving members and non-members alike. A Thanksgiving holiday cull cow sale capped off the two month campaign. Dairy producers across the country responded to NFO's call for herd reduction, and thanks to their efforts, have helped cheese prices rise from $1.16 to $1.33 per pound.

"Dairy economists had projected that milk pay price levels for Class III would drop to $11 and remain there for the first half of 2002, but due in part to our campaign and producer efforts across the country, futures milk prices are already beginning to increase because of the $1.33 price on 40 pound block cheese," Vandenburg commented.

"This shows that dairy farmers are willing to work together to obtain better milk prices. We simply need to have this supply management program continue nationwide to regain and maintain fair milk prices for all dairy farmers," concluded Vandenburg.

In an October letter to Secretary of Agriculture Ann Veneman, National Farmers requested a review of the methodology USDA uses in its cheese inventory reporting procedures. It's the second time in two years that a reporting inaccuracy has occurred, and a broad base of U.S. dairy producers support scrutiny and improvement of the system.

Say happy holidays with the most versatile appetizer

Happy holiday occasions almost always have food associated with them, even if it's a simple nibble with the "nog."

Wouldn't it be great to have one delicious, versatile appetizer in your repertoire that can be quickly prepared with ingredients that are usually on hand? And best of all, one that can have a different flavor every time.

It's possible. It's even easy with fully-cooked beef meatballs from the supermarket freezer case. With just a quick heating before serving, they're moist and flavorful, and so quick. For the Spicy Buffalo-Style Meatballs, simply heat the meatballs, and combine with hot pepper sauce, butter and honey to give them a sweet-hot glaze. Serve with prepared blue cheese dressing for dipping and, of course, celery sticks. Guests are guaranteed to enjoy these savory beef bites, so be sure to make plenty. They can be ready in under half an hour.

Don't stop there. The recipes for Barbecue-Style, Greek-Style and Thai Meatballs are just as easy.

Greek Style Meatball Kabobs

- 1 package (18 ounces) frozen fully-cooked beef meatballs, defrosted
- 1/2 red bell pepper and 1/2 green bell pepper, both cut into 3/4 inch pieces yogurt sauce

- 1 cup plain low-fat yogurt
- 1/4 cup diced cucumber
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Heat oven to 350° F. Soak eighteen 6-inch bamboo skewers in water 10 minutes; drain. Alternately thread meatballs and bell peppers pieces onto skewers. place kabobs in single layer in shallow baking pan. Bake for 20 minutes. Meanwhile combine sauce ingredients into small bowl. Serve with meatball skewers.

Meatballs with Thai sauce

- 1 package (18 ounces) frozen fully-cooked beef meatballs

dressing

- 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/8 teaspoon ground red pepper

Cook meatballs according to package directions. Meanwhile combine peanut butter and milk in small bowl; mix until smooth. Stir in remaining sauce ingredients. Serve with meatballs.

Spicy Buffalo-Style Meatballs

- 1 package (18 ounces) frozen fully-cooked beef meatballs
- 2 to 3 tablespoons hot pepper sauce
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1 tablespoon honey
- prepared blue cheese dressing
- celery sticks

Cook meatballs according to package directions.

Meanwhile combine hot pepper sauce, butter and honey in large bowl; mix well. Add meatballs; stir to coat. Serve with dressing and celery sticks.

Barbecue-Style Meatballs

- 1 package (18 ounces) frozen fully-cooked beef meatballs
- 3/4 cup apricot preserves
- 3/4 cup barbecue sauce

Heat large non-stick skillet over medium heat until hot. Add meatballs; cook and stir 7 to 8 minutes or until meatballs are defrosted. Stir in preserves and barbecue sauce; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer 10 minutes or until hot.

Who's New?

A baby girl, named Allison Ann, joined her big sister Natalie and parents Jason and Bobbie Aakhus of Red Lake Falls on Wednesday, November 21, 2001. She was born at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls and weighed 10 lbs. 5 oz. and measured 22 inches tall. Allison joined her great-grandparents, Mrs. Tracy Aakhus of McIntosh, Mrs. Beryl Fritz of Brooks and Bill Fritz of McIntosh, which is Paul and Bev's third granddaughter. Congratulations, Jason and Bobbie!

On the weekend of November 18, Dona and Joyce Rock and daughter, Mrs. Val Walker of Crookston, drove to Becker to visit a daughter and sister, Bob and Peggy Orrock, and on the way to Minneapolis to watch their grandson, Cole Martell play football in the Dome on Friday. Cole's team won first in the championship tournament. Others who attended were grandfather, Frances Martel, and uncle, Douglas Martell of Red Lake Falls.

It's beginning to look like Christmas with all the beautiful Christmas lights, trimmings and decorations going up in our big city of Brooks. It will be fun to drive around to observe the lights in the near future.

Last Saturday, November 17, the old Cheese Factory went down, and the landscaping is leveled off. What a bare spot, now after a creamery was started there in 1902 - before the cheese factory was started by A. J. Parenteau Sr. in 1926. A new building was built in 1954 and closed down in 1991. But, I understand the bare spot will not stay bare for any length of time. A new building will be built soon, so our city is not reducing, only getting better with new buildings going up.

Thanksgiving Day guests of Paul and Bev Aakhus were Jeff Aakhus and Jorden of Erskine and Jacob and Justin.

replaced. Dondelinger said sales since mid-November have decreased because they didn't have the product to sell. The lot had one-fourth of its usual inventory. Pickups seemed to be in greatest demand according to Dondelinger.

Not only new vehicles are selling. Used auto sales for Northern Motors have also taken off. Dondelinger said this may be a spin off from sales involving new vehicles.

Carl Ferber a salesperson for Northern Motors, said lately it hasn't been a matter of "selling" the vehicle. "It's just a matter of finding the right car for the customer."

"We really try to take care of our customers, as the other dealers in town do," said Tom Dondelinger of Northern Motors, who named service as an advantage of shopping for a vehicle locally.

Northern Motors still has zero percent financing offered through General Motors on new vehicles. Northern Motors is a Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet dealer.

Tunberg's tale

Sales have been average for Tunberg Motor Company this year until recently. "October and November were strong months for us," said Tunberg. The zero percent financing seemed to "open things up."

Their used auto sales slowed for the first three or four weeks of the promotion, but then seemed to make a come back, said Tunberg. Their inventory has dwindled due to high sales in both new and used vehicles.

After September 11, Tunberg said the manufacturers stepped in with zero percent financing to "work against any lack of confidence" that consumers might have had about the economy.

"A local dealer is someone you know will stand behind you," said Tunberg. "You can trust a local dealer to do what he can to keep local customers satisfied."

Zero percent financing on new vehicles. Tunberg is a Ford dealer.

Nationwide

Spokesperson for the National Automobile Dealers Association Jeff Beddow said, "clearly sales wouldn't be as strong" without the 0 percent financing being offered. He said he "couldn't quantify that in anyway."

Beddow also said car sales were being affected before September 11, and had "fallen off some." After September 11 is when there was the "initial big fall off." He said last year was the top selling year. "It's looking like 2001 will be close to the second strongest year."

In February 2001, the National Automobile Dealers Association issued a statement stating that strong auto sales were expected for 2001. Economic factors pointed to the sale of 16.3 million vehicles. Beddow said they are still looking at this number for total 2001 sales. Last year 17.4 million units were sold nationally.

Sales at Westside Motors have increased since September. The past two months have been the best of the year.

Early morning frost should disappear from vehicles in Tunberg's lot in time for a test drive. Jeff Tunberg said their inventory is low due to high sales. The zero percent financing offered by the manufacturer has really "opened things up" for sales, said Tunberg.

difficulties may have led some people to make incorrect assumptions.

In October, The Times began receiving reports from area contractors who worked on the project, that the casino was substantially behind in its payments to sub contractors. One individual who called The Times said they were in jeopardy of losing their home.

Upon checking with tribal officials at that time, they explained that the delay was due to problems with electrical work, which was not deemed satisfactory to the financial company handling the financing of the expansion project.

In letters to creditors from Roy Ferris, chief operating officer at Seven Clans Casino in Thief River Falls, Ferris introduced himself and said he wanted to ". . . thank each and every one of you for your patience during these recent difficult times in the financial relationship between yourselves and Red Lake Gaming Enterprises, Inc. I know that many of you have had to wait an extraordinarily long time in receiving the payments that have been due to you, and this has not been comfortable for either of us."

Jasperson feels that the situation, not the letter, may be generating the rumor. Jasperson said payments have been made to creditors since then.

One of the creditors said they had received some payments since the issue came to a head in October, but not all. She said she had heard the rumor and was just as concerned, fearing that if true, it could cause significant problems for their family. She was relieved that the rumor was false.

Ferris said he thought everyone had been paid in full, and said that if anyone felt they hadn't been paid in full to contact him. He said he was very interested in getting this taken care of immediately.

MJSP accepting applications for pre-development grants

The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership Program is now accepting applications for pre-development grants of up to $50,000 from public and private educational institutions and training providers in Minnesota.

"This early-stage funding provides seed capital to educational providers that want to jump start specific, large-scale projects before submitting full-bore MJSP grant applications," said Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development Commissioner and MJSP Board Chair Rebecca Yanisch.

Applicants must use the grant to become more knowledgeable in the areas of employment need, skills training and education, and include a partnership with private employers, according to Roger Hughes, MJSP Executive Director. Complete grant proposals will address education and skills training for high-wage, high-skill occupations, businesses and industries.

Projects that identify a commitment of financial resources from other parties will receive greater consideration. Institutions that serve economically disadvantaged students, minorities, dislocated workers, and rural Minnesota businesses will receive preference.

The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership, located within the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development's Workforce Development Division, offers technical, financial and job training assistance to thousands of businesses, communities, educational institutions and workers. The Job Skills Partnership Board brings businesses with specific education needs together with educational institutions to design training programs to meet those needs.

The Thief River Falls TIMES

Pioneers' basketball team remains unbeaten...

NCTC women win Itasca title

Northland doubled its win total, remained unbeaten and picked up a title over the weekend while competing in the Itasca Invitational women's college basketball tournament.

The Pioneers pushed their season-opening winning streak to four games by beating Mesabi Range 61-52 in the Friday night semifinals, then knocking off the host Vikings 56-45 in the Saturday afternoon championship game.

"We did okay," said Northland coach Mike Zachow. "As with any team at this point of the season, we have things we need to work on. But we're improving."

Sara Jensen, a freshman center from Thief River Falls, had a big weekend for the Pioneers, pointed out Zachow, with a 16-point, 7-rebound game vs. Mesabi Range and a 14-point, 7-rebound effort against Itasca. She was the only Northland scorer to hit double figures both days.

Zachow added that Misten Hoie, a sophomore guard from Bagley, had a strong all-round tournament performance.

"Beating Mesabi was a big win for us," said Zachow. "We maybe had a letdown against Itasca. We didn't play as well as we did the night before."

Candice Solle joined Jensen in double figures against Mesabi Range with 14-point effort that was complemented by a team-high 9 rebounds and 5 assists.

The Pioneers led the Norse 26-22 at halftime.

Northland shot 43 percent from the field (25/56) and 64 percent at the free throw line (9/14) in the semifinal win. Mesabi Range shot just 30 percent from the field (18/61) and 50 percent at the free throw line (8/16). The Pioneers finished with a 39-29 rebound advantage, and also topped the turnover charts 23-22.

Saturday, Hoie matched Jensen's scoring with 14 points, and Solle handed out another 5 assists as the Pioneers built a 29-18 halftime lead.

Northland went 24-for-65 from the field that afternoon (37 percent) and had a 4-for-4 free throw game. Itasca was 17-for-55 from the field (31 percent) and 7-for-13 at the free throw line (54 percent). The Pioneers finished with a 36-34 rebound edge over the Vikings, who led the turnover figures 26-18.

It'll be a men's and women's basketball doubleheader weekend vs. Minnesota Community College Conference Southern Division teams when Northland hosts Anoka-Ramsey Friday at 6 and 8 p.m. and Rochester Saturday at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. The women's game will be the opener both days.

The Saturday contests have earlier-than-normal starting times to accommodate the final round of the NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational boys high school basketball tournament being hosted by Northland. Those games begin at 3 p.m.

TRF third in wrestling debut

Thief River Falls' first outing of the 2001-02 high school wrestling season produced a third place finish for the Prowlers at the eight-team Wadena-Deer Creek Invitational Saturday.

The host Wolverines won team honors with 192.5 points, followed by Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale with 168.5, Thief River Falls 154, Sauk Centre 132, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 130, Perham 120, Long Prairie-Grey Eagle 91, and Pequot Lakes/Pine River-Backus 80.5.

"Considering this is one of the toughest tournaments in the northern part of the state, I think we did very well," offered Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke, noting that first and second place Wadena-Deer Creek and Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale are ranked in the top five in the state in Class AA and Class A, respectively. "For the Prowlers to be right on their heels, shows that we have some real potential," he said. "We also ended up two places above ninth ranked Badger/Greenbush-Middle River (Class A), one of the toughest teams locally."

The tournament featured at least one returning state qualifier at each weight class. At 112, 119, 120 and heavyweight, four of the eight wrestlers were a the 2001 state meet. "Some of the semifinals and finals were like watching state," noted Yanke.

Prowlers turning in 3-0 title-winning performance were junior Colt Bergeron at 103 pounds and senior Aric Berg at 171. It was the first varsity tournament title for either wrestler. Bergeron also picked up the Fastest Pin award with a 37-second match.

Three Prowlers with 2-1 second place tournaments were senior Beau Abrahamson at 125, freshman Zach Anderson at 130 and senior Jon Swanson at 160.

"Aric Berg and Colt Bergeron really dominated their matches," pointed out Yanke. "No one gave them any trouble at all. I think they both could have outstanding years. Zach Anderson, in his first varsity tournament, gave us all a good surprise. After pinning his first man, Zach defeated state qualifier Nate Berry of Wadena-Deer Creek, then gave another state qualifier, Jacob Oyster of Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale, a battle for the championship before coming out a little short in the end, 5-1."

Yanke also cited performances by Chris Lian at 140 and Phil Hermanson at 189. Both had 2-2 fourth place showings. "Chris looked very good," he said. "The three guys who placed higher than he did all placed at state last year. Phil was wrestling three weight classes higher than he will be later in the season and looked very quick. He should contend for a state berth at 152 this year."

Yanke will be looking for season-long improvement from the Prowlers, who will take part in the Sertoma Invitational in Grand Forks, N.D. Friday and Saturday. "We got some of the rust out of our system," he said. "I don't think that anyone is wrestling as well as they were at the end of last year, so we have some things to work on."

■ Team totals - Wadena-Deer Creek 192.5, Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale 168.5, Thief River Falls 154, Sauk Centre 132, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 130, Perham 120, Long Prairie-Grey Eagle 91, Pequot Lakes/Pine River/Backus 80.5

■ TRF places - (103) Colt Bergeron, 3-0, first; (112) Daniel LeDuc, 3-2, fifth; (125) Beau Abrahamson, 2-1, second; (130) Zach Anderson 2-1, second, (135) Jeramy Anderson, 3-1, third; (140) Chris Lian, 2-2, fourth; (152) Ryan Bix, 1-2, sixth; (160) Jon Swanson, 2-1, second, (171) Aric Berg, 3-0, first; (189) Phil Hermanson, 2-2, fourth.

Boys hockey squad starts four-game series down 0-2...

Prowlers face Twin Cities teams

First of Thief River Falls' back-to-back weekend boys high school hockey assignments against Twin Cities area teams wound up as a pair of losses for the Prowlers, who dropped identical 3-1 decisions to Armstrong Friday night and Maple Grove Saturday afternoon.

Those contests were played at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The next set of games will send Thief River Falls to The Blake School in Hopkins for a Friday night contest and and to Aldridge Arena Saturday for a matinee match-up with St. Paul Johnson.

Blake and Johnson have been part of the Prowlers' schedule for several years. Armstrong (Robbinsdale) and Maple Grove were first-time foes.

"I thought we played pretty decent hockey both games," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland, who watched his team open the 2001-02 season earlier in the week with a 6-2 win over Roseau. "They're both quality hockey teams. We had our chances, but we didn't capitalize. With a break or two, we could have won both games."

Sophomore Aaron Bendickson, after a hat trick performance against the Rams, scored both Thief River Falls weekend goals.

The Prowlers played Armstrong to a 1-1 first period tie, then fell behind 2-1 in the second period. Three of the game's four goals were scored on the power play, including the Bendickson goal.

Thief River Falls had a 1-0 first period edge against Maple Grove, but again found themselves trailing 2-1 after 30 minutes. This time, all four goals came on the power play.

Kelly Weets

Luke Miller

New head coaches lead veteran squad

■ Boys swim opener is Saturday

New coaches will be directing a veteran line-up when the Thief River Falls boys high school swimming team opens the 2001-02 season Saturday at the Fergus Falls Invitational.

Kelly Weets and Luke Miller are serving as the Prowlers' co-head coaches this winter. They succeed Mary Helen Houlihan, who resigned to make a family move following the 2000-01 school year.

They are working with a 20-member squad that includes 12 juniors and seniors.

"We're looking for strong leadership from our seniors," said Weets.

Seven seniors on hand include Russ Anderson, Aaron Field, Chris Olson, Jason Swenson, Josh Anderson, and Andre Thiobodeau, along with German foreign exchange student Stephan Hahn.

Four juniors on the roster include Nathan Browning, Gabe Carlson, Bryan Sorvig, Cody Sorvig, and Anthony Wold.

There's also varsity experience among the five sophomores on the roster – Nathan Bylander, Dustin Efta, Matt Langevin, Josh Swenson, and Andy Zbacnik.

Four Prowlers were state meet qualifiers last year. Browning (100 backstroke) and Jason Swenson (100 breaststroke) advanced to state in individual events, and joined Field and Cody Sorvig on state-qualifying 200 medley and 200 freestyle relay teams.

Both Weets and Miller said they were "excited" about the opportunity to work with the program as head coaches.

Weets was an assistant coach with the Prowlers' girls team in 1992. She worked in the Win-E-Mac school district from 1998 to 2001 before accepting a teaching position in Thief River Falls.

A 2000 Lincoln High School graduate, Miller is currently attending Northland Community and Technical College. He was co-captain of the Prowlers' 1999-01 swim team and worked with the program as a volunteer assistant last winter.

While the top three grades will provide a solid varsity line-up, the new coaches expressed concern about the lack of numbers in the younger grades – the Prowlers' feeder program. The preseason roster showed just one freshman (Jon Kays), one eighth grader (Cole Bylander) and one seventh grader (Ben Carlson).

After opening the season with a pair of meets on the road, Thief River Falls will make its home debut with the annual Prowler Relays Saturday, Dec. 15.

Prowlers go to 5-2 with hockey win over W-DC

■ Friday girls game time changed

Strong play in the defensive zone set up Thief River Falls' offense Saturday as the Prowlers skated to a 3-1 girls high school hockey win over Wadena-Deer Creek at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Wolverines goalie Jenna Johnson kept the game close early when the visitors were out-shot 16-5 in the first period.

The Prowlers took control on goals by Steph Hoard and Abbie Houske just 1:41 apart near the middle of the second period.

Meagan Lunke made it 3-0 at 7:15 of the third period.

Thief River Falls goalie Trudy Erickson lost her shutout bid on a goal by Lisa Erickson with just 2:28 remaining.

The Prowlers out-shot the Wolverines 33-15.

"We played a very good game," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Magnusson. "We controlled the game from the beginning. Our defense made great passes to allow us to break out of the zone without any problem."

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 5-2 heading into a Tuesday home game against Menahga/Nevis/Park Rapids. A Friday Thief River Falls vs. Detroit Lakes match-up at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center has been switched from an original 7 p.m. start to 3:30 p.m. The junior varsity game will be played at the same time at the Old Arena.

Wolverines have a tough time in girls basketball opener

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke girls basketball coach Justin Lunsetter expects the Wolverines to do well this year. But drawing Kittson Central as a season-opening opponent Friday was just too big of a task. The Wolfpack left Grygla with a one-sided 63-26 victory.

The winners impressed Lunsetter. "They're a really good team," he acknowledged. "We just weren't ready for that. We had trouble with their press, and they turned our turnovers into points."

Kittson Central opened the game with a 9-0 lead, had a 19-2 cushion at the end of the first quarter and opened up a 41-8 spread at halftime.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke made a better showing after intermission, when they were out-scored 22-18.

"We did a lot better in the second half," noted Lunsetter. "I'm still optimistic. "We've got lots of potential. We've got a lot of experience and we've got good size. We just happened to play one of the better teams in the area in the first game."

A balanced Kittson Central offense included four double figure scorers as Karie Visness netted 14 points, Rachel Langen 13, Beth Blomquist 11, and Alisa Costin 11.

The Wolfpack had a 15-for-21 night at the free throw line, where the Wolverines were a quiet 1-for-3.

Lunsetter is beginning his third year as Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke head coach. The Wolverines were 2-21 two years ago and improved to 8-15 last winter with a squad that had just one senior on the roster. It's a team of versatile athletes who reached the Section 8A tournament semifinals in volleyball this fall.

Pharmacy Remarks

Dangerous Mixes
While most people know that alcohol and most prescription medications are a dangerous mix, how many realize that certain foods pose a danger when mixed with certain prescription medications. For instance, did you know that the blood thinner medication may be affected by spinach in your salad? Other combinations to avoid include asthma medications theophylline or albuterol with caffeine. Some drugs may be affected adversely by diets high in protein, others by foods that have lots of fiber. Another type of drug interaction occurs when aged cheese or wine is taken. Most recently it has been found that several drugs are affected by grapefruit juice but not orange juice. Patients should heed the interaction cautions and warnings by their physicians and pharmacist.

December is not too late to get your flu shots, now available at Dakota Clinic

TRF girls in middle of six-game home stand

Thief River Falls girls high school basketball team isn't going anywhere for a while. The Prowlers are in the midst of a six-game stretch in which they will not be leaving town.

After opening the 2001-02 season with a 62-47 Tuesday (Nov. 27) loss on the road at the hands of Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, the Prowlers began their 'home stand' with a 53-42 Thursday win over Crookston.

Thief River Falls' Week 2 schedule showed a Tuesday game vs. East Grand Forks and a Saturday match-up with Red Lake Falls – both in the Lincoln High School gym.

The Prowlers then head across town for the annual NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational, an eight-team, three-day tournament that begins Monday at Northland Community and Technical College.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo led at the quarter stops 15-10, 32-23 and 47-28 en route to the 62-47 season-opening victory over Thief River Falls.

It wasn't a good night offensively or defensively for the Prowlers, according to Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We played terrible defense," he said. "We were out of position and on our heels all night long."

Twenty-five turnovers stymied the Prowlers' offense, along with 32 percent 18-for-56 shooting from the field. "We need to be more patient and take higher percentage shots," said Loe.

Shara Guidry scored 16 points and Chelsea Haviland had 12 rebounds to lead the Prowlers' efforts.

Three Warren-Alvarado-Oslo scorers hit double figures, led by Nikki Bowman with 18, Kelly Hanson 12 and Brittany Johnston 10.

The Ponies' 40 percent 20-for-50 shooting included a 4-for-6 showing from 3-point range.

Thief River Falls was 9-for-18 at the free throw line, where the winners went 18-for-28. The Ponies turned the ball over 18 times and were out-rebounded 43-36.

Meghan Nelson scored 14 points, grabbed 8 rebounds, had 5 steals, and handed out 6 assists to lead Thief River Falls past Crookston 53-42.

Nikki Tvedt added 11 points to the Prowlers' total, and Chelsea Haviland came up with a team-high 8 steals.

Thief River Falls started with 16-11 first quarter lead, had a 27-20 halftime advantage and maintained a 41-32 third quarter spread.

JaNae Altepeter and Sarah Sannes led the Pirates with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

"Much improved over the game with Warren," reported Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Our defense was much more intense, and I thought we played well inside."

Thief River Falls was 21-for-53 from the field (40 percent) and 9-for-14 at the free throw line. Crookston was limited to 14-for-38 shooting (37 percent) by the Prowlers' defense that came up with 21 steals and induced 27 turnovers. The visitors' best weapon was the free throw – they were 13-for-14 at the line.

The Prowlers lost the rebound battle by a slight 33-31 margin, and they struggled with turnovers for a second straight game, finishing with 22 – giving them 47 in two starts.

"That's way more turnovers than we want," acknowledged Loe. "We need to play better ball-control basketball."

Mustangs win girls debut 65-45

Double-doubles by senior AnnaMarie Fore and junior Brittany Berberich led Red Lake County Central past Mahnomen 64-45 in season-opening girls high school basketball Friday.

Fore scored 20 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, while Berberich finished with 17 points and 10 rebounds as the Mustangs built quarter leads of 8-7, 25-18 and 41-32.

Sophomore Maureen Munt also played a key role in the Mustangs' offense with an 11-point night.

Shannon Francis scored a game-high 26 points for Mahnomen, but none of her teammates joined her in in double figures.

"After the first quarter, we played pretty well," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

Red Lake County Central was 26-for-56 from the field (46 percent) and 8-for-18 at the free throw line (44 percent). Mahnomen struggled through a 15-for-48 shooting night from the field (31 percent) and went 13-for-22 at the line (59 percent).

In the first half, Mahnomen went to the free throw 14 times, while Red Lake County Central did not draw a foul shot. Koivisto pointed that fact out to the officials, and saw the numbers change after intermission.

With Fore and Berberich leading the way, Red Lake County Central wound up with a 29-22 rebound advantage. Mahnomen had more turnovers, 21-18.

Koivisto looks for the Mustangs to have a good season. His 2000-01 squad went 15-11 with just two seniors on the roster. Fore, Berberich and junior Michelle Halvorson were all-conference picks a year go.

"We hope to be competitive," said Koivisto. "We'll be looking to play an up-tempo game."

Halvorson, a junior who was expected to run the offense at point guard, starts the year on the sideline due to a hand injury. Her status is uncertain at this point, according to Koivisto.

Minnesota DNR eager to aid habitat projects

■ Conservation clubs should apply for state grant money

Conservation groups seeking to help improve wildlife habitat on state wildlife management areas need to apply quickly for grants from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. The 2001 Minnesota Legislature appropriated nearly $2 million to the agency to award as direct grants to statewide and local sports, outdoors and conservation clubs, said Dennis Simon, who coordinates the new grants program.

"We're operating with a short time frame," Simon said. "Groups that want to be considered for the first round of grants need to contact me right away so we can get them the material they need to apply for these grants."

Applications must be postmarked no later than Dec. 14 for this first round. If necessary, additional application rounds will be held until the funds are gone.

Groups can use the funds for a wide range of WMA wildlife habitat improvements, including planting prairie grasses and trees, creating forest openings, restoring wetlands, shearing brush, and even conducting prescribed burns. Group members can do the work themselves or contract it out.

Simon said that $945,000 is available this year and $950,000 for next year.

The money is part of the Heritage Enhancement Account, which comes from the state lottery. The effort to get money out to local groups to improve habitat in their area was spearheaded by Rep. Mark Holsten and other conservation-minded legislators.

The DNR is mailing application materials to statewide groups and is working to get the word out to smaller clubs.

"We really want to get them in the loop, because the local groups are who this effort is aimed at," Simon said.

To get a grant application and background materials, call Simon at 651-297-4965 or e-mail him at dennis.simon@dnr.state.mn.us

Muzzleloader 2001 deer hunting season across Minnesota ends Dec. 9

Muzzleloader deer hunters continue a tradition that started more than 200 years ago when our forefathers stuffed black powder and shot or a lead bullet down the snout of a front-loader. They could count on only one shot at an animal and knew enough to take their time while aiming and shooting. There were no second chances.

Minnesota's two-week muzzleloader season runs Saturday, Nov. 24, through Sunday, Dec. 9.

Despite the required patience, practice, attention to detail and steady nerves, muzzleloader hunting has grown steadily over the years. Minnesota held its first muzzleloader season in 1977 when 32 hunters took to fields statewide in search of deer. Currently about 12,000 hunters enjoy the sport.

Department of Natural Resource officials remind regular firearms deer hunters that their license does not apply to the muzzleloader season.

"If you were unsuccessful during the regular firearms deer season, you may not use that tag during the muzzleloader season," said DNR Enforcement Chief Bill Bernhjelm. "It is also unlawful for a regular firearms season deer hunter to buy a second firearms deer license of any kind, including muzzleloader licenses or multi-zone buck licenses."

A person may purchase no more than one firearms deer license (including muzzleloader and multi-zone buck licenses) and one archery deer license in a calendar year. However, additional deer management permits and intensive harvest permits, which allow the taking of additional antlerless deer, may be purchased.

Muzzleloader Tips

* Only open and "peep" type sights (including those with fiber optic material) are legal during the muzzleloader deer season; scopes are not legal for this season.

* All hunters and trappers during the 10-day muzzleloader season must meet blaze orange requirements (see page 32 of the 2001 Hunting and Trapping Regulations Handbook)

* Legal hours are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

* Muzzleloader hunters may hunt on both public and private lands statewide, except for the closed areas listed on page 75.

* The muzzleloader option allows hunters to take deer of either sex, except as explained on pages 75/79.

* Some muzzleloader special permit areas are also open to hunters who applied in September and received permits, these are listed on page 76.

Hunters should refer to the big game section of the 2001 Minnesota Hunting and Trapping Regulations Handbook or call the DNR Information Center at (651) 296-6157 or toll free 1-888-MINNDNR (646-6367) for detailed information concerning muzzleloader hunting regulations.

Base grain marketing decisions on planning, not emotions

Be guided by your plan, not your emotions, if you want to be successful in marketing your grain. The most dangerous emotions in grain marketing are fear and greed, says Ed Usset, grain marketing specialist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"These emotions can and will affect your selling decisions," says Usset. "Using a consistent trading plan is the only workable strategy to keep from responding to the market emotions of the moment."

An effective plan requires that you know and control your costs, says Usset. "For long-term survival in a commodity market, producers must continually strive to keep production costs low," he points out. "FINPACK is a farm financial software package that can help with this." FINPACK is available from the University of Minnesota Center for Farm Financial Management, 249 Classroom Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55108. A demonstration of FINPACK is on the Internet at www.cffm.umn.edu.

Usset, a member of the Center for Farm Financial Management staff, says treating grain marketing as a year-round task is necessary for success. "In today's environment of increased price volatility, pricing opportunities can develop any time, sometimes well before the crop is harvested," he says. "Weather scares and new crop uncertainty can push prices higher in a developing crop. Many research studies have shown that pre-harvest pricing strategies that can take advantage of these market bulges are more profitable than post-harvest strategies." Tools for pricing grain before harvest including the forward contract, futures contract and hedge-to-arrive contract.

Respecting seasonal trends is another key factor in effective marketing. "All commodity prices tend to follow some well-defined patterns throughout the marketing year," says Usset. "While not every year is the same, we can define certain times in the year as better selling opportunities."

To use marketing tools effectively, it's necessary to develop a solid knowledge of cash-futures price relationships, says Usset. The difference between cash and futures prices is commonly known as the "basis."

"The basis for a storable commodity displays a distinct seasonal pattern," says Usset. "With grain stocks and the demand for storage high at harvest, cash prices are often at their largest discount to the futures. As the crop is put away and some is used, the supply of storage increases relative to demand for its use, and the basis narrows. Astute decision-makers gather a 3-5-year history of their local basis, using daily or weekly data. Many marketing tactics require a knowledge of the basis."

For further information on grain marketing, contact Usset at (651) 681-7999 or your county office of the U of M Extension Service.

Changes give Minnesotans with health plans new rights

Minnesotans enrolled in licensed health plans have new rights and protections under an amendment to the Minnesota Patient Protection Law.

These rights and protections assure continuity of care when there are changes in health plan coverage, or when a health care provider leaves a health plan's network. Minnesotans are encouraged to understand these rights and protections, because changes in health plans and provider networks usually take effect at the start of the new year.

Under most circumstances, enrollees must be given at least 30 days advance written notice that their health care provider is leaving the network. Enrollees should watch for these written notifications because they will explain how to seek continuity of care.

This law requires health plans to offer continuity of care to enrollees with special medical needs or risks.

Continuity of care must be offered if a health care provider's contract is not renewed, or if an employer changes to a health plan that does not include an enrollee's provider. The enrollee must be allowed to continue using the prior provider for up to 120 days if treatment for an acute condition is needed, a life-threatening mental or physical illness exists, pregnancy is beyond the first trimester, a physical or mental disability exists, or a disabling or chronic condition is in an acute phase.

Enrollees with an expected lifetime of 180 days or less must be given the right to continue treatment with the terminated provider for the rest of his or her life.

Enrollees who don't qualify for mandatory continuity of care can request to continue treatment with the terminating provider. Continuity of care will be approved for up to 120 days if the enrollee is receiving culturally appropriate services that aren't readily available from a participating provider. It will also be approved if the enrollee doesn't speak English, and the health plan company doesn't have a participating provider readily available who can communicate with the enrollee, either directly or through a translator.

HMO enrollees should call the Minnesota Department of Health at 651-282-5600 or toll-free at 1-800-657-3916 if they have questions about their rights and protections under the Minnesota Patient Protection Law, or if they have any other HMO-related questions or concerns.

Agricultural weather network adds station at Roseau

A new agricultural weather station is now operating at Roseau as part of a network of over 50 weather stations in northwest Minnesota and North Dakota. Information from the stations is available 24 hours a day by telephone or from the Internet.

The stations provide information on air temperature, rainfall, potential evapotranspiration, growing degree days and crop water use. They also report dew point temperature, soil temperature, relative humidity, solar radiation, air pressure, and wind speed and direction.

"The information on growing degree days is especially helpful to farmers," says Curt Nyegaard, Roseau County educator with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. "When farmers know the planting date of their crop, they can determine the growth stage from weather station data without having to physically check the field. They can determine the best treatment times for weeds, insects and diseases."

The Roseau weather station is part of the North Dakota Agricultural Weather Network (NDAWN). Data from the Roseau station is available by calling (218) 424-7053 or going to www.ndawn.ndsu.nodak.edu on the Internet.

The Web site also has information from the other weather stations in northwest Minnesota. These stations are at Humboldt, Stephen, Warren, Eldred and Felton.

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Parents are a better source for values

A current CFL survey shows adolescents are making better decisions about such health and risky behaviors as tobacco use, violence, and sexual intercourse. Educational programs may have had an impact on those figures, but the most decisive influence on students must be their parents.

In the news business I've often heard, "there is no such thing as bad news." The point being made with such a generalized statement is that when bad news happens, it often generates interest, and in this case, interest generates discussion — hopefully between parents and children. If I were to make a prediction, it would be that such discussions could do much more than schools to reduce risky behavior.

The survey results, announced only last week, indicate that the percentages of sixth-, ninth- and 12th-grade students reporting any tobacco use in the month before the survey were down dramatically. Figures for reported alcohol use and sexual intercourse were also down. A lower percentage of students in all grades surveyed said they had hit or beat up another person in the year preceding the survey. Reported marijuana use during the same period held steady for 12th graders but was down for younger students after reported increases in the last two surveys.

It's good news that fewer students are involved in these risky behaviors, yet it remains a problem, otherwise educators wouldn't conduct a survey or provide extensive programs to address the issues.

CFL Commissioner Christine Jax, was quoted as saying, "These encouraging results show our prevention and education programs are making a difference in students' lives." She also added that, "We will use these reliable survey results to build on those programs and improve the things we do to help children and families."

Bad news sometimes mixes well with good news. Adding to and making improvements to existing programs is probably a good idea because while it may cost more, it may bring the topic of discussion to the dinner table or during discussion-time at home.

I believe that schools and the CFL would be well advised to include parents in the equation. Common sense should tell us that peer pressure and schools aren't the only influences on our children. In fact, a parent's disapproval probably weighs more heavily in the equation than a friend's perception and limited experience. In addition, a parent's guidance on such matters will probably make a stronger impression on a child than a teacher. It's not fair to dump the responsibility of addressing risky behavior on our schools. Parents should bear a larger responsibility for instilling values in children.

Snowmobilers chomping at the bit to ride on trails

Many snowmobilers probably thought Ol' Man Winter would never arrived. Even now area snowmobile enthusiasts are envying the "lucky residents" south of here who received 30 inches of snow. The scant two or three inches on the ground here is barely enough. It appears, however, that the two to three inches of snow on the ground here will last longer than the 30 inches south of here. Weather reports from that area indicate they are experiencing another heat wave — 50 degrees for a high. In any event, Minnesota's public snowmobile trails opened to the public on December 1; and, while area enthusiasts are taking advantage of what snow exists, they would be wise to use caution.

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources recently reported that conditions may not be adequate for snowmobiling. Officials warned that a light layer of snow hides hazards like dead falls, wet spots and thin ice, which can cause serious accidents. The light layer of snow on area trails doesn't provide much protection for trails, or provide much cushion for error.

It is also important for snowmobile enthusiasts to recognize the importance of not abusing privileges. The majority of snowmobile trails in Minnesota cross private lands. The success of Minnesota's trail system, therefore, hinges on good relationships between landowners and snowmobilers.

We have already begun receiving notices about snowmobile safety certificate courses. Minnesota requires that snowmobile operators born after December 31, 1979, must have a valid snowmobile certificate to operate a snowmobile. Announcements of future snowmobile safety courses will appear in The Times and at local schools. Local snowmobile club members and law enforcement officials may also be able to tell you when the next courses will be held.

With so much of winter left ahead of us, it's important for snowmobile enthusiasts to remember to be patient, use common sense, operate their snowmobiles safely, and don't abuse the hard-won privileges you enjoy.

Ol' man winter

Thanking all those who made it possible

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Mike Lundgren and The Times for the nice article. I would also like to thank Tom Goddard and Scott Bergland for their expertise as I started officiating at the higher levels. I can't forget Buzzy Olson for those long nights at all the tournaments, or the Eagles club for their financial support to the officiating camps.

The man I would really like to thank back home is Ron Novak. Oh do I miss this guy! The people in Thief River Falls were very lucky to have a man like him in the community. Being a hockey director myself has really shown me how great a responsibility Ron had with TRFAHA. I knew at the time he was a busy man but he was doing this, along with his duties of being a teacher and the Athletic Director at Franklin. Nevertheless, he always had time to talk, be it on the phone, the rink, or during one of his meetings at the "Bird Cage." Novey, I know you are watching over me during my games and I just want to say thanks for all of your hard work when I was growing up.

I would like to wish everyone in Thief River a warm holiday greeting.

"Bang 'r home sweepin' the nation."

Happy Holidays,
Rick Looker

(Looker was featured in The Times last week. He was recently invited to officiate top amateur hockey tournament.)

Remember to give back to the community

To the Editor:

Giving back is a way of life and a part of the human experience. It shapes our family, it inspires our work, and moves our community forward. When acted upon, it makes a profound impact on the lives of those we care about and provides an opportunity to leave a personal legacy.

When you give per year, per month, every paycheck, through a will, a portion of an insurance policy, or an IRA, you empower the hopes of future generations. You change the world, In ways, large and small. People give for a variety of reasons. We feel good about helping an organization close to our heart. Giving itself is our reward.

The popularity of giving as a means of improving communities is increasing, because your options are easier. Giving, at one time, was considered only from the financial elite and has now embraced people from every walk of life. You don't have to be wealthy to be a philanthropist. Even a modest gift can make a significant difference. Giving knows no age barrier.

A pig was complaining to a cow that he was not appreciated. The pig stated, "I don't understand it. People are always talking about how generous you are giving the cream, milk, and butter for their daily use. That's nice of course, but I give more than you do – ham, bacon, bristles, and even my feet! Yet nobody has any use for me! They make fun of me and call me pig! I don't like it!" "Perhaps the difference," the cow replied after a moment's hesitation, "is that I give while I'm still living.

Sincerely,
Jared Goldesberry

"I'm bustin' out all over with pride!"

God Bless TRF and thank you for my education

Howdy -

I'm bustin' out all over with pride! My name is Stuart Dahl, the son of Orville (now deceased) and Ursula Dahl of Thief River Falls. I grew up in Thief River Falls and married the lovely Martha Hillyer, daughter of Edson and Nona Hillyer (both deceased) also of Thief River Falls. I have a sister, Gloria Reierson, wife of Marty Reierson, and a brother-in-law, Bill Hillyer and his wife Wanda, still living in Thief River Falls. I have two sisters, Linda Strain and Alison Nowaci, living in the Fargo area. I also have several aunts, uncles, and cousins in Thief River Falls, mostly of the Amiot side (my mom), but a few from the Wells (Dahl). I joined the United States Navy on October 16, 1974, and served 22-plus years, retiring to Virginia, but still holding strong attachments to the mother-land of Thief River Falls ... I will probably be home to Thief River Falls to attend the upcoming Amiot family reunion this summer and perhaps my 30 year class reunion.

One of my twin daughters, Margaret, is married to Ryan Sillers, a former enlisted Marine, they live in Moscow, Idaho, where she is a lab tech with the University of Idaho and he works as a physical therapy assistant; both are active in the local Trackers Organization that assist in search and rescue operations. They met while I was stationed with the Marines in Camp Lejeune, N.C. We are very proud of them both.

My twin daughter, Maria, is married to Mike Vender-Dahl, currently in boot camp for the National Guard, they live in Moorhead, although she and our grandson, Gabriel, are staying with us in Hayes, Va., until he finishes training. We couldn't be happier for them as they begin their life together.

My son, Stuart Jr. (Stu-2 or Re-Stu or Stu-Ju) is married to the delightful former Heather Shreves of Gloucester Point, Va., and they reside in Gulfport, Miss. He is a construction electrician with the United States Navy Seabees. I had the honor of being his enlistment officer. He is serving in the same unit that I served in when I was stationed in Mississippi, Naval Mobile Construction Battalion One Three Three (NMCB 133). He has done well: early advancement, Sailor of the Year for his command, selection for special duty assignments. Of particular note is that he is currently attached to the Marines and is in Afghanistan as we speak. The Marines use the Navy Seabees as their construction force (or as we Seabees like to think, we Seabees use the Marines to guard the fence while we build). It was a surprize for me to see his face in one of the television news programs. I hope that he will return safely and can attend the Amiot family reunion this summer as well.

My youngest son, Steven, is currently in Navy boot camp at Great Lakes, Ill. He is the Recruit Petty Officer in Charge of his Ship (similar to a battalion). He is trying out for the Navy Seals and has both the physical and mental capabilities to do so, I wish him all the luck possible because the attrition rate is between 75 percent and 85 percent. His back-up plan is electronics warfare. I'm not certain that he will be attending the family reunion due to the training commitments either path will follow. I also had the honor of enlisting him into the Navy and he started his boot camp exactly 27 years to the day that I did.

My pride is in the Government and citizens of the United States of America. The reaction and response to the recent tragic events and War on Terror have galvanized a sense of patriotism throughout the land in a manner which is seldom seen outside of smaller towns such as Thief River Falls, where it is a daily routine. Although it is truly satisfying to see the rest of the Nation get behind the Flag, especially the big cities and the "intelligencia", the smaller communities (and blue-collar workers everywhere) have always held National Pride as foremost. God Bless Thief River Falls and thank you for my education as a citizen. Many of my relatives have served in the Armed Forces and it set the pace for me to do the same. I am gratified that my children are likewise choosing a similar life-style.

But I do not want to leave the impression that only the military service or even any public service (National, State or local ... enforcement, public works, education, etc.) is the epitamy of patriotism. Everyone in America shares in the common goal, responsibility, and participation; and in a larger sense, are the ones who fuel the stove and tend the fire of our nation, state, and local communities. It is done by moms and dads, grandparents and other relatives, neighbors, construction workers, convenience store employees, department store employees, business owners, farmers, truck drivers, health-care specialists, students ... everyone. It is accomplished in the everyday activities of life and work ... a hug, a handshake, a smile, a sense of humor ... honesty, hard work, loyalty, dedication, respect, recognition. All that we do affects both the present and the future. I am glad for being brought up with a sense of National responsibility and appreciation. I am glad for the people in the formative years of my life and thank them. As regards the current situation ... I'm bustin' out all over with pride!

Sincerely,
Stuart Dahl

The stories of Harry Potter are just fiction, not a religion

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the letter about Harry Potter.

" First of all, I would like to say that your point of view is well taken and your beliefs should be applauded. But, I would like to say that Christianity is a religion, and the stories of Harry Potter are just two words — a book. There's a difference between the word religion and a book.

With the tragic events of September 11th happening, some young children wish they could use a "magic wand" to make their sad feelings go away and they immerse themselves into Harry Potter, but this is where parents, teachers, ministers and counselors come in to say that they love and care about them and that they should be themselves and that no one is there to hurt them.

But as far as Harry Potter is concerned, I think there is nothing wrong with the books. We were given this gift of imagination, and J.K. Rowling uses her gift by writing stories for children to read. And that is an important thing — children reading. The world is a scary place, but there is nothing wrong with a child sitting down, opening up the book, and going to a land of make-believe. And a lot of kids know it is just make-believe.

I also understand the person's worry about all the hoopla about Harry Potter. Well, that is a part of Hollywood, Calif. They promote a movie until they are blue in the face. Basically it's hype or "It." For example, have you seen "It?" Your friends and family have seen "It." Why haven't you seen "It?" Well, you are not with it until you see "It!" Get it?

So, if that person has a child and wants to read Harry Potter, or go see the movie — please don't say no to them. If they want to go to the movie, go with them, or sit down and read the book with them. And then tell them why you think it is not appropriate, but then respect your child's point of view about what they think about Harry Potter. Believe me, if you respect your child's opinion, your child will definitely respect your opinion.

Sincerely,
Dan Bartsch

Unusually Mild Weather Rules in Area Past Week

"In an unprecedented late November and December mild spell, the mercury mounted into the high 30's every day from Wednesday, November 28, through Monday, December 3, and this morning (Wednesday) had already reached the 34-degree mark at 9 o'clock. Each day during the period a maximum of from 36 to 39 was registered, the week's low of 15 being recorded last Friday morning. The KTRF weather station reported precipitation of .38 inch Monday, starting out as rain and in the evening turning into sleet and snow. A heavy fog visited the area Monday, reducing visibility to a minimum."

Legion Band Plays Over KTRF December 12

"The 40-piece Thief River Falls Legion municipal band will broadcast a program over Radio Station KTRF next Wednesday evening, December 12, from 9:05 to 9:30, it was announced today by Robert S. Harmon, director. During the half-hour program, six numbers varying widely in character, will be presented. Selections include 'Carnival March' by Ted Mesang; 'Mantilla,' a Spanish overture by Paul Yoder; 'Iowa Band Law' by K. L. King; 'South of the Rio,' a selection of Latin-American melodies by J. Dlivadotti; 'Spook Eyes,' a bogie wogie novelty by Carl Franz Kiser; and 'His Honor March' by Henry Fillmore."

Holiday Lights Are Turned On In Downtown Area

"Festoons of colored lights above the streets in the downtown section were turned on for the first time last Wednesday night, creating a most festive holiday effect. With local stores remaining open until 9 o'clock both Friday and Saturday evenings until Christmas, a large number of shoppers turned out both nights last week. Stores will remain open evenings the last week before Christmas on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 19-22."

Capacity Crowds Greet Ford Show

"The Ford Farming Festival, presented last Friday by the Tunberg Motor company, attracted a near capacity audience to the auditorium during the afternoon, while in the evening the crowd was so large that not all were able to gain admittance. The total turn-out for the two shows was estimated at well above 2,500.

"Entertainment offerings included the showing of several reels of sound motion pictures, as well as a half-dozen ably presented vaudeville acts, which won generous applause from the audience. Doughnuts and coffee were served following both the afternoon and evening shows."

RESIGNED

Rev. Sterling No Longer Pastor of Methodist Church.

"In the interest of harmony, Rev. W. Allen Sterling has resigned as pastor of the Methodist church in this city. Rev. Sterling has been pastor here for the past year, and was recently called to serve another year. He has been an extremely energetic pastor and has worked hard for the success of the church here, taking it in a weak and struggling condition and making it one of the strongest societies in the city.

"The News is in receipt of a communication from a member of the Methodist church severely criticizing another member of that body for the part he has taken in opposing Rev. W. Allen Sterling, and recites that the proper time to have made complaint was before the state conference was held, which would have given Rev. Sterling an opportunity to have secured a good calling, and that now all the desirable places are filled, and that Rev. Sterling will be a great sufferer. The communication is too personal to be printed, and the News does not believe any discussion of the affair will be of any benefit to the church. Let bygones be bygones."

LUMBER SHORTAGE

"It would appear that by January this territory will be in the throes of a lumber famine, so far as the better grades are concerned, says the Minneapolis Lumberman. When sawing to their fullest capacity, the manufacturers were not able to much improve the broken condition of their stocks, so heavy has been the demand. With one or two exceptions, the mills have been closed down for the season and as there will be no more sawing until next spring, the demand, that is sure to come the remainder of the year and the early part of next, will render the already bad conditions worse. Without doubt many items will be wiped out. The low and broken condition of stocks in this market is but an example of what is the case in others. Down river points report stock demoralized."

From St. Hilaire:

St. Hilaire Defeats Argyle

"Leaving St. Hilaire on Friday afternoon on a trip that seemed impossible, the Saints plowed through the snow for four hours and when they finally got to their goal they were a fighting bunch and this they proved to Argyle High by beating them to the tune of 29-19, giving St. Hilaire their first basketball victory this year in their first game.

"Starting out with a versatile attack led by Capt. Hallamack and Wendell Beebe, the Saints were not to be denied of their scoring power. Beebe got a field goal a minute after play started and this was followed by a goal by Hallamack and two free throws by him, making scores of 6-0 for the Saints in the first quarter. The second quarter was a repetition of the first with the Saints tossers playing a better all-round brand of ball than their opponents, St. Hilaire netting three more field goals and a free throw while Argyle managed to drop the ball through the hoop for a field goal and two free throws, this making the score 13-4 as the half ended.

"The second half started out fast again and Argyle started to resort to football tactics, the result of which sent Quickstad, the Argyle running guard to the showers on personals and crippling the Saints. The two guards for St. Hilaire were both hit hard in the second half and at that held their heads and never fouled as some guards would be tempted to do after receiving the punishment they did. For the Argyle team, scoring was better in this half than the first, as they managed to hold the Saints to a tie score, 15 all. The St. Hilaire team was minus their regular center and back guard on account of illness. This shows that we have a couple of dependable subs and a good team can be looked for again this year, as our subs stayed with the rest of the boys in the game.

"The trip home again was postponed until Saturday morning on account of the cold weather Friday night. On Saturday morning it was far from nice, but the boys were full of pep and it took more than snow to stop them. They arrived in St. Hilaire at 1 o'clock in the afternoon."

St. John's Lutheran Church

At 10:30 a German service will be held, in which the sermon topic will be discussed: 'The Prince of Bethlehem.' In conjunction with this service Holy Communion will be celebrated. All those who wish to partake of Holy Communion may give their name before the service. In the evening at 7:15 an English confessional address will be given. At 7:45 an English service will be conducted. In this service Pastor Buenger will preach the theme 'The Sunset of David.' Holy Communion will be celebrated. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Sixth grade students at Franklin Middle School went trick or treating for food and collected 1,067 food items for the area food shelf. The weather in northwest Minnesota is making the winter seem shorter and shorter. Today, December 3, the snow is melting on the street which is better than the snow flurries we were promised by the weathermen this morning. In only three weeks, the days will be getting a few minutes longer each day and the hopes of spring will brighten the cloudy days.

We are happy to be home after an extended stay in Grand Forks and Roy is getting better each day. There are a couple of angels living on The Point in East Grand Forks, who certainly contributed many efforts to make our stay comfortable. On Thanksgiving Day, Cindy brought the complete Thanksgiving dinner, including two kinds of pies, to Neil and me at the hospital. Thanks Jim, Cindy and Christy.

Mark Vagle of Burnsville and Tim Vagle of Hillsdale, Mich., visited Roy in the hospital. Tim came home with us and flew home from Grand Forks on Wednesday. Royia Vagle was on business on the East Coast when he called us. Neil Vagle visited here on Saturday evening.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson brought dinner, including the dessert, the evening we came home, and the next day, Gloria Ranstrom brought a delicious casserole to us. It's very nice living so near all these relatives.

Morris and Hazel Anderson returned home from a Thanksgiving Day trip to be with Buz and Dorothy Chaffee in Wibaux, Mont. Chana Chaffee of Fargo, N.D., also spent the holiday at her parents' home.

Judy and Lola Kleinvachter, Mario Staffen, and Matt Hammer joined the Wayne and Pat Larson family for a lovely Thanksgiving Day dinner party.

The visitors at Judy's home were Wayne and Pat Larson, Vance and Kelly Lofreoth with Amanda and Jessica, Claudia Berggren with Jessie, Kali and Cheyenne, Maria Staffen, June Kasprowicz, and Sara Kleinvachter.

Those who came and spent Thanksgiving at Peter and Pearl Thompson's home were Debbie and Mike Evans, and Eric and Ryan of Lino Lakes, Sherrie Stewart and Steffanie and Seth of Burnsville, Kevin and Kelly Larson, Joshua, Alyssa, Alana and Alexis from the Cities, Jeremy Johnson of Minneapolis, Karen Thompson of Thief River Falls, LaVonne Johnson, Brian Johnson, Donny and Becky Johnson, and Michelle Johnson and Jake.

It is high time for us to get the Christmas trimmings up around here. I brought the tree and the trimmings down from the attic and put the tree together and lights around the windows, but will try to get the tree dressed tonight so Roy can enjoy it while sitting in his chair.

The water bucket is running over the top from the snow thawing on the roof. Roy always stores soft rainwater to water the plants in the house during the winter, so when I go outside with the news, I'll take it to the basement.

For every three items a sixth grade student brought in for the trick or treat food drive, his or her name was entered in a drawing for a $50 savings bond from Northern State Bank. Kyle Anderson of Northern State Bank (left) presented the bonds to this year's winners, Tricia Bestien and Beth Merben. Also pictured is Gary Laidley, Franklin Middle School instructor and coordinator of the annual event. (Submitted Photo)

"President Schunk?" visits schools

■ Lt. Gov. Mae Schunk visits schools and talks with children and staff

by David Hill
Editor

No, she's not the President, or George Washington. She's Minnesota's Lt. Governor Mae Schunk.

Schunk made a promise to visit every school district in the state of Minnesota when she was elected with Governor Jesse Ventura to serve the citizens of Minnesota. To date, she has visited over 270 school districts, and over 300 schools.

Monday, when Schunk was in Goodridge, she explained that she has had many fun and interesting experiences during her many visits to schools in Minnesota. When she was asked by an elementary student Monday if she was the President, she laughed and explained that she was not the President, but had been asked that by other students too. She also related a story about a student who, looking at her white hair, asked if she was George Washington.

Schunk, whose experience with education includes 23 years as a teacher in St. Paul, assistant principal and a curriculum specialist, joined the Ventura ticket because, she said, the Governor wanted someone with educational experience to help him. As Lt. Governor, Schunk believes she is his ambassador to education.

In the nearly three years she has spent as Lt. Governor, Schunk has encountered interesting questions and challenges. A student asked Monday, "what's the hardest part about being Lt. Governor?"

Schunk said when she was a teacher she wanted smaller classrooms and the resources she needed to provide the best possible education for her students. As Lt. Governor she sees a much broader picture, that includes several agencies competing for the limited funds available to the government.

A school board member asked how the projected $2 billion shortfall will affect education in Minnesota.

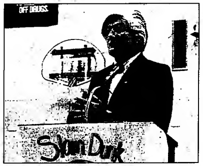
Schunk said every idea is being put on the table, and no decision has been made yet.

A student asked whether she felt the grad standards and profiles of learning were a success or failure.

Schunk said that as society changes, education must change to meet changing standards. She and the governor agree that teachers, students and parents must be accountable. "Have we been successful?" asked Schunk.

Schunk said she believes the changes should have been implemented in kindergarten, not ninth grade, and teachers were not given enough time to integrate the changes into the curriculum. But Schunk said, while they believe implementation has not been perfect, they are working on how to make it better.

Schunk encouraged the students to continue to have a good time in education, but reminded them they are preparing for their future. She hoped that some of the students listening to her on Monday would eventually choose a career in education.



Lt. Governor Mae Schunk visited area schools this week. Monday morning she stopped at Goodridge Public School where she was welcomed by the student body.

School board discusses class size reductions

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

In his communications to the board of education Monday night, Chair Steve Young discussed class size reduction in grades one through three at Challenger Elementary School.

Currently, Thief River Falls Public Schools receives the following funds to help reduce class size: Learning and Development, $334,539.; Eleven Dollar Set-Aside, $27,757; and Federal Class Size, $71,923. School District 564's priority is to reduce class sizes in kindergarten through third grade first. It has also used federal funds to address reading in grades one, two and three.

Student counts as of October 1, number of sections, number of teachers assigned, and class sizes are as follows: 131 Kindergarten students, eight sections, four teachers, 16.4 students per section; 142 first grade students, seven sections and teachers, 20.3 students per section; 151 second grade students, seven sections and teachers, 21.6 students per section; 128 third grade students, six sections and teachers, 21.3 students per section; 141 fourth grade students, six sections and teachers, 23.5 students per section; 143 fifth grade students, six sections and teachers, 23.8 students per section; and 168 sixth grade students, seven sections and teachers, 24 students per section. Adjusted class sizes for reading in first, second and third grades are 19.4, 20.6 and 20.22 respectively.

Reports

Carl Clark spoke on behalf of the negotiations committee, reporting that progress in teachers' negotiations is slow. Language issues have monopolized meetings thus far, although Clark said he is hopeful that there will be a financial proposal soon. The negotiations committee and teachers will meet again on December 13. Clark noted also that the committee would also be meeting with the administrative bargaining group soon.

Randy Twistol, who serves on the Northwest Service Cooperative board, also made a report to the board of education on several NWSC issues pertinent to the school district.

In his report to the school board, business manager Harry Nelson briefly discussed the final 2001 Payable 2002 levy, which was certified in the board's new business later in the meeting, as well as the proposed purchase of two new school buses and the sale of three used buses and a district station wagon.

Superintendent Irv Peterson updated the board of education about several items, including the work of the district's assessment committee. Two testing committees will be in Thief River Falls to make presentations in January, and Peterson told board members that he would like to see board representation at the presentations. He also reported to the board that since its last meeting, seven additional audio enhancement systems have

School Bullies

When does "kids just being kids" cross the line?

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

It's just kids being kids. A common response to "harmless" teasing often seen between kids. But when do actions or words cross the barely visible line, and become harmful?

Bullying is one of the most underrated problems in schools today, and exists in rural, suburban and inner city areas.

Lincoln High School Principal Tom Hunt said the school doesn't have a problem with bullying overall, "but we do have the typical problems of other high schools our size."

The word bullying can describe many different types of behavior. It includes verbal or physical teasing, and taunting or intimidating a peer to gain control or power.

As a parent, Challenger Elementary School Principal Patrick Marolt said he has even seen instances of bullying in pre-school. "There are usually one or two kids who step up to be the bully."

Franklin Middle School may not have all the answers, but they're definitely doing something right.

"It's not so much of a problem here," said Franklin Middle School Principal Bob Wayne.

So what exactly is their secret? It's respect.

From the first day they step into Franklin, students are taught to respect each other. Wayne said they are "explained the rights and wrongs" laid out in school policy. Consequences for acts of bullying are established, and followed through with if the rules are broken. Seems like a simple approach, and experience has shown it's a successful one. The school's suspensions and discipline problems in general are down.

Wayne lays the credit on the students and great parenting. Students have responded very positively to the policy.

"As you can tell by my voice, I'm pretty proud of my kids," said Wayne.

Lincoln faculty take the same approach with their students. Hunt said any type of interaction between students and faculty is viewed as an educational opportunity. This includes making sure a student understands why harassing another student is not acceptable, and that there are consequences for these actions. If a student continues this type of behavior throughout his or her life, Hunt said the school hasn't done its job.

"The number one thing we can do for our students is listen to them," said Hunt. "I believe we do a fairly good job of this, and may de-escalate some situations that could occur."

At Challenger Elementary Marolt said "the main thing is getting everybody together" to discuss the problem. That includes parents, faculty, and the kids involved. He said they "work out a plan together," and both sides have a chance to tell their stories.

Finding the problem

Students, parents and school faculty all play a role in eliminating bullying in schools. Parents and faculty can pick up on signals that something may be bothering a child.

"I feel really comfortable with the staff," said Hunt. "If they pick-up on things occurring in the classroom that are out of the ordinary, they will report it."

Continually being bullied may cause the child to remove himself or herself from the situation completely, said Marolt. Children may ask to go to the nurse's office frequently, or begin to ask parents if they can stay home from school.

The U.S. Department of Justice and the National Association of School Psychologists estimate that 160,000 students miss school every day out of fear of being bullied. Fourteen percent of American students suffer lifelong psychiatric effects as a result of bullying.

Cause for action comes when a student feels belittled by another student, said Hunt. The level of harassment can vary, and juvenile officers will be involved if a person's safety is being affected. The same is true for middle school and elementary school students.

The million dollar answer

If Marolt knew exactly what causes bullying, he said he'd be a millionaire. A child can display the behavior as a result of being alienated by other children. Frustration with schoolwork may also cause a child to use bullying as an outlet to deal with the problem.

> At Challenger Elementary, Marolt said "the main thing is getting everybody together" to discuss the problem.

Typically, boys are more likely to use physical means to bully other children. Girls will taunt and tease, rather than pursue anything physical. Of course in today's world of overflowing girl power, the situation can be reversed.

The Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning confirms that instances of bullying can be decreased by effective and consistent school-wide programs.

In 1989 the CFL and the Minnesota Department of Human Resources began a statewide student survey of sixth-, ninth- and Wayne said Franklin doesn't see many problems with bullying. He gives credit to the great students, parenting and staff.

Songs," the Concert Choir's latest CD. While the CD will not be released until February, Mrs. Reese received a master tape to play at the concert. An order form will be furnished with each program, allowing those interested to send in their forms. All CDs must be prepaid when placing the order. In addition to featuring the Lincoln High School Concert Choir, the recording features Henry Oertelt, a Terezin concentration camp survivor, and two other survivors. Their live stories create a one-of-a-kind recording, one that the choir and Mrs. Reese are very excited about.

The Concert Choir will open Monday's program with a set of four choral works. The first work will be "Praise the Lord" by F. Melius Christiansen. The Russian composer, Tchesnokoff, wrote the second piece, entitled "Salvation is Created." This hauntingly beautiful work stirs emotions from deep within the singer's soul. "Monotone," a 20th Century piece, describes the sound of rain and will put the soprano section to the test as it is required to keep the rhythm of the rain throughout the entire piece. The final song of the set, a gospel entitled "Ain't Got Time to Die," will feature junior David Edwards.

The 79-voice Bel Canto Choir will begin its portion of the program with Handel's "Shout the Glad Tidings." This choir is composed of ninth and tenth grade students. Its second selection will be "Prayer of St. Francis" by Rene Clausen, one of the most difficult pieces Mrs. Reese has every thrown out to a choir this young. The choir will close its portion of the program with Mozart's "Praise the Lord Be Joyful," accompanied by Cathy Hagen.

A guitar ensemble made up of Kris Adamson, Ty Lahren and Chris Leach will take to the stage, performing original arrangements of the favorites, "Silent Night" and "What Child is This."

Swingsations, a vocal jazz group, will grace the stage with two selections which will feature soprano soloist JoAnna Swantek and tenor soloist Danny Christensen. Toe-tapping selections will include "Choo, Cho, Ch' Boogie," "And So it Goes," and "Blue Skies."

The Concert Choir will return to the stage for two Renaissance pieces by Palestrina sung in Latin and one double chorus selection sung in German. The German piece, "Furchtet Euch Nicht," is officially dedicated to the memory of Marge Swenson from the choir as well as Marge's dear Minneapolis friend, Elaine Schuessler. Mrs. Schuessler called Mrs. Reese this past summer, requesting that she select a piece that would be an appropriate memorial. Schuessler helped pay for the music which could only be purchased overseas. This beautiful double chorus piece tells of the birth of Christ in the City of David and encourages all to "Be Not Afraid." The choir will perform the piece for Mrs. Schuessler at a private concert in Minneapolis in April during its "Holocaust Remembrance Day" performance at Beth El Synagogue in St. Louis Park.

In the concert's finale, all 145 voices will fill the stage, performing "All Glory, Laud and Honor," accompanied by the LHS Chamber Orchestra and Cathy Hagen.

Evening of Enchantment tickets will be sold at the door at the concert. This $30 per plate candlelight supper will be presented January 19 at the Evangelical Free Church. Tickets, which make great gifts, are limited.

Monday's "A Season of Peace" concert is free to the public, and everyone is welcome to attend and bring their friends. Participants, however, are asked not to bring cell phones as they interfere with the electrical equipment.

An angel choir sings an announcement of Messiah's birth in "Fire of Hope," which will be performed at Open Arms Christian Fellowship at 401 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls, at 7:30 p.m. December 15 and 16. Erickson said he is expecting a lot of entries for the first race of the season. There hasn't been much snow throughout the region, and racers are anxious to test their snowmobiles. Erickson said that he anticipates that a lot of well-known top racers might enter because the Lucky Seven is the first race of the season.

Currently, nine races are scheduled for this season. The first will be the 7 Clans Lucky Seven SnoCross December 15 and 16. Other races include the Warren SnoCross December 29-30, 7 Clans Triple 7 SnoCross January 5-6, Ironman SnoCross in Thief River Falls January 19-20, a Non-Points River Run in Thief River Falls January 26-27, the Little Iron 120 in Thief River Falls February 2-3, a race to be announced February 9-10, the Red Lake Falls SnoCross February 16-17, and the RRV SnoCross in West Fargo, March 9-10.

Jeff Jasperson, casino and hotel executive at 7 Clans - Thief River Falls, said they are excited to be the host of so many of the races this year.

Last year, the casino was the host of the Little Iron 120 and participated as a sponsor of races and racers. This year, Jasperson said will be a "building year."

North Star will offer several classes to racers this year including Pro 440 liquid, Pro open, Legends, Semi-Pro liquid, Semi-Pro liquid open, Semi-Pro 440 fan, Semi-Pro fan open, Womens, Semi-Pro 600 class, Junior I, Junior novice, 120 and 120 Improved stock classes.

"If you can read, you can do anything," said Lt. Governor Mae Schunk to Mrs. Moe's third graders at Goodridge Monday morning. Schunk stopped to visit students at several area schools early this week. She spoke with students and educators about the importance of education and answered their many questions. In Mrs. Moe's class, the Lt. Governor read from Laura Ingalls Wilder's "Little House in the Big Woods."

been purchased for all of the first grade rooms at Challenger Elementary School. He also reported on the activities of the technology committee and touched on the state's economy projections. More information about the state of the state's economy and what it will mean for the school district, Peterson said, should be available at the board meeting in January.

• The board of education recognized the girls swim team which had four state participants: Cami Hendrickson, Allyson Henning, Chelsey Haviland and Brittany Haviland. It also congratulated Chelsey Haviland for her fourth consecutive diving championship.

• In its Consent Agenda, the board of education approved the following personnel items: the resignation of Carol Haymond as an educational assistant at Franklin Middle School effective December 8, 2001; the resignation of Amy Jo Ryan as an educational assistant at Challenger Elementary School effective December 28, 2001; the employment of Teresa Holthusen as a playground EA at Challenger Elementary School effective November 19, 2001; the employment of Ryan Halvorson as a PH PPSA at Challenger Elementary School effective December 3, 2001 with salary and benefits per negotiated contract; family leave for Stacey Leake from March 22, 2002 through the end of the 2001-2002 school year, the resignation of Wendy McCollough, PPSA at Challenger Elementary School, effective November 16, 2001; the extra-curricular assignment of Jeff Gustafson as assistant eighth grade girls basketball coach for the 2001-2002 school year; and the employment of Janis Witthoft as a PH PPSA at Challenger Elementary School effective December 3, 2001 with salary and benefits per negotiated contract.

When does "kids just being kids" cross the line?

twelfth-graders. The survey has been administered every three years since its beginning. Recorded data shows that while other risk behaviors become more prevalent, violent behavior becomes less common as students get older. In addition the survey stated that students' perceptions about their schools' environment are gradually increasing. A healthy school climate promotes academic and social growth among students.

Victims and bullies alike can experience emotional, behavioral and underachievement problems in school. According to CFL, research has shown that three out of five kids who bully will have a criminal conviction by age 24.

At the 2001 Minnesota State Fair, CFL launched its bullying awareness program, "Bully: Small Word, Big Problem." Those attending were surveyed about the problem. Out of those participating, it was revealed that students and teachers feel bullying is a larger problem then parents do. Students were less likely to agree than parents or teachers that current school bullying policies were effective.

The goals of CFL's project is to focus attention on what bullying is, why it is a problem, and what can be done about it.

CFL Commissioner Christine Jax plans to participate in town forums with educators and community members across the state. The purpose is to spread awareness about the problem of bullying. She will make stops in Thief River Falls, Moorhead and International Falls in mid-March.

A Bethlehem innkeeper (Jen Nordine) expresses his regrets in song during "Fire of Hope," December 15 and 16, which will be performed at 7:30 p.m. at Open Arms Christian Fellowship. "If only I were able to remember their names," he pines, trying to recall a young couple who some time ago, gave birth in his stable.

Local business owner involved in Internet scam

On December 6, 12:20 p.m. police received a report from a Thief River Falls bank regarding a business scam. A Thief River Falls business owner had received a business proposition via e-mail from a Web contact named Musa Bello. Bello reportedly wrote that his company, located in Nigeria, was interested in buying her designs. The local woman was then asked to send $145,000 to assist in project funding, which she did. At that time, the federal government had put a hold on all money leaving the United States because of recent terrorist activity. If not for this hold, the woman would not have gotten the money back. It would have been transferred to a bank account in London, and then rolled over into a bank account in Nigeria.

Con artists take advantage of people with offers that seem too good to pass up. Any deal that seems too good to be true, usually is just that. The Federal Trade Commission offers the following tips on avoiding consumer fraud. Don't do business with any company that won't clearly provide its name, street address and telephone number.

Be skeptical of outrageous claims like "Big Profits Guaranteed," "Quick and Easy Money," and "No Risk." Every potentially high-profit investment is also high-risk, and all money invested in it could be lost.

Remember to read all the fine print. Get promises in writing, and review them carefully before making a payment or signing a contract.

Crashes are the leading cause of trooper injuries in Minnesota

Activities such as traffic stops and protecting crash scenes put troopers in the line of danger everyday.

On the morning of December 4, Minnesota State Trooper Jonathon Paurus was responding to a crash scene in the Mankato area. Heavy fog had severely reduced visibility. While law enforcement and emergency responders directed traffic by the crash scene, Paurus was in his squad car interviewing one of the drivers involved in the accident. Out of the fog came a semi, which struck another semi and a fire truck, before slamming into Paurus' car and crushing it.

Paurus and his passenger were extricated by emergency personnel. They were treated and released from the hospital, but sustained no serious injuries.

Incidents such as this highlight the dangerous nature of troopers' jobs. Risk increases in poor weather conditions when motorists are more likely to lose control of their vehicles.

State Patrol Capt. Stan Gruis says he can only attribute their survival to remarkable luck. "After seeing the squad car after the crash; you would wonder how anyone got out of it alive."

Last year troopers were involved in 233 crashes, one of which took the life of Cpl. Theodore Foss. This year, troopers have sustained personal injuries or damage to their vehicles in 161 crashes.

Most crashes are preventable, said State Patrol Lt. Mark Peterson. "Crashes usually occur when people are not obeying the traffic laws. These laws are designed to keep people safe, and sometimes disregarding them leads to tragic consequences."

To avoid endangering other motorists, as well as troopers in their work zone, motorists need to adapt driving behavior to weather conditions.

On September 10, 2001, Almendarez was in custody at the Pennington County Jail, when he punched a correctional officer in the body. He was fined $178, and sentenced to 19 months in jail.

Annual Christmas musical presented at Open Arms Church in TRF

A group of shepherds proclaim what they have seen and heard in the hills of Judea and then in a Bethlehem manger during "Fire of Hope," which will be performed at Open Arms Christian Fellowship at 401 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls, at 7:30 p.m. December 15 and 16. Pictured from left are: Jim Matson, Marshal Vagle, Nathan Rittenour, Dan Sayler, Brian German, Alan Rogalla and Gary York.

"Fire of Hope" sheds light on meaning of Christmas

■ Annual Christmas musical, a dramatic musical, will be presented in Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 15-16

"Fire of Hope," a dramatic Christmas musical, will be presented Saturday and Sunday, December 15 and 16, 7:30 p.m. at Open Arms Christian Fellowship, 401 St. Paul Ave. S. There is no admission; a freewill offering will be accepted. Refreshments will be served following the program

Prelude music will include a children's choir, handbell choir, congregational singing and a Christmas story.

Doug Holck, who wrote and arranged "Fire of Hope," explains the setting for the musical:

"For over 2,000 years, the Jewish people had been looking for their Yeshua. Ever since the promise of His coming had been made to their father, Abraham, they had been anticipating His arrival. Hoping, always hoping, that just over the horizon. . . on the dawn of the next day. . . with the next passing caravan, there would be news of the King who would set them free from the tyranny of the Roman Emperor. Hope added fire to zeal, strengthened wills, and poured fresh waters of joy into hearts drained by Roman oppression. Yet sometimes hope waned.

"Little did the people of Bethlehem know that their dreams were about to be fulfilled and their lives forever changed. Shepherds would be startled by the singing of angels; a king would be born in their humble village. That He would come from Bethlehem was no mystery, but how He would come would defy the wildest imagination. That God would become a man was difficult enough to believe — that He would be born in a manger and welcomed by shepherds was more than some could accept.

"Against the backdrop of a Roman census, with lives in turmoil, He came. Unexpectedly. As He sometimes does. Always to those who need Him.

"For some His coming brought great joy; for others it meant momentary disappointment, a change of plans, even pain. The hope He brought and offers to us does not remove life's difficulties, but strengthens us to beat them. It does not eliminate the battles, but gives us victory in them.

"'Fire of Hope' is the story of a young mother's compelling quest through the events of her life. She is Hannah, a contemporary of Mary the mother of Jesus. Hannah was in Bethlehem the night Yeshua was born, but it was 33 years before she met Him."

The cast includes: Joanna Swantek as Hannah; Glenda Olson as Mary; Tim Rittenour as Joseph; Jan Nordine as Innkeeper; Oavid Christensen and Oan Sayler as prophets; Louren and Alyssa Rogalla, Elissa Northup and Melody Rittenour as child soloists; Kelly Rogalla as Martha; Katie German as Elizabeth; Alan Rogalla as agitator; Adam Silvia as census taker; Paul Adams as the disciple John; Nathan Rittenour and Adam Silvia as Roman soldiers: Marshall Vagle, Ron Northup, Jim Matson, Oan Sayler, Alan Rogalla, Brian Berman, Nathan Rittenour and Gary York as shepherds; Philip Olson, Josiah and Skyah Westerman, Tammi and Melody Rittenour, Josiah and Elissa Northup, Katherine Sayler, Lauren Rogalla, and Jennah Kelley as Angels; Alvina, Nathan, Tammi, Carl and Friedrick Rittenour, 'Oan and Katherine Sayler, Ron, Sheryl, Josiah, Elissa and Evan Northup, Alan, Kelly, Allysa, Louren and Robbie Rogalla, Katy Nordvick, Brian, Katie and Tori German, Gary and Karen York, Darrell and Mary Fran Zeller as travelers; Skyah Westerman, Tricia, Laurah and Jennah Kelley as the innkeeper's family, Jolayne Simpson and Vi McKeever as well attendants; Jim Matson, Marshall Vagle, Paul Adams and Mareus Mundall as merchants; Joanna Swantek, Lauren Rogalla and Katy German as skeptics. The drama director is Marilyne Sayler with Ruth Christensen, assistant. The music director is Ben Sayler. Choreographers are April Mundall and Ruth Christensen. Set design features art work by Nathan Rittenour and Helen Juhl; costume sewing by Tricia Kelley and Shari Westerman. Special effects, sound and lights by Ben and Tim Sayler and Steve Westerman.

Notes music director Ben Sayler, "The music is full of contrasts — from the collective suffering of the Jewish people under Roman oppression to their celebratory hope of a coming Messiah; from sober prophetic utterances to a lighthearted gossip session at the city well. The music is sometimes plaintive, sometimes happy; both haunting and humorous. At the end of the musical we hope to leave the audience with the sense of having experienced both the history and the personal reality of Emmanuel, God with us."

For more information, call 681-1776, 683-3251 or 681-2790.

Joanne Swentek, as Hannah, in "Fire of Hope" cries out to Yehweh, "Are you there? Do you care?" Hannah, now a widow since Roman oppressors killed her husband, is in Bethlehem, along with a crowd of visitors who have come to be registered. Because of a decree by Caesar Augustus, there is a massive influx of people into Bethlehem. Witnessing this is Hannah (JoAnne Swentek). Alone and bewildered, Hannah cries out to God, who for the moment, is silent. "Fire of Hope" will be performed at Open Arms Christian Fellowship at 401 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls, at 7:3B p.m. December 16 and 16.

Enjoying the fine art of marketplace gossip are Elizabeth (Katie German), left, and Martha (Kelly Rogalla), right. With great flair they share their impressions of strange visitors from the East in "Fire of Hope," December 15, and 16 at 7:3B p.m. at Open Arms Christian Fellowship at 401 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls.

Card of Thanks

Marvin and Marilyn Bennerman and their families would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who was involved in the success and the absolute overwhelming blessings (and they were many) that this family received on Friday, Nov. 23, for the Benefit Auction on Marilyn's behalf

First, a big thank you to Ray and Fawn Tray and VFW Post 2793 for all their help and total support from beginning to end, and to the Commander of the VFW, Randy Lian, for allowing the use of the VFW.

To Carol and John Larson, we thank you for jumping right in to help organize, give ideas, and cooking, cooking, cooking! Not only for the benefit, but for making Thanksgiving dinner for our crew.

Thank you to "Tobin" (Lyle Gilbertson) and Vern Dokkin who also helped in the kitchen and in any other way they could

Thank you to our auctioneers, Neil Anderson and Art Anderson. What a great time we had!

Thanks to the clean-up crew in the kitchen. You made life a lot easier!

Thanks to the AAL (Sherry Knutson) for their donation and support

A big "THANK YOU" to each and every business that donated food for the spaghetti feed, and to those who donated items for the auction. We could not believe how generous everyone has been and is continuing to be today

To all the friends from the community, and family and friends from out of town, thank you so much. If we have left anyone out, we are sorry

There was such a "team effort" it's hard to name everyone. But you know who you are.

We are asking that God will richly bless each and every one of you for your support and generosity on Marilyn's behalf. As I'm writing this today, December 3, 2001, Marilyn is receiving her first radiation and chemotherapy session. She will be going to Grand Forks every weekday for the next five weeks.

So on a more personal note...I need to ask that all of you that read this would take a little of your time each day to say a prayer for Marilyn. It's the most powerful "tool" we have to fight this "monster" that Marilyn is battling every day.

God Bless all of you "Big Time"

Kindness pours in like the sun, filling every moment of a day with new light.

Thank you hardly seems adequate to express our appreciation for all the love and comfort everyone has shown us in the days following Adam's death.

With sincere gratitude we acknowledge the following:

Pastor Galen Sylvester of Redeemer Lutheran Church for your visits and conducting the service.

Joyce Halbasch for the organ music.

Marnie Schafer for your beautiful voice and songs which brought tears to our eyes.

Our co-workers at Northwest Medical Center and Anderson Realty who brought cards, memorials, flowers, food, hugs, tears and chuckles to comfort us.

Adam's employer, Jim's SteaMagic, Scott and Darcy Hebert, and co-workers for cards, hugs, memorials, flowers and sympathy.

Our friends and neighbors who came to visit, brought food, shared memories of Adam and cried with us.

Art Heinze, Adam's mentor throughout his years in Scouts and Troopmaster when he attained his Eagle Award, for speaking from your heart about our son and brother.

Troop 199 Scouts and Leaders for your gesture of support in uniform at Adam's service and the banner in his honor. Scouts and the Scout program have enriched our lives as it did Adam's.

The Women of Redeemer Lutheran Church for serving lunch.

Green Funeral Home for handling arrangements and helping with decisions which overwhelmed us.

A special thank you goes to Adam's Class of 2001. We regret that we haven't known each and every one of you personally as you must be special, caring people to gather together as you did for the tribute to Adam. You touched our hearts with your tribute, your visits to our home, the memories of Adam you shared with us and the pictures and poems you gave us.

We are so grateful for all of you during these difficult days. By sharing our grief, you have given us the strength to face each hour and day.

MN Jobless claims still up from last year

New applications for unemployment benefits in Minnesota are up nearly 24 percent from last November, according to Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner Earl Wilson. Initial claims for unemployment benefits are up by more than 100 percent from a year ago for workers in professional, technical, and managerial as well as service occupations.

Despite the persistent increases, the Department of Economic Security is able to handle the workload because of past investments in technology. "To avoid delays, we recommend that newly unemployed persons with Internet access go online and file, or pick up a phone and file for benefits," said Unemployment Insurance Director Jack Weidenbach. Downloadable forms and information are available online in Hmong, Spanish and Somali. In addition, callers with questions can be connected to staff members who are fluent in these languages.

Unemployed persons can go online at www.mnwfc.org/ui to file for benefits. Or, unemployed people can call the TeleClaim phone system between the hours of 7 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday (Mondays and Tuesdays tend to be the busiest): 1-877-898-9090 in Greater Minnesota.

For questions about whether to file or how much the weekly benefit amount would be, there is also a general information line: 1-877-504-5050 in Greater Minnesota.

Any of Minnesota's 53 WorkForce Centers offer computers with Internet access and telephones that can be used. Or, a newly unemployed person may pick up a paper application at any Minnesota WorkForce Center. Minnesota's WorkForce Centers offer a host of employment and training services for unemployed persons and people searching for a new or better career. To locate the nearest WorkForce Center, call 1-888-438-5627.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

Pancakes are my favorite food, although I don't believe in eating them after nine in the morning. They are a morning food. Ordering or making them at any other time of the day makes me feel as if I am still in pajamas.

However, it is perfectly proper to make up extra pancakes in the morning and then eat them cold as a snack throughout the day. On the kitchen table in my grandparents house there usually sat a plate of cold cakes under a kettle cover. They didn't last long once I discovered them.

In New Zealand, you can purchase cold pancakes at most any bakery. They are rolled up with whipped sweet butter in the middle. I wish that idea would catch on here.

My cousin Lanette's Swedish pancakes are prize winners. She serves them with linganberries. She lives in the Cities and has a large family, which causes two problems: For one, I don't get to eat her Swedish pancakes very often. For another: When I do, I have to share.

The worst pancake I ever ate was at the Bryant Lake Bowl in the Uptown neighborhood of Minneapolis. Their batter contained whole wheat flour, buckwheat flour, and several other virtuous but bad-tasting ingredients. The cake was awful. Nothing else on Bowl's menu is healthy, I don't know why they changed policy with their pancakes.

A couple of months ago I decided it was time for me to learn to make pancakes. I started with boxed mixes. They worked, but boxed mixes seemed like a cop-out, so I switched to making them from scratch.

My from-scratch pancakes were inconsistent and too bready. Plus, there were shiny black bugs in my bag of flour. So, I reverted to boxed mixes, and instead began to experiment with the type of liquid I added to the mix.

Buttermilk is best. In fact, I have come to believe that all cooking could benefit from a shot of buttermilk. A dash of buttermilk makes good pancakes, but it also makes killer mashed potatoes, scrumptious squash, tender chicken breasts, and tasty pork chops.

Back to cakes. Strawberry yogurt juice adds an irresistable fruity flavor. Soy milk makes smoother pancakes than cow milk. Adding a dash of oil or butter seems to make crispier cakes. Orange juice doesn't work at all.

Griddle temperature is vital. I turn the burner on 3-and-a-half. That gets the right level of brown. Any hotter and you'll have a blue haze in your house until noon.

Making up the batter the night before is best, and it just gets better as the days go by. It is best to store the batter in the fridge or it can get crusty, especially if you run your furnace above sixty degrees.

I suppose this is ridiculous. I am passing myself off as some sort of pancake expert and I have been making them for all of two months. But in the interest of furthering pancake knowledge, I thought the least I could do was pass along the results of my research.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Brittany Larson, Lincoln High School

Each year, an estimated 35 to 40 million live Christmas trees are purchased and decorated in the United States. This year, with a sense of patriotic duty, I assisted in decorating two of them. Both stood in the forest (at the Eagles) that formed the Christmas Tree Walk.

Since proceeds from this walk go towards Hospice, naturally businesses and organizations are eager to participate. I'm sure the fact that each tree is prominently credited to each group that decorates it doesn't hurt either. As service organizations, the LHS Key Club and the National Honor Society were teeming with other excited tree decorators. Of course, all were girls.

You can imagine our unbridled enthusiasm for picking out decorations. We found all the essentials, from sparkly star wire to shimmering purple beads. Then there was the skirt, the star, the lights, the balls, and the extension cord. We could have been Kmart's dream customers...at least until we realized that we had grossly exceeded our budgets. Unfortunately, this meant that a lot of our coolest decorations had to be returned to the shelves.

As as soon as we entered the Eagles, we realized not every group had their backs to the wall financially. Just looking at Digi-Key's tree, it was obvious money was no object. Their tree was an elaborate masterpiece of ribbons and lights. It looked like an advertisement for Martha Stewart. Besides, they had taken the best tree...I guess it pays to get there early. It was impeccable with its perfectly proportioned branches and tall, stately stature. If this was the standard, we didn't stand a chance. Clearly, this was going to be a tough act to follow.

By the time we chose our trees, it was slim pickings. The remaining trees just didn't have the appeal of the Digi-Key tree. To put it gently, they lacked symmetry in a big way. And the spacing of the branches was less than ideal...the ones that were there were sparse, almost like the scroggly, but classic Charlie Brown Christmas tree. This made decorating a challenge.

I'll spare you the painful details of our decorating ordeal. Keep in mind that our teams consisted of many decorators, each with her own vision of how the finished trees should look. I doubt that anyone's vision was realized, but we did use up all the decorations. We even managed to break some. There is no question that the final products looked as though they were designed by committees. But they were done.

This year, people could bid on the tree of their choice through a Silent Auction. Incredible as it may seem, both trees sold. In fact, the Key Club tree is lying atop a snow bank beneath our basketball hoop as I write.

Outstanding year for Central Boiler and Central Fireplace

An outstanding year has allowed Central Boiler and Central Fireplace, located south of Greenbush, to distribute over $400,000 in bonuses to employees for the eighth year in a row.

The sales increase is more than doubled from last year. The company is the leading manufacture of outdoor wood furnaces, and has the most efficient direct vent gas fireplace line.

Hydra Fire, a new type of outdoor wood furnace, has been added to the company's line of products. The new division and increase in sales has created the need to expand the manufacturing facility. The expansion project will add an additional 48,000 square feet to the facility, and will accommodate four new truck bays, four loading docks, offices and increased production space. The expansion will allow the company to increase production, and to meet sales' demands for this year.

The increase in production, brought a 60 percent increase in employment. Each employee's bonus check was based on the length of their employment at the company, hours they worked, profit sharing, and the company's overall safety record. The company rewards employees as a groups for safe working habits, and reduced injuries.

Buyer beware: adopt an anti-scam attitude

According to the Federal Trade Commission, most scams fall into two categories: those that bank on basic human nature, like a person's optimism, naiveté, good nature and greed, and those that are so sophisticated and ingenious that most consumers couldn't possibly see through them. The FTC enforces consumer protection laws, and helps consumers learn to spot and avoid fraud.

"Good information can be a consumer's best defense against fraud and deception," said Howard Beales, the FTC's director of consumer protection. "When you combine it with an attitude that demands that the seller 'prove it,' you put yourself in a better position to recognize an offer that sounds just too darned good to make sense."

Here are the FTC's basic strategies for adopting an anti-scam attitude:

Cut the claims down to size. Read between the lines of claims broadcasting guaranteed big profits, quick and easy money, or no risk, big reward. Why would someone sell their hard-earned secrets of success through a late night infomercial or magazine ad?

Know who is being dealt with. Walk away from any company that doesn't clearly state its name, physical address and telephone number. A website alone or a mail box drop should raise suspicions.

Protect personal information. It's a valuable commodity. Share credit card or other personal information only when buying from a company that is known and trusted. Ask what the company will do with the information before it is shared.

Take your time. The more urgency there is to act immediately, the slower one should proceed. Resist any urge to "act now" despite the offer and the terms. Once money is turned over, it may be gone for good.

The devil's in the details and the small print. Get all promises in writing, and review them carefully with a knowledgeable advisor before any payments are made, or contracts are signed.

Be realistic about the risk. Every potentially high-profit investment is high-risk.

Never pay for a "free" gift. Throw away any offer asking that a "free" gift be paid for. Free is free.

Appearances can be deceiving. Many fraudulent businesses either use names that sound like established, legitimate organizations, or sell products that imitate respected, well-known brands. Research a business to find out if it's legitimate. Ask questions and check with local consumer protection agencies.

Volunteers provide free tax help

The Internal Revenue Service and the Minnesota Department of Revenue are coordinating volunteer programs to provide free tax help to people who can't afford professional assistance.

The program includes taxpayers with low or limited incomes, disabilities, and other special needs, or who are non-English speaking, or senior citizens.

Anyone, from college students to retirees to professionals, can be volunteers. The IRS, the Minnesota Department of Revenue, and their community partners provide free tax law training and all material needed to prepare basic individual income tax returns. Bilingual capabilities, knowledge of accounting, and computer skills are desirable but not required.

"We are looking to expand the number of volunteer programs in Minnesota, to meet the needs of folks who need help the most," said Jane Warriner, who oversees IRS education and outreach programs in a nine-state areas, including Minnesota. "We need volunteers, and we also need more organizations to sponsor these volunteer programs."

Free training is available for volunteers interested in preparing tax returns. Volunteers are also needed for arranging site locations and promoting volunteer tax assistance in the community.

"You don't need to be a tax pro to volunteer, but the program is certified for Continuing Professional Education credits for those who are," said Warriner.

Programs include Volunteer Income-Tax-Assistance, cosponsored by Accountability Minnesota and other community groups. Also included are Tax Counseling for the Elderly and Tax-Aide, coordinated through AARP.

To volunteer call the IRS at 651-312-7637; the Minnesota Department of Revenue at 1-800-657-3829; AARP at 1-888-AARP-NDW; or Accountability Minnesota at 651-287-0187.

Stay back, stay alive: give snowplows room to work

With forecasts calling for a repeat of last winter's above average snowfall, the Minnesota Department of Transportation urges motorists to put safety in the driver's seat this winter.

Mn/DOT's deputy commissioner Doug Weiszhaar said keeping the 52 inches of average snowfall off of Minnesota's 12,000 miles of state highways is their biggest job.

"Many people don't know that snowplows travel much slower than the posted speeds, and that the driver's field of vision is severely restricted," said Mn/DOT's state maintenance engineer Mark Wikelius. "That's why it is so important for motorists to slow down, give the snowplows plenty of room and give themselves plenty of time to react if the plow turns or exits."

Accident figures show that the greater majority of crashes involving snowplows result in injury or death to the drivers of cars or trucks. Wikelius said most of these crashes could have been avoided if drivers had given themselves more time to react.

It's recommended to drive with headlights on and with cruise control turned off in the winter. Keep safe distance from snowplow operators, because it's likely other vehicles may not be visible to them. Mn/Dot warns against driving into a snow cloud caused by snowplow. They exit and turn frequently and often without warning.

Mn/DOT would also like to remind motorists to pay attention to weather forecasts, road reports and storm warning, and follow travel advisories.

For current weather and road condition information call 1-800-542-0220, or log-on to Mn/DOT's Web site at www.dot.state.mn.us. Cell phone users can also access the information by dialing 511. There is no extra charge for the 511 call other than the normal airtime or roaming charge for wireless phone users.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: I received a mailing about Medicare from some group called the Center for Medicare Services. Is it legitimate or is it an advertisement?

A: It is likely not an advertisement. In June 2001 the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), the agency responsible for operating Medicare, was renamed and is now the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services. This seems to be the organization sending you mail. When the change in name took place, Secretary of Health and Human Services Tommy thompson said the new name better reflected the mission of the agency, as well as a renewed commitment to be more responsive to health care beneficiaries and providers. It is good to question mail that you are not sure about. When unsure, remember that neither Medicare (Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services) nor the Social Security Administration sells or endorses any commercial products. Incidentally, the Medicare Web site at www.medicare.gov contains a section about how to recognize fraud and abuse. Also on that Web site is a section called "helpful contacts," which can be used to find state-by-state phone numbers for Medicare information and Information about Medicare mailings can also be obtained by calling the national medicare toll-free number 1-800-633-4227.

Q: My sister's brother died this summer. She is 60 and the children are grown. Can she get Social Security on his record?

A: Yes, with the usual assumption that he had enough work to be insured for Social Security purposes. Widows and widowers can receive survivor benefits based on age at age 60. While also reduced for age, this is younger than the age 62 for starting early retirement benefits. If she has not already done so, your sister should definitely contact her local SSA office for more information. General information about survivor and other benefits is also on the SSA Web site of www.ssa.gov.

PARENTING TIPS
Holidays and Children

The excitement of the holiday season sometimes brings certain hazards. Weeks of hectic shopping and busy preparations can create nervous tension and anxiety for the whole family, including small children.

If you have young children, keep your schedule and holiday activities as simple as possible. Try to arrange your schedule around your child's normal routine. Most important, make sure they get plenty of sleep. Choose only those activities that are important to you and your family and let some of the busy things go. Concentrate on people rather than objects during the holidays.

Remember that during this holiday season, the best gift you can give your children is yourself. Take time to read an extra story, sing songs, cuddle, and listen to holiday music with your children. Take a walk through your neighborhood. Look at the lights and decorations together.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about holiday sights and sounds. Help your child become aware of the many interesting things to look at and to listen to!

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...A Delivery Elf?

Let me tell you, just because I write a column or two for The Times and Watch doesn't mean I get special privileges, that's for sure. The reason that I know this is because I'm having trouble (not) getting my Watch lately.

For years I've heard people complain about (not) getting their Watches (or, in the olden days, what used to be called the "Shopper"). When I worked in The Times office I would often hear them calling in because their Watch or Shopper wasn't delivered in a timely manner, wasn't delivered at all, or had blown all over the neighborhood. I felt sorry for them, but was rather smug about the whole thing, because my Watch was always delivered on Friday and I always had time to look through it for the sales and race downtown on Saturday to get the bargains. I didn't realize how lucky I was.

I've been lucky because I've always had wonderful Watch delivery people. You know, good delivery people are like Santa's elves. You never really see them, but you know they've been around because everything is well done and on time, no matter what.

Those elves who delivered my Watch would always get it here on Friday. No matter if we had the blizzard of the year, torrential rains, or ice storms, you could depend that the Watch would be in the box some time Friday night. I depended on it, and they never let me down. The only time my Watch wasn't there on Friday, was if, for some unforeseen reason, it hadn't been published on Friday.

I have a front door that opens to the south and has a tricky latch. This is a problem when winter's north winds blow. I used to have my newspapers blowing from here to Red Lake Falls if my delivery people put the paper inside of the door and the latch didn't latch properly. On these occasions I would also have a sprung front door, which wasn't funny at all when the north wind was blowing at its worst. To solve the problem, I put a note on my door for delivery people to please not leave packages and newspapers in the door. It worked just fine. Only rarely does the person who delivers my daily paper leave it in the door, and my Watch delivery elf didn't ever leave it there after I put up the sign.

I wonder if the good service could have been because my delivery elves were youngsters? I think these youngsters are more conscientious and careful than people ever give them credit for. There they are, trudging along in the worst weather, dogs barking at them (I have one of those), people barking at them (am I one of those?), ice on the sidewalks, rain on their heads. Come to think of it, they are something like miniature mailmen, except I don't think they get paid as much.

But now it is a different story. I don't seem to have a delivery elf any more. I must admit, I rarely race downtown to get bargains on Saturday morning except during the holidays, so I didn't notice what was going on for quite some time. But when it came time for Santa bucks weekend and I was downtown that Saturday morning, I realized I didn't have any Santa bucks to use because I hadn't gotten my Watch yet. I was the only one in town that day who wasn't flashing my Santa bucks when I bought something. I was the one begging the sales clerk for an extra Santa buck or two and the person upon whom other shoppers took pity and kindly gave their Santa bucks.

You see, my Watch is no longer delivered on Friday. I could live with this if it were delivered on Saturday morning, but it isn't delivered until noon or after on Saturday now. And I know I no longer have an elf delivering my Watch because he stepped on my drain pipe when he walked across my and my neighbors' yards and squashed it flat. I saw him. No little elf this delivery person! If he's an elf, he's a mighty big 'un!

And now I understand why all of you were calling The Times office when you didn't get your Watches and Shoppers delivered on time and I'm sorry I was so smug about it instead of sympathizing with you more. Now I understand. Sometimes it is the little things in life that really get your goat, isn't it?

Here's one suggestion - if you have a really wonderful delivery elf like I did, remember to thank him or her during this holiday time. I'm sure they would appreciate a nice holiday thank you card (with or without something else in it). If I had a really wonderful delivery elf this year, I would really appreciate him or her. Yes, I would!

Tate busts out, Hibbert repeats in Duluth: Semi-Pro Peterson wins ESPN Winter X Games Qualifer

Submitted story

After a couple of weather-induced false starts, Spirit Mountain Ski Area, the World Snowmobile Association (WSA) and the Duluth community worked the miracle to create a track for the 10th Anniversary Black Magic Duluth National, presented by Woody's, Bud Light, Amsoil, Ski-Doo and Blackwood's Bar and Grill. Due to the lack of snow, the rain, the warmth, the track was significantly smaller than last year's, but it proved extremely challenging.

This was clearly a brand new season. The first indication was seeing Blair Morgan not only on a Ski-Doo, but on the most radical looking Pro Open sled imaginable, almost resembling a combination of watercraft and moto bike more than a snowmobile; or, how about Noel Kohanski taking his Polaris to five wins and a second in six rounds of Pro Stock and Pro Open pre-qualifying on Saturday. Or, Chris Vincent back on board Yamaha blue. Sure, Tucker Hibbert was still on an Arctic Cat, but it looked, well, different too.

Morgan and Hibbert tied for top qualifier honors in the Pro Stock class, but neither looked near as dominant as last year. At the green, sixth qualifier Justin Tate, Ski-Doo, exploded up the hill and into the lead, Hibbert tucked into second, with Trevor John, Polaris, Kohanski, Polaris, and Morgan in the top five. Coming back down the hill to complete the first lap Tate skied Huge over the finish line double, and Hibbert went with him. But, suddenly Hibbert started to struggle over the big jumps, and started to fall back. At the same time, Morgan was on the move, and made a great move that surprised Hibbert, and he slipped through into second. He then started to close on Tate, but as he got close, he got badly handcuffed in traffic and fell back. Hibbert found his groove and actually started to close back in on Morgan, but ran out of time, so Tate scored a major victory, with Morgan second and Hibbert third. John brought his Polaris home fourth, and Tate's teammate Eckstrom came through to fifth.

The Pro Open class was simply fascinating. The wild new Ski-Doo, a Polaris some 60 pounds lighter than last year, and screaming off the line. The new Yamaha running a very narrow track, tunnel, seat and new engine. Through it all, while Arctic Cat had a revolutionary new position for their engine, laid Way forward and down in the chassis with the exhaust pipes running across the top, they were running their Pro Stock chassis, and confident about it as they felt it was pretty trick as well.

And with good reason as it turned out. Hibbert went undefeated in qualifying to claim top qualifier, with Morgan second, and they launched together up the hill. But Morgan got caught on the outside, got bottled up, and by the time they hit the finish line, he was outside the top five. Hibbert led, but an on form Brad Pitlik, Ski-Doo, was second, with Vincent, Yamaha, and new hotshoe Mike Island, Polaris, dueling for third and Kohanski in the fray. Then, Kohanski broke a shock and started dropping back, while once again Morgan started a charge. The spray and roost was ferocious, but he was tenacity defined. All the while, Hibbert was stretching what soon became a massive, unassailable lead.

Then, perhaps the defining moment of the race. Morgan caught the Island-Vincent battle, and as they hit the monster finish line double, he split them on take-off, passed them mid-air, and pulled ahead on the landing. Vincent got frozen on the outside, and promptly lost a few more spots. Morgan then set after Pitlik, but Island went with him, and both found a way past late in the going, demoting Pitlik to fourth at the finish. Kurt Crapo, Polaris, rounded out the top five.

Kurt Peterson, not yet fully recovered from a season ending knee injury and major off-season reconstructive surgery, had suggested he was only about 80 percent and was therefore going to take it easy to the first couple races of the season, then race hard after the Holidays. Then, after tying for top qualifier honors in the qualifying rounds for the ESPN Winter X Games Qualifier, he promptly lit the fuse off the line, and grabbed a lead he'd hold to the finish (perhaps thinking the best way to protect his knee was to stay way clear, way out front, of everyone. . .). With the rescheduling of the Gaylord, Michigan Snocross Worldwide Championship round, which included an X Games qualifier, from December to March, the top eight finishers here in Duluth will be going to Aspen, Colo. in January.

In the Dayco Belts Pro Women final, Lissa Toncray, Arctic Cat, out-dueled top qualifer Amanda Johnson, Arctic Cat, for the win. In the Pro Vet class, when snowmobile racing legend Kirk Hibbert, Arctic Cat, entered the class, he usually won. But a couple other hotshoes hit the magic age of 35 this off-season and things definitely toughened up for Hibbert. Although he went undefeated in qualifying, so did Dennis Durmas, Polaris, and Jesse Strege, Polaris, notched a win and a second. In the final, Durmas put together a great run for the win, with the very high-flying Strege second and the Captain third.

In the Semi-Pro division, it was all about the young man quickly becoming a huge crowd favorite for his aerial flights and acrobatic entertainment of the fans, as Launchin' Levi LaVallee guided his Polaris to extremely exciting come from behind wins in both the Semi-Pro Stock and Semi-Pro Open finals.

The next round of the WSA Snocross Worldwide Championship is the Arctic Cat Deadwood Shootout January 5-6, at the Deer Mountain Ski Area in South Dakota's glorious Black Hills. The next and final ESPN Winter X Games Qualifier will be held at the WSA's Minnesota Regional Snocross Championship opener December 22-23, at the Seven Clans Casino in Thief River Falls.

NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational boys basketball tourney...

Grygla-Gatzke wins at NCTC

Grygla-Gatzke and Goodridge took their rivalry into overtime Saturday before the Eagles laid claim to a 59-58 championship game victory over the Huskies in the 11th annual NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational boys high school basketball tournament at Northland Community and Technical College.

Red Lake Falls got by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 60-58 in another overtime contest for the third place trophy.

In the final afternoon session of the eight-team, three-day event, Kittson County North defeated Red Lake County Central 50-38 for the consolation title and Climax/Fisher edged East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 41-38 in the seventh place game.

Three Grygla-Gatzke double figure scorers off-set a 34-point performance by Goodridge center Casey Jones as the Eagles won the tournament a second time. Nathan Gast led the winners with 24 points, while Tony Nordby netted 15 and Geoffrey Larson had 10. The Huskies led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 30-27 at halftime and still trailed by three, 40-37, after three quarters, before pulling even at the end of regulation time, 46-46.

Goodridge had a chance to win it before overtime arrived, calling a midcourt time-out with 4.6 seconds left. But with the Eagles' defense collapsing on Jones under the basket, Dustin Kotrba was forced to launch a long shot that hit the rim and bounced away at the buzzer.

Although the Huskies opened the overtime scoring, the extra session belonged mostly to the Eagles, who clinched it when Larson hit three of four free throw attempts in the final 20 seconds for a 59-55 cushion. Jones made it close at the end with a 3-point shot.

"It was exciting," acknowledged Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "It was a fun game for the fans. The kids played an aggressive, but clean game. That was a real credit to the players on both sides."

It was a continuation of a series of close games between the schools who combine forces to field a cooperative football team. The Huskies beat the Eagles in two down-to-the-wire finishes a year ago, pointed out Johnson. "I guess it was our turn this time," he said.

■ Championship - Grygla-Gatzke 59, Goodridge 58 (ot)

■ Third place - Red Lake Falls 60, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 58 (ot).

■ Consolation semifinals - Kittson County North 49, Climax/Fisher 43; Red Lake County Central 44, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 33.

■ Consolation final - Kittson County North 50, Red Lake County Central 38.

■ Seventh place - Climax/Fisher 41, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 38.

Despite the loss, Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson was more than satisfied with the Huskies' tournament showing. "I was very happy with our performances," he said. "We did exactly what we set out to do, except to win the game. "We concentrated on defending (Cory) Ostby and Nordby, who had done most of their scoring the first two games, but then Gast stepped in. He played extremely well; he was the difference in the game."

A 26-point game by Matt Largis and 14 points from Sam Pahlen carried Red Lake Falls past Badger/Greenbush-Middle River for third place. The Gators' balanced offense featured Brian Thompson with 16 points, Jesse Thompson 13 and Tim Dion 12. Red Lake Falls led 16-15 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 24-23 at halftime, then regained a 44-39 third quarter edge. Regulation time ended in a 56-56 tie.

"It was a good game – very even," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, whose team squeezed a Friday night contest against Warren-Alvarado-Oslo in between tournament starts, giving the Gators four games in five days to start the year. "Outside of the Goodridge game (a 57-31 Thursday semifinal loss), we had a good tournament."

Seth Whidock scored 32 points to lead Kittson County North past Red Lake County Central in the consolation final. The Mustangs trailed 12-8 in the first quarter, pulled into a 21-21 tie at halftime, but fell behind 38-31 through three quarters. Carl Dugstad and Nick Brustad scored 11 points each for Red Lake County Central.

"The kids gave it a good effort," said Red Lake County Central coach Randy Huie. "We had a pretty good first half, but we got in foul trouble in the second half."

Justin Morken and Darren Holland scored 10 points apiece in the Climax/Fisher seventh place game victory over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. The Knights led 8-7 after one quarter, fell behind 21-15 at halftime and trailed 33-27 through three quarters. Matt Marek finished with a game-high 18 points and Andrew Altepeter had 11 for the Eagles.

Prowlers' trip ends with a split

A 3-2 Friday night loss to The Blake School was followed by a Saturday afternoon victory by the same score – in overtime – against St. Paul Johnson for the Thief River Falls boys high school hockey team.

It was the second straight weekend of metropolitan area opponents for the Prowlers, who lost 3-1 decisions to Armstrong and Maple Grove Nov. 30/Dec. 1 in Thief River Falls before making their trip to the Twin Cities.

The Prowlers had problems at the start of the Blake game when they were out-shot 20-5, but thanks to goalie Ben Worker, wound up with a scoreless 15-minute tie.

"We stood around the first period," reported Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "Good goaltending kept us in the game. After the first period we came back and skated up and down the rink with them."

The Bears did open up a 2-0 second period lead, then squeezed the game winner between a pair of Dan Almqust third period goals for the Prowlers, who were out-shot 44-33. Aaron Bendickson assisted on both Thief River Falls goals; Robby Anderson picked up one assist.

Almqulst came back to score the game-winner in overtime against Johnson. The two teams skated to a scoreless first period draw and were tied 1-1 through two periods.

Dane Kjono and Jared Altepeter scored the first two Thief River Falls goals. Travis Collins and Brian Quinn had the Prowlers' only assists of the night.

Anoka-Ramsey guard Cori Shellum tried to drive by Northland defender Jenny Weise during the first half of the women's college basketball game played Friday in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers beat the Golden Rams 76-53.

There was no doubt who was going to grab this rebound as Northland's Jerry Shorter cleaned the boards in the first of the Friday men's Minnesota Community College Conference basketball match-up with Anoka-Ramsey. The Golden Rams' Nathen Kerkhoff wasn't in position to challenge for the rebound on the play. The Pioneers won 66-59.

Pioneers win overtime game

■ Unbeaten NCTC men top Rochester 96-88

Freshman guard Robbie Hyland hit a game-tying 3-point shot with 1.5 seconds left in regulation time, then knocked down another trey in overtime Saturday afternoon as Northland remained unbeaten with a 96-88 men's college basketball win over visiting Rochester.

It was the Pioneers' sixth straight win to open the 2001-02 season – matching the success enjoyed by the Northland women, who won the first half of the doubleheader against the Yellowjackets 71-59.

This one wasn't easy, acknowledged Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It was not one of our better games, but we still won, and that's pretty exciting – that we can play at less than our best and still win."

Northland led 43-36 at halftime. The Pioneers still had a six-point edge with 2 1/2 minutes to play, but then proceeded to miss six free throws as the Yellowjackets rallied to go ahead 80-77. A final possession that began with 17 seconds left led to Hyland's dramatic game-extending shot.

"We played pretty well, especially on defense, the first 30 minutes," explained Nikunen. "Then we got a little sloppy. We were real fortunate to win. We were back on our heels. But we got back into the groove in overtime."

Jerry Shorter put the Pioneers ahead for good with a transition basket in overtime, then Hyland hit from long range to put the pressure on the Yellowjackets.

Shorter scored 32 points and Reggie Gaddis had 21 for the Pioneers. Six Rochester scorers hit double figures, led by Ryan Stahlke with 15 points.

Northland was 35-for-73 from the field (48 percent) and 18-for-34 at the free throw line. Rochester went 36-for-78 from the floor (45 percent) and had an 11-for-21 free throw game. The Yellowjackets outrebounded the Pioneers 48-43, but they also had more turnovers, 16-11.

Northland's Justin Skjerven reached double figures on the boards with 10 rebounds.

Pioneer women's team 71-59 winner over Yellowjackets...

Northland win streak hits six

A half-dozen games into the 2001-02 schedule, the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team has yet to taste defeat. The Pioneers' extended their season-opening winning streak Saturday with a 71-59 home court victory over Rochester.

Jenny Weiss scored 18 points, Misten Hoie 15 and Kylie Rogalla 14 for the Pioneers, who led 35-31 at halftime.

Rochester also had a balanced attack, with Michelle Melquist and Jenni Fisher both netting 13 points, Heidi Johnson 12, and Shauna Huff 11.

Northland shot 40 percent from the field (27/68) and went 11-for-14 at the free throw line. Rochester shot 44 percent from the floor (21/48), but struggled through a 17-for-27 game at the line.

A 38-31 Rochester rebound advantage was negated by 30 turnovers. Northland lost the ball 18 times during the game that had an 11 a.m. tip-off.

"We did well," said Northland coach Mike Zachow. "Kylie Rogalla had an outstanding game, and our guards (Weiss/Hoie) did a nice job."

Northland will close out 2001 portion of the 2001-02 season Friday at Minneapolis Community College. It will be the Pioneers' third straight game against a Minnesota Community College Conference Southern Division team.

The holiday break ends with a Jan. 9 game against Providence.

Prowlers hold off RLF rally for 35-30 victory

Control of the first half didn't mean an easy win for Thief River Falls Saturday, although the Prowlers did eventually emerge with a 35-30 victory over Red Lake Falls in girls high school basketball.

The Prowlers grabbed a 12-4 first quarter lead and had a 24-13 halftime cushion before a comeback effort by the visiting Eagles cut the difference to just 29-26 by the end of the third quarter.

"We had a huge lapse in the third quarter and half of the fourth quarter," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We missed way too many shots in the paint, and we didn't take care of the ball."

Sophomore Shara Guidry was the Prowlers' only double figure scorer, finishing with 11 points. Meghan Nelson contributed with seven assists. The Eagles' Heidi Matzke led all scorers with 16 points.

Thief River Falls was 15-for-42 from the field (36 percent) and 4-for-7 at the free throw line. Red Lake Falls went 13-for-44 from the floor (30 percent) and 4-for-9 at the line. The Prowlers had a 28-25 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 24-19.

"Once again, turnovers were a problem," noted Loe. "We made way too many mental mistakes. A big part of that can be contributed to great defense by Red Lake Falls. Coach Kennet has a great bunch of kids coming up. For being as young as they are, they never quit, and showed great composure. They were a fun bunch of kids to watch."

TRF swimmers open season

Jason Swenson won two individual events and swam a leg on a first place relay team Saturday to lead the Thief River Falls boys high school swim team season-opening performances during the Otter Invitational at Fergus Falls.

Swenson was a winner in the 100 freestyle and 100 breaststroke.

A Thief River Falls winning combination in the 200 medley relay included Nathan Browning, Jason Swenson, Josh Swenson, and Russ Anderson.

A seven-team field was led by Minnewaska Area/Morris/Chokio-Alberta with 388 points, followed by Fergus Falls with 329, Thief River Falls 292, Park Rapids Area 258, Detroit Lakes 200, Fargo South 198, and Perham 64.

"We were pleased with our first performance," said Kelly Weets, a first-year Thief River Falls co-head coach, along with Luke Miller. "As new coaches, it's nice to now have a starting point. We'll be able to set some goals. Many of the boys are driven by personal goals, so we look forward to seeing what they can produce over the next several weeks."

Top 12 in each event were point-producers, with the top three finishers earning medals.

Other Thief River Falls medal winners were Browning, second, 100 backstroke; Cody Sorvig, 100, third, 100 freestyle; Aaron Field, third 50 backstroke; and a second place 400 freestyle relay team of Browning, Field, Jason Swenson, and Sorvig.

Jon Kays and Josh Swenson recorded personal-best times in the 100 freestyle and 100 butterfly, respectively.

Lack of divers kept the Prowlers from challenging the host Otters for second place in the final team standings. "It would have been interesting to see how the team rankings would have changed if we would have had divers competing," offered Weets.

Thief River Falls hosts the annual Prowler Relays Saturday when they will be joined at the 1 p.m. meet by Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, and Park Rapids Area.

Gators beaten by Ponies 91-68

Nathan Steer scored 34 points to lead Warren-Alvarado-Oslo to a 91-68 Friday night boys high school basketball win over visiting Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Steer did most of his damage inside, grabbing seven of the Ponies' 20 offensive rebounds and putting them back up for baskets.

Tim Dion of the Gators tried to match Steer's performance with a 24-point game that included 7-for-9 shooting from the field and a 10-for-11 game at the free throw line. He also grabbed seven rebounds.

The Ponies led at the quarter stops 26-15, 53-36 and 73-55.

Despite the final score, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby said his inexperienced squad did a good job against a top-notch opponent. "We were really pleased with our game," he said. "We never thought we could score 68 points against them. Midway through the third quarter, it was still just a seven-point game."

From the field, the Gators were 21-for-44 (48 percent) and the Ponies went 37-for-71(52 percent). In a game that included 45 fouls, both sides shot 28 free throws, with the visitors hitting 21 and the winners making 15.

With the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo game already scheduled when Badger/Greenbush-Middle River accepted an offer to play in the NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational, the Gators wound up opening the season with four games in five days.

NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi girls tournament..

First round games played on Monday

Opening round quarterfinal winners Monday in the seventh annual NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational girls high school basketball tournament at Northland Community and Technical College were Marshall County Central, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, Thief River Falls, and Kittson County North.

The Nordics beat Red Lake County Central 48-39 and the Gators stopped Stephen-Argyle 38-27 in the afternoon bracket, while Thief River Falls handled Tri-County 54-19 and Kittson County North surprised Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 49-41 in the evening session.

Double figure scoring by Alicia Halvorson (13), Morea Steinhauer (10) and Jordan Holthusen (10) carried Marshall County Central past Red Lake County Central in the tournament opener. The Nordics led at the quarter stops 14-8, 25-17 and 39-32. Nine points by Brittany Berberich was the top offensive performance for the Mustangs.

Kierah Kimbrough scored 14 of her game-high 21 points in the first half, staking Badger/Greenbush-Middle River to an early lead against Stephen-Argyle. The Gators led 9-4 after one quarter and opened up a 23-12 halftime lead. It was 35-25 through three quarters. Rachel Sang led the Storm with 12 points.

Thief River Falls raced to a 17-3 first quarter lead against Tri-County and never looked back. The winners had a 27-8 halftime cushion and owned a 41-10 third quarter spread. A 15-point effort by the Prowlers' Shara Guidry was the only double figure production of the game.

Lacey Swenson hit four 3-point shots in the first quarter to jump-start the Kittson County North offense against Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke. Swenson finished with 17 points and teammate Jennifer Hostrup had 16 for the Cougars, who led at the quarter stops 20-14, 32-24 and 43-36. Kelsey Johnsrud led the Wolverines with 11 points.

The tournament semifinals were scheduled Tuesday, with the seventh place, consolation, third place and championship games slated Saturday in the Northland gymnasium.

NCTC women post impressive victory vs. Anoka-Ramsey

Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball coach Mike Zachow asked his team for an early Christmas present, and the Pioneers delivered, handing him a 76-53 Friday night win over Anoka-Ramsey.

"This was a big win for us," said Zachow. "Anoka-Ramsey always has a good program. All of our kids came in and did a good job. To get that kind of performance from all the kids is pretty special."

It was a pretty impressive show at both ends of the court for a team that stretched its season-opening winning streak to five games. A spread-the-wealth offense featured Jacqui Karl and Misten Hoie with 11 points each and Jenny Weiss with 10, while Kylie Rogalla and Sara Gross both contributed 9. At the other end, the Northland defense gave a 4-1 team very little to write home about.

"We had pretty good balance on offense, and it was a good defensive effort," noted Zachow. "Anoka-Ramsey was averaging 71 points per game and we held them to 53."

And the Pioneers did it without one of their better players -- 5-9 sophomore forward Candice Solie, sidelined until after the holidays by an ankle injury.

A 3-point basket by Hoie 5:23 into the game broke a 9-9 tie and the Pioneers would never lose the lead the rest of the night.

Ahead 36-25 at halftime, Northland wrapped it up in the first 6 1/2 minutes of the second half when Anoka-Ramsey went 0-for-10 from the field and turned the ball over five times while being out-scored 13-2.

Northland was 28-for-55 from the field (51 percent) and 16-for-25 at the free throw line. Anoka-Ramsey struggled through a 17-for-64 shooting night from the floor (27 percent) while hitting 15 of 20 free throw attempts.

The Pioneers out-rebounded the Golden Rams 40-27, but they also had more turnovers, 22-21.

"We still have some things to work on," acknowledged Zachow. "We can still play better."

Prowlers wrestle in Sertoma dual meet tournament format

Thief River Falls went 3-2 in the dual meet format at the Sertoma Invitational high school wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday for a fifth place finish in a 16-team field at Grand Forks Central.

"Not quite what I expected, considering the talent that we have," reported Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "I think we are a team that belongs in the top three at that tournament, but we didn't wrestle like it. I give credit to the other teams ahead of us. All four of them (St. Michael-Albertville, Park Rapids Area, Jamestown, West Fargo) are also very good teams. The difference was, they were ready for battle. We looked flat all weekend, especially on Friday – not much team spirit. Our guys need to come together and get each other ready to wrestle. You have to win for your team."

The Prowlers beat Grand Forks Red River 42-23, then lost to Park Rapids Area 37-30 Friday.

Saturday, Thief River Falls defeated Wahpeton 42-33, lost to Jamestown 44-25, and got by Fertile-Beltrami 39-36.

"We looked out of shape compared to the top teams," mentioned Yanke. "At this point in the season, we shouldn't have that problem. We have swimming or wrestling in the mornings five days a week, and the weight room is open after practice. The few kids who show up for those and work out, looked good. The problem is, that only two or three of our varsity guys are willing to put in that extra work."

The Prowlers' junior varsity finished 15th in the varsity field.

"Our JV guys were really fun to watch," said Yanke. "They didn't win many matches – they weren't supposed to. This was to get them some experience against better kids."

A few Thief River Falls weekend highlights, according to Yanke:

- Colt Bergeron, ranked No. 1 in the Class AA state polls at 103 pounds, went 5-0, including a 12-8 decision over No. 2-ranked Tyler Safratowich of Park Rapids Area.
- Daniel LeDuc was also 5-0 while wrestling three matches up one weight class – 119.
- Jeremy Anderson went 4-1, with the only loss being a close 4-2 decision to defending North Dakota state champion Phil Bastings of Grand Forks Red River.
- Wins by junior varsity wrestlers Ben Poissant, Peter Lofgren, Kyle Iverson.

■ Win streak continues for Northland men

Defense saved the day, according to head coach Rick Nikunen, as Northland beat Anoka-Ramsey 66-59 in a Friday night Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball match-up.

"For as poorly as we played on the offensive end, we played as well on defense," said Nikunen after watching the Pioneers pick up their fifth straight season-opening win. "I've told the kids, there's going to be games like this where you just can't get going offensively and you need your defense to pull you through. And that's what happened tonight. This is proof of that."

It was not a good night for Northland shooters, who were 22-for-59 from the field (37 percent) and 18-for-35 at the free throw line (51 percent). The Pioneers were also out-rebounded 44-33.

However, Northland's aggressive defense played a major role in an awful offensive show by the visiting Golden Rams, who had a 32 percent 22-for-39 shooting night from the floor and lost the ball over 27 times to just a dozen turnovers for the Pioneers.

Northland took the lead for keeps on a 37-second 7-0 run that turned a 25-22 deficit into a 29-25 advantage with 5:23 remaining in the first half. Matt Ulmer tied it with a 3-pointer, then Jerry Shorter followed two free throws with a steal and fast break lay-up.

The Pioneers, after leading 39-31 with 1:11 to play, settled for a 39-36 halftime edge.

But they took control by out-scoring the Golden Rams 10-2 in the first five minutes of the second half – a run capped by a fast break slam dunk by Shorter that made it 49-38.

Northland misses at the free throw line enabled Anoka-Ramsey to get within 60-57 on an open lay-up by Peter Nielsen with 1:19 remaining.

The Pioneers continued to have trouble at the line, but had enough opportunities to clinch it when Justin Skjerven, Robbie Hyland, Shorter, then Hylund again, all made one of two free throws for a 64-57 spread with just 23 seconds on the clock.

Northland's Madison, Wisc. connection that includes Reggie Gaddis, a 6-8 freshman center, and Shorter, a 6-0 sophomore guard, came up with 34 points – a game-high 18 for Gaddis and 16 by Shorter. Cyrus Nimene came off the bench to lead Anoka-Ramsey with 12 points.

"We played a great defensive game," said Nikunen. "We contained a good basketball team."

B/G-MR girls beaten by Roseau

Turnovers took a toll on Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Friday, adding up to a 50-43 girls high school basketball loss at Roseau.

"We've got to quit turning the ball over," said Gators coach Tom Neibauer, whose team lost the ball 25 times. "That's way too many."

Complicating matters for the visitors was the Rams' penchant for converting Badger/Greenbush-Middle River turnovers into points.

The Gators had a 9-7 first quarter edge and went into intermission up 21-20. Roseau turned things around in the third quarter when the Rams went ahead 37-29.

Freshman Kierah Kimbrough led the Gators with a 21-point, 16-rebound performance.

"We're playing a lot of young kids," noted Neibauer. "We don't have a senior on the team – something that's never happened to us before."

The only 2000-01 starter in the current Badger/Greenbush-Middle River line-up is junior Breanna Holm, who missed a 57-38 Tuesday (Dec. 4) loss at the hands of Warroad. The Gators opened the year with a 45-33 win over Marshall County Central.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 19-for-50 from the field (38 percent) and 5-for-12 at the free throw line. Roseau had a 3-for-8 free throw night.

Wildlife rules proposed by DNR

As part of a periodic permanent rulemaking process, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is proposing some changes in miscellaneous wildlife regulations and is requesting public comments.

Most of the proposed changes would move into permanent rule some of the temporary rule changes that were in place for the 1999, 2000 or 2001 hunting seasons. Those temporary rules were prumulgated through a separate "expedited" rule process that is generally used for annual season changes, but that does not allow the rules to continue to be in effect indefinitely.

Proposed changes being considered include:

• Modify regulations for some wildlife management areas, state game refuges, waterfowl refuges and controlled waterfowl hunting zones.

• Mmodify some procedures for licensing, applications, registration and tagging for some wildlife game species.

• Modify some limits for taking small game mammals by falconry.

• Prescribe restrictions for use of the all-season buck license.

• Modify some deer, bear, moose and wild turkey quota areas.

• Modify some furbearer hunting and trapping season dates and bag limits.

• Modify wild turkey hunting zones, shooting hours and seasons.

• Modify waterfowl shooting hours, goose seasons and open areas.

• Modify requirements for game farm recordkeeping and reporting.

• Make additional changes in the rules to improve consistency of the wildlife regulatory processes.

This is an initial request for comments on rules that are currently under consideration, but for which drafting is not yet completed. Public comments on these planned rules will be considered through at least 4:30 p.m. on Jan. 4, 2002. After that time, specific rule changes will be drafted and a formal public comment period on the actual proposed rules will follow.

Written or oral comments, questions, requests to receive a draft of the rules when it has been prepared, or requests for more information about these planned rules should be addressed to Wildlife Rules, DNR Division of Wildlife, 500 Lafayette Road, St Paul, MN 55155-4007; contact the DNR Information Center toll free at 1-888-646-6367; or e-mail info@dnr.state.mn.us.

Snowmobilers should check sled registration information

Most Minnesota snowmobilers completed a mechanical check of their sleds from top to bottom prior to the season's first snowfall. The Minnesota Department of Naturol Resources recommends another inspection before snowmobilers hit the trails – to make sure the snowmobile's registration is current.

Snowmobile renewal notices are sent by the DNR to sled owners whose registrations expired last June. However, snowmobilers must make certain that their registration is up to date.

Snowmobile registration, which is good for three years, costs $48.50. Snowmobiles can be registered at any deputy registrar (where cars are licensed). Registration is now done through the DNR's Electronic Licensing System. When registering a snowmobile, the owner must have information about the make, model, year, serial number and engine size.

Outdoor woman program is planned for Feb. 15-17

Looking for a new way to enjoy winter in Minnesota? Want to master some new skills or polish ones learned in the past? The Minnesota Becoming An Outdoors Woman Program will offer these and other opportunities during its winter workshop Feb. 15-17, 2002, at Laurentian Environmental Learning Center in Britt. The workshop will begin Friday evening and continue until Sunday noon.

"Winter offerings vary considerably from our spring and fall workshops," said BOW coordinator Jean Bergerson. "Programs such as trapping and polar fleece mitten making are only offered at our winter event. Of course, the weekend will be filled with traditional winter activities such as snowmobiling, ice fishing, dog mushing and cross country skiing."

"Workshop space is limited to 70 women," Bergerson said. "I expect the spaces to fill quickly."

Registration forms can be obtained from the DNR Information Center by calling toll free 1-888-646-6367, or by calling the Laurentian Environmental Learning Center toll free at 1-888-749-1288.

Workshop cost is $175, which covers everything, including food, lodging, class materials and equipment. Some scholarship assistance is available.

The Laurentian Environmental Learning Center is located about eight miles north of Virginia just off Highway 53 in northeastern Minnesota.

"Think snow this year and join us for a weekend of learning, sharing and comradery," Bergerson urged.

DNR officials ask dog owners for their help to protect state deer

Although deer season is over for most hunters, the season is never opened for dogs. In fact, Minnesota law authorizes conservation officers and peace officers to shoot domestic dogs chasing big game animals.

"The Department of Natural reminds dog owners to keep their dogs under control at all times," said Colonel Bill Bernhjelm, DNR Enforcement Chief. "Dog owners can be fined if their pets harass big game, and although it is not pleasant, conservation officers can shoot dogs in the act of chasing big game."

During winter, most big game animals have critically low energy reserves. Even if a chasing dog does not catch a deer, the induced stress can be enough to kill the animal later in the winter because of its weakened condition.

Owner of a dog that kills or pursues a big game animal is guilty of a petty misdemeanor and is subject to a civil penalty of up to $500 for each violation.

Suggested Tips for Dog Owners

■ Do not allow your dog to chase deer, or other wildlife at any time.

■ Keep your dog controlled within your property boundaries.

■ Report wildlife harassment to your local Conservation Officer (Contact the Minnesota State Patrol for the name and phone number of a Conservation Officer in your area).

■ Respect all types of wildlife.

Owner of a dog that kills or pursues a big game animal is guilty of a petty misdemeanor and is subject to a civil penalty of up to $500 for each violation.

DNR announces an environment study on White Earth Trail

Minnesota Department of Naturol Resources has determined that an environmental assessment worksheet is appropriate for the planned White Earth Off-Highway Vehicle Troil, and will proceed with an EAW on a voluntary basis.

State law requires EAWs when projects meet certain criteria. The DNR has determined that while an EAW is not required for the White Earth Troil, it still makes sense to examine the potential environmental effects of the proposal.

In a series of legal filings, OHV critics have pressed the DNR to undertake EAWs on all ATV trails planning. The DNR's response to those demands has been that state laws provide for environmental review at the time that a project is to be implemented. The agency has promised that those determinations will be made at the appropriate time, according to Dennis Asmussen, head of the DNR Troils and Waterways Division.

"We have been saying that we would look carefully at the need and do an EAW whenever it makes sense," Asmussen said. "That's exactly what we've done in this instance. We've decided to do an EAW - even though it's not mandated under state law."

The EAW will cover a 25-mile stretch of the proposed OHV trail designation in Clearwater and Becker counties. It runs across county, state and tribal lands.

In approving the voluntary EAW, DNR Commissioner Allen Garber noted that the DNR's OHV trails designatian is being done to protect the environment.

"We already have many thousands of OHV riders in Minnesota with only minimal management," Garber said. "By designating trails, we can reduce the environmental impacts of OHVs and strike a balance between competing outdoor interests. This voluntary EAW is one part of that process."

The EAW will be available for public review and comment early next year.

Fall walleye stocking termed successful

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division had a banner year for walleye fingerling stocking, officials reported.

"We stocked about 4.3 million fingerlings -totaling 158,000 pounds," said Roy Johannes, who coordinates the statewide walleye stocking program for the DNR. "That's the most fingerlings we've stocked since 1989."

Most of the fingerlings were harvested by DNR crews from more than 300 natural rearing ponds around Minnesota. About 4,100 pounds were purchased from a private fish hatchery. In all, more than 400 state lakes received fingerlings this fall.

The increased stocking is part of the DNR's accelerated walleye program, which started in response to public concern over stocking decreases in the early- to mid-1990s. The Minnesota Legislature approved increased funding for the accelerated walleye program starting in July of 1999. The DNR began to increase the number of its rearing ponds immediately, but had below-average fingerling production in 1999 and 2000, primarily due to mild winters.

"When we have mild winters we have less winterkill and that makes our ponds less productive," Johannes said. "The lack of winterkill allows fingerling walleye and other fish that escape our nets to survive and prey on the walleye fry we stock the following spring. The result is fewer fingerlings for stocking."

The DNR stocked 1 million fingerlings weighing 88,000 pounds in 1999 and 1.7 million fingerlings weighing 113,000 pounds in 2000, falling short of the accelerated walleye program goal of 120,000 to 130,000 pounds. But the long, snowy winter of 2000-2001 caused extensive winterkill and created ideal conditions for increased fingerling production in 2001, said DNR Fisheries Director Ron Payer.

"Our rearing pond acreage increased from about 14,000 to 25,000, so we knew the table was set for a good year as soon as the weather cooperated," Payer said. "We anticipated that it would take two to three years to get our fingerling production to full capacity, so we're pretty much right on schedule."

The 158,000 pounds of fingerlings stocked this fall actually exceeded this year's production goal by 28,000 pounds. The extra fish were used to increase stocking quotas on some lakes, including some that had not received full quotas in 1999 and 2000.

Minnesota's numerous shallow ponds enable the DNR to produce large numbers of quality walleye fingerlings at relatively low cost. The down side is that year-to-year success is influenced greatly by the weather, as the last few years have demonstrated. Even so, Minnesota produces more pounds of walleye fingerlings than any other state, even in below-average years.

"When we estimated our production capacity of 120,000 to 130,000 pounds, it was with the understanding that it was an average," Payer said. "We'll have years when we exceed that and years when we're below it, but either way we'll remain 100 percent committed to the program."

Nominations sought for ethics award

Nominees are now being sought for an award that will honor a deer hunter for ethical behavior.

The Minnesota Deer Hunter Ethics Award, sponsored by the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, Turn in Poachers and the Department of Naturol Resources DNR, will honor a deer hunter who has exhibited conduct during the 2001 season that can serve as an example of admirable hunting practices.

The award will be presented at the 2002 MDHA Habitat Banquet on April 27 in Blue Earth.

MDHA Executive Director Mark Johnson said his organization is pleased to again cosponsor this award along with TIP and the DNR. "MDHA is proud of the ethical standards of our deer hunters," Johnson said. "Past award winners are examples of ethical, courteous and responsible hunters - the type of hunters we all aspire to be."

Wayne Edgerton, the DNR agriculture policy director, said the award honors hunters who do the right thing. "Each year we hear about hunters who have done something special that makes us proud to be hunters," Edgerton said. "The goal of this award is to highlight these acts of good hunter ethics and to provide the winner with a token of appreciation for what they have done. This is the 10th year of the award and the previous winners have been excellent examples to all hunters, young and old."

Mike Juhnke, director of operations for TIP, agrees. "This award encourages ethical and legal hunting, which is what TIP is all about," Juhnke said.

Anyone may nominate a hunter by writing a letter explaining the actions of the nominee and why that person is worthy of this recognition. Both youth and adults are eligible, but nominees must be Minnesota residents. The incidents for which hunters are nominated must have occurred during any of the 2001 Minnesota deer hunting seasons (archery, firearm or muzzleloader).

The MDHA will accept nominations for the 10th annual Minnesota Deer Hunter's Ethics Award until Feb. 15, 2002. Nomination letters should be sent to Mark Johnson, MDHA, 460 Peterson Road, Grand Rapids, MN 55744-8413.

Parents reminded of early thin ice danger

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is warning parents to caution their children to stay off water bodies that now have a thin coating of ice. A statewide check on Dec. 4 indicated that there was no ice in even the far northern part of the Minnesota that was a solid four inches, the minimum thickness experts recommend for walking. Ice safety guidelines also recommend a minimum of five inches of new, clear ice for snowmobiles and eight to 12 inches of new clear ice for a small to medium size automobile or pickup.

"We have already received reports of cases where people are using long boards to try to get out on the ice," said Tim Smalley, a DNR boat and water safety specialist. "I can't believe that someone would be willing to die for a crappie."

During the holidays, when parents send their kids outside to play while meals are prepared and presents wrapped, the parents are advised to warn the children in no uncertain terms to stay away from any frozen water bodies around the home.

"It seems as though nearly every year around the holidays we receive reports of children falling through ice and drowning," Smalley said. "It's just so incredibly tragic. Kids are attracted to ice like a magnet. They just don't know how much ice it takes to support a person, nor do they have an understanding of what is or isn't safe.

"It seems like common sense, but I think a reminder to busy, holiday stressed adults is necessary," Smalley said. "Danger to their children and potential drowning is as close as the frozen pond or stream near their house if the children aren't properly supervised."

The DNR recommends that, even when conditions improve, children should not go out on the ice without adult supervision.

Ice conditions vary widely from none in southern Minnesota to a couple of slushy inches in the northern part of the state. Smalley urges winter recreationists to check with a local bait shop or resort before heading out.

The DNR has a free packet of ice safety information, including a pamphlet and a minimum ice thickness wallet card, available by calling toll free 1-888-646-6367. Computer users may e-mail info@dnr.state.mn.us and ask for the ice safety information packet.

The weather in northwest Minnesota continues to help shorten our winter, and the sun is doing its best to keep the "blues" away. The Christmas tree I put up to cheer Roy, now that he is confined to the house, is reflecting the sunshine out the window to cheer the folks going by on the street.

The churches in this area are busy with Christmas programs and other traditional functions making us realize the year 2001 is soon to end. In all the hustle and bustle, we should give special attention to shut-ins and those in the nursing homes. Remember your friends, relatives and those who were once your neighbors, with gifts, cards or a visit this season. The nursing home in Karlstad is having a Christmas party this Friday the 14th, with a buffet-style dinner from 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. After the program, there will be gift opening, so check and see if everyone gets something. Have a great time doing it.

Paul and Shirley Anderson recently enjoyed a trip to Branson, Mo. They visited for two nights with Don and Donna Helton. While in Joplin, they had lunch with Kristopher Anderson who was on his way to Georgia with his semi. Precious Moments at Carthage was visited before they went on to Branson and Silver Dollar City. On the way home, Paul and Shirley were able to meet Kenrick Anderson in Albert Lea and have supper with him. He was on his way to New York with his semi. Thursday and Friday nights were spent in New Ulm with David, Jenny and Bethany Janssen.

Warmth is a state of mind in Midwest

■ Despite rumors to the contrary, North Dakota and Minnesota are warm places to visit

"I suppose he's not all that popular up there. . . because he makes fun of people who live there."

"No, he's very popular," I said. "There are some who don't know who he is, and there might be a few people who get upset by what he says, but the vast majority of Minnesotans and North Dakotans I know, enjoy a good laugh at themselves every once in awhile, so they like him."

Saturday night in Grand Forks, Garrison Keillor described North Dakota as "a place you have to stay if you're forgotten." Of course, the quote must be placed in the context of a story, the short version of which is that while traveling through North Dakota on a vacation, his parents accidentally left him behind at a gas station near Jamestown, which of course, left him with the impression that North Dakota is where you stay when you're forgotten. The long version of the story, as told by Keillor, was much more humorous of course, especially after he delivered the punch line. To those of us who were laughing, it was yet another example of how Midwesterners can laugh at what hits uncomfortably close to home.

But even as an accidental tourist or resident, most visitors or residents will find warmth and comfort in North Dakota and Minnesota, despite its reputation.

I have a brother living in Florida, and parents who are hibernating in Arizona. I hear from them frequently during winter months, as if they are calling just to confirm the fact that they made the right decision by moving to someplace warm. Sometimes it's irritating. My father, who is retired, wrote in his e-mail recently that he had a busy day, which consisted of tennis at 7:30 a.m., golf at 10 a.m., then lunch followed by a nap, and then a trip to the spa.

In one of Keillor's sketches, he described coming to visit a fictional couple in Grand Forks. As it turns out they lived in a normal appearing rambler that turned out to be an abandoned missile bunker, which they had secretly converted into a beautiful palace with huge chandeliers, marble floors, flowing fountains, and a swimming pool surrounded by lush vegetation. As with most shy, self-deprecating, hotdish-loving North Dakotans (Minnesotans), the fictional couple made a show of apologizing for everything, pushing food on guests, and avoiding the appearance of needing any warmth or comfort of any kind. Yet, here they were, in the midst of lavish comfort, "imperfect" as it might be. How could this be?

I think the point was, that we all seek warmth wherever we can find it. My brother and parents have found warmth in Florida and Arizona, which to this jealous mind, is a bit shallow. There's more to warmth than temperature.

As Tom Dennis of the Grand Forks Herald put it in his editorial Saturday, December 8, "Week after week, Keillor gives rich and nuanced answers to that old chestnut of a question, "Why do we live here?" Why do upper Midwesterners put up with the snow, the cold and the griddle-flat terrain, as people elsewhere — and often enough, here, ask.

"Because of northern lights, prairie grass and coffee with the boys at the cafe, 'Prairie Home' broadcasts say. Because of church suppers, hotdish casseroles, a rope swing in an old barn — and family radio that makes you feel at home."

I also believe people in many Midwestern communities, look after each other, like truthful, straight-forward answers to their questions, and can see a beauty in griddle-flat terrain rather than barren-ice and snow-covered desert. Others must conclude they must be among the most optimistic people on earth, their glasses always half full. A people like this can look past most individual imperfections and find warmth wherever they look.

Pass the hotdish please.

Should tax dollars be used to build a stadium for the Twins?

On our Reader Survey poll located on our Web site at www.trftimes.com, the current question readers are being asked is, "Would you be upset of the Minnesota Twins franchise was dissolved?" That question was posed last month when it was announced by major league baseball that two franchises would be dissolved.

Our new questions asks readers whether they would support a proposal to use tax dollars to build a stadium for the Twins?

Snowmobilers urged to have a safe winter

With the start of this year's snowmobile season finally here, Representative Tim Finseth is urging snowmobilers to have a safe and fun winter. He's asking people to be mindful of common-sense safety rules as they hit the trails this season.

"Snowmobiling is one of the things that makes winter in Minnesota so much fun," he said, "but each year it seems like somebody in the area gets hurt or killed in a snowmobile accident. Hopefully, by following some of the basic safety rules, we can prevent some of these tragedies from occurring."

The "Sledder's Pledge" from the International Snowmobile Manufacturer's Association includes several reminders for safe and fun snowmobiling. Most of the safety rules are common-sense. As a snowmobiler, they ask you to know the limits of your machine and your abilities, and always obey the rules and laws where you are driving. It is also important to know the area and terrain where you are riding your sled so you don't run into something unexpected, and be sure to not snowmobile where it is prohibited. Be cautious of other traffic and be careful when crossing roads.

Making sure your machine is in top running condition is also important to a fun and safe ride. Keep out the cold by wearing appropriate clothing, including gloves, boots and a helmet with a visor. Let your family or friends know your planned route, your destination and your expected arrival time. Respect other peoples' property and rights, and lend a hand when you see another rider or motorists in need. Last, but not least, it is extremely important to remember to never drink and then drive a snowmobile."

One of the primary factors in snowmobile safety is having a good trail system. According to Finseth, statistics show that snowmobilers who ride on groomed trails are safer than those who ride in other areas and high-quality, groomed trails are also absolutely essential for Minnesota tourism.

That's why Finseth says the Legislature approved an increase in funding for snowmobile trails throughout the state. They increased the portion of gas tax revenue that goes into the snowmobile account from three-quarters of a percent to one percent.

"The percentages may not sound like a lot, but having a whole percent of the gas tax revenues rather than just part of a percent makes a $1.2 million difference in the snowmobile account," Finseth said. "And that allows 2,500 additional miles of trails to be groomed."

Finseth finished by saying, "As a snowmobile enthusiast, I want to make sure all of us stay safe and follow the laws so that this sport we all enjoy is protected for the future."

Fix for budget downturn will be painful

by Sen. Roger Moe

The news of a $1.95 billion state budget shortfall projected over the next 19 months is nothing short of staggering. This comes only three years after the forecast projected a surplus of $4 billion. The alarming downturn apparently caught Gov. Ventura off-guard. Unlike other times when the forecast news was good, this time he declined to participate in the announcement, turning down an opportunity to explain what happened.

Earlier this year, House Republicans worked with Gov. Ventura to put together a budget and tax restructuring package that spent almost the entire 2001 surplus. They disregarded advice from Senate Democrats who urged saving most or all of the existing surplus to cushion against the looming economic downturn.

House Republicans have indicated a desire to wait-and-see until the next forecast in March 2002, hoping for better fiscal news before taking action. The Governor agrees with the Republicans who describe the deficit as "manageable." Others, including myself, feel that the budget problems need to be addressed sooner rather than later.

Editorial writers have already commented on the fact that the budget problem becomes less manageable as time passes. They point out that, as the end of the biennium nears, more drastic actions are required to balance the budget. If we deal with the budget problem swiftly, we can minimize the pain necessary to mitigate the shortfall.

Blaming Minnesota's budget difficulties entirely on the tragic events of Sept. 11 would be convenient, but not accurate. Beyond a doubt, the Sept. 11 attacks have negatively affected the national economy, but Minnesota's budget troubles clearly started several months earlier. The Department of Finance indicated that revenues have fallen short of projections in four consecutive reports, spanning an entire year.

In January 2001, the Finance Department indicated that revenues had fallen $43 million short in the previous year-ending months. In April 2001, the economic update indicated a $60 million shortfall. In July 2001, the report showed a shortfall of $37 million for the previous quarter. In October, the quarterly tally was $99 million below expectations.

While it is true that the entire nation is dealing with the recession, strong economic indicators included in the November forecast show Minnesota is getting hit harder than most states. State Economist Tom Stinson noted that Minnesota has lost 23,000 jobs, a slide more than 75 percent steeper than the national rate. If Minnesota had remained in line with the national rate, the state would have seen 10,000 fewer jobs eliminated. Based on the state forecast, more than 95 percent of the budget deficit is attributed to the revenue shortfall, while less than five percent is assigned to a rise in expenditures. Over the past five years, state tax cuts and rebates have totaled roughly $10 billion.

This year, I voted against the tax bill. I sought a balanced approach to the budget and urged saving at least half of the existing surplus. The Governor and the Republicans rejected this advice, and instead insisted on using virtually all of the surplus rather than saving it.

Minnesotans want to know the truth about the tailspin that took us from a large surplus to a massive deficit. The Senate has already scheduled hearings to look into the facts and review all of the options to deal with the deficit. Waiting to take action can only make solving the state budget crisis even more painful. We are waiting for a new blueprint from Gov. Venture.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thanks for supporting hockey

To the Editor:

Following Rick Looker's good call on doling out "Thank You's," I too would like to express my appreciation to the Thief River Falls Times and its sports editor, Mike Lundgren for his recent article about the Omaha/Prowler hockey event which took place 24-25 November.

Not only was Mike warm to the idea of covering the event, he also took time out of his schedule to drop me a personal note of which I am very appreciative.

Not a week goes by that I do not open my web browser and see what's happening in good old Thief River Falls. The Times does a great job with its website and I would like to commend the entire staff for a job well done.

Efforts help save state's duck season

by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

As an avid hunter and fisherman, as well as a member of the Senate' environmental and natural resources committee, I wanted to let area residents know that I fully support and applaud the recent successful conservation efforts of our two U.S. Senators. Via some hard work in Congress, a proposed rule change allowing states in the lower region of the Mississippi flyway (Arkansas, Louisiana, Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee) to extend their duck hunting season was stopped. This proposed nine-day extension of their hunting seasons would have had a devastating effect on Minnesota's duck population, providing a significant advantage to hunters in southern states and a significant disadvantage to our state's hunters.

On November 19, the federal government agreed, shot down the proposal by southern congressional leaders and left current hunting rules in effect. However, our work on this issue is not done. Although we have won this first round, southern leaders, including the U.S. Senate's Minority leader, Trent Lott, may again attempt to change the rules to the benefit of hunters in their areas, and to the detriment of the rest of us. Our senators, Paul Wellstone and Mark Dayton, were tireless in their efforts to stop the proposed change in flyway rules and I appreciate their efforts.

Current flyway rules that govern the length of the hunting season strike a balance that was negotiated in 1998. At that time, Minnesota wildlife management officials reluctantly accepted federal rules that allowed southern States to extend their season to January 31, but limiting it to 51 days. The proposed change would have voided that compromise and hurt Minnesota's duck population and hunters.

I find it interesting that the proposed change came 14 days after the 2001 duck hunting season had begun. I can only assume that some southern congressional leaders exerted political pressure on the federal Department of the Interior to alter the agreement in midstream. It seemed unfair to shift gears at this point and undermine the spirit of compromise and cooperation worked out in the 1998 agreement. I applaud the department's strong stance on this issue and their unwillingness to bow to political pressure.

The State of Minnesota, as well as numerous other private organizations, has spent millions of dollars to preserve, protect and enhance habitats for migratory waterfowl. In fact, Minnesota is beginning a two-year program to improve waterfowl habitat and hunting at a cost of $2.3 million. The proposed federal action would have unraveled those actions and diminished the hunting experience for Minnesota waterfowl hunters.

In a region like ours, where hunting season is a special time of year for countless families, issues like this one are important to many of the people I so proudly serve at the State Capitol. Hunting is a strong part of our culture as Minnesotans, and an annual ritual that has been handed down from parents to children for generations.

With that in mind, I pledge to work closely with our U.S. Senators in opposing further action on those and other issues and to safeguard our state's duck population and hunting integrity for all Minnesotans.

Mercury Hits 19 Below Today At 9

"After rising to high marks of 37 last Wednesday and 35 Thursday afternoon, the mercury plummeted this week to lows of 7 below zero Tuesday and 19 below this morning. It was the first time in more than two weeks that sub-zero temperatures had been recorded. Light snowfall arrived on several days during the week, amounting to about four inches."

Fire Department Renovating Toys For Yule Giving

"As has been its custom in recent years, members of the Thief River Falls fire department are renovating used toys donated by local citizens for presentation to needy children of the community during the Christmas holidays, thus bringing cheer to youngsters who might otherwise be overlooked. Persons having toys to contribute are asked by Fire Chief Roy Langevin to call the fire hall, phone 718, or to deliver them there as quickly as possible to allow time for getting the toys in proper condition."

Lincoln Marching Band To Perform At Game On Friday

"The Lincoln high school basketball marching band will present its first half-time marching show of the season between halves of the Warren-Thief River Falls game Friday night, December 14. Composed of 60 volunteer bandsmen from the regular 90-piece concert band, the marching band will present half-time music and formations centered around three of the most popular Hit Parade favorites of the past six months, as selected by the band members themselves: 'I've Got Ideas,' 'Too Young,' and 'Because of You.'"

Lions Providing Venison For San

"William Thompson, committee chairman, reported at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon that arrangements were being completed by deer-hunting club members to supply ample venison for a dinner to be served this week to patients and staff of the Oakland Park sanatarium, in accordance with a custom of some years' standing."

$18,000 BUILDING
The Proposed New School Building.
IT SHOULD BE BUILT
More School Room Badly Needed.

"The school board held an important meeting Monday evening and, as will be notified by an item in another column, have called a special school meeting for Saturday evening, December 28, between the hours of 7:30 and 8:30. The meeting is called for the purpose of voting bonds in the amount of $18,000 to be used to purchase a site and construct an eight-room brick school house. The site selected by the school board is block 65 of the original townsite and it is understood that this can be purchased for $2000, although the school board sets the price of purchase at not to exceed $2,500, which is very cheap for this property.

"The action is taken by the school board at this time for various reasons. The need for more school room is a problem which has confronted the board since last spring and which will soon have to be settled. At present one store room and two rooms over the city hall are being used for school purposes, places that are entirely unfit for this purpose, while a large number of pupils are refused admission to the public schools simply because there is not room to accommodate them. The city is rapidly filling up with new residents and, unless some action is taken now, so that work on the school building can be commenced early next spring and completed before the first term of school commences next fall, the situation will become more critical, and many desirable people will refuse to take up their residence here. The cost of the proposed building complete is $18,000 and Thief River Falls with all its wealth surely can afford to construct it and ornament the city. The bonds are not to be paid until fifteen years and the interest is only five percent, making the total amount due each year $900.

"The city now receives state high school aid in the amount of $400 a year, and the superintendent of public instruction has informed the local school board that in case a suitable high school is built the amount will be increased to $1,000 per year, or $600 more than at present, nearly enough to pay the interest of the entire proposed bond issue. But the school board figures that the cost of renting buildings and additional heating expense amounts to more than $300 a year and that in the long run it will be much cheaper to build.

"Of course there will be those who will object to the site that the school board has selected and will vote against the bonds for that reason, but in this connection, it might be as well to state that there would be objections to any site that could be selected. The board cannot build a school house in everyone's backyard. There is plenty of room for a large playground; the price is reasonable and it will be situated in a conspicuous place where it will be seen by all visitors to the city and make a favorable impression. The site is not the first choice of the News, but we are not going to oppose the bond issue on that account, and we hope that all the citizens of Thief River Falls will be public spirited and magnanimous enough to support the project. Let us work and build up Thief River Falls.

Many Attend Woman's Club Christmas Party

"About sixty members attended the regular meeting of the Woman's club that was held in the Legion club rooms Monday evening. This was in the form of a Christmas party and decorations in keeping with the season were used throughout. A large tree beautifully decorated and lighted with candles stood at one end of the hall. A small tree formed the centerpiece of the table from which a buffet lunch was served following the meeting. Mrs. A. P. Fox was chairman of the decorating committee.

"Mrs. J. Biederman was elected to the office of treasurer to take the place of Mrs. J. M. Bishop, whose resignation was accepted.

"Mrs. D. Shaw, past president, presented Mrs. R. Arnold with the past president's pin, which is a small gavel, and in her presentation address gave the history of the gavel, which was very interesting to the new club members. Other numbers on the program were two readings 'My Little Snowball' and 'How the Mockingbird Learned to Sing' given by Mrs. Hand, a solo Russian dance given by Miss Margaret Seals, and three selections by the Woman's club chorus, as follows: 'Lift Thine Eyes,' 'Silent Night' and 'All Through the Night.' Community singing of Christmas carols by the club both preceded and followed the program.

"Seven new members joined the club at this time.

"Refreshments were served by the committee of which Mrs. H. A. Pratt was chairman, and the proceeds were turned over to the Social Welfare committee to be used in aiding needy families."

U. C. T. Kiddies Party

"The local order of the United Commercial Travelers (U.C.T.) will have their annual party for the kiddies Saturday, December 18, in the Elks hall. There is going to be a program and a Christmas tree, and there is a rumor that Santa Claus is going to make a special effort to attend. At the close of the afternoon, a chicken dinner will be served, and the grown-ups will spend the evening dancing."

From Central School:

Physical Training Notes

"The boys of the seventh grade played kittenball and football on Thursday.

"The seventh grade will practice basketball on Saturdays from four until five o'clock. The eighth grade boys will practice in the forenoons on Saturdays.

"On Wednesday the girls of the eighth grade, who are on the basketball teams, played a tournament. The losing sides played together and the two winning sides played together. Muriel McAdams' and Gloria Ricksad's sides won. The remaining girls went on a hike out to Squaw Point."

Goodridge Call

"M. B. Runum, Pastor. Services at Goodridge December 19 at 11 a.m. Children meet to practice for the Christmas tree festival Saturday, December 18 at 2 p.m. Annual meeting of the Goodridge congregation December 21 at 2 p.m."

The Presbyterian Church

"Edward H. Lorenz, Pastor. The Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. The topic of the morning service will be 'The Old and the New Covenant.' Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. The topic for the evening service at 7:45 will be 'A Picture of Christ.' The Young People's Choir will sing."

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Red Lake County, Minnesota December 11, 1901

News Items

"Measles are very prevalent in St. Hilaire just now.

"Albert Berg of the Fosston Woolen Mills was here Monday enroute to Red Lake Falls to look after business for his institution.

"The Royal Neighbors had a most successful meeting on Friday evening last. Two new members were elected and after the business of the meeting had been completed, all present adjourned to the Methodist church where they enjoyed a fine supper, furnished by Hon. C. G. Rapp, president of the camp.

"Hon. C. G. Rapp and H. E. Ives went to Crookston Wednesday evening to assist the Elks in entertaining the governor-elect of Iowa and a host of other distinguished guests from that state. After the lodge session had been completed, a grand banquet was served at the Hotel Crookston and the feasting lasted until the small hours of the morning.

"Mr. and Mrs. Simon Olson were very agreeably surprised last Sunday evening at their home in River Falls. A party of their friends numbering about twenty drove out from the village to visit them and Mrs. Olson was presented with a handsome rocking chair. The visitors also took a goodly supply of eatables along and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

"Dr. Blomburgh had a somewhat uncomfortable experience on Thursday night last. He went out in a livery rig to see a patient a few miles east and on returning the kingpin bolt in the buggy broke and both Doc and the driver slid out upon the snow. They walked home about four miles and it is said that the road smells sulphury yet on account of the grade of language indulged in."

Bank Occupies New Building

"The new bank building was entirely completed last week and on Friday Banker Hannay moved into his new quarters. The First State Bank of St. Hilaire will henceforth carry on business in one of the neatest little brick buildings in the state. The partitions in the interior are of quarter sawed oak set on a marble base and the counters are marble topped. The bank vault is thoroughly up to date in every respect, and, in fact, all of the interior is as neat and complete as money can make it. With the solid stone foundation, brick walls, steel roof and steel ceiling the building is as nearly fire proof as it can be made. It is worthy of comment that the business of this bank has outgrown the capability of the old premises and credit must be accorded Mr. Hannay for having provided such a neat, substantial and commodious building in which to carry on the business.

"The old building has been purchased by Julius Pleth and is now located on his property for use as a real estate office. It will be thoroughly overhauled and refitted and within a very short time Mr. Pleth will have one of the finest real estate offices in the northwest."

Krist Olson, son of Lyle Olson and Lori Berglend-Olson, receives the 2001 Minnesota Farmers Union (MFU) Torchbearer Award from MFU President Dave Fredrickson at the MFU State Convention in Minneapolis.

MFU presents Torchbearer awards to 15

Minnesota Farmers Union (MFU) presented Torchbearer Awards to 15 young people from across the state at MFU's annual state convention November 17-18. The award is presented annually to high school and college-age Farmers Union youth who have completed five years of senior youth service work in the organization.

"All these young people are highly motivated hard workers who have represented their communities well at Farmers Union events," said MFU Education Director Jim Tunheim. "They have demonstrated great leadership, and we want to make sure they are recognized for that."

The recipients of the 2001 Torchbearer Awards, and their communities are: Paul Beaudoin of Brooks, Clifton Hanson of Goodridge, Lindsay Hegge of Oklee, Jana Hoffman of Porter, Sarah Hill of Dawson, Peter Lanning of Sacred Heart, Scott Luepke of Courtland, Krist Olson of Thief River Falls, Nicholas Pederson of Gary, Wendy Pederson of Gary, Nicole Reed of Clarissa, Thomas Stone of Taunton, Chase Thielen of Sacred Heart, Justina Wolf of Shakopee, and Jacob Yost of St. Peter.

For more information on the Farmers Union Education programs, contact Jim Tunheim at 651-639-1223, ext. 315 or education.director@mfu.org.

DNR says life vests could be great gifts

They say that the best gift is one that the recipient would really love to have but wouldn't spend the money to buy for oneself. But what holiday gift can you buy for the outdoors enthusiast who already has every fishing lure and boating gadget imaginable?

How about a new life vest? No, not one of the orange "horse-collar" life preservers that usually wind up stuffed under the boat seat, but rather a nice looking comfortable jacket that the person will actually want to wear.

"Men are terrible about wearing life vests," said Tim Smalley, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources boating safety specialist. "We're so worried that our buddies won't think we are manly-men if we wear a life jacket that we take the foolish risk of not wearing one, even when the weather conditions are terrible. If we have one that is comfortable and looks decent, or maybe doesn't look like a life jacket at all, we are much more likely to wear one."

Life vests today are more stylish and comfortable than ever. The "float coat" looks like a man's long-sleeved jacket and most people couldn't even tell a flotation device is being worn. Besides providing needed flotation if a boat does capsize, the vest also provides warmth. They also come in camouflage colors for waterfowl hunters.

"Most hunters would love to have a float coat but don't want to spend $120 or more on something that doesn't attract ducks or shoot," Smalley said. "Duck hunters traditionally are on the water during the most dangerous part of the year, weatherwise. The air is cold, the water is cold and they tend to be out in small, overloaded flat-bottomed boats, the most dangerous situation you can be in during the late fall."

There is a new water safety product for snowmobilers - a snowmobile suit that is also a flotation device. Called the Ice Rider, it looks like a snowmobile suit but will provide lifesaving flotation and hypothermia protection if a sled plunges through the ice.

"They aren't cheap, but what is your loved-one's life worth? Most of the snowmobilers I have talked to would love to have one," Smalley said.

For summertime boaters, there is a new type of life vest that is fully inflatable. Wearers barely know they have one on, but if they fall in the water, the vest can be inflated by pulling a ripcord. Some inflatable life vests inflate automatically as soon as the person enters the water.

Float coats, inflatable life vests and other stylish, comfortable flotation devices can be found at most well-stocked sporting goods stores, and outdoor sports mail order and Internet retailers.

For more information about boat and water safety or ice safety, call the DNR Information Center at toll free 1-888-646-6367, or go to the DNR's Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us and click on "Boating and Water Safety."

DNR has new ways to receive cross country ski passes this winter

As the snow begins to fly, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is offering new ways for skiers to get the Great Minnesota Ski Pass, according to Paul Nordell of the DNR.

Last year, for the first time, the ski pass was sold at all game and fish license sales locations in the state. Buying the ski pass at these locations costs $3 for the daily pass, $10 for the annual pass, and $25 for the three-year ski pass.

Cross country skiers, aged 16 and older, must have a ski pass on most public ski trails.

About 1,700 license sales locations now exist in Minnesota. A statewide list of sales locations is available at www.dnr.state.mn.us/license_bureau/els.html. Locations are also available by calling the DNR Information Center toll free 1-888-646-6367. A mail order form is available from the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us/trails-and-waterways/skipass/index.html or by calling the DNR Information Center.

The ski pass can also be purchased by phone for an extra $3.50 convenience fee by calling the 24-hour instant license number at 1-888-665-4236. Phone purchasers will receive a temporary authorization number and then will receive the ski pass in the mail.

Daily ski passes can still be purchased at most state parks and metro area regional county parks.

"People can use the ski pass on about 170 cross-country ski trails, totaling about 1,700 miles of opportunity," Nordell noted. "Some additional costs may be encountered at certain ski trail locations, but this is the basic fee that drives the statewide ski trail passport system."

Minnesota cross country skiers help support the development and maintenance of public ski trails through the purchase of the Great Minnesota Ski Pass. It was initiated in 1983 by the Minnesota Legislature at the request of cross country skiers in order to fund trail development and grooming.

Trail snow condition reports, updated every Thursday about 2 p.m., are available by calling the DNR Information Center, or by checking the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us. Click on the "current conditions" link.

Changes in the Lincoln High School winter sports programs for the 2001-02 season include coaching assignments for girls hockey, boys basketball and boys swimming, along with new sectional alignments for boys and girls basketball and girls hockey.

Tim Magnusson and Troy Hanestad shared the head coaching duties during the first two years of the Thief River Falls girls varsity hockey program, but Hanestad stepped down at the end of the 2000-01 season, and Magnusson has the head coaching title to himself this winter.

Chris McLean begins his first year as the Prowlers' head boys basketball coach, succeeding Bob Johnson, who held the job for the past four years.

Kelly Weets and Luke Miller were named the Prowlers' co-head coaches in boys swimming, succeeding Mary Helen Houlihan, who directed the program in 1999-2000 and 2000-01.

Jeff Loe begins his sixth year as girls head basketball coach; Scott Bergland is in his fifth year as boys hockey coach; and Rick Yanke is starting his fourth year as wrestling coach.

The basketball teams have been switched from Class AA to Class AAA this winter, and the Prowlers are in Class A for the first year of two-class girls hockey.

Jim Sims oversees the Prowlers' programs as Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

There are no changes in the head basketball coaching assignments at Northland Community and Technical College, where Mike Zachow (women) and Rick Nikunen (men) are both in their fourth year.

Zachow added the tide of interim athletic director this year following the resignation of Rick Nelson over the summer.

Paul Peterson has been added to the Pioneers' athletic department staff as assistant athletic director.

Girls Hockey

There are four Class A sections and eight Class AA sections in Minnesota girls high school hockey this winter.

With the switch from single-class tournament competition, the Prowlers have been assigned to Section 3A, along with Detroit Lakes, Warroad, Roseau, Crosby-Ironton, East Grand Forks, Fergus Falls, Greenway, International Falls, Wadena-Deer Creek, Menahga/Nevis/Park Rapids Area, and Chisholm/Hibbing.

Post-season play starts with games at higher seeded sites before the semifinals and championship games move to Bemidji State University.

Boys Hockey

Detroit Lakes was added to the Section 8A boys hockey line-up this winter.

The Lakers and Prowlers (who are listed by the Minnesota State High School League as a Thief River Falls/Goodridge cooperative program) are joined by Crookston, East Grand Forks, Warroad, Bagley/Clearbrook-Gonvick/Fosston, Kittson Central/Kittson County North, Lake of the Woods/Indus, Red Lake Falls/Oklee, and Menahga/Nevis/Park Rapids Area.

Thief River Falls' Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center will be the site of the Section 8A tournament quarterfinals, semifinals and championship games.

Boys/Girls Basketball

Thief River Falls moved from Class AAA to Class AA two years ago. But another enrollment head count by the Minnesota State High School League has bumped the Prowlers' boys and girls basketball progroms back to the third largest of the four-class format – at least for the next two years.

Both Thief River Falls teams reached the Section 8AA semifinals last year at Concordia College in Moorhead, where the girls lost to Breckenridge 51-39 and the boys fell to Long Prairie-Grey Eagle 54-46.

This winter the Prowlers renew their membership in Section 8AAA, where they join Alexandria, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Rocori, Sartell-St. Stephen, and Sauk Rapids-Rice.

That will mean first round post-season games at the site of higher-seeded teams, semifinal match-ups at neutral sites and championship contests at St. John's (girls) and St. Cloud State (boys).

Wrestling

There are no changes for the Thief River Falls wrestling team, a Section 8AA program in a three-class system.

The Prowlers' sectional foes include Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Hibbing, Park Rapids Area, Roseau, Bagley/Fosston, Blackduck/Cass Lake-Bena, Nevis/Walker-Hackensack-Akeley, Greenway/Nashwauk-Keewatin, and Deer River/Northland.

At tournament time, team competition will be held on an East and West Sub-Section 8AA basis, with the West matches scheduled to be held in Thief River Falls this year. Section 8AA team finals and individual tournament will be held in Fosston.

Boys Swimming

Like girls hockey, the two-class structure for boys swimming features four sections in Class A and eight in Class AA.

Thief River Falls is grouped in Section 4A, along with Crookston, Duluth Central, Duluth Denfeld, Ely, Eveleth-Gilbert, Grand Rapids, Hibbing, International Falls, Mesabi East, Park Rapids Area, Proctor, Virginia, and Chisholm/Mountain Iron-Buhl.

The Section 4A swimming and diving championships will be held in Hibbing.

NCTC Basketball

Northland men's and women's basketball teams compete in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division, along with Vermilion (Ely), Fergus Falls, Mesabi Range (Virginia), Hibbing, Central Lakes (Brainerd), Rainy River (International Falls), and Itasca (Grand Rapids).

All eight teams play home-and-home regular season games against the rest of the Northern Division teams to complete an MCCC-counting schedule.

Games played against Southern Division schools Minneapolis, Rochester, Bethany (Mankoto), Riverland (Austin), Anoka-Ramsey, Ridgewater (Willmar), and Minnesota West (Worthington) are nonconference meetings.

Top four regular season finishers in the Northern and Southern Division standings earn state tournament berths.

Central Lakes will be the host for the women's state basketball tournament.

Minneapolis Community College will be the site of the men's state tournament.

State champions move on to National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournaments, where NJCAA Division III national berths are at stake.

Regular Season Tournaments

Holiday tournaments are a regular part of the Prowlers' basketball and hockey schedules for boys and girls

The girls basketball team will be at the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational Dec. 10, 11 and 13.

Boys basketball schedule features the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic Dec. 26-28 in the Lincoln High School gym.

Thief River Falls boys hockey team will be at the Grand Forks Invitational Dec. 26-28

The Prowlers will be part of the Detroit Lakes Invitational girls hockey tournament Dec. 27-28

An early-season appearance at the Itasca Invitational was part of the Northland women's basketball schedule.

Northland men's basketball team did not pencil in a regular season tournament.

Invitational meets make up a good share of the regular season wrestling and boys swimming schedules.

The wrestling schedule includes tournaments at Wadena-Deer Creek, Grand Forks, Bemidji, Fertile-Beltrami, and Detroit Lakes.

Swimmers will be part of multiple-team events at Fergus Falls, International Falls, Bemidji, Virginia, Crookston, and Park Rapids, along with the Prowler Relays.

TRF Council approves budget

■ In approving balanced budget, the TRF city council approves a 7.5% levy increase

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

The City Council approved the 2002 budget for the City of Thief River Falls at its regular meeting on December 11.

The preliminary budget summary showed a 2002 revenue of $18,272,852, and a 2002 expense of $18,267,269. These numbers represent the 2001 budgeted revenue and expense totals to date.

Mayor Borsheim said even after approval, the budget is a continuous work in progress.

Other issues that may affect the budget are possible emergency warning sirens, tent caterpillar aerial spraying and potential reductions in 2002 State aid/grants. These will be addressed by the Council at a later time. Cost of emergency warning sirens is estimated at $70,000. Spraying for caterpillars may cost around $30,000.

The possible development of a long-range plan to discuss staffing levels and related services within all City Departments was also addressed by Council Committees prior to the meeting.

A formal detail budget will be available at a later time.

The City's 2002 tax levy increase of 7.5 percent was certified by the Council last Tuesday evening. It is anticipated that a 7.5 percent increase will raise a net tax levy of $1,488,462. The tax levy increase for 2001 and 2000 was set at 5 percent. The net tax levy for those two years was $1,384,616 and $1,318,682 respectively.

The City Council approved the following items from its agenda: November 27, 2001 council proceedings; payment of November payments and first half of December bills; various city licenses for 2002; renewal of annual bingo license for the Heritage Center; revised job description and DBM evaluation for the Deputy City Clerk/Treasurer position; memo of understanding covering the Deputy City Clerk/Treasurer's position, quotes for construction of the passenger screening area at the TRF Airport Terminal; the revised job description for the Electrical Services Technician position in the Electric Department.

The following items were approved from the Council's consent agenda: gambling licenses for the American Legion Post 117 at the Evergreen Eating Emporium, Black Cat Sports Bar and Grill, and American Legion Club; gambling license for the TRF Elk's Lodge 1308; progression raise for Damon Finley, apprentice lineworker with the Electric Department; declaring used bill stuffing machine as surplus property; list of uncollectible utility accounts that have been turned over to the Credit Bureau for collection during the previous 12 month period.

Crossroads names new director

■ Julie Johnson takes over as new director

by Kate Morberg
Reporter

Crossroads received a new director on December 10.

Julie Johnson has taken over the position. Former Director Sue Dupree has moved on to be the Director for the Little Brother/Little Sister Program in Pennington County, which she began the end of October. She continued to help out with Crossroads until Johnson took over. Dupree said she didn't have an overwhelming amount of work to do during the transition. Margaret Nelson, the Office Program Coordinator for Crossroads, kept everything in working order in anticipation of Johnson's arrival.

Julie Johnson

Johnson is originally from Thief River Falls. She recently moved back to the community from Grand Forks, N.D.

The goal of Crossroads is to assist displaced homemakers and individuals in transition to become self-confident, and economically self-sufficient members of society. Crossroads provides this service by helping people remove their barriers to self-sufficiency. They provide the tools individuals need to build self-esteem, identify skills and strengths, articulate their goals, and develop a plan to implement the goals they have.

Crossroads offers "one-to-one support," said Nelson. "It is a non-threatening, non-judging organization."

Aaron Scheela of North Branch grabbed huge air on his way to winning the Pro 440 division at the 7 Clans Snocross last weekend at the 7 Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park near Thief River Falls. Due to warm temperatures and rain, the second half of the race on Sunday, was cancelled.

Lucky Seven Snocross gets one racing day

■ This weekend's race still on

by David Hill
Editor

Snowmobile racers and race enthusiasts watched some of the best in snowmobile racing Saturday at the Lucky 7 Snocross located at the 7 Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park near Thief River Falls on Saturday. Hibbert, Scheele, Strege are the names of just a few of the racers who competed in one of the first NorthStar event of the year. The other major story being discussed, of course, is the weather.

Relatively warm temperatures made it very comfortable for the fans on Saturday, but the warm temperatures proved to be a bit too much for track conditions. Due to the warm temperatures and even rain, the second half of the event, which was scheduled for Sunday was cancelled. It wasn't so warm as to require water wings or an umbrella, but almost.

"We could have possibly run," said Jerry Erickson of NorthStar racing, "but it would have caused further deterioration to the track, which will be used several times more this year, and such conditions could have caused damage to the snowmobiles. It was the consensus of everyone to call Saturday's race results as final, but we had some

WSA race on

As of Tuesday, the WSA race next weekend is still on, according to race sponsors, 7 Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park.

Hundreds of loads of snow have been hauled to the race site at 7 Clans for next weekend's scheduled WSA race.

Jeff Jasperson, 7 Clans executive, said the response to calls for snow has been terrific, and there's still a need. Jasperson said anyone interested in donating piles of snow can contact the Casino at 218-681-4062 and ask for Jeff.

No motorized traffic on TRF reservoir

Due to unseasonably warm temperatures, the ice on the reservoir in Thief River Falls has been deemed unsafe. Citing Minnesota Statute 86B.106, Pennington County Sheriff Hruby has prohibited the use of motorized vehicles on the reservoir.

The statute allows the sheriff of the county where the body of water is located to prohibit or restrict the use of motorized vehicles on all or a portion of the body of water. Sheriff Hruby asks for cooperation. Ice conditions on the reservoir have deteriorated to such an extent that there is substantial danger to persons using motorized vehicle. In addition, use of motorized vehicles on the reservoir may pose a danger to any rescuers.

Friendship club enjoys support

Friendship Club of Thief River Falls held its annual Christmas party at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls on Monday. The Friendship Club provides companionship and opportunities for individuals with mental health problems to visit with each other in a caring atmosphere.

Pat Markstrom, who has taken over responsibilities of organizing volunteers and events for individuals with mental health problems, said it couldn't be done without the contributions of many individuals and organizations.

The Christmas party on Monday, for example, was possible only because of the contributions from United Way, Hugo's, Thrifty White, the Heritage Center, Kmart and some generous individuals. Monday, the Odd Fellows Lodge served cake and ice cream as Vern Rogalla provided background music at the Heritage Center. Santa even made an appearance and distributed small gifts and listened to members of the club.

"They are all so good to us," said Markstrom.

The Club, which consists of about 22 members, meets every third Monday of the month. Once a year they have a pizza party, and once a year they go out to eat. Various charitable and civic groups provide volunteer assistance to help make these events a success. Markstrom, specifically mentioned assistance coming from the Auxiliaries of the Eagles Club, American Legion, VFW, and the Faith and Hope Circles of Abundant Life Church, the Nature Bells Garden Club, the Rebeccas, and Lady Foresters.

Pat Markstrom watches over the annual Christmas party for members of the Friendship Club, which was held Monday at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls. The annual event is made possible because so many contribute to it.

Sviggum visits TRF Lions Club

by David Hill
Editor

Republican House Speaker and Majority Leader Steve Sviggum said Wednesday that he had thought this legislative session was going to a simple one that would deal only with bonding. Things have changed dramatically.

The events of Sept. 11 and the $2 billion projected budget deficit changed all that and now the legislature will be facing some very controversial issues, Sviggum said.

Sviggum visited fellow Lions Club members Wednesday in Thief River Falls. His speech before the Lions focused on four issues: service, perspective, balance and legislative issues.

Prior to Sviggum's presentation, Kelly Rogalla visited with the Lions about her responsibilities with Hospice and how the Lions had helped raise over $1,500 for Hospice. Sviggum, thanked the Lions, because he said they know that life, as a Lion, is about service.

Sviggum also discussed how perspective can change quickly, sharing a short and humorous story about traveling on a hot day with his family, which included his three children who were cranky and upset that day, and how his perspective changed when someone told him how lucky he was to have such wonderful children. Sviggum, feeling like a heel at that time, said he thought the individual and his wife were unable to have children, but was informed that, no, he had five children and wished he had three.

Sviggum also referenced his comments by saying balance is

Don't let silent nights turn deadly; take fire-related precautions

Minnesota State Fire Marshall Tom Brace warns that the holiday season increases the risk of home fires.

Last year 158 fires during the holidays resulted in financial losses of more than four million dollars. "And tragically," Brace said, "three lives were lost, as well."

In a presentation at the Governor's residence in St. Paul, Brace passed on the following tips to remember when celebrating the joys and rites of the holiday season.

Keep stockings, decorations, Christmas trees and other combustibles at least three feet from heat sources. Candles should also be kept at least three feet from anything that may burn, and be placed where they can't be knocked over.

Burning gift-wrap in a fireplace may result in a flash-fire or flying ash. Keep fireplace screens and glass doors closed to prevent sparks and embers from flying out.

When hanging Christmas lights, make sure they have been tested and approved. Follow manufacturer's instructions, and don't overload circuits. No more than three standard-sized sets of lights should be used per extension cord. Always remember to turn off lights before going to bed. Electric lights shouldn't be used on metal trees.

The best defense against a house-fire is a smoke alarm. Every household should have at least one.

"Prevention is the key to a safe holiday," Brace said.

Minnesota's impaired drivers targeted in safe and sober wave

Extra law enforcement will prowl Minnesota roads this holiday season in an effort to reduce impaired driving and resulting crashes. The Minnesota Office of Traffic Safety announced the Safe and Sober enforcement period, which will run from December 13-22.

Last year, Minnesota law enforcement officers arrested nearly 35,000 drivers for DWI offenses, and 43 percent of those were repeat offenders. Due to heavy enforcement periods more lives have been saved and more people have a DWI on their driving record. A DWI offense can result in up to one year in jail and a $3,000 fine, as well as loss of license, legal costs and increased insurance rates.

Office of Traffic Safety statistics show an alarming trend in Minnesota. Alcohol-related traffic fatalities went form 31 percent in 1999 to 39 percent in 2000.

In contrast to the majority of other states, Minnesota's blood alcohol content limit is 0.10. Currently, 28 states and the District of Columbia have a 0.08 BAC limit, making them eligible for federal funding incentives for the past four years. Minnesota's 0.10 BAC limit has cost the state nearly $12 million dollars in funding.

Last year, Congress passed a requirement for states to adopt 0.08 BAC by October 1, 2003. States that do not adopt 0.08 will progressively lose more federal highway construction funds. Minnesota stands to lose the following amounts: $6.1 million in federal fiscal year 2004; $12.2 million in federal fiscal year 2005; $18.13 million in federal fiscal year 2006; and $24.4 million every year thereafter.

The law enforcement wave will be supported by the State Patrol, county sheriffs and local police departments, and is part of the Safe and Sober public education and law enforcement program.

The Heritage Center in Thief River Falls honors the memory of their members who have passed away this past year by making a donation to "Light Up A Life For Hospice." The names will be placed on ornaments on the "Light Up A Life Tree," and placed in a book of remembrance. Sharing collection adds to holiday joy in "Olsonville"

By Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Nestled together on the prairie, a small settlement of three dwellings soon attracted other inhabitants. Over a span of 20 years or so, businesses, schools and churches sprang up, spreading out to nearby farmsteads on one side and the waterfront on the other. Eventually, the small group of modest houses turned into a full-fledged village, bustling with commerce, and people at work and children at play.

While the town has no official name, we'll call it "Olsonville" for the purpose of this story. Together, the buildings, people, domestic and wild animals, vehicles, trees, shrubs, fences and host of other miniatures that make up Olsonville are all part of the holiday village collection of Kay and Art Olson, a growing collection that not only brings them seasonal enjoyment but has attracted the attention of friends, neighbors and co-workers. Seating, however, is limited as Olsonville occupies a large portion of the living room of the couple's home northwest of Thief River Falls.

Nearly all of the buildings are electrified with the soft glow emitted from the windows adding interest to the peaceful winter scene. Kay says that, at this point, she has no idea just how many pieces she and Art have amassed to date but says that it is so many that not every piece can be put out every year. Even so, she says they are not done adding to their collection.

The Olson's self-proclaimed obsession with collecting the miniatures began about 20 years ago when Kay attended a House of Lloyds party. A set of three lighted porcelain houses caught Kay's eye, as did their $60 price tag. Before spending what, at the time, she considered a lot of money, she showed them to her husband. To her surprise and delight, he, too, found them appealing and told her to go ahead with the purchase.

Soon after their initial purchase, Kay and Art discovered Department 56, a subsidiary of Lenox that specializes in finely detailed lighted buildings and accessories, and they caught collector's fever. However, while many of their purchases have been from Department 56, they have not limited themselves to that brand. Instead, they purchase pieces that appeal to them and those, they feel, will complement those they already have.

In addition to the pieces they purchase together, Kay and Art have received many as gifts from their son, James, other family members and, of course, each other. Like many collectors, Kay can tell the "where and when" story behind nearly every piece. From what appears to be scores of small accessory pieces, Kay can pluck a sheep from a set of farm animals and tell you where and, most likely, when it was purchased.

The result of Kay and Art's collection is an amazing tablescape where old and new pieces, some pricey and others discounted specials, blend together to create a fascinating winter wonderland.

From the tall and small trees that dot the landscape to the tiny hay bales put out for the farm animals, every piece has been carefully placed, meaning, of course, that setting up the annual display is no small chore. A neighbor built the sturdy platform that supports the village after he noticed that the weight of all the pieces had caused the original support to sag. That same neighbor also constructed a raised platform for Kay and Art's recently acquired lighthouse, the starting point for set up this year.

The lighthouse overlooks the harbor where a ship is currently in port, and from the shoreline, Kay placed businesses, homes, churches and schools to the opposite end of the tablescape where, on the edge of town, are two farms, complete with barns and fenced in areas for the animals. Carefully placed trees and shrubs in various sizes flank many of the buildings, and tiny lampposts provide light for the townsfolk as they go about their business, gather to sing Christmas carols, build snowmen or skate on the pond located near the center of the village.

Kay used quilt batting to create a blanket of snow. Giving the scene additional dimension are the mounds of snow-like polyester fiberfill. Blue paper gives the impression of water in the harbor, and shiny aluminum foil "ice" provides a surface for the skaters.

The holiday village collection of Kay and Art Olson takes up a good share of their living room at this time of year. Kay had the tablescape completely done on November 4 and says it will be taken down shortly after the New Year. In the meantime, it's enjoyed by friends, family and some of Art's co-workers from Arctic Cat. The Olsons have been adding to their collection of buildings and accessories for 20 years.

Quilt batting and mounds of polyester fiberfill are used to create the snow in the lighted Christmas village of Kay and Art Olson of rural Thief River Falls. The Olson's collection started 20 years ago when a set of three cottages caught Kay's eye and later the couple's imaginations.

While some of the buildings are dimly lit, others are bright. In one of the houses, one can even look inside to view a family decorating their Christmas tree. The firehouse in the business district provides a sharp contrast to the soft illumination of the churches found amongst the houses in the residential area.

As one would imagine, laying out the display takes several days and a lot of thought. Each year, Kay says, the layout is different with ideas for what they are going to do popping into their heads throughout the year. This year, the tablescape was complete on November 4, and it will remain in place until shortly after the New Year when Kay says she and Art will be ready to take it down.

Although dismantling the display is a time consuming process also, it's an organized process as well. All of the original boxes and packaging are stored handily beneath the skirted platform.

During the days that the village remains the centerpiece of their living room, Kay and Art will share it with the friends, neighbors and Art's co-workers from Arctic Cat who stop by. While everyone enjoys viewing "Olsonville," Kay comments that many question her and Art's sanity when it comes to their collection obsession. "But," she laughs, "one has to be little nuts."

The purpose of the collection appears to be all about fun. While she says the most expensive piece they own is "Victoria's Station" that retailed for $119, Kay adds that she and Art have no idea how many, if any, of the pieces they own have been retired or what their current value might be.

With the intention of continuing their collection for "as long as we can," the appeal will not be with the intentions of building an asset but rather, amassing pieces that tug on their heartstrings and add to their sense of holiday nostalgia.

Among the dwellings found in Kay and Art Olson's Christmas village collection is this house with detail so fine that one can peer in the living room window to view a family and their Christmas tree. Pieces in the Olson collection vary from the pricier Department 56 collectibles like the one pictured above to discount store specials.

For Dry Eyes

Dry eyes is a symptom that may be related to conditions ranging from minor eye fatigue to Sjogren's syndrome, a disorder caused by abnormal immune function. The dryness is sometimes accompanied by a burning or gritty sensation. Fortunately, there are lubricants available that were designed to simulate the natural ability of the tears to moisturize and lubricate the eyeball. Typical ingredients include glycerin, polyvinyl alcohol, and carboxymethylcellulose. They vary in viscosity, and none is clearly superior; therefore, use the one that works best for you. At the same time, there are many eye conditions that should not be treated with over-the-counter eye drops. See an eye-care professional if you experience discharge from the eye or discomfort associated with contact lenses.

You can depend on us for all your prescription needs. Should your eye-care professional give you a prescription, you can be sure of prompt service by coming to us at Dakota Clinic, 1720 Highway 59 SE (683-2725). When you call us, you talk to a person, someone who will provide you with personal, reliable service. Our best wishes for a peaceful holiday season.

DAKOTA CLINIC

HINT: If you have a seemingly minor eye ailment that persists for more than a few days, see an eye-care professional.

We will be open December 24th until 1:00, closed December 25th. Have a Blessed Christmas!

SPEAKING OF . . .

...'Tis the Spirit of the Season

I try to buy several different women's homemaker-type magazines around Christmas time. Leafing through them helps me to get into the Christmas spirit and get ideas on new ways to decorate the house and what goodies to make for the holidays. Usually the decorating tips and recipes are pretty sensible, but once in a while some of the things I read strike me as outrageously funny. Know what I mean?

This year's crop of Christmas magazines seemed to have an unusual amount of trite tips and sappy suggestions for the holidays. Could be I was just in a trite and sappy mood, or not ready to be overwhelmed by the Christmas spirit yet, but after I read for a while several of the articles began to produce giggles.

Rather unusual was a question and answer page for holiday "Dress-Up Emergencies," something I have constantly on my mind at Christmas time, of course.

"What color shoes and stockings go with a bright red suit?" (Could have been asked by Santa, I suppose.) "Should my belt match my purse and shoes?" (Mrs. Santa's question, I hope.) "Is it ok to wear high heels with pants?" (Elves?)

I'm sure many people are faced with such pressing personal problems at Christmas time. I, however, have other things that I worry about during the holidays, such as will I remember to buy presents for everybody, will I get the tree up before or after Christmas, and will we have Christmas dinner or will I forget to buy a turkey in time to get it thawed before Christmas.

I usually grab whatever pair of shoes I can find that the dog hasn't chewed one of to wear with my bright red suit (a sweat suit), if the dog didn't chew it too. Ditto for the matching belt, purse and shoes and the same for heels with pants (that dog loves leather).

Interesting how much space is devoted to holiday "beauty tips." I found the glamorous ideas for hair particularly intriguing, and I bet my children would find them especially intriguing too, if I tried them on Christmas Eve.

I could wind mistletoe, colored garland, ribbons or tinsel in my hairdo for a "festive flair" (can you just envision this "Christmas tree-perched-on-top-of-my-head-effect?), dust my hair with glitter (better not bend over my Christmas dinner plate though), or hair spray/glue "decorative trinkets" in my hair (they will never come out, I'm sure. Worse yet, if they did shampoo out, they might clog up the plumbing).

I even found a tip on how to soften my elbows so they don't look horrible with my "glamorous," short-sleeved, holiday sweatsuit. I just remove the pulp from two lemon halves, add baby oil to them, and soak my elbows in the lemon halves for at least half an hour. I can hear the kids howling now if they catch me sitting around with lemons on my elbows! I would never hear the end of it.

There was a page of tips on how to store Christmas decorations, after all is said and done and the holidays are ended. I never dreamed of putting little socks on my tree ornaments, but that was one of the suggestions. Yup, it said to "slip the ornament inside the toe of the sock and roll the top over it." Next year I can just pretend I am doing the laundry and unroll all the little balled up socks at tree trimming time. I don't think I will do that. All the socks in my house have holes in them big enough for the ornaments to fall through, and how would I explain the fact that there are no socks in the sock drawers?

I could also make a protective "ornament balloon" by putting my ornament in a zippered plastic bag, partially closing the bag around a straw, and then blowing air into the bag and closing it tightly. I don't think I have the time or the breath or the bags to do that, thank you.

Other ideas included using shredded newspaper or discarded gift paper to wrap ornaments. Seems to me I have enough clutter in my closets without saving old socks, plastic bags, newspapers and old wrapping paper to pack my Christmas decorations in, and imagine how much space all those puffed-up ornaments in plastic bags would take.

One article said to use an old artificial tree to make new, but equally artificial, wreaths. Another said to get the real tree needles out of the carpet with a real rake. Another suggested wrapping the Christmas tree in a bed sheet to tote it outside after the holidays. I know my neighbors would think I was crazy and maybe had a body in the bag.

Holiday shortcuts for overworked young mothers and harried housewives were interesting to read but very fatiguing. Suggestions included such things as cleaning and organizing closets and clearing kitchen countertops before the holidays. (We know we need to do it, but please, not before Christmas). Other suggestions included shopping late at night or early in the morning (to beat the rush), carrying a tape recorder at all times so you can record your own voice telling yourself what still needs to be done before the big day (what a cheerful thought), categorizing grocery lists by sections in the store (never mind that it will take three times as long to prepare your list because you can't remember what is in which aisle), and carrying snacks for the children in the car so it won't be necessary to stop for meals once you start running errands. (Yup, just put the little darlings in their car seats with a peanut butter sandwich and forget about them.)

Of particular interest were the innovative tree trimmings. One magazine suggested that I make teddy bears, reindeer and bells from pine cones and glitter and use them to trim my tree. Another suggested using spray paint and ribbon to decorate different types of sea shells and hang them all over my tree. And another idea utilized different types of pasta for tree trimmings. I think my favorite idea involved saving boxes from everything all year and then "gift wrapping" them with bows and ribbons and hanging them all over the Christmas tree.

I suppose I could manage the assorted pasta idea if I searched through every store for miles around, and I suppose I could collect pine cones for a few years so I could paint them, but I fear that I might have some trouble finding sea shells here in northern Minnesota. I would just love to wrap up little empty boxes, but I think I'd better wrap up the presents for family first, or some people will be rather upset and I will never see another little box given to me for a long time.

One more little trick: "Bring rich burnished notes to your table this holiday season" by painting artichokes with gold or copper - with a brush - by hand. Where do they sell artichokes, anyway? I wonder if canned would work.

Tree-buying tip: "Make sure the needles on your tree snap crisply, like a fresh carrot, and not bend." Guess what! I checked mine and they bent. The only ones that snapped were the brown ones. Could that be because the dog is always drinking up the tree water?

I'm going to snap too, if I don't get my nose out of these magazines and quit giggling and get to work.

I hope your holiday is happy and full of giggles too.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I lost my wallet and need to replace my Social Security card, but the person at Social Security said I have to show identification to replace my card. I lost my identification with my wallet! What should I do?

A. Over the past several years, Social Security has become more careful with regard to all issues involving Social Security numbers (SSN). Although you may view this as a process which makes things harder for you, we consider it a way to help protect you and your Social Security record, especially as identity theft becomes an increasing problem.

Social Security Administration employees are required to see current proof of identity before issuing a new card. The application form (SS-5) lists a variety of items that can be used for identification, some of which would not normally be lost with a wallet.

In the future, consider not carrying your Social Security card unless you are going to need it for purposes such as seeking employment. A Social Security card is not considered a form of identification.

For more information about Social Security issues, visit the agency web site at www.ssa.gov.

Q. Someone telephoned me out of the blue, said he was from Social Security and asked me for my Social Security number. I hung up on him. Was that the right thing to do?

A. Yes. Usually, Social Security does not make calls to people who are not expecting them. In most circumstances, the client has called first, and we are returning the call to set up an appointment, etc.

Many SSA applications are completed by telephone, and personal information is asked at those times. However, these interviews are usually scheduled ahead of time by the client. In any case, should Social Security call you unexpectedly, it would usually not need to ask for your Social Security number, and it would establish a reason for the call.

Do not release any personal information if you have any doubt about a telephone call. Should you hang up on a SSA representative, a follow-up letter could be sent if needed. Keep in mind that Social Security neither sells nor endorses the sale of any product.

A note to employers: To reduce your paperwork, always make certain that employee names and Social Security numbers are correct before issuing W-2 forms.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Kate Levinson, Lincoln High School

Most people enjoy spending their Saturday mornings at home relaxing. I, however, prefer to spend mine on a chilly school bus full of unshowered high school boys headed to a muggy swimming pool in Bemidji or Virginia. I know it doesn't sound appealing, but it's surprising how much fun it is to be a manager of the boy's swim team.

This is my fourth year of wholly dedicating myself to making locker signs, taking times, and filling water bottles from November to March. I also keep records of lettering points, locker numbers, relay splits, and the number of times the boys swear. Even though I do a fair number of useful things for the team, I often feel that much of my reason for existing as a manger is to be a nonstop source of entertainment. Someone is almost always teasing me, whether it's one of the guys or a fellow manager.

Believe it or not, meets are hectic events, even for a non-swimmer like me. About 90 percent of the time, I am surrounded by an anxious mob of boys asking, "What lane am I in? What heat am I in? Who's in my relay?" I try to answer each question without taking my eyes off of the race in progress. Shouts of "Will you hold my glasses?" and "Kate, I need a Band-Aid!" echo in my throbbing head. Occasionally, I'll try to escape by taking a deep breath and looking around, but the strong smell of chlorine and presence of guys in Speedos makes it impossible. The contrast between the humor and seriousness makes for a unique atmosphere.

After spending time with the guys, I've realized how quickly I go from observing their emotions to feeling them myself. I get as excited as they do when they drop time or place in an event. And I'm as disappointed as they are when they have a bad race. Sometimes I think I'm more needed for support than I am as a watergirl.

Whatever the outcome of a meet, as soon as the first guy hears the word "food," the score is forgotten. If I have learned nothing else from my experience as a manager, I now know the true capacity of a male's stomach. And I understand the origin of the term "bottomless pit." Somehow, I think guys digest faster, too. At our first meet this year, a few members of the team decided that it would be smart to eat an entire Perkins' pie for dessert (after a large breakfast, I must add). They laid around and groaned for awhile, but by the start of the meet, they were up and ready to go. I was amazed. And by the mid-meet break, they were hungry again.

The bus rides home always entertain me. Our conversations range from nonsensical to surprisingly serious, covering everything from the day's meet to most embarrassing moments (and I can assure you, there have been many). Whatever the topic, the trip back always seems short.

There are still things about guys I don't understand, like their strange obsessions with food, their own butts, and Britney Spears. I don't understand why they "accidentally" throw their empty water bottles at me or how they endure riding on a bus that smells like a sewer. I know that what I've described probably doesn't sound like fun to you, and in fact, it doesn't sound like fun to me either. But for reasons I don't understand, I'm truly looking forward to the rest of the season.

PARENTING TIPS

Healthy Families Put Family First

In today's world, families are facing many challenges. These challenges make it difficult for families to be a strong, supportive base for their members. Author Delores Curran researched healthy families in today's world to determine what qualities they have that help them to remain healthy in spite of the challenges they face. She then wrote about her findings in her book "Traits of a Healthy Family." Here are some of her findings:

•A healthy family communicates by expressing and listening to feelings, not just words. (A generation ago this was not considered important in families.)

•A healthy family shows respect for one another. Everyone's opinion is respected, even the opinions of young children. By modeling respect, we can teach our children to respect others.

•A healthy family has a balance of interactions. In other words, all family members are important and time is spent with all of them. Make sure someone isn't predominant in the family. For instance if one child is in a sport or activity, don't focus all your time and attention on that one child. Give all family members attention. Today, the major family function is relational. Our needs are emotional rather than physical as they were in the past. In pioneer days, children were needed to help a family survive. It's just as important today to make family members feel needed and appreciated. Everyone needs to feel loved and that they are important members of their family.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Tell your child that you love and appreciate him/her. Help him/her understand the concept of unconditional love: you love your children no matter what they do.

CORNERSTONE

Kirsten Melvie, Cornerstone Christian School

"Peace on Earth?"

(Editor's note: The following essay was written by Kirsten Melvie, a student at Cornerstone Christian School. She is the daughter of Kjell and Dawn Melvie of Thief River Falls.)

Is there really peace on earth? How can there peace on earth when there are wars, terrorists, terrorist attacks, anthrax and whatever else we hear about? Many people are probably asking that same question.

What really is true peace? True peace doesn't necessarily mean that there is no trouble here on earth. True peace is the peace we have in our hearts. We have peace amidst the wars an chaos.

In the Bible, we constantly read the words, "Fear not. . .", "Do not be afraid," "Have no fear," "Be not dismayed," or "Fret not!" God sent His Son, Jesus, to die on the cross to take on the sins of the world. If we believe that, we have Heaven awaiting us, even when things get really tough here on earth. So, there really isn't anything to be afraid of.

During the Christmas season, we often forget the true meaning of Christmas because we are thinking so much about what we have to do to get ready for it. Things like, "How many dozen cookies do I have to bake for the guests?" or, "Shall I make two pumpkin pies or two apple pies?" or, "What kind of tree should we have this year, artificial or a real one?" or even, "Oh no! I still have to wrap 13 more presents!"

All those things are important, but not as important as the true meaning of Christmas: Jesus came as a little baby to this earth so that later He could die on the cross for our sins. If we believe in Him, we will go to Heaven. Through all the hustle and bustle this holiday season, I pray that no one will forget the true meaning and peace of Christmas.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

We would be so much better off if we could wipe away the baloney that has arisen around this whole Christmas thing and start from scratch. Too much of the hoopla has become more obligation than fun.

Yet, we go through the motions year after year, as if somebody is forcing us to drag the plastic tree down from the attic for the twenty-third year in a row.

Christmas parties often fill people with dread. Jam a bunch of people who don't really care for each other into one room. Make up some rules to ensure that the gift giving, which nobody wants to do anyway, is forced and regulated.

Call it a Christmas party, and the members of this or that half-dead community organization will show up year after year, paste on fake smiles, and pretend to have a good time.

People invent gimmicks by the dozen to make sure that gift giving doesn't get out of hand. Nothing over five dollars. We'll draw names. Only handmade items this year. Make out your list ahead of time. Register at Target.

None of those games make Christmas any fun.

Somewhere in the writings of Laura Ingalls Wilder she tells about the best Christmas she ever had. It was, naturally, when she was a young girl. At that time the Ingalls family lived in a small cabin on the prairie, far from anything at all. They were poor.

But on Christmas Eve, an uncle unexpectedly appeared out of a snowstorm carrying a package filled with gifts for the children. The gifts were simple. Some rock candy, a little maple sugar, and, most exotic of all for the Ingalls children, oranges.

Imagine if some generous uncle tried the same trick today.

First, Uncle would watch the weather channel and find out that there was a travel advisory. No sense traveling in a blizzard.

If he did venture out, Uncle would have his cell phone at the ready and would call ahead to the Ingalls cabin on the way through town to see if they needed milk. End of surprise.

Ma Ingalls would have just been to the grocery store, where she picked up not only milk, but oranges, kiwifruit, apples and bananas in abundance.

But as Ma dragged the bags in from the minivan, Laura and the girls would look up from their video games and be, like, so hummed. More healthy stuff. Yuck.

Laura would have already e-mailed Uncle for months with her Christmas demands. Uncle would be at his wits end trying to figure out which DVD he should get Laura. Kids are bored by kid movies, but anything cool is usually filled with skin and blood. Ma and Pa might not like that.

If we could start from scratch and lower Christmas expectations to zero, things would be a lot easier. Can you imagine how much fun it would be to have a houseful of kids jump up and down because you brought them a bag of oranges?

Who went home with the Lord
March 21, 2001

I'm having my first Christmas in Heaven!
A glorious and wonderful day!
I'm standing with the saints of the ages.
Who found Christ, the Truth and the Way

I'm Singing with the Heavenly choir
Just think! I who so longed to sing!
And oh, what celestial music
We bring to our Savior and King!

We sing the glad songs of redemption
How Jesus to Bethlehem came.
And how they called His name Jesus.
That all Might be saved through His name.

We sing once again with the angels.
The song that they sang that blest morn.
When shepherds first heard the glad story
That Jesus, the Savior was born.

O, how I wish you were here.
No Christmas on earth can compare
With all the rapture and glory
We witness in Heaven so fair.

You know how I always loved Christmas:
It seemed such a wonderful day.
With all my loved ones around me.
The children so happy and gay

Yes, now I can see why I loved it:
And oh, what a joy it will be
When you and my loved ones are with me.
To share the glories I see.

So, Dear Ones on earth, here's my greeting:
Look up till the day, dawn appears.
And oh, what a Christmas awaits us.
Beyond all our partings and tears!

To God be the Glory!

The Marshall County Highway Department informs residents that piling snow on county highway right of way (by plowing, blowing, shoveling, etc.) is illegal.

That act can subject a person to a civil liability if this road hazard causes a traffic accident. The act itself may be considered a misdemeanor and punishment under State law. Civil liabilities may extend to both the property owner and the person performing the snow removal.

We ask that all citizens obey these rules, as they are designed to keep highways functioning safe and efficient during the winter months.

Thief River Falls spreads joy during the Christmas season

St. Bernard's Catholic School, Our Savior's Lutheran Church, the Evangelical Covenant Church and other Thief River Falls residents participated in Operation Christmas Child by delivering 82 shoeboxes to a collection center in Grand Forks, N.D.

Operation Christmas Child is a worldwide mission program sponsored by Samaritan's Purse under the leadership of Franklin Graham. In the program, churches, organizations and individuals pack shoeboxes with toys, school supplies, hygiene items and clothing for any of three different age groups of boys and girls. The designated collection center for this region was the Hope Evangelical Covenant Church in Grand Forks. Collection occurs the third week of November, and the boxes are then forwarded to a processing point in Minneapolis. They are then flown overseas.

"We hope that even more churches, organizations and individuals capture the vision of bringing Christmas joy, and the Christmas message to needy children around the world next year," Volunteer Area Coordinators Lloyd and Ruth Omdahl of Grand Forks said in reporting the statistics. "Operation Christmas Child sends a great message from America."

New churches and organizations interested in joining the 2002 effort can get information from: OCC Volunteers, 2807 Clover Drive, Grand Forks, N.D. 58201, phone 701-772-1348, or e-mail lloyd_omdahl@und.nodak.edu.

Changes proposed in state's clean indoor air rules

Changes would affect restaurants, lodging and retail facilities, and work sites

The Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) has published a set of proposed changes to state rules that govern smoking in public places and places of work, opening a 30-day period for public comment on the new rules.

MDH has been conducting a comprehensive review of the rules it uses to enforce the 26-year-old Minnesota Clean Indoor Air Act (MCIAA). The review, which has been underway since July 1999, was undertaken in response to changes that were made in the MCIAA during the 1999 legislative session.

Although public discussion of the new rules has thus far tended to focus on how they will affect restaurants, the proposed changes are much broader than that, according to Laura Oatman, supervisor of the Indoor Air Unit at MDH.

"We've proposed some changes in ventilation requirements for restaurants, and that part of this project has tended to draw most of the attention from the media and the public," Oatman said. "But the task at hand is broader and more comprehensive than that. The proposed changes will also affect the workplace, retail stores and lodging establishments."

The review process included an extensive examination of the available scientific literature on the health effects of environmental tobacco smoke, she noted. The new rules were drafted with the help of a special Rulemaking Advisory Committee, which included major stakeholders affected by the rule changes.

Among the proposed changes:

- Restaurants. New restaurants will have two options—either go completely smoke free, or take steps to ensure that patrons in the non-smoking area are not exposed to air from the smoking section. New restaurants that opt to have a smoking section must:

(1) install a ventilation system that keeps the air pressure lower in the smoking section than in the rest of the building;

(2) make sure the ventilation system is designed so that air from the smoking section is always released to the outside of the building—never re-circulated into the non-smoking area; and

(3) either wall off the smoking section completely from the rest of the restaurant, or use a ventilation system that only allows air to move in one direction—from the non-smoking area to the smoking area.

Existing restaurants will be able to retain their current arrangements for smoking and non-smoking patrons—but they will need to eliminate any seating in the current "buffer zone" between the smoking and non-smoking areas, and they must post signs warning non-smokers about possible exposure to second-hand smoke.

- Hotels, Motels and Resorts. Like restaurants, lodging establishments can either go entirely smoke-free, or designate areas where smoking is permitted. Smoking permitted areas can include private, enclosed offices; designated areas of employee lunch rooms or lounges; designated portions of common areas like lobbies, pool areas, or game rooms; designated portions of restaurants; and bars located on-premises. Common areas can't be designated as "smoking-permitted" in their entirety.

Ventilation and barrier requirements for "smoking-permitted" areas would be similar to those for new restaurants. MCIAA rules do not apply to individual guest rooms, or to conference halls used for private functions.

- Retail Stores. Under the new rules, retail stores can go completely smoke-free, or restrict smoking to designated areas. They can allow smoking in enclosed, private offices, or designated areas of employee lunch rooms or lounges. Smoking can also be permitted in a customer area, but only if the same goods or services are also available in a smoke-free area.

Ventilation and barrier requirements for smoking-permitted areas in retail stores would be similar to those for new restaurants. The new rules would not apply to establishments that derive 90 percent or more of their revenue from the sale of tobacco products.

- Places of Work. The proposed rules would, for the first time, apply the same workplace restrictions to office buildings and facilities like warehouses or factories. Once again, places of work can go smoke-free, or restrict smoking to designated areas. Smoking-allowed areas can include enclosed, private offices, or designated areas in employee lounges or lunch rooms. If there is no lounge or lunch room, one smoking-permitted area can be designated for every 20,000 square feet of floor space. And once again, ventilation and barrier requirements for smoking areas would be similar to those for new restaurants.

The comment period for the proposed rules runs through 4:30 p.m. on Jan. 2. A hearing on the rules will be held on Jan. 30, if at least 25 people submit a written request to MDH. To be considered, a request for hearing must be in the hands of MDH staff by the end of the comment period.

A number of documents relating to the proposed rule changes are available for review on the MDH website at www.health.state.mn.us/divs/eh/aialr/iair/mciaarule.

Items available on the website include (1) the agency's "dual notice" of intent to adopt the rules and, if necessary, hold a hearing on January 30; (2) a series of fact sheets explaining the rule changes; (3) a formal Statement of Need and Reasonableness, which provides detailed information about the new rules and the rationale for the proposed revisions; and (4) a link to the actual text of the new rules.

Individuals who want to comment on the rules or get more information can contact George Fischer at MDH. Mr. Fischer can be reached by mail at the Indoor Air Unit, Minnesota Department of Health, 121 E. 7th Pl./Box 64975, St. Paul 55164-0975; by phone at (651) 215-0932, by fax at (651) 215-0975; or by e-mail at georg.fischer@health.state.mn.us.

Xcel Energy advised keeping gas meters clear of snow and ice

Xcel Energy officials remind homeowners to keep outdoor natural gas meters clear of ice and snow to prevent the potential of dangerous natural gas pressure buildup in their homes.

"The natural gas meter's regulator vent is especially vulnerable to plugging any time we have a combination of snow and ice buildup and fluctuating temperatures," said Scott Snyder, Xcel Energy's Director for the Twin Cities Metro East Field Operations. "A clogged vent can adversely affect the operation of the gas regulator, resulting in a potentially hazardous condition."

He strongly recommends that customers carefully remove snow or ice from the gas meter and any associated piping. Also check to ensure that melting snow or ice is not dripping on the meter from the roof or nearby trees. "Carefully shovel around the meter and clear the meter itself by hand. Avoid using a snowblower near the meter," Snyder said.

If homeowners notice ice collecting on their meter, especially around the regulator and vent, or are concerned that their meter's regulator vent may be blocked, call Xcel Energy at 1-800-895-2999.

Xcel Energy reminds natural gas customers that if they smell natural gas in their homes to leave the house immediately and to follow these other important safety precautions:

Don't turn lights on or off or use any other electrical switches under any circumstances.

Don't take time to open any windows or doors other than the ones you pass through on your way out.

Don't use a cell phone or any other phone while still in the house.

Don't return to the home until a safety expert such as a utility company employee or firefighter says it's safe to do so.

Emeregency Response Commission releases chemical information report

The Minnesota Emergency Response Commission issued its annual Right-to-Know Chemical Information Report on December 13.

In 2000, 400 facilities were subject to the chemical reporting requirements, compared to 399 in 1999. Out of 344 million pounds of chemicals managed in 2000, 33 million pounds were released into the environment. In 1999, 32 million pounds were released, out of 333 million pounds managed.

Pollution Prevention Progress Reports for 2000 were filed by 352 facilities. Each progress report represents a pollution prevention objective for a particular chemical. Fifty-eight percent of the reports filed indicated that objectives had been met. The top three chemicals in terms of mass of air releases were styrene, methanol, and toluene. Ranked by hazard potential, the top three were mercury, dioxin and copper.

"For the first time, this report contains information on persistent, bio-accumulative and toxic chemicals, such as mercury and dioxin," ERC Executive Director Jerry Rosendahl said. The summary report provides various rankings of the "top-20" facilities with actual release and off-site transfer figures. In addition, statewide listings are provided for mercury and dioxin."

The 2000 Right-to-Know Chemical Information Report is available by writing the Emergency Response Commission at 444 Cedar Street, Suite 223, St. Paul, Minn., 55101, or by calling 651-297-7372. The entire report will be available on the ERC Web site at www.erc.state.mn.us by December 31, 2001. In addition, the Web site provides a query system, which users can use to identify facilities that report chemical release in their communities.

Minnesota records first flu case of season

Minnesota's first laboratory-confirmed flu case of the 2001-2002 season has been reported in a 61-year-old man who has been seen at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, according to the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH).

MDH officials are stressing, however, that it is still not to late to get a flu shot, and they add that there are now ample supplies of flu vaccine in the state.

Because shipments of flu vaccine had been slow in arriving earlier this year, health officials gave first priority to immunizing people determined to be at high risk for dangerous complications if they were to get the flu. Others were asked to postpone getting their flu shots until after December 1.

Officials say now, however, that there is no shortage of the vaccine, and there is still plenty of time to protect yourself against the flu.

"In a typical year, we may not see widespread influenza activity for up to several weeks after the first handful of cases are reported to us," said Dr. Hull. "There's still time to get immunized, and it's especially important that you get a flu shot if you're in a high risk group."

People over 65 years of age, those with chronic illnesses and people with weakened immune systems are at greatest risk, according to Dr. Hull. "People in these groups can end up in the hospital, or even die, if they get the flu."

MDH officials declined to speculate about whether this will be a "bad year" for the flu. They also emphasized that the appearance of the state's first flu case was not related to the recent arrival of cold weather in the state.

While the occurence of flu tends to be seasonal, experts say that cold weather conditions have nothing to do with causing the illness. It's also likely that anyone coming down with the flu right now was exposed to the virus before the weather turned cold.

The man diagnosed with this year's first case was infected with the strain of the influenza virus similar to A Panama, which is one of the strains included in this year's vaccine.

The flu vaccine has to be reformulated every year, to cover those strains of the virus that are most likely to be circulating during the upcoming season.

Because the flu virus tends to change significantly over time, people in high risk groups are routinely advised to get a flu shot every fall. Those most at risk include:

- Anyone 65 years of age or older;
- Residents of nursing homes and other long-term care facilities;
- Anyone over six months of age with a chronic condition of the heart, circulatory system or respiratory system, including asthma;
- Anyone over six months of age who has been hospitalized or required ongoing medical attention during the past year for a chronic metabolic disorder (such as diabetes), kidney problems, a blood disorder or immune system problems (such as HIV infection, or an immune system suppressed by medication, chemotherapy or radiation treatment);
- Children and teenagers who are receiving ongoing medical treatment with aspirin, which could place them at risk for developing a serious condition known as Reye Syndrome if they get the flu;
- Women who will be in the second or third month of pregnancy during the flu season.

The symptoms of influenza, which can come on suddenly, can include a sore throat, coughing, fever, headache, muscle aches and fatigue. People who become severely ill with influenza-like symptoms should see a physician.

Dr. Levinson to appear on ABC-TV talk show

Dr. Steve Levinson, director of mental health at Northwest Medical Center, was recently featured as a guest on the new ABC-TV talk show, "Iyanla," which is produced by Barbara Walters.

The hour-long program, taped before a live audience in New York City, was devoted to the topic of New Year's resolutions. The show is expected to air later this month.

Levinson, author of the book, Following Through, has become an internationally-known expert on this topic. Last December, he appeared in a segment of ABC's 20/20.

Marvin employees donate $28,000 to Salvation Army

Marvin Windows and Doors employees in Warroad raised $28,768.05 for the Salvation Army's September 11 relief efforts. The danation was presented to the Salvation Army last week.

"We are so very, very proud of the generosity of the people that work at Marvin," said Susan Marvin, president of the company. "The gifts presented to the Salvation Army demonstrate the enthusiasm, care and concern our employees have for others."

According to Marvin employee Brenda Baumann, the Salvation Army was selected based on its long-standing reputation in effectively helping people in a crisis or disaster.

The organization has served 2.2 million people on the east coast to date and continues offering more than 3,000 meals daily in the greater New York area alone. When serving meals and hydration, Salvation Army personnel are also able to offer emotional and spiritual support to emergency workers and clean up crews. In addition, Salvation Army mental health and social service sites continue to serve 200 people daily and have served 64,000 people since September 11.

Marvin Windows, based in Warroad, is a manufacturer of made-to-order wood and clad-wood windows and doors. The privately owned company has more than 4,000 employees and operates manufacturing facilities in Warroad; Ripley, Tenn.; Baker, Ore.; Fargo, N.D.; and Grafton, N.D.

Banks announce new ownership structure

Robert J. Hager, CEO of Border State Banks, and Curtis J. Neumann, president of First National Bank, jointly announce a signed agreement between Border Bancshares, Inc. and Northern Plains Bancshares, Inc.

First National Bank with facilities in Thief River Falls and Middle River will join the Border State Bank family.

"The change in ownership to Border State Bank has been a well thought out process to ensure the best interests of our First National employees and customers," Neumann commented. "We believe in the importance of a hometown, community bank and are genuinely committed to meeting the banking needs of our friends in the Thief River Falls and Middle River areas. We will work hard to offer a competitive range of financial services and convenience, such as Internet banking," said Hager.

Applications to banking regulators for approval of the proposed change of ownership are pending, with approval expected within the first quarter of 2002.

Both Neumann and Hager said that each bank will continue to offer that special "hometown banking" atmosphere.

Border Bancshares, Inc. is a holding company owned by northern Minnesota business owners and residents. With facilities in Badger, Baudette, Greenbush, International Falls and Roseau, Border State Bank has approximately $135 million in combined assets.

Northern Plains Bancshares, Inc., with First National Bank locations in Thief River Falls and Middle River, is a locally owned holding company with approximately $45 million in assets.

Another race in the region also decided not to race on Sunday as well. Chet Aubol receives clipping that shows fish crossing roads

Chet Aubol of Thief River Falls shared an interesting newspaper clipping that he received from his brother Arne, who lives in Shelton, Wash., with The Times this week – a photo showing how recent heavy rains caused flooding and sent salmon swimming across roads.

Shelton is located 30 miles north of Olympia.

The photo showed a number of fish making their way through the shallow water that crossed the road as motorists looked on.

Crossroads names new director

■ Julie Johnson takes over as new director

Julia Johnson (middle) became the new Director for Crossroads on December 10, a position formerly held by Sue Dupree (left). Dupree started her new job as Director for the Little Brother/Little Sister Program the end of October, but continued Crossroads Director duties with the help of Margaret Nelson, (right) Office Program Coordinator for Crossroads.

(Continued from Page 1) placed homemakers. They are defined as individuals in transition who have spent at least two years in the home providing household services, and have lost financial support due to death, divorce, separation, or disability.

Nelson said many who participate in the program have been referred by other agencies such as social services, workforce centers, or violence intervention centers. Crossroads reaches eight counties, which include Kittson, Polk, Marshall, Roseau, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman and Lake of the Woods. Its main office is located in Thief River Falls, and there is also one in Crookston at the Workforce Center. Meetings can be arranged in other counties by making an appointment.

Crossroads offers workshops on job search techniques, career planning, resume preparation, and on many more topics. Dupree said Crossroads has an in-house introduction to typing course. Participants use a computer program at the office to further develop their skills.

Crossroads has also helped provide reliable transportation to work and to workshops by buying gas until the first paycheck comes in, or helping with minor car repairs or insurance.

Crossroads services are offered free of charge to eligible individuals. Eligibility is determined by filling out a questionnaire. Those interested in seeking help through Crossroads can call the Thief River Falls office at 1-800-450-8158 or 218-681-8160, or the Crookston office at 1-800-657-3791.

Crossroads is a non-profit organization funded by the Minnesota Department of Economic Security, United Way, private foundation grants and other community contributions.

Sue Dupree was recognized for seven years of dedicated service as the Director of Crossroads. Dr. Paul Adams, Crossroads Board Chairman, presented Dupree with a plaque in appreciation for the work she has done for the program.

Sviggum visits TRF Lions Club

(Continued from Page 1) important in our lives; and, voters sent legislators a message by putting Republicans in control of the House, Democrats in control of the Senate, and an independent in control of the Executive branch. As a result, the state has a balance that no other state has, he said. It also brings to the floor, a lot of different opinions. Sometimes that means achieving a consensus in the legislature is difficult.

The events of Sept. 11 changed a lot of things, and the issues facing the Minnesota legislature this year have changed dramatically. Sviggum said they will now be considering some controversial issues:

- homeland security (airport and border issues), a matter, which he never thought Minnesota would have to face;
- a $1.9 billion budget shortfall;
- a proposal to build the Twins a stadium to keep them in Minnesota;
- transportation funding; and,
- domestic partner benefits that were approved in contract negotiations with state employees last fall.

Minnesota is better prepared to face the budget shortfall than most states, said Sviggum. The state has a $630 million reserve, and $350 in cash flow reserve, for example. That doesn't mean some difficult decisions won't have to be made.

Sviggum said the state, recently learned that between September and October alone, Minnesota lost 23,000 jobs, many of which were in the airline and travel industry. The State Legislature will have to deal with that issue, as well.

Personally, Sviggum doesn't think Minnesota should use tax dollars for professional sports, but a stadium for the Twins will be a controversial issue before the legislature this year.

Baseball needs to clean up its act, Sviggum said. In discussing the issue, Sviggum mentioned the irony of appearing before a Congressional hearing on anti-trust in baseball, the same day the New York Yankees signed a first baseman for $129 million. Sviggum said he loves baseball, but "a $250 million check (from Minnesota) is not in the cards."

Sviggum, who calls the light rail project the biggest boondoggle in Minnesota, believes the $800 million that will be needed eventually for that project would have been better spent elsewhere. Sviggum believes transportation funding is desperately needed, and will be just another difficult issue before the Legislature in a year that is shaping up to be a very difficult legislative year.

The TIMES

Cody Sorvig was the top Thief River Falls swimmer in the 200 freestyle, turning in a second place 2:03.71 during the Prowlers' home-opening boys high school swim meet vs. Bemidji at the Franklin Middle School pool. Thief River Falls won the Tuesday (Dec. 11) dual 108-61.

Annual Prowler Relays are held Saturday...

Fergus Falls wins swim meet

Fergus Falls edged host Thief River Falls 79-75 Saturday in the annual Prowler Relays boys high school swim meet at the Franklin Middle School pool. Detroit Lakes was third in the five-team event with 59 points, followed by Park Rapids Area with 53 and Perham 32.

"Overall, we were very happy with the way the boys swam," said Thief River Falls co-head coach Kelly Weets. "The kids swam well."

The final score, pointed out Weets and fellow co-head coach Luke Miller, falls short of showing just how good of a performance the Prowlers turned in. Meet rules require all 'A' teams to be scored higher than 'B' or 'C' entries, even if the B or C time is faster than the A clocking. On four occasions the Prowlers' second and third teams beat the top times from schools who placed higher.

If straight times would have been used to determine team scores, the Prowlers would have won the meet, pointed out Weets.

The Prowlers won four races, with a 1:48.12 by Nathan Browning, Jason Swenson, Josh Swenson, and Aaron Field being the most impressive victory, according to Weets.

Other Thief River Falls winning combinations included Field, Russ Anderson, Cody Sorvig, and Andre Thibodeau in the 200 freestyle; Jason Swenson, Jon Kays, Dustin Efta, and Stephan Hahn in the 200 breaststroke; along with Sorvig, Josh Anderson, Chris Olson, and Gabe Carlson in the 500 crescendo relay that features freestyle swims of 200, 150, 100, and 50 yards.

It was the third outing and second home appearance of the 2001-02 season for the Prowlers, who have just one more home date this winter – a Jan. 22 dual vs. Park Rapids Area.

With a scheduled Friday appearance at the Bronco Invitational in International Falls canceled, the Prowlers will be idle until Thursday, Jan. 3, when they head to Detroit Lakes for a 6 p.m. dual meet encounter.

Brittany Berberich tried to use a screen set by Red Lake County Central teammate Maureen Munt in an effort to get around Stephen-Argyle defender Rachel Seng during NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational girls high school basketball tournament action at Northland Community and Technical College. The Storm won the consolation semifinal game 33-29.

Northland women unbeaten

Unbeaten status of the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team will last at least another 3 1/2 weeks, thanks to 66-58 Friday victory at Minneapolis that sends the Pioneers into the holiday break with a 7-0 record.

Misten Hoie scored 17 points, Kylie Rogalla was 4-for-5 from 3-point range in a 16-point effort and Jenny Weiss, despite taking an elbow to the mouth that knocked out a tooth, netted 12 points for the visitors. The balance off-set a game-high 28-point game by Tiara Medlock of Minneapolis.

"For playing on the road, being in the van for 5 1/2 hours, then stepping on the court against a good team, I thought, overall, we played pretty well," said Northland coach Mike Zachow.

Northland led 31-21 at halftime.

The Pioneers will be idle until Wednesday, Jan. 9, when they host Canadian foe Providence College. That will be a final tune-up for Northland's Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division schedule, which begins with a Jan. 11-12 weekend trip to Mesabi Range and Vermilion.

Zachow certainly won't turn down a 7-0 record, but he's quick to point out that the Pioneers' can still elevate their level of play. "We're doing all the things we need to do win," he said, "but we know we can still play better."

Prowlers post pair of 3-2 wins

■ Boys hockey team beats Jacks, Wolfpack

Two 3-2 weekend wins produced vastly different responses from Thief River Falls boys high school hockey coach Scott Bergland. He was elated with the results Friday at home against Bemidji, but less-than-thrilled when the Prowlers won by the same score the next night against Kittson Central in Hallock.

Jason Tuthill scored just 14 seconds into the game and Jared Altepeter doubled the difference three minutes later in a fast Thief River Falls start against Bemidji.

The Lumberjacks got those two goals back before the first period was completed on shots by Mike Hendricks and Travis Reierson, and it remained a 2-2 tie until Tuthill picked up his second goal of the night at 8:56 of the third period.

"I thought we played very well," said Bergland. "We did a lot of good things. We had a strong first period and a very good third period. Our second period wasn't bad, either."

Thief River Falls wasn't able to match that kind of performance against the Wolfpack.

Justin Barron scored twice for the visitors – a game-tying goal at 10-minute mark of the first period and the game-winner at 12:07 of the final period.

Dan Almquist had put the Prowlers ahead 2:27 into the third period, but Teal Plaine tied it 2-2 at 11:17. It was a short-lived draw, however, with Barron scoring just 50 seconds later.

Bergland wasn't pleased with the performance. "It was probably our worst game of the year," he said. "It was brutal. We were coming off an emotional high the night before against Bemidji, but give them (Wolfpack) credit. They came out playing hard, and we didn't match their intensity."

The 5-3 Prowlers have played four straight 3-2 games. They lost to The Blake School and beat St. Paul Johnson in overtime by that score during a Dec. 14-15 trip to the Twin Cities before sweeping the Lumberjacks and Wolfpack.

Thief River Falls be at home Friday against Red Lake Falls and Saturday vs. Detroit Lakes.

Marshall County Central sophomore Jordan Holthusen lost the ball in a collision with Thief River Falls' Meghan Nelson, but Nelson drew a foul on the play during the NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational girls high school basketball tournament championship game Thursday. The Prowlers won 44-23.

TRF girls split in hockey weekend

They gave up just two goals in two games, but the Thief River Falls girls still had to settle for a weekend high school hockey split on the road against East Grand Forks and Wadena-Deer Creek.

The Prowlers' defense was steady, but the offense, after picking up a half-dozen goals in a 6-1 Friday night win against the Green Wave, couldn't put the the puck in the net during a 1-0 Saturday afternoon loss at the hands of the Wolverines.

Steph Hoard and Kelly Bendickson both scored a pair of goals as the Prowlers completed a home-and-home regular season series sweep over the Green Wave. Jamie Dahlen and Abbie Houske had single goals. Hoard and Dahlen picked up two assists each.

Thief River Falls led 1-0 after one period and had a 2-0 second period edge.

The Prowlers out-shot the Green Wave 44-11.

Only goal the next afternoon came on a shot with just 56 seconds left by Lisa Erickson of Wadena-Deer Creek as the Wolverines avenged an earlier 3-1 loss at the hands of the Prowlers.

Jenne Johnson recorded a 21-save shutout.

"We played great hockey Friday night," reported Thief River Falls coach Tim Magnusson. "We moved the puck very well. Saturday, we looked tired. We moved the puck well and had a few good chances to score, but just couldn't put the puck in the net."

With the split, the Prowlers remained a .500 hockey team at 6-6.

COLORED INK

Grygla-Gatzke winner over Goodridge 60-51

Fueled by a 10-for-10 showing at the free throw line over the final eight minutes, Grygla-Gatzke outscored Goodridge 21-9 in the fourth quarter Friday as the Eagles recorded their second boys high school basketball win over the rival Huskies in less than a week, 60-51.

Goodridge, down 15-13 after one quarter, went ahead 29-27 at halftime and had a 42-39 third quarter edge. The Huskies didn't surrender the lead until a basket by the Eagles' Nathan Gast put his team ahead 52-51 with two minutes remaining. Goodridge went the final 2 1/2 minutes without scoring.

"We made some key baskets at the end," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "It was up for grabs, but we made some steals and hit some free throws down the stretch."

Grygla-Gatzke won 59-58 in overtime when the two teams played for the title in the NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational the previous Saturday.

Gast finished with 17 points, while Jake Sletten netted 14 and Tony Nordby had 13 for the visiting Eagles. Casey Jones scored 21 points and Dustin Kotrba had 19 for the Huskies.

Grygla-Gatzke was 20-for-50 from the field (40 percent) and 14-for-17 at the free throw line. Goodridge went 23-from the floor (61 percent), but the Huskies had a 3-for-8 fourth quarter free throw showing, were out-rebounded 23-21 and had more turnovers, 16-12.

"Our defense managed to force some turnovers, and we got some points off them," mentioned Johnson. "In the fourth quarter, we got some good shots and we hit them."

Grygla-Gatzke is 4-0; Goodridge fell to 3-2.

TRF, Bemidji JV tie 3-3

Anthony Olson scored the game-tying goal with eight seconds remaining in the third period Friday as Thief River Falls played Bemidji to a 3-3 overtime draw in boys junior varsity high school hockey.

Josh Langlie and Preston Johnson also scored Thief River Falls goals. Justin Klinkhammer was in the nets for the Prowlers.

Pioneers' winning streak stopped by Minneapolis 70-61

A season-opening five-game win streak for the Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball team ended Friday with a 70-61 loss to Minneapolis.

The Pioneers' weekend road trip also included a 63-58 Saturday defeat at the hands of the St. John's University junior varsity.

Minneapolis put its size advantage to good use in building an early 16-point lead that was still 33-23 at halftime.

"They're so big – they go 6-11, 6-8, 6-7 – we were intimidated," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "They're not only tall, but they're big, strong kids. We're young, and most of our kids haven't seen that kind of size before. We missed a lot of shots in the first half because we were intimidated."

Northland made halftime adjustments and put together a second half run that twice chopped the Minneapolis lead to a single basket. It was a two-point game with 2:30 left before a hurried shot clock-beating Minneapolis 3-pointer found its mark and all but sealed the Pioneers' fate.

"That shot took the wind out of our sail right there," acknowledged Nikunen, who found plenty of reasons to be satisfied with the Pioneers' performance, despite the setback. "We played well in the second half," he pointed out out. "Defensively we did a great job. We held a very good basketball team to 70 points."

Jerry Shorter of Northland led all scorers with 23 points. Justin Skjerven and Reggie Gaddis added 12 points each to the Pioneers' total. Malcolm Heard, Kevin Tendall and Levy Jones scored 12 points apiece to lead a balanced Minneapolis offense.

Northland was 24-for-70 from the field (34 percent) and 8-for-13 at the free throw line. Minneapolis went 25-for-62 from the floor (40 percent) and 13-for-21 at the line. The Winners finished with a 51-38 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 23-18.

Effects of the first loss carried over into Saturday's match-up against the St. John's squad, according to Nikunen, who watched as the Pioneers lost a 12-point lead down the stretch. The Johnnies, trailing 37-33 at halftime, didn't go ahead until the final 3 1/2 minutes.

"We kind of hit the wall at the end," noted Nikunen. "We were tired. We weren't moving. But I still can't be that disappointed with the loss, not after playing as well as we did against Minneapolis the night before."

Gaddis had a 19-point Saturday outing, while Shorter netted 10.

Northland shot 47 percent from the field (20/43); St. John's shot 46 percent (23/50). The Pioneers went 14-for-26 at the free throw line, where the winners were 9-for-14. St. John's wound up with a 28-27 rebound edge; Northland had more turnovers, 24-17.

Strong bench benefits MCC

Another strong performance off the bench and another Marshall County Central win went hand-in-hand Saturday as the Nordics beat visiting Roseau 69-43 in boys high school basketball.

The Nordics, who received 29 points off the bench in a 75-27 win over Kittson Central earlier in the week, got a 24-point production from that crew against the Rams. And this time those points didn't come with the outcome already decided, pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. With fouls testing the depth of both teams, the winners had the edge.

"Both sides were in foul trouble," noted Ueland, "but it hurt them more than it did us. "We had to call on our bench people early, and they came through. They got some prime-time minutes, and got some points when it really mattered."

Andy Larson had a 25-point game for the 4-0 Nordics, who turned an 11-11 first quarter tie into a 35-22 halftime lead and a 54-31 third quarter spread. Paul Rudebusch led Roseau with 13 points, getting nine of those in the first quarter before running into foul trouble.

Marshall County Central was 22-for-50 from the field (44 percent) and a productive 23-for-30 at the free throw line. Roseau, meanwhile, struggled through a 14-for-50 shooting performance from the floor (28 percent) and 14-for-28 free throw game.

The Nordics finished with a 31-24 rebound edge over the Rams, who topped the turnover charts 16-11.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T

Roseau - Will Loeitch 1, Jordan Erickson 7, Tyler Swanson 6, Mitch Anderson 7, Mike Welch 4, Paul Rudebusch 13, Dustin Timmerman 4, Chris Lindstrom 1.

Free throws, turnovers cost B/G-MR

Inability to cash in on free throw opportunities and late-game turnovers cost Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Friday in a 57-54 boys high school basketball loss to Roseau.

The visiting Rams jumped out to a 17-7 first quarter lead, fell behind 29-28 at halftime and trailed 45-41 through three quarters.

"We started out kind of slow, but we came back and had a good second and third quarter," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

But success didn't accompany the Gators into the final eight minutes. They had a chance early in the fourth quarter to double a six-point lead at the free throw line, only to come up empty on three consecutive bonus opportunities.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River turnovers then became a factor down the stretch. The Gators called a time-out with 1:40 left in a tie game, only to watch Roseau convert a turnover into a lead the Rams carried to the final horn.

"We did not play a good fourth quarter," offered Sparby. "We came back from a slow start, but we just did not finish very well. We had some foolish turnovers that just killed us."

It was the fifth loss in six starts for the Gators.

Paul Rudebusch scored a game-high 22 points for the Rams. Brian Thompson led the Gators with 14 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 45 percent from the field (19/42) while struggling through an 11-for-20 free throw game. Roseau shot 49 percent from the floor (25/51) and also had trouble in the line, where the Rams were 4-for-11.

The Gators finished with a 21-20 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 20-12.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T

Gators' defense unable to hold a halftime edge

Lake of the Woods put together a 43-point second half Saturday en route to a 66-56 girls high school basketball win over host Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The Bears trailed 16-12 after one quarter and were down 24-23 at halftime before taking a 45-36 lead through three quarters.

It was a reversal of form for the Gators, who have a history of strong defenses covering up shortcomings on offense.

"That's the most points we've ever scored and lost," pointed out Tom Neibauer, coach of the 10-year-old Badger/Greenbush-Middle River combination.

Fouls and turnovers, combined with an athletic Lake of the Woods squad, created problems for the Gators.

"All of our post players were in foul trouble," explained Neibauer. "We're just too slow to stay with them. They've got good athletes, and they're tall. We just couldn't stop them."

Anna Block of the Bears led all scorers with 21 points. The Gators got a 16-point game from Kierah Kimbrough and 10 from Breanna Holm.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 42 percent from the field (24/57) and went 8-for-11 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods had a productive 17-for-23 game at the line. The Gators set a school record, according to Neibauer, with 33 turnovers while falling to 3-4 for the year.

RLCC boys lose a second encounter vs. Red Lake Falls

A second early-season meeting between high school boys basketball rivals Red Lake Falls and Red Lake County Central produced the same results as the first encounter as the Eagles beat the Mustangs 54-35 Thursday at Oklee. That 19-point spread was preceded by a 20-point, 64-44 Red Lake Falls victory when the two teams opened the 2001-02 season against each other in the first round of the NCTC/KTRF/Pepsi Invitational nine days earlier at Northland Community and Technical College.

Matt Largis scored 19 points, Sam Pahlen 17 and Brandon Hopperstad 10 for the winners, who led at the quarter stops 16-7, 29-17 and 39-29.

"We got in foul trouble early," reported Red Lake County Central coach Randy Hure. "We did a nice job to cut the lead to 10 at the end of the third quarter, but we did not do enough to get back in the game in the fourth quarter."

Carl Dagstad and Nick Brustad led Red Lake County Central with 12 points each.

The Mustangs were limited to a 13-for-36 shooting night from the field (36 percent). Scoring opportunities were reduced due to 29 turnovers.

"Too many turnovers," acknowledged Hure. "They pressured us, and we did not handle it."

Red Lake Falls was 22-for-45 from the floor (48 percent) and went 9-for-15 at the free throw line, where Red Lake County Central had a 7-for-9 night.

The Eagles turned the ball over 20 times. Rebounds were even at 20-apiece.

The loss dropped the Mustangs to 1-3.

Final quarter carries Nordics past G/G-G

Marshall County Central outscored Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 17-9 in the final quarter Monday to emerge a 44-39 winner in girls high school basketball at Goodridge.

"It was a battle," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "It was close the whole way."

The Nordics had a 10-9 first quarter edge. It was tied 19-19 at halftime. The Wolverines were up 30-27 after three quarters.

It went down to the final minute when a 3-pointer by the Wolverines' Natalee Holte chopped a five-point Marshall County Central lead to 41-39. The Nordics' Jordan Holthusen made one of two free throw attempts for a 42-39 game, then stole a pass and converted a length-of-the-court dribble into a game-clinching lay-up.

Holthusen led all scorers with 17 points. Bethany Tharaldson had an 11-point game to pace the Wolverines' offense.

Marshall County Central was 17-for-44 from the field (38 percent) and 9-for-14 at the free throw line. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 17-for-49 from the floor (34 percent) and had a quiet 3-for-5 game at the line. With Morea Steinhauer grabbing 10 rebounds, the Nordics beat the Wolverines on the boards 39-24.

"We're happy with the win, but we can still play better," said Mjelde. "We worked hard to get the good shots, but we need to finish, and we have to cut down on our turnovers."

OUTDOOR NEWS

Lifetime license could be a good holiday gift

A lifetime gift could be a good choice for outdoors enthusiasts this holiday gift-giving season.

Lifetime licenses offered by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources can be purchased for avid hunters and anglers, or for hunters or anglers of the future.

Licenses available for a lifetime are resident angling, small game, deer, and the "sports" license, which is a combination angling and small game license.

Cost of these licenses varies depending on the age of the licensee and the type of license purchased. For example, an individual fishing license for someone age 3-younger is $227. For a person ages 16 to 50, the cost is $383. The rates for these licenses were set using actuarial studies so that they are basically a break-even proposition for the buyer and the DNR compared with yearly licenses.

"Lifetime licenses provide gift buyers with a great option," said Kurt Ulrich, director of the DNR Bureau of Information, Education and Licensing. "The lifetime license is the only game and fish license that can be purchased by someone other than the licensee. In addition, lower rates apply to the youngest angler and future hunter."

Lifetime license gift is enhanced with a certificate suitable for framing and a metal medallion as a keepsake.

Lifetime licenses first went on sale March 1. Legislation authorizing lifetime licensing was passed during the 2000 legislative session.

Lifetime license fact sheets and applications are available from license agents and from the DNR Information Center by calling toll free 1-888-646-6367. They are also on the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us.

DNR recreation map suggested as gift for outdoor enthusiasts

Looking for a gift to give that recreation lover on your gift list?

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources offers an inexpensive gift that is useful for anyone who loves the out-of-doors. Public Recreation Information Maps (PRIM) are actually several recreation maps combined into one.

The maps bring together federal, state and county lands and their recreational facilities, making them easier to find. A comprehensive, full-color chart on the back of each area map summarizes recreational facilities of the area.

The PRIM series divides the state into 51 map areas, with each map showing public lands (color-coded), township, section and range lines, topography, public campgrounds, state trails and state forest roads, designated trout streams, water access sites, and much more.

PRIM maps are sold at sporting goods stores, station-stores, and a number of DNR area and regional offices throughout Minnesota. Complete sets are available from the Minnesota Bookstore in St. Paul and the DNR Gift Shop in St. Paul. PRIM order forms are available on the DNR's Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us.

PRIM maps cost $4.95 plus tax. For help in deciding which maps to buy, or to order maps by phone with VISA, MasterCard, American Express or Discover, call the Minnesota Bookstore toll free at 1-800-657-3757.

Art contest planned for new conservation plate

Minnesota drivers who support natural resources programs with the purchase of Conservation License Plates will soon have a second design choice. The Department of Natural Resources is conducting a design contest to create a second Conservation License Plate image that will be available to Minnesota motorists next year.

The current plate design, which features two deer on a tan background, will continue to be available. More than 30,000 of those plates are currently on Minnesota vehicles.

Conservation License Plate, first authorized during the 1995 legislative session, is designed to generate funds for the Reinvest in Minnesota Critical Habitat Matching Account. Money in this account is used to match private donations to acquire and conserve lands critical for fish and wildlife habitat, and to protect rare natural communities. The plates have generated $3.7 million since they first went on sale in the spring of 1996. Those funds have enabled the DNR to purchase 2,056 acres of land for wildlife management areas, and scientific and natural areas.

Entries for the new license plate image must highlight an individual species, or combination of wildlife and/or plant species, native to Minnesota. The new plate will be flat, without the raised letters and numbers featured on current Minnesota license plates.

ath

The design contest is open to Minnesota residents of any age. The winner will receive a $500 prize.

Contest entries must be submitted between Feb. 1 and 4 p.m. on Feb. 15, 2002.

For more contest information, call the DNR Information Center toll free in Minnesota at 1-888-646-6367.

DNR issues a warning of thin ice on aerated lakes

Approximately 200 Minnesota lakes with public accesses will have aeration systems operating on them this winter.

Private hatchery operators also use aeration systems, usually on small lakes without public accesses. Caution is urged when going onto any ice-covered lake, particularly at night. However, special care should be taken when using the ice on aerated lakes, according to Marilyn Danks of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"Open water areas created by aeration systems can shift or change shapes depending on weather conditions," Danks said. "Leaks may develop in air lines creating other areas of weak ice or open water."

Aeration systems help prevent fish winter kill by adding oxygen to lakes. They also create areas of open water and thin ice that are significant hazards to ice anglers, snowmobilers, skiers and other lake users. The majority of aeration systems, which generally operate from lake freeze-up until spring, are located in counties in southern and western Minnesota.

A DNR permit is required to install and operate an aeration system. Permit holders must publish public notices, post warning signs and inspect the systems at least once every seven days. Liability insurance is generally required of private parties operating aeration systems in protected waters.

Two types of signs are used to post aerated lakes: "Thin Ice" and "Warning" signs. Permittees maintain warning signs at all commonly used lake access points in order to caution people that an aeration system is in operation. Thin ice signs are posted at 100-foot intervals to mark the perimeter of the thin ice and open water area. These signs are diamond shaped with an orange border and white background with the warning "Thin Ice" in bold print. Some municipalities have ordinances that prohibit entering into the area marked thin ice and/or prohibit the night use of motorized vehicles on lakes with aeration systems in operation.

These local regulations are often posted at lake accesses.

For more information about aeration, call a regional fisheries office or call the DNR Information Center or toll free at 1-888-646-6367.

Lakes in the DNR Region I area of northwest Minnesota where aeration systems will likely be in operation this winter include:

- ■ Becker County - Big Cormorant, Bijou, Baluert Pond, Five, Lime, Little Cormorant, Melissa, Wolf.
- ■ Beltrami County - Crane, Ewert's Pond.
- ■ Cass County - Leech.
- ■ Clay County - Blue Eagle, Lake Fifteen.
- ■ Clearwater County - Pine.
- ■ Hubbard County - Fish Hook River, Petite, Wolf.
- ■ Marshall County - Florian Reservoir.

Some fish limits are lowered

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has announced that it will not propose changing the statewide bag limits for walleye, northern pike, trout in streams, and large mouth and smallmouth bass. However, the agency will propose lowering limits for crappies, sunfish, lake trout, and catfish beginning with the 2003 fishing season.

The decision came after more than two years of discussion and analysis to see if bag limits for various species needed to be changed. Ron Payer, DNR Fisheries Division director, said the agency sought and received unprecedented public input on the topic.

"Anglers definitely got a chance to make themselves heard on this issue," Payer said.

The DNR received more than 5,000 comments, held 19 public meetings statewide, and hired the University of Minnesota to conduct a statewide bag limit survey.

"We heard from the entire spectrum - anglers who wanted big reductions in limits, those who wanted no change, and a few who actually wanted us to raise limits," Payer said. "Obviously, not everyone will be happy, but we think we've struck a fair and reasonable balance that does what's best for fish populations, anglers and Minnesota fishing."

The DNR will propose lowering the daily and possession limit for black and white crappie from 15 to 10, for sunfish from 30 to 20, and for lake trout from three to two. The catfish limit will remain at five, but only two can be flathead catfish and only one, whether flathead or channel, can be over 24 inches long.

According to Payer, the DNR had three objectives when it first decided to review statewide bag limits in 1999:

1. Allow anglers a say in what their bag limits should be.

2. Increase understanding of what bag limits can and can't do to improve fishing and protect fisheries.

3. Develop a foundation for any future bag limit reviews and potential changes.

"We didn't enter into this with our mind made up that we needed to lower bag limits," Payer said. "We had specific objectivas in mind and we believe that we succeeded in meeting all of them."

Surveys regularly show that most anglers are satisfied with fishing in Minnesota. Payer said that the DNR's goal is to continue to provide anglers with a good mix of fish numbers and sizes whenever possible, without hurting the fisheries resource, and that the proposed bag limits will move toward accomplishing that.

"Where we really needed to lower limits to help out the fish, such as crappies and lake trout, we did," he said. "But where the biological data indicated that it wasn't as necessary, such as for bass and walleye, we didn't think bag limit changes were warranted at this time."

An advisory committee representing fishing interests met several times over the past year and one-half to provide recommendations to the DNR.

The committee had several walleye limit recommendations during that time - including staying at six - but eventually agreed to recommend a five-walleye limit.

Most other recommendations were generally in line with the DNR's final decision, except for bass, which the committee recommended be lowered to four.

"Walleye and bass populations are in good shape and that's great news for anglers," Payer said. "We decided to stay with six for walleye and also to keep the bass limit at six."

Payer said that any regulation changes had to be both biologically and socially reasonable. "To lower a bag limit, there had to be a biological need to do so," he said. "But at the same time, it wouldn't make sense to lower limits beyond what anglers would support, because the only way limits work is if most anglers comply. So we looked at each species and weighed those factors.

"The bag limit reductions will distribute fish to more anglers when fish are easily caught," Payer said. "The reductions will not be a cure-all for some declines in average size, although they might slow such declines."

Walleye

Generally Minnesota's walleye populations are in good shape, especially on many of the large lakes (Rainy, Mille Lacs, Winnibigoshish) that have outstanding populations and, in some cases, special regulations in place to sustain those populations. Though walleye receive heavy angling pressure, the fish is elusive enough for its populations to hold up well to angling pressure and thus doesn't need a lower limit.

Large mouth/Smallmouth Bass

Populations of these species are doing well and don't require additional protection that would come from lower bag limits. Moreover, many bass anglers already are releasing most of the bass they catch.

Northern Pike

DNR biologists are worried about pike populations, which increasingly show fewer large fish due to heavy fishing pressure. However, there was little public support for lowering pike limits or putting in a restrictive statewide slot limit.

Biologists believe they can do more for pike by applying special regulations on individual lakes where pike size is declining. The DNR will work with fishing and spearing groups to identify lakes that could produce larger pike and apply special regulations there.

Stream/Lake Trout

Brown trout populations are faring extremely well. To increase the size of brown trout in streams, the DNR will work with local anglers in southeastern Minnesota - where most brown trout streams are located - to provide more large trout through regulations and habitat improvements.

Over-harvest of trout in lakes is of great concern to DNR biologists. Lowering the limit to two had strong statewide support as well as from anglers in the Arrowhead Region, which holds most of Minnesota's roughly 100 lake trout lakes.

Crapple

This is a species of great concern to biologists due to steep declines in the species' average size in many lakes. One of the proposals submitted for public review was to lower the crappie limit from 15 to six, but public support wasn't there, so the agency is proposing a 10-fish bag limit, which surveys showed would be acceptable to most anglers.

Sunfish

Another group of species having a steady decline in average size. There was little public support for lowering the limit to 10, so the agency is proposing a limit of 20, which most anglers indicated they would accept and which biologists believe may help slow the decline of average size.

Catfish

Of greatest concern with this species is that anglers are now able to take home limits of large flathead and channel catfish, which currently occurs on some trophy rivers such as the Mississippi and the Minnesota. The one-over-24-inches regulation, already in place on the Red River and its tributaries, will help protect those trophy fisheries.

Snowmobile safety stressed

Snowmobiling can be a fun and exciting way to spend a winter's day in Minnesota. This sport can also be very dangerous when basic safety rules are ignored says the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Last season there were 28 fatalities in Minnesota. Snowmobilers can reduce accidents and fatalities by following a few safety rules.

"Drive safely and drive smart when operating a snowmobile," says Bill Bernhjelm, DNR Enforcement Chief. "Drivers should always be aware of potential hazards and use good judgment."

If you are new to the sport, youth age 12 through 17, or born after December 31, 1979, please take the Minnesota Snowmobile Safety training course. Volunteer instructors certified by the DNR offer classes throughout the state. Participants completing the course will receive a Snowmobile Safety Certificate. Call 888-MINNDNR to find a class in your area.

In addition to snowmobile safety training requirements, snowmobilers should follow these safety tips:

1. Don't Drink - drinking and driving can be fatal. Drinking alcohol before or during snowmobiling can impair judgment and sow reaction time. Snowmobilers who have been drinking may drive too fast or race across unsafe ice. Alcohol also causes body temperature to drop at an accelerated rate, which increases the likelihood of hypothermia.

2. Slow Down - speed is a contributing factor in nearly all fatal snowmobiling accidents. Drivers should proceed at a pace that will allow ample reaction time for any situation. Remember, when driving at night a speed of only 40 miles an hour may result in "over driving" the headlight.

3. Be Prepared - when traveling, make sure to bring a first aid kit, a flashlight, waterproof matches, and a compass.

4. Stay Alert - fatigue can reduce the driver's coordination and judgment.

5. Ice Advice - avoid traveling across bodies of water when uncertain of ice thickness and strength of ice on lakes and ponds. Snow cover can act as a blanket and prevent safe ice from forming. Never travel in a single file when crossing bodies of water.

6. Dress for success - use a full-size helmet, goggles or face shield to prevent injuries from twigs, stones, ice, and flying debris. Clothing should be worn in layers and should be just snug enough so that no loose ends catch in the machine.

7. Watch the weather - rapid weather changes can produce dangerous conditions.

8. Bring a buddy - never travel alone. Most snowmobile accidents result in some personal injury. The most dangerous situations can occur if a person is injured and alone. If you must travel alone tell someone your destination, planned route, and when you will return.

9. Report accidents - the operator of a snowmobile involved in an accident resulting in medical attention, death, or damage exceeding $500 must file an official accident report through the county sheriff's office within 10 days.

10. Reminder - anyone born after 12-31-79 cannot purchase a license to hunt, or operate a snowmobile in Minnesota without first taking a DNR Safety Training Course and receiving a certificate.

Snowmobile training sessions are now being scheduled. Check the DNR WEB SITE at www.dnr.state.mn.us for a current class listing of all DNR Enforcement Classes currently scheduled.

Fish house/dark house regulations

"A new provision enacted during the last legislative session requires fish houses or dark houses display two-square-inches of reflector-type material on each side when left on the ice overnight.

"There is no penalty for noncompliance, however, I am sure this new provision is intended as a safety measure, and the legislature's response to snowmobile near misses with shelters," said Colonel Bill Bernhjelm, Department of Natural Resources Enforcement Chief. "Conservation officers can't use noncompliance as the basis of any inspection, stop, or detention. Nor can they confiscate the shelter for the violation."

DNR officials say two-square-inch reflectors and other such materials are available at most hardware stores.

The following regulations apply to fish houses, dark houses, and portable shelters used on all Minnesota waters, unless noted in the 2001 Minnesota Fishing Regulations Handbook:

- ■ All shelters, which include dark houses, fish houses, and portable shelters, placed on the ice of Minnesota waters must have the complete name and complete address or driver's license number of the owner plainly and legibly displayed on the outside in letters and figures at least two inches in height. Dark houses, fish houses, and portable shelters placed on the ice for shelter while fishing must be licensed, except that a license is not required on border waters with Wisconsin, Iowa, and South Dakota. A durable tag, furnished with the license, must be attached to the exterior side of the door not more than six inches below the top of the door. On structures with openings other than doors, the tag must be attached to the material to the right of the opening when facing the structure, no more than six inches below the top of the opening.
- ■ Dark houses, fish houses, and portable shelters must have a door that can be opened from the outside at any time when in use.
- ■ Taking fish by angling or with tip-ups is prohibited while spearing fish in a dark house, fish house, or portable shelter.
- ■ Portable dark houses, fish houses, and shelters may be used for fishing within the Boundary Waters Canoe Area, but must be removed from the ice each night. The structure must be removed from the BWCA each time the occupant leaves the BWCA.
- ■ No person may erect a dark house, fish house, or shelter within 10 feet of an existing dark house, fish house, or shelter.
- ■ Storing or leaving fish houses or dark houses on a public access is prohibited.
- ■ Nonresidents may not spear from a dark house.
- ■ Nonresidents may angle from a licensed fish house.
- ■ Nonresidents may only obtain a license for portable fish shelters. The shelter cannot remain on the ice when unattended.

What Christmas Means To Me

What Christmas means to me is. Christmas is the day Jesus was born so we have to cherish it. That we'll let him know we care. So don't be a Grinch and hate Christmas. And we get presents and have a big feast. Relatives come over to visit and have fun. You get to drink eggnog and have pumpkin pie. On Christmas usually relatives come to our house but this year we are going to my sister Tina's house. We ride snowcat they got a new Polaris Edge X 2002.

This is what Christmas means to me, putting up the Christmas trees and decorating them with crystal balls with colorful lights. Having fun making snowmen outside, and having hot cocoa to warm you up. Singing Christmas carols by the fire. Wrapping presents in beautiful paper and bright red bows. I also love spending Christmas with my family. But the true meaning of Christmas is that Jesus was born. He was wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Christmas means that getting together in a family. It means that sharing and letting your brother and sister play with them. I do like getting presents but I like going to my grandma's and grandpa's house.

To me Christmas means love, caring, sharing and a time to be with your family. I like Christmas because I get to see all of my relatives and it is fun. I also think Christmas is a very fun holiday. I like opening presents. Christmas also is a time for giving. I like decorating trees, putting lights up and the colors of Christmas. Christmas also is a time for peace!!! At Christmas I like shopping for presents for other people in my family!!!! Merry Christmas to all!!!

Christmas is the best Holiday because your family gets together and opens up gifts and has cake. Another part about Christmas that I like is a time for giving and caring and visiting and having laughs too. That's what I like about Christmas.

Christmas means to me. That you should share with friends and family. Christmas is the time of year that you hear songs get sung. People's church's even put on plays of the baby Jesus. This is a good time of year to share with others like those children who lost their mom's and dad's.

Christmas means a lot. I like it because I get to be with family. And I don't care if I don't get a present because I just like to see family. That's what Christmas means to me.

Christmas means snow, decorations and presents. But it's also about getting together with family.

What Christmas means to me is family and friends getting together eating great food, and sharing food, presents and thoughts. Another thing what Christmas means to me is spending time with family you have never met in your life. The final thing what Christmas means to me is that when we meet new friends or family we play together and have fun with them.

Christmas is a GREAT Holiday! It's about getting time off from school to go play outside or go sledding down a hill with your friends or making a snowman in the snow. It's not all about the presents, for some people it is but really it's not. That's what Christmas means to me.

Parker Nessen

Christmas isn't about candy canes, presents or parties. It's about the gift of life. Sure everyone, including me, has a wish list. But Christmas is more than that. Every years, as you are baking cookies with grandma, wrapping presents with mom, or putting up lights with dad, you feel special, because it seems like you're doing something for everybody, not to mention making your whole house seem festive. So Christmas is a special holiday for everyone! Happy Holiday!

Christmas means a lot to me because it reminds me of Jesus's birth. It makes me think of presents and Christmas trees. It makes me think of my family and friends. It makes me think of snow, snowball fights, and snowmen. It makes me think of times when I was down. It makes me think of happiness and loneliness. It makes me think of feelings. It makes me think of fun times with my friends. It makes me think of the world I live in!!!!

On Christmas we go to the church, and eat there. Then we go to my grandma's house. Then we eat, then we can open our presents and then my grandma reads a Christmas story, and then we watch a Christmas movie. Then we go home we go to bed, and then in the morning we open our presents and eat.

To treat others as though you would like to be treated. You should rather give than receive too. Here are a few ideas that you can give other people a hug, a small gift, or even take a card off the angel tree and buy a gift or two presents for the child. "And that is What Christmas Means to Me."

Steven Johnson

What Christmas means to me is people exchanging gifts and watching while their eyes light up when they get what they've always wanted, but I don't think that's the real meaning of Christmas. I think it's all about people getting together and celebrating Jesus's birth.

Justin Olson

Christmas means to me that it is special because we spend time eating big lovely meals with cookies, fruit with marshmallows, dip and vegetables and mashed potatoes and gravy and all of those delicious foods.

It also means to me that we can share thoughts and let family members in about what is going on around the year.

Another reason is we share gifts so when they go home they can look at it or they could use it they will think of me or whoever it is from. But just being with my family makes me happy.

Christmas is presents. I love the shiny colorful wrapping paper. On Christmas morning I open present, it is fun because you don't know what you are getting.

Baking chocolate chip cookies is wonderful and delicious because they are warm and fluffy. They smell good. My dad cooks cinnamon candy.

Christmas means fluffy snow outside. The wind is blustery. The sun makes the snow glisten.

The ornaments on the Christmas tree are sparkly. The bright lights are clear, colorful and beautiful.

This is what Christmas means to me.

Decorating your Christmas tree with the loveliest ornaments in sight. Christmas is to me, not a holiday a gift, it is about having cherishing moment with your family and friends. To watch the snow flakes one by one fall outside the window. Playing outside with my niece and my family. To play with my dog Pepper in a doggie style snowball fight. Jumping in snow piles with my dog. Without my family I could never have the best Christmas ever. That is what Christmas means to me!

Christmas means to me is about my family and friends. When my Grandma makes her braided bread. Her bread tasted like cinnamon. Last year I ate almost 5 to 7 baches. Sometimes Christmas is about presents. We open up one present on Christmas Eve. One year I opened up a c.d. by Aaron Tipen. A couple years ago my dog knocked over the christmas tree when my brother threw a ball and broke the top half. It was really funny. We have the best Christmases ever!

Christmas is a super fun holiday. My favorite part is going shopping for gifts and playing with my cousins in the snow. I also like helping getting ready for Christmas. Every Christmas Eve we go to our church and we get to hold candles. When they turn off the lights it looks really cool. I like it when the candles glow in a line. I also really like putting up the tree. When you look at the lights. They look very because there are so many of them and they are so bright. That all the things I like about Christmas.

When I think of Christmas, it's all about having family and friends. On Christmas Eve or Christmas you and your family could decorate your Christmas tree or make cookies with your mom's or dad's. Then you and your mom or dad could decorate the cookies that you made. On Christmas Eve you can eat with your family all together at the same table and enjoy the food that you are eating. After you eat supper you can eat dessert. Then you can get together and open some presents with your family. The next day you wake up at home you run to your Christmas tree. Then you go wake up your mom and dad up. Then you open your presents with your mom and dad. That's what Christmas is all about.

50th Wedding Anniversary

Curt and Elaine Thompson were treated as King and Queen this year on Thanksgiving Day, November 22nd; as it was also on the same day as their 50th wedding anniversary. Their children hosted a very delicious ham dinner with all the trimmings. The children are Robbin and Roger Mathson and Ronelle, Ryan, ReAnne of Alvarado; Mark and Barb Thompson and Elaina of Moorhead, Lisa and Sam Sporhawk and Mackenzie, Ambar, Isaac and Joshua, Roger Thompson and Ryan, Denise Counier, all of Thief River Falls; and Jeremy Wilson and Harvey Skyberg of Newfolden. Centering the table was a beautiful decorated cake with our wedding picture on it, trimmed with white flowers and gold leaves, and a gold 50th anniversary emblem and a white bell with 50th in gold. Before Grandma and Grandpa opened their cards and gifts, they had a short program including a reading "Grandma's Hand," by granddaughter Mackenzie. Then another "Grandparents Final Gift," by ReAnne, and "Gift of Generations," by daughter Robin. The honored guests received many lovely cards and gifts. They both responded with a "Thank You." They received cards from other relatives also. A beautiful gift and card was sent from Dawn and Jim Haugtvet and family of Warren, whom were not able to be with us on that day but called and wished us a Happy Thanksgiving. Many pictures were taken during the day. We all enjoyed the anniversary cake and ice cream, coffee, Kool-aid and pop. Be an advocate for education and community colleges

There should be support for Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. It not only contributes to the quality of education in the community and prepares students for a successful future, it contributes mightily to the economy.

It is unfortunate that leadership of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) seems to be in a constant state of change. Each new leader brings with him or her a new set of beliefs and objectives, which must make it difficult on administrators of MnSCU colleges. In addition, each time a change in leadership takes place, it seems the new leader must jump headlong into a battle to maintain enough funding to keep the colleges operating. Unfortunately, as much as we may gripe about the changes in leadership, there isn't much we can do about it. Last week, MnSCU Chancellor James H. McCormick visited the Northland Community and Technical College campus in Thief River Falls, and heard first hand, the kind of support for the college that exists in this community.

McCormick seems to be taking the path that has led to successful, and appreciated leadership in the past. It begins with listening, followed by a period of developing goals and objectives, and then a period of listening again. We must also appreciate the fact that while he has been listening, he has also been fighting for funding and encouraging people to support community colleges. Be an advocate for education, he says. We should, because we benefit!

There are about 1,200 students (FTE) at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. They buy books, clothing, food, pay rent and enjoy the services that this community can provide. Many go on to further their education in another community. Many go on to lead successful careers. Some leave and come back to our community, and some stay and continue their support. There are several leaders in this community, right now, who are graduates of Northland Community and Technical College.

We are told by the experts that we are in a recession. Each day, it seems, we hear about more businesses and corporations laying off thousands of people. According to state statistics, just between September and October, 26,000 individuals in the state joined the ranks of the unemployed. McCormick made an important point in noting that during periods of economic hardship, history shows us that enrollment at colleges and universities increases. It makes sense — we turn to education to improve our chances of employment, giving us the edge in employment opportunities. Yes, education must be a "good neighbor" during periods of economic downturn, doing their share to keep costs down, but education is important to the economic recovery that must come.

During the upcoming legislative session, McCormick plans to present a strategic plan or "business plan" of sorts to legislators, which will outline his goals and objectives for the colleges governed by MnSCU. McCormick called the plan a "business plan" because in today's economy, legislators and taxpayers want to see the "bottom line" cost to education; (although, not all benefits can be measured). We need to have a strategic plan that gives all of us some idea of where education is headed — how it plans to prepare students for the future and how much that will cost now and in the near future.

MnSCU needs stable leadership, but MnSCU needs leadership that listens to taxpayers, educators and students, and education and our economy needs everyone to be advocates for education.

It's necessary to begin putting our economy on road to recovery

Any reflection upon the past year would not be complete without revisiting the horrors of September 11. That event had a significant impact on our country, perhaps even causing permanent change. However, it would be incorrect to blame the event for the current economic downturn we face. R-e-c-e-s-s-i-o-n, was spelled out for us in November, even though "experts" had read the signs much earlier. Legislators and experts were encouraging and implementing legislation and lowering interest rates long before Sept. 11 in an effort to stimulate the economy and our spending. Now, we must help legislators continue their efforts to put our economy on a road to recovery.

September 11 not to blame for State's massive budget shortfall

by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

At this time of year, it's common to look back on the past year, or the past few years, at all that has come and gone. My hope is that you can look back on the past year with fond memories of a successful hunting season, a bountiful harvest, a nice summer and other things that make life in Minnesota nice.

Of course, a reflection back on 2001 wouldn't be complete without considering the horrors of September 11, and how our state, our nation, and our world has changed since then. From the biggest things—like losing friends and loved one—to the little things that we didn't think of before--like proudly displaying the American flag--the tragedies in New York City and at the Pentagon have reminded us of who we are and what we do.

In the first days of December, after years of record budget surpluses, the Minnesota Department of Revenue announced that our state faces a shortfall of nearly $2 billion. After enjoying surpluses totaling roughly $4 billion in recent years, we are suddenly faced with the fact that the people of Minnesota have billions fewer dollars to invest in the needs of Minnesotans. In a time when so many are looking for inspiration in the hope that comes with the holidays, those are some tough numbers to consider.

But to blame all of our state's money troubles on the events of September 11 would be to miss the truth: There were clear signs of marked downturn in the economy very early in 2001. In fact, the Wall Street Journal reported last week that the nation's economy is indeed in a recession, and has been since March 2001—a full six months before this fateful September.

During the 2001 Legislative Session, the DFL tried to set aside more of the budget surplus for a rainy day, and invest more of our state's wealth in education and transportation. But after a heated special session, the Governor and House Republicans won massive tax cuts for the state's wealthiest citizens.

Now, as we look back fondly on $4 billion in surpluses that are no more, it's right to ask an important question: What do Minnesotans have to show for all of those surpluses? Since 1998, when Jesse Ventura took over the governor's office and the Republicans took control of the Minnesota House of Representatives, opportunity has been replaced by red ink.

We're left with school budgets stretched thin, transportation headaches and mounting job losses. Most alarming is the fact that Minnesota's economy seems to be in worse shape than in many other parts of the nation. In September and October, 23,000 Minnesotans lost their jobs, which is a rate significantly worse than the national average.

It is important to remember that almost 100 percent of the budget shortfall was created by lost tax revenue, not by state overspending.

September 11 was an American tragedy on many levels, and the effects of that day will be felt around the globe for decades. But to try to pass off the looming budget crisis as a product of international terrorism, while ignoring the millions in state revenue lost due to tax cuts for the wealthy that the governor and House Republicans sought, is wrong.

So we reflect on 2001, and brace for the challenges of 2002 with resolve and the will to get through these tough times together. I look forward to getting a blueprint from Gov. Ventura regarding his suggested course of action, and I strongly believe that the vital first step on the road to recovery is to protect our modest commitment to education. We simply cannot and will not break the promises we have made to the 800,000 school children in Minnesota who rely on the high-quality public education that is a hallmark of our state.

Also, at a time when interest rates are at their lowest point in a generation, I feel it is wise to consider a course toward recovery that includes investing in our state, and reaping the job growth and creation benefits that come along with such investment. I have several state construction projects in mind for our area, and I will be introducing bills in the coming session in hopes of getting those projects started in the near future.

As always, I look forward to your input on these and other matters facing the Legislature in 2002. All of my best for a happy and safe holiday season to you and your family.

Despite everything we have endured, Holiday Season brings good spirit

by Sen. Roger Moe

As we reflect on our fortunes this holiday season and anticipate the new year, it is difficult to ignore the realities of the economic downturn and the aftermath of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

In the wake of these events we find numerous efforts that exhibit the character of the human spirit. The battle against terrorism on the home front has proven to be a unifying force. As we express our appreciation for the efforts of the Armed Forces in Afghanistan, we should also recognize the challenges facing many of our neighbors right here in Minnesota.

On a regular basis many of our civil servants face danger, responding to threats swiftly, professionally and effectively. We have gained an appreciation for the everyday challenges and new realities confronted by our firefighters, police, postal workers and so many others who help keep our society moving forward while securing our well-being.

This month the National Guard celebrated its 365th anniversary. That might seem like a misprint, but it's correct. In December of 1636, three militia regiments were organized for the common defense of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Security was a leading concern in those early days, just as it is now. Even Minnesota's security forces were organized prior to statehood, formed as the Territorial Enrolled Militia in 1850.

The Minnesota National Guard currently performs essential duties linked directly to homeland security. In most instances, National Guard members are sacrificing not only considerable time away from their families, but also the higher pay of their civilian employment while providing a public service.

For the past year and a half, a squad from the Minnesota National Guard's 55th Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Team has been certified to deal with bioterrorism anywhere in the nation. Since anthrax spores began appearing in various government offices and postal facilities, this team has been called out 20 times to check out suspicious substances. Fortunately, none of the potential threats in this part of the country has proven to be dangerous.

In addition, the National Guard has been deployed at 10 airports around Minnesota, providing around-the-clock security throughout the holiday season. As the transition to a new federal airport security system is phased in, the role of the National Guard at airports throughout the nation will be scaled back.

Appreciation of the efforts of the National Guard, as well as expressions of respect for our firefighters, police, postal workers and other public servants are by no means the only uplifting signs of this holiday season.

People clearly have developed a stronger sense of caring for and belonging to their communities. We are hearing stories of enormous generosity as we recognize that many families are struggling financially this year.

As Americans deal with the duress of terrorism and recession, our mettle has been tested in ways not known at any time in recent history. Reflecting on the events of the past year, we have reason to feel good about how we have responded within our communities and as a nation.

Enjoy the Holiday Season and have a Happy New Year.

Minnesota in better shape than most states

Rep. Maxine Penas (R-Badger) says that, despite less-than-rosy state revenue numbers, Minnesota will be in better shape than most states in dealing with a projected budget deficit when the legislature reconvenes in January.

"The state has more than a billion dollars in reserves, not counting some $250 million the legislature left untouched during the last session," Penas said. "Due to good fiscal planning, at least in the short run, Minnesota is better prepared to address a budget deficit."

This week, the Department of Finance released a new revenue forecast that showed that the state faces an almost $2 billion budget deficit. But Penas said the state won't have a clear picture of the total deficit problem until the 2002 February finance forecast.

"There's a lot of uncertainty," she said. "There's a war on, the nation is in a major recession, businesses are holding off on purchases and unemployment in Minnesota is higher than in other states, but many believe that Minnesota and the national economy could rebound no later than the second quarter of 2002."

Penas added that with a looming deficit, there will be little support to increase general fund spending in 2002. All essential state functions will remain fully funded, but there will be pressure to trim funding from some of the non-essential areas. She added that a tax increase is unlikely because it would further depress the economy.

"Nobody could have foreseen the depth of the recession we're in, especially since the September 11 terrorist attack," Penas said. "But Minnesota is better prepared than most states."

Children have fun at Jaycee's holiday event

To the Editor:

The newly organized Jaycees carnival event that took place today at the Thief River Falls armory, was a treat for all who attended. All donations and proceeds from the event go to the area food shelf. One of the Jaycee's primary goals is to help local charities that need assistance during special times of the year.

Many of the attractions at the event were organized for the children of Thief River Falls. Children of all ages played games and won prizes, like pop, candy canes, as well as other prizes donated to the Jaycee's to help in the success of the event.

All of the children who attended the carnival were witnessed having fun and enjoying themselves playing the many variety of games. It is events like the one today, that help make Thief River Falls the wonderful place it is to live.

Sincerely,
JJ Staite

Turning Back The Times...

Ten Years At A Time

1881 — One Hundred Twenty Years Ago

—A question is raised about the boundaries of Polk county [which includes the western half of today's Pennington county] which are described as "Beginning in the middle of the main channel of the Red River of the North opposite the mouth of the Turtle river, thence up along the center of said channel to the line between Townships 142 and 143; thence easterly on said township line to Itasca Lake or the Mississippi river; thence down the center of the main channel of said river to a line running due south from the center of the Lake of the Woods; thence north on said line to a line running due east from the mouth of the Turtle river; thence west on said line to the place of beginning." Unfortunately it was pointed out that these stated boundaries didn't intersect and some of the landmarks, like the Turtle river, don't exist. (Warren Sheaf)

From St. Hilaire:
Home Talent Play Success

"The play 'All a Mistake,' staged at the Imperial Hall Friday and Saturday evening by local talent, was shown to full houses both Friday and Saturday evenings. The play, a three-act comedy, proved to be one of the best plays ever put on in St. Hilaire. All the characters played their parts exceptionally well, every character bringing bursts of applause and laughter from the audience. The setting of the play was staged at a home located next door to a large insane asylum and the outcome of the play was that all the people were adjudged insane by their friends and relatives. The St. Hilaire orchestra furnished music between acts and Principal R. Peterson rendered several beautiful vocal solos. Proceeds of the play are to go to the high school to finance various school activities."

From St. Hilaire:
Basketball Games Cancelled

"The local basketball team was compelled to cancel two basketball games owing to impassible conditions of the roads and severe weather conditions. Last Saturday evening they were to play with the Oklee high school, while on Wednesday evening they were scheduled to meet the Mentor team at Mentor.

News Items

"The Ladies Aid will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. A. Dainard.

"Andrew Bjerk was down from his home at Holt, in Marshall county, and spent Monday night visiting his brothers here.

"Mike Anderson and Swan Lindgren left on Monday morning by team for their claims on Battle River, where they will make their home for the remainder of the winter.

"Rev. W. H. Gooderham will preach in the M.E. church on Sunday on the following subjects: Forenoon, 'The Coming of the Christ Child' and Evening: 'Gifts from God and Men.'

"William Rogge, expert shoemaker and harness repairer, from Minneapolis, has opened a shop in the Gerbig building in St. Hilaire. Any person needing work in those lines should call on Mr. Rogge. Best work at right prices.

"Hon. C. G. Rapp perpetrated a surprise on Miss Hughes, postmistress, on Monday by buying an old fashioned cuckoo clock with now coos out the hours as they happen from the wall of the post office. Charlie is quite a bird fancier and likes to have them around.

"A meeting of interested farmers was held a few days ago at Thief River Falls to consider the advisability of having the county ditch, between the towns of North and Rocksbury extended about three miles. A petition to that effect will be presented to the county board at its next meeting

"John J. Soll, formerly editor of the SPECTATOR, and Miss Lydia Monson of Clarksfield were quietly married here at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony took place at their residence on Water street, recently purchased by Mr. Soll, Judge Gigstad officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Soll begin their married life with the best wishes of the entire community."

John Nelson's Mules

"John Nelson has a new team of mules. The old team went to mule heaven some time ago, after about twenty years spent in usefulness and mischief. Everybody in St. Hilaire knew those old mules. They would stroll around town and into any place where they found the door open. Then, after scaring the inmates, they would laugh loud and hearty. That laugh was a horrible thing. Once a friend brought one mule into this office and we haven't liked mules since. Every time we think of what happened then we feel like cussing, but it's against our principles to swear at the dead. We hope, however, that the new ones will not run so much to voice as the old ones did and also that they will be more respectful to people and property."

Rural Church Of The Air In Yule Program Sunday

"Listeners to the 'Rural Church of the Air' radio program over KTRF are reminded that next Sunday's broadcast, December 23, will be a special Christmas program. The broadcast will begin at the usual time, 8:00 p.m., but will continue an additional 15 minutes, making this special service 45 minutes long. Pastor Thorvald Myhrer will be heard with a greeting in Norwegian."

Julotta Service Tuesday Morning Over KTRF, KFGO

"For the eighth year, the special broadcast—Gospel—service, in Swedish, Julotta, will originate in the Mission Covenant church, Thief River Falls Christmas morning, 5:30 - 6:30, through the local station, KTRF, and KFGO, Fargo station, according to Leonard W. Lindholm, pastor of the church and director of radio ministry under its auspices."

Bridgeman Plant Truck Operators Win Recognition

"Safe driving award pins were presented last Wednesday to ten drivers for the Bridgeman Creameries truck fleet in Thief River Falls, honoring the men for periods of from one to twelve years of accident-free driving. Making the presentation was Harold L. Johnson of Minneapolis, superintendent of the safety engineering department of the U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty company. The men receiving the pins, together with the length of time covered by their records, include John Langseth, 12 years; Claude Trickle, 7 years; Don Sellberg and Walter Peterson, 6 years; Clarence Skibicki and Marwill Pederson, 4 years; Lawrence Wold, 3 years; Virgil Lubitz and Myrle Carlson, 2 years; and Norman Leader, 1 year. Johnson estimated that the Bridgeman fleet had travelled a total of 28,000 miles during the past year, with an accident frequency for all drivers per 100,000 miles of 2.50."

Mercury Fails To Rise To Zero Here During Past Week

"With the mercury plummeting Tuesday morning to the winter's low mark of 29 below zero, and failing to rise above the zero mark since last Wednesday, residents of this area have been forced to devote much of their time to the business of keeping warm. A hint of possible milder temperatures in prospect was given this morning, when the mercury dropped only as low as -14. While highways are virtually free of snow, the subzero weather has restricted travel and has had a deterrent effect on the Christmas shopping rush."

Lions Club Annual Kiddies Carnival Set For January 25

"The date of the Lions club annual kiddies carnival has been set at Friday evening, January 25, and the event will be held in the municipal auditorium, it was announced by Stan Mortenson, president, at the luncheon meeting last Wednesday noon. OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

October 23, 2001 5:00 PM

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Pennington County Board Room in Thief River Falls, MN, Tuesday, October 23, 2001 at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Charles Naplin, Donald Jensen, Arden "Bud" Comstock, Oliver "Skip" Swanson, and Bob Carlson. Also present was County Auditor Kenneth Olson. There were no members absent at this time.

Bob Goede, Minnesota Counties Insurance Trust (MCIT), reviewed the 2001 State of the County Report for Pennington County. The report details premium paid, dividends received and 5-year loss trends. The County Board thanked Mr. Goede for the report.

Dave Poha, representing the National Resource Conservation Service, discussed the updated soil mapping and digitizing of the soil maps for Pennington County. The updated soil survey is being completed by the NRCS and the only costs to the County would be the digitizing of the soil survey maps. All information would then be put on compact disk instead of printed form. The cost to the County would be 3 cents per acre or $12,000.00 for the digitizing of the data, which would be due upon delivery of the finished product. An agreement will be forwarded to the County Board in the near future for their review. The County Board took the foregoing under advisement.

Brian Molone, representing the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District presented a State Cost-Share Assistance contract #FY01-04 for culverts in the NW1/4 of section 14 Goodridge Township. Commissioner Jenson moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the State Cost-Share Assistance Contract #FY01-04 as submitted and authorize the Chairman to sign the agreement. Motion unanimously carried.

Ray Safranski, representing the Pennington County Fair Association, reviewed with the County Board the Fair Association budget for 2002 along with actual receipts and expenditures for previous years back to 1998. Mr. Safranski requested the County Board to appropriate $14,000.00 to the Fair Association for 2002, which is no increase from previous years. *Also included in their request is in-kind work as provided in the past. The County Board referred this to the 2002 budget.

Dale Nelson, representing the Red Lake Watershed District and Nathan Dalager, representing HDR discussed the Good Lake project and the drainage study done in Star Township involving CD #75, CD #38, and CD #57. Dale reported that the ditch running north from Good Lake already extends north to what would be the north boundary of Pennington County if the county line extended further east. There were some beaver dams plugging this ditch, which now have been removed.

Nate Dalager reviewed the drainage study done by HDR and the recommendations for CD #75 and CD #38. Requesting permits for increased culvert size in some location was the first option discussed.

George Broadwell, Acting County Engineer discussed a request from Tom Scholin to place drain tile in County Road Ditch #57 on the North side in Section 27 Brey Township. The Road Bridge and Culvert Inspection is set for October 25, 2001 at 1:00 p.m. He also stated the back filling of gravel where the roll-offs and dumpsters are stored at the Solid Waste Facility is complete and that there is a request for a speed bump in Aasbye Addition.

Sheriff Mike Hruby appeared before the County Board to discuss possible fee increases for the Sheriffs Office that would take affect on January 1, 2002. Sheriff Hruby will bring in a list for the Board's review before the end of the year. The Sheriff discussed a meeting scheduled for November 1, 2001 called by the Pennington County Family Service Collaborative to discuss converting two holding cells to juvenile lockups. The meeting will be held at the Social Services building at 2:00 p.m. A representative of the County Board will be in attendance.

The County Board then held an extensive conversation with the County Sheriff regarding placing Deputies on an eight-hour shift instead of the current ten-hour schedule.

Other discussion with the Sheriff included the Sentence-to-Serve program in Mahnomen County, and a video on Bio-Terrorism and Chemical emergencies that he offered to show County Officials at the next County Board meeting.

Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to approve the State Auditor's agreement to audit the 2001 financial statements of Pennington County and authorize the Chairman and County Auditor to sign the agreement. Motion unanimously carried.

Potato Flake Lefse
(Real Easy)

2 – cups boiling water
2 – tsps. salt
2 – tbsps. shortening
3 – tbsps. butter or margarine

Add to the water and stir until the shortening is melted.

2 – cups dry instant mashed potato flakes
(Shake the cup while measuring to get an accurate measurement)

Add this to above mixture and whip with a fork.

1/2 – cup milk (reconstituted dry milk works fine)
1/2 – tsp. baking powder
1 – tbsp. sugar

Whip into the above mixture with a fork.

COOL TO ROOM TEMPERATURE.

When you are ready to roll the lefse, gently add:
1-1/2 to 2 cups flour.

Form the dough into a long roll and cut off one piece at a time. Make a round ball and roll out like pie crust, rolling as thin as possible on a floured pastry cloth. Lift off with a lefse stick and bake on an ungreased lefse grill, electric fry pan, sandwich grill, or a grill on a stove. Between each lefse, brush off the burned flour. A newspaper is useful to catch excess flour under the grill.

After each lefse is baked, lay on a towel and cover with another towel to keep them from drying out.

Makes 14 lefse 12 inches in diameter.

I think Christmas is about celebroting the birth of Jesus. But some kids think Christmas as about the presents and the toys. So we need to teach them about the true meaning of Christmas. To me, Christmas means remembering Jesus' birth and the birth of love that he sparked up, and that is still burning in muny people's hearts today. Today is over 2000 years later. If Jesus can keep love huming that long I think we should all try and keep thut warmth, peace, und love in our families and hearts always.

In my family is showing how much fun were having with our cousins. Also smiles show how you care about each other. If you didn't smile you wouldn't be having fun. Or it means your not loving your family you need fun at Christmas I go to my Grandparents house for Christmas. All of my cousins go to there house for Christmas because it's fun. It is so much there because there is alot of toys there. Thats what Christmas means to me goint to my Grandparents house.

What Christmas Means To Me

It means to me that Jesus Christ was born and it means that his birth was on Christmas Eve. I like to decorate the Christmas tree and put up Christmas lights, too. That is fun. Christmas is a time to spend with our family. I love when Santa comes to our house and brings us presents and treats for Christmas day. Christmas is my favorite season. On Christmas day, I like to open up gifts and give gifts. That's fun, too. I like when we get our Christmas tree. We go to Middle River and get our tree. It's very fun. I like to make a lot of crafts and art with my grandma and mom. I like to sew Christmas hats and mittens. I like to bake Christmas cookies with my mom and brather.

My family is all was been together well, sort of. Sometimes somebody doesn't make it, but it's always fun having family around. I get gift but that's not the meaning. The meaning is spending time with your family. And Jeuus Crist birth.

We eat ham, iyams, (sweet potatoes) fruit, salid, salid, pumpkin, apple and mince meat pie and buns. And then we open presents.

It means that it is the Lord's Son's birthday. It is the day that we celebrate Jesus. It means that we get together with our family on Christmas. People have fun, too, but that is not the main thing about Christmas. It is all about Jesus on Christmas. It is not about Santa and little children. It is not about presents, either. It is all about love, Jesus, family, and God. We all celebrate love in our home or at our grandma or grandpa's. Jesus and God love us so much that they are with us all the time. It means that our parents love us so much that they could kiss and hug us. I hope Jesus has a god birthday on Christmas. First, we need to be thankful on Christmas and giving is the second best thing on Christmas.

Rachael Lindquist
Grade 3

Christmas means a time of joy and a time for the celebration of Jesus' birthday. Christmas means giving thanks and praise to our Lord Jesus. Christmas means a time to spend with my family, cousins, aunts, and uncles. Christmas is a time for joy ond Christmas caroling. I'm so glad God made Jesus. He was the best savior of the world. I think Jesus and God are the best in the world. I still think God is the best because he made everyone in the world and that's a really hard thing to do. It must have took him years to make everything. He made Adam and Eve, the first couple to walk on Earth. Adam and Eve didn't have parents like some people in the world. Christmas is a season of joy. Christmas is a good time to invite people into your house that are poor. Its not just about receiving gifts Its about family. My family means everything to me.

Meghon Jones

What Christmas means to me is the celebration of Jesus' birthday. It also means to give. Also, you should be good because Santa comes. If you are bad, he will give you a lump of coal. If you are good, he will bring toys for you. We are so lucky because we have a good King: Jesus. Jesus is one of the bravest people that ever lived. Christmas is a time to love one another, too. Jesus is the greatest gift of oll.

To me Christmas means to spend time with my family which is kind of hard because I can only see one of my grandma's and grandpas. My other grandparents live in Iowa, six hundred miles away. My great-grandma and my ount which are mostly together live in, Minnesota but still far away. My grandma that lives close usually takes me and my two brothers down to my great-great-grandma's and my other grandparents usually make it up to our house.

One of my brathers has a birthday seven days before Christmas so he gets quite a bit of presents in that week. My brathers are already asking my mom to put up decorations. We haven't got a tree yet. I hope we will get it soon though.

Christmas is also a time to remember the birth of Jesus. We always get a realy big tree in our church and make decorations during Sunday School. This year were making stars with glitter on them.

One thing I like obout Christmas is the time off of school so my family ond me can drive our snowcats around the country side and my grandpa in Iowa can ride with us too.

It means a joyful time to me. It means a times to think about Jesus being born. It means a lot to me. Christmas is not obout presents. It is about being Jesus being born. IT is a time so spend with your family and friends, or even your Grandma and Grandpa. I set up the tree and decorate it for my family. I make pictures of Christmas things. It means giving people things like loving them, hugging them, or giving them a kiss. I think about God ond Mary on Christmas, too. I think the manger scene is pretty. I like Santa Clause and the elves. I will count the days down until Christmas. I can not wait until Christmas. I think about the world and our family.

What Christmas means to me. We celabrate Christmas because that is when Jesus was born. I like to go and cut our tree and decorate it. On Christmas Eve our family goes to my uncle's house. When we open our presents the youngest get to go first. Then I get to go. I am the third oldest so I have to wait almost to the last. When we get home I go to bed and woit until the next morning. When the morning comes and I wake up I run down stairs. But I can not open them until my sister gets up, usually I go wake her up because I can't wait. After we open all our presents we go to my aunt and uncle's house. When we are over there we eat and open our presents. Then after we talk for owhile we go home.

I am thankful for Christmas! There is are many reasons. I know everyone likes gifts and presents, but that's not all Christmas is about. It's mainly about the celebration of Jesus's birthday! Christmas also involves feasting, Christmas dinner! Like lefse, lutefisk, turkey and pie! Goodies are good, but not a common food at Christmas. To give gifts to other people is common during Christmas time! Doing so is very kind! Going to each others house's to celebrate Christmas is common and very kind.

Santa and Mrs. Claus play a big part in Christmas! Most of all Christmas is fun for family and friends.

On Christmas Eve evening, my mom's relatives come to my house. For Christmas supper we have cranberries, bread, milk, turkey, mashed potatoes and gravy, butter, milk and snacks. On Christmas day we go to my dad's parents house. I like visiting relatives.

We open presents on Christmas morning. Before Christmas comes my family and I decorate. Christmas means happiness. When I think of Christmas I think of Jesus birth. I also think about all the pretty decorations and lights, and exchanging gifts. I love waking up on Christmas morning and seeing what Santa Claus gave me. Another very fun part of Christmas is watching Christmas plays and being in them. Decorating the Christmas tree is also fun. I really like all of the decorations and lights.

It means family and friends. I like to go to church on Christmas Eve. I go to my Grandma's house. It's fun to run upstairs and look in my stocking to see what I got. I also like it when my family sits in our family room and opens presents. Sometimes we go to my lake cabin and see my Grandma Claudia. Well, I always go to my Grandma's house on Christmas. I'm so lucky because I get a part in the St. Bernard's Christmas program. I also like to decorate the tree with my family. This year we got like a 3 1/2 yard tree. Well, I don't know, but what I like a lot is when we light the Advent wreath. This year, I'm in the kid's choir and there's a family fun night. It's kind of like a Christmas party or something like that. But all I know is that it will be really fun! But the best thing that happened on Christmas was that Christ was born.

Friends and family getting together and sharing gifts and eating Christmas dinner together is what Christmas meons to me.

Getting to decorate the Christmas tree, putting the gifts under the tree and the anticipation of getting to open them is part of Christmas.

What Christmas means to me is when Jesus was born. The evening before Christmas Eve my family usually goes to my aunts and uncles and then Santa comes over and he brings my cousins and I presents. Later on in the night my mom, dad, aunts and uncles play a game and exchange gifts. My birthday is five days after Christmas so I celebrate my birthday over at my aunts and uncles. My aunts and uncles bring all kinds of food for us to eat and we have to have a cake for my birthday.

On Christmas Eve we go to my great grandpa's house and later on in the night Santa comes and my mom and dad visit. I go and play with my cousins and some of them I don't know very well. Then when everybody goes home and when we get home we get all ready for Santa and go to bed.

In the morning we open up our presents. Then we have to clean everything up and put everything oway. Then we have to get ready to go over to my aunts and uncles. We open up presents from cousins and aunts and uncles. We eat all kinds of food and visit for a long time.

I think Christmas is a time to be with your family and friends. It is also putting up a Christmas tree, lights, garland and stockings. Then we put a star on the top of the tree, eat candy canes, and listen to Christmas music. Then of course it's getting presents.

What Christmas means to me. I think of family, dinner, presents, fun, eggnog, friends, carolers, snow designs, lights, excitement, turkey, candy canes, happiness, toys, music, stockings, Christmas trees, love, mistletoe, holly, Santa, reindeer, sleighs, pies, cake, sledding, cousins, elves, uncles, and aunts are some of my favorites at Christmas. Then I go to bed and wait for Christmas Eve and Christmas Oay!

Christmas is the Spirit of giving. It's being with family. It's peace and good will. Exchanging memories of the past. There's conversations and presents. It's a time when some people believe that there really is a Santa Claus, and a time when older kids want to believe in Santa, but are afraid to say it. They think they are too old. But what is inside is all that matters. Besides, even old people believe in him! So, Christmas is bright lights, presents, programs and concerts, but most of all, because, its Jesus Christ's birthday. Have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Christmas is a time of year that my family gathers around and we talk together and we open up presents and we eat but the really important thing is that my family is all there because some people don't have people, don't even have familys they can spend Christmas with or, some of them don't even have houses some have to live in the streets with their children and dig in the garbage for food and they have to use burning barrels to keep warm and who can imagine how they get the fire started and they probably have to wear the same cloths every day. They probably can't brush their hair if they don't have combs or brushes and they have to have bare feet because they don't have any shoes because their poor. So I want to give some of my gifts to the homeless because I wouldn't like to have no family on Christmas or no friends and I would like to have no presents.

Tradition will ring in the New Year

By Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Before the last of the crumpled Christmas wrapping paper has been packed in over-stuffed garbage bags, our thoughts turn to the New Year's holiday – a time for looking back and more importantly, looking forward to the coming year.

An Oldie, But a Goodie

New Year's is civilization's oldest holiday, observed for more than 4,000 years. The ancient Babylonians, however, waited until the weather was a little warmer, celebrating in late March. Their 11-day celebration began with the first visible crescent of the New Moon after the Vernal Equinox (first day of spring). Each day of the observance had its own particular mode of celebration, and it's said that modern-day New Year's Eve festivities pale in comparison.

While the Romans continued to observe New Year's in late March, various emperors were constantly tampering with the calendar to the point that, eventually, it fell out of synchronization with the sun. To set it straight again, the Roman senate declared January 1 to be the beginning of the New Year in 153 BC. Calendar tampering continued, however, until 46 BC when Julius Caesar established what has come to be known as the Julian calendar. It again established January 1 as the first day of the new year. In order to synchronize the calendar with the sun, however, Caesar had to let the previous year drag on for 445 days.

In reality, spring as the season of rebirth and new growth is a logical time to begin the new year, while January has neither any astrological nor agricultural significance, but is rather purely arbitrary.

Although the Romans continued to celebrate New Year's through the first centuries AD, the holiday was condemned by the early Catholic church as pagan. The early church's opposition held firm for years, and it's only been about the past 400 years that the New Year's holiday has been celebrated by Western countries.

Babies and Football

The Greek tradition of using a baby as a symbol of the New Year goes back to around 600 BC. A baby was paraded about in a basket, symbolizing the rebirth of Dionysus, the Greek god of wine, as the spirit of fertility.

While the early church denounced this practice as pagan also, it was forced to rethink its position due to the popularity of the symbol. Finally, it relented and allowed its members to celebrate the new year with a baby that symbolized the birth of the baby Jesus.

The Germans, who had used the effigy since the 14th Century, were responsible for bring the tradition to early America.

The Tournament of Roses Parade goes back to 1886 when members of the Valley Hunt Club decorated their carriages with flowers, celebrating the ripening of the orange crop in California. Although the first Rose Bowl football game was played in 1902, Roman chariot races replaced it the following year. The football game returned as the festival's sports centerpiece in 1916.

If you're looking for someone to blame for starting the tradition of New Year's resolutions, you will have to go all the way back to the beginning of the holiday's observance. The early Babylonians, however, weren't worried about losing weight, quitting smoking or getting more exercise. It's said rather that their most popular resolution was to return borrowed farm implements.

Doughnuts, Black-Eyed Peas and a Dark-Haired Man

Because it has been traditionally believed that folks could influence their luck for the coming year by what they did or ate on the first day of the year, it has become common for people to ring in the new year in the company of family and friends. It was also once believed that the first visitor to call on New Year's Day would bring either good luck or bad luck, and it was considered to be particularly luck if that first caller was a dark-haired man.

Some believe, also that traditional New Year's foods will bring them luck. Many cultures believe that any ring-shaped food, symbolizing "coming full circle," will bring good fortune. Included are the Dutch who eat doughnuts on New Year's Day.

Black-eyed peas, typically accompanied by ham or hog jowls, are consumed on New Year's Day in many parts of the United States. The peas and other legumes have long been considered lucky by many cultures, and the hog is considered lucky because it symbolizes prosperity. Cabbage, its leaves representative of paper currency, is another symbol of prosperity and thus, a "good luck" food consumed by many on New Year's Day. Rice is another food deemed by some to bring good fortune.

Generosity abundant in TRF

by Elizabeth Ott
Reporter

Despite reports that the economy is declining and this year's Christmas sales were not what retailers had hoped for, people in Thief River Falls still had a merry Christmas.

The September 11 attacks were certainly on the minds of every American as we sat down to dinner in November and recalled that for which we are thankful. And as the Christmas season began with the annual Macy's parade, there were concerns that people might not have such a jolly holiday.

While on the national scene the economists are bemoaning the low sales this season, the contrary is true in Thief River Falls. The people of Thief River Falls were very generous with their time and money this Christmas.

Annual traditions such as the community dinner reported having plenty of new volunteers and gift-giving programs, such as Christmas for Pennington County, reported numerous donations.

Perhaps people realized just how lucky we are to live in this country and wanted to share their good fortune. Perhaps the generosity grew out of recent feelings of patriotism many of us have experienced. Or perhaps, as people turned to their faith to help them struggle with recent event, they were reminded of the true meaning of Christmas.

Whatever it was that inspired people to go the extra distance this year, their generosity was felt across the community.

Community Dinner

This year's Annual Community Christmas dinner was again a success.

"Everything went really, really great," said Dale Wennberg, one of the event's organizers. "And the volunteers were terrific."

The Christmas eve dinner at the Evergreen Eating Emporium is served free of charge to anyone in the community (with a reservation), but a free-will offering is accepted to defray the cost of the dinner.

Organizers say that over 400 people were served, a few more than last year. Donations to the dinner were also a little more than last year. Organizers can't say exactly how well they did because there are still some bills to pay.

Most years, there are more deliveries than eat-in diners. However, this year there were fewer delivered meals than in-house meals. Organizers speculate that the unusually mild winter may have been the reason so many people chose to dine at the restaurant.

Several volunteers plan, prepare and serve meals at the dinner. Volunteers also deliver meals to those who prefer to dine at home. For years, Cliff Mattson has been driving a school bus to pick up diners who need a ride to the Evergreen.

"There's a lot of new volunteers this year," said Tim Loeffler, one of the organizers.

Volunteering has it's own rewards: "It's fun," Says Wennberg. "It's nice to see the people having such a great time. After they (the volunteers) work once, they want to came again."

Christmas for Pennington County

"The generosity was amazing," said Wendy Mattson, coordinator for Christmas for Pennington County, a program which gives presents to children who might not otherwise get Christmas gifts.

This year 128 families received 390 gifts. The number of recipients was higher this year than most. Mattson said many of the families who have been served by the program in the past did not participate this year, but there were a lot of new families this year.

The gifts are all donated or purchased with donated funds. There were very generous cash donations this year. According to Mattson, many people came to the window at the Law Enforcement Center and said, "I just want to write a check." The annual fund-raising dinner at the Elks raised double the amount it usually does.

"We had people asking for tags and people asking to help," said Mattson. "I want to say 'Thank you' to all who gave."

Mattson said there are so many donors, many anonymous, that it is impossible to thank everyone by name.

Whether people donated their time or money this year, the gift was truely appreciated. A mother from one young family stopped to say thank you to organizers.

"If it weren't for you, I don't know what we would have done this year."

The mother, who had asked nothing for herself, then went to pose for a picture with her family and Santa. The volunteers were moved by her gratitude. They found a quilt that was not wrapped for anyone and handed it to her.

"Here, this is for you," they said.

Computer lab opens January 2 at public library

Refreshments will celebrate and mark the official opening of the computer lab at the Thief River Falls Public Library on Wednesday, January 2.

Funding from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has resulted in the purchase of four additional computers for the public service area at the library, and a computer lab that includes 10 public computers and one staff computer which will be used for library staff training. When not used for training, the equipment will be available for public use. A weekly sign posted near the lab will inform the public of scheduling and public availability.

Specialized library programs for the public will be scheduled for different months. In January and February, library staff invites area seniors to Senior Surf days on Wednesdays from 1 to 5 p.m. While seniors will be welcome to work on whatever programs they choose, they will also have the opportunity to sign up for mini-sessions on different topics. These sessions, however, are not classes, and the library emphasizes that Northland Community and Technical College offers a variety of computer courses.

During the months of January and February, the library will also offered "Mom/Dad and Me" computer nights for children between the ages of three and 10 on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. These sessions are limited to 10 children who must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Pre-registration is required and can be accomplished by stopping by the library or calling 681-4325. While a library staff member will be on hand to answer questions, the sessions are intended to be a sharing time between children and their parents as they explore the programs of their choosing. Booklets detailing the software and its uses will also be available at every computer work-station.

The special software on these computers will be helpful to people of all ages. Applications on the computers include such Microsoft Office programs as Word 2000, Excel 2000, PowerPoint 2000 and Publisher 2000. Reference software programs include World English Dictionary 2001, Encarta Encyclopedia 2001, Encarta Africana, World Atlas 2001, Streets and Trips 2001, Encarta Researcher 2001 and Corbis FDR. Specialized access accounts also includes such children's programs as Arthur programs, Big Science Ideas, Dr. Suess programs, Magic School Bus programs, Algebra and Geometry tutorials and such reading programs as Just Grandma and Me, PJ's Reading Adventures and Stellaluna.

For more information about the computer lab, stop by the Thief River Falls Public Library at 101 First Street East, call 681-4325 or contact it by email at trfeire@northernlights.lib.mn.us.

Northwest Dairy Day slated for January 8 in TRF

Dairy Day for northwestern Minnesota will be held in Tuesday, January 8, at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls.

Practical ideas for successful dairying will be the focus of Minnesota Dairy Days 2002. The Thief River Falls meeting will be one of eight held throughout the state.

Registration will begin at 9:40 a.m., followed by an educational program at 10 a.m. According to Dr. George Marx, dairy scientist at Northwest Research and Outreach Center in Crookston, the events will feature ample time for interaction and discussion among producers. Marx also notes that, while the program is designed for producers, the event open to veterinarians, educators, consultants, agri-business representatives and other interested persons.

Pre-registration for a meal count is required one week prior to the meeting date. The fee, which includes the noon meal and Dairy Day booklet, is $25 for the first person from a farm and $15 for each additional person. Registration flyers and additional information are available from County Extension Educators, Dr. Marx at (218) 281-8606 or Bonnie Rae at (612) 624-4995.

Leading off the program will be a dairy research update by Dr. Dennis Johnson of WCROC-Morris. A session on dairy modernization will follow. Dr. Kevin Janni, University of Minnesota Extension engineer, will discuss facilities and manure handling, and Dr. Jeff Reneau, University of Minnesota dairy scientist, will cover milking systems. Financing modernization will be discussed by Dr. Bill Lazarus, University of Minnesota Extension economist, prior to the noon break.

The afternoon session will begin with time for questions and discussions before Dr. Marcia Endres discusses the basics and transition cows, and Dr. Marx talks about new research topics. An update on the state's Dairy Enhancement and Profitability program and Business Planning Grants by Bob Lefebvre of the Minnesota Milk Producers Association will close out the program that is expected to end at 3 p.m.

Racers competed in a World Snowmobile Association Snocross race last weekend at Seven Clans Casino. The event held last Saturday and Sunday was a qualifying event for the Winter X Games in Aspen, Colo. Race results will be published in an upcoming edition of the paper.

Tradition will ring in the New Year

By Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Before the last of the crumpled Christmas wrapping paper has been packed in over-stuffed garbage bags, our thoughts turn to the New Year's holiday – a time for looking back and more importantly, looking forward to the coming year.

An Oldie, But a Goodie

New Year's is civilization's oldest holiday, observed for more than 4,000 years. The ancient Babylonians, however, waited until the weather was a little warmer, celebrating in late March. Their 11-day celebration began with the first visible crescent of the New Moon after the Vernal Equinox (first day of spring). Each day of the observance had its own particular mode of celebration, and it's said that modern-day New Year's Eve festivities pale in comparison.

While the Romans continued to observe New Year's in late March, various emperors were constantly tampering with the calendar to the point that, eventually, it fell out of synchronization with the sun. To set it straight again, the Roman senate declared January 1 to be the beginning of the New Year in 153 BC. Calendar tampering continued, however, until 46 BC when Julius Caesar established what has come to be known as the Julian calendar. It again established January 1 as the first day of the new year. In order to synchronize the calendar with the sun, however, Caesar had to let the previous year drag on for 445 days.

In reality, spring as the season of rebirth and new growth is a logical time to begin the new year, while January has neither any astrological nor agricultural significance, but is rather purely arbitrary.

Although the Romans continued to celebrate New Year's through the first centuries AD, the holiday was condemned by the early Catholic church as pagan. The early church's opposition held firm for years, and it's only been about the past 400 years that the New Year's holiday has been celebrated by Western countries.

Babies and Football

The Greek tradition of using a baby as a symbol of the New Year goes back to around 600 BC. A baby was paraded about in a basket symbolizing the rebirth of Dionysus, the Greek god of wine, as the spirit of fertility.

While the early church denounced this practice as pagan also, it was forced to rethink its position due to the popularity of the symbol. Finally, it relented and allowed its members to celebrate the new year with a baby that symbolized the birth of the baby Jesus.

The Germans, who had used the effigy since the 14th Century, were responsible for bringing the tradition to early America.

The Tournament of Roses Parade goes back to 1886 when members of the Valley Hunt Club decorated their carriages with flowers, celebrating the ripening of the orange crop in California. Although the first Rose Bowl football game was played in 1902, Roman chariot races replaced it the following year. The football game returned as the festival's sports centerpiece in 1916.

If you're looking for someone to blame for starting the tradition of New Year's resolutions, you will have to go all the way back to the beginning of the holiday's observance. The early Babylonians, however, weren't worried about losing weight, quitting smoking or getting more exercise. It's said rather that their most popular resolution was to return borrowed farm implements.

Doughnuts, Black-Eyed Peas and a Dark-Haired Man

Because it has been traditionally believed that folks could influence their luck for the coming year by what they did or ate on the first day of the year, it has become common for people to ring in the new year in the company of family and friends. It was also once believed that the first visitor to call on New Year's Day would bring either good luck or bad luck, and it was considered to be particularly lucky if that first caller was a dark-haired man.

Some believe, also, that traditional New Year's foods will bring them luck. Many cultures believe that any ring-shaped food symbolizes coming [illegible] good fortune. [illegible] Dutch [illegible] New Year's Day.

Cookin' up some holiday spirit

Ione Gonsorowski was nearly up to her neck in potatoes and gravy as she helped prepare food for the Annual Community Christmas Dinner. Over 400 people enjoyed a Christmas meal prepared by Gonsorowski and numerous other volunteers.

Generosity abundant in TRF

by Elizabeth Ott
Reporter

Despite reports that the economy is declining and this year's Christmas sales were not what retailers had hoped for, people in Thief River Falls still had a merry Christmas.

The September 11 attacks were certainly on the minds of every American as we sat down to dinner in November and recalled that for which we are thankful. And as the Christmas season began with the annual Macy's parade, there were concerns that people might not have such a jolly holiday.

While on the national scene the economists are bemoaning the low sales this season, the contrary is true in Thief River Falls. The people of Thief River Falls were very generous with their time and money this Christmas.

Annual traditions such as the community dinner reported having plenty of new volunteers and gift-giving programs, such as Christmas for Pennington County, reported numerous donations.

Perhaps people realized just how lucky we are to live in this country and wanted to share their good fortune. Perhaps the generosity grew out of recent feelings of patriotism many of us have experienced. Or perhaps, as people turned to their faith to help them struggle with recent event, they were reminded of the true meaning of Christmas.

Whatever it was that inspired people to go the extra distance this year, their generosity was felt across the community.

Community Dinner

This year's Annual Community Christmas dinner was again a success.

"Everything went really, really great," said Dale Wennberg, one of the event's organizers. "And the volunteers were terrific."

The Christmas eve dinner at the Evergreen Eating Emporium is served free of charge to anyone in the community (with a reservation), but a free-will offering is accepted to defray the cost of the dinner.

Organizers say that over 400 people were served, a few more than last year. Donations to the dinner were also a little more than last year. Organizers can't say exactly how well they did because there are still some bills to pay.

Most years, there are more deliveries than eat-in diners. However, this year there were fewer delivered meals than in-house meals. Organizers speculate that the unusually mild winter may have been the reason so many people chose to dine at the restaurant.

Several volunteers plan, prepare and serve meals at the dinner. Volunteers also deliver meals to those who prefer to dine at home. For years, Cliff Mattson has been driving a school bus to pick up diners who need a ride to the Evergreen.

"There's a lot of new volunteers this year," said Tim Loeffler, one of the organizers.

Volunteering has it's own rewards. "It's fun," Says Wennberg. "It's nice to see the people having such a great time. After they (the volunteers) work once, they want to came again."

Christmas for Pennington County

"The generosity was amazing," said Wendy Mattson, coordinator for Christmas for Pennington County, a program which gives presents to children who might not otherwise get Christmas gifts.

This year 128 families received 390 gifts. The number of recipients was higher this year than most. Mattson said many of the families who have been served by the program in the past did not participate this year, but there were a lot of new families this year.

The gifts are all donated or purchased with donated funds. There were very generous cash donations this year. According to Mattson, many people came to the window at the Law Enforcement Center and said, "I just want to write a check." The annual fund-raising dinner at the Elks raised double the amount it usually does.

"We had people asking for tags and people asking to help," said Mattson. "I want to say 'Thank you' to all who gave."

Mattson said there are so many donors, many anonymous, that it is impossible to thank everyone by name.

Whether people donated their time or money this year, the gift was truely appreciated. A mother from one young family stopped to say thank you to organizers.

"If it weren't for you, I don't know what we would have done this year."

The mother, who had asked nothing for herself, then went to pose for a picture with her family and Santa. The volunteers were moved by her gratitude. They found a quilt that was not wrapped for anyone and handed it to her.

"Here, this is for you," they said.

Computer lab opens January 2 at public library

Refreshments will celebrate and mark the official opening of the computer lab at the Thief River Falls Public Library on Wednesday, January 2.

Funding from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has resulted in the purchase of four additional computers for the public service area at the library and a computer lab that includes 10 public computers and one staff computer which will be used for library staff training. When not used for training, the equipment will be available for public use. A weekly sign posted near the lab will inform the public of scheduling and public availability.

Specialized library programs for the public will be scheduled for different months. In January and February, library staff invites area seniors to Senior Surf days on Wednesdays from 1 to 5 p.m. While seniors will be welcome to work on whatever programs they choose, they will also have the opportunity to sign up for mini-sessions on different topics. These sessions, however, are not classes, and the library emphasizes that Northland Community and Technical College offers a variety of computer courses.

During the months of January and February the library will also offered "Mom/Dad and Me" computer nights for children between the ages of three and 10 on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. These sessions are limited to 10 children who must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Pre-registration is required and can be accomplished by stopping by the library or calling 681-4325. While a library staff member will be on hand to answer questions the sessions are intended to be a sharing time between children and their parents as they explore the programs of their choosing. Booklets detailing the software and its uses will also be available at every computer workstation.

The special software on these computers will be helpful to people of all ages. Applications on the computers include such Microsoft Office programs as Word 2000, Excel 2000, PowerPoint 2000 and Publisher 2000. Reference software programs include World English Dictionary 2001, Encarta Encyclopedia 2001, Encarta Africana, World Atlas 2001, Streets and Trips 2001, Encarta Researcher 2001 and Corbis EDR. Specialized access accounts also include such children's programs as Arthur programs, Big Science Ideas, Dr. Seuss programs, Magic School Bus programs, Merlin and [illegible] tutorials and such reading programs as Just Grandma and Me, [illegible] Adventures and Stellaluna.

Northwest Dairy Day slated for January 8 in TRF

Dairy Day for northwestern Minnesota will be held on Tuesday, January 8, at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls.

Practical ideas for successful dairying will be the focus of Minnesota Dairy Days 2002. The Thief River Falls meeting will be one of eight held throughout the state.

Registration will begin at 9:40 a.m., followed by an educational program at 10 a.m. According to Dr. George Marx, dairy scientist at Northwest Research and Outreach Center in Crookston, the events will feature ample time for interaction and discussion among producers. Marx also notes that, while the program is designed for producers, the event open to veterinarians, educators, consultants, agri-business representatives and other interested persons.

Pre-registration for a meal count is required one week prior to the meeting date. The fee, which includes the noon meal and Dairy Day booklet, is $25 for the first person from a farm and $15 for each additional person. Registration fliers and additional information are available from County Extension Educators, Dr. Marx at (218) [illegible] or Bonnie Rar at [illegible]

Leading off the program will be a dairy research update by Dr. Dennis Johnson of WCROC, Morris. A session on dairy reorganization will follow. Dr. Kevin Janni, University of Minnesota Extension engineer, will discuss facilities and manure handling, and Dr. Jeff Reneau, University of Minnesota dairy scientist, will cover milking systems. Financing modernization will be discussed by Dr. Bob Lazarus, University of Minnesota Extension economist, prior to the noon break.

The afternoon session will begin with time for question and discussions before Dr. Marcia Endres discusses the basics and transition cows and Dr. Marx talks about current research topics. An update on the state's Dairy Enhancement and Profitability program and Business Planning Grants by Bob [illegible] of the Minnesota Milk Producers Association will close out the program that is expected to end at 3 p.m.

Racers competed in a World Snowmobile Association Snocross race last weekend at Seven Clans Casino. The event held last Saturday and Sunday was a qualifying event for the Winter X Games in Aspen, Colo. Race results will be published in an upcoming edition of the paper.

Second-graders from Challenger Elementary gave a Christmas Concert on December 19. They entertained the audience by singing "America," "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas," "In the Window," "Joyous Chanukah," "Silent Night" and "Nuttin' For Christmas." Students introduced each selection, and gave a brief description about the song or it's meaning.

The Trinity Lutheran Church Senior High Youth Group braved the cold weather, and put on a live nativity scene last Wednesday night from 5 to 7 p.m. Live horses completed the scene.

"Auld Lang Syne," is sung at the stroke of midnight on New Year's Day. At least partially written by Robert Burns in the 1700's, the tune was first published in 1796 after his death. Earlier renditions of the song, sung prior to 1700, inspired Burns in his modern rendition. "Auld Lang Syne," a Scottish tune, literally means "old long ago" or simply, "the good old days."

Back to Those Resolutions

So, that's the story of the New Year's holiday, and while we, in northwestern Minnesota, aren't apt to spend the day eating doughnuts and black-eyed peas for luck, many of us will most likely have a list of resolutions for 2002. According to one source, the average American makes 1.8 resolutions.

Among the most common resolutions are those that relate to such health-related issues as losing weight, eating better, getting more sleep, quitting smoking and exercising more. We want to look better, feel better and live longer.

Our relationships are another common target of resolutions as we vow to be more patient with our children, put the spark back into our marriages or be a more attentive daughter, sibling or friend. Relationships with others are important to us, and we seek to be kinder, gentler and more thoughtful.

The desire to become more organized and or stop procrastinating is among the goals of many of us as we jot down our resolutions for the coming year. New Year's is also a time when we consider trying to become better citizens with intentions of donating more of our time and money to civic organizations and charities.

January 1 is the one day — more than any other — when we take a serious look at our lives and the way we are living them. Even if we fail to keep the resolutions we make, the very idea of having made them means that we desire to be better people. Our resolutions, after all, reflect our values and point out what is important as we march down life's path.

Chances are, many resolutions will be different this year, as it's impossible to ponder over events of the past year without landing squarely on September 11 and facing the fact that our American way of life is forever altered. The numerous acts of generosity, patriotism and heroism we've witnessed since that day, however, make evident the good that can come out of evil.

Yes, as we prepare for 2002, we're a little more serious as we've already had several months to examine our values and ponder the aspects of our lives – faith, family and home – that are so dear to us.

Perhaps the knowledge that we face an uncertain future will make it easier for us to act on the resolutions and goals we set for 2002 and, as we strive to achieve them, we will remember the importance of laughing, loving and living each day to its loftiest potential.

Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

School lesson bridges the generation gap while delivering holiday joy

by Kathi Carlson
Reporter

Under normal circumstances, the community room at Skylite Apartments is a quiet site where residents gather. That was not the case last Wednesday, however, when more than two dozen students from Lincoln High School bounded in, bringing with them an ample supply of holiday cheer.

The youth are the ninth grade health students of Helen Anderson who were participating in what has become an annual and ever-expanding lesson in relationships. Anderson teaches three blocks of ninth grade health that includes a Family unit. The components of family life, including relationships with older people, are among the topics of the class. Due to the mobility of today's families, Anderson realized that many of her students do not live near their grandparents, and thus have little opportunity to interact with older folks. She decided to so something about that fact and for the past three years, has engaged the youth in her classrooms in a variety of activities that would afford her students the chance to meet and even become friends with some of the senior citizens in the community.

This year, the students in her three classes shared their holiday cheer at three local sites. In addition to the activities at Skylite Apartments, students in one block made crafts with the residents of CNC at Northwest Medical Center, and the third group of youth visited Valley Home.

Prior to their visit to Skylite Apartments, students spent their December 18 classroom time making the rolled sugar cookies that they then decorated with residents at the apartment complex the following day.

The Home Ec room at Lincoln was bustling with activity as students participated in the cookie-making exercise. Anderson pointed out the value of the experience, another that she says some students have never had the opportunity to experience.

As some measured and mixed ingredients, others rolled and cut out the cookies that were placed in the ovens by other teams of youth while others participated in clean-up detail. The spirit of cooperation was alive throughout the room as the sound of giggles could be heard along with the hum of mixers, and the smell of fresh cookies permeated the air.

Armed with their cookies, frosting and an assortment of other decorating supplies, youth joined residents and filled the community room at Skylite Apartments the following day. While some engaged in the cookie decorating exercise and lively conversation, other students and residents alike seemed content to simply sit quietly and enjoy the activities going on around them.

Music filled the air, too, as some of the students had volunteered to bring their instruments to perform Christmas carols for a holiday singalong. Instruments included the piano, guitar, saxophone, violin and more, and, while the youth had not practiced together, their sound was sweet to those who raised their voices in song.

Coffee and punch were served along with the freshly decorated cookies furnished by the students.

Skylite Manager Barb Drees watched the activities and noted that she takes advantage of the Lincoln students to bring a little spirit to Skylite Apartments "whenever she has the opportunity. "It's great," she said.

Helen Anderson video taped much of the event and was obviously proud of her students as they interacted with their senior friends.

The value of the activity and lessons learned during the students' visits to Skylite Apartments, CNC at Northwest Medical Center and Valley Home would be difficult to measure.

For certain, there are dual benefits to such activities. Youth have a unique opportunity to enjoy the company and wisdom of seniors; and older folks, many of whom do not have the chance to spend time with younger people, meet new friends. It's a win-win situation, and one that, at this time of the year, was bound to have made the holiday season of children and older adults alike much brighter.

Last week, ninth grade students in Lincoln High School teacher Helen Anderson's health classes spread holiday cheer to Thief River Falls seniors at Skylite Apartments, the CNC Unit at Northwest Medical Center and Valley Home. Three classrooms of youth participated in the project which featured different activities at each of the sites. Students in Anderson's third block classroom spent one classroom period baking the cookies that they took to Skylite Apartments during class time the following day. The students and seniors met in the apartment complex's community room where they decorated and, of course, ate the cookies, visited and sang Christmas carols.

Women's Foundation names grant programs

Women's Foundation of Minnesota announces two grant-making programs for 2002.

Social Change Fund supports the work of organizations in confronting the root causes of gender inequity. Women's Foundation of Minnesota believes women and girls can change policies and systems to achieve equity when given the resources to do so. It funds activities such as grass roots activism, research and education, cultural projects, general operating and start-up groups. Deadlines for 2002 are April 1 and October 1. The guidelines for this program will be available after January 1 at www.wfmn.org or my calling Liz at (612) 888-333-5010, extension 23.

GirlsBEST (Girls Building Economic Success Together) is a new five-year initiative to promote economic security for girls. Programs that increase girls' economic well-being include: more girls with vision, knowledge and plans; more communities, and schools providing supportive environments; a greater public awareness of the value of girls to Minnesota communities and the harm of gender discrimination; and/or increased activism by girls and on behalf of girls. The first round of grants will provide funding to organizations for planning projects that build the economic power of girls. February 1 is the deadline for planning grants, and September 1 is the deadline for implementation grants. Detailed information about this program has been available since December 10 at www.wfmn.org. To receive the guidelines by mail, call Liz at (612) 888-333-5010, extension 23.

This year, the Women's Foundation will not be sending out grant guidelines unless they are requested.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Tradition

Anybody who knows me knows I spend a lot of time making cookies and other goodies at Christmas time. The list of treats that we "must have" has grown and grown over the years until it has become a bit of a joke. You know how it goes. I get a little tired of making the same old things year after year and sometimes I try new recipes. Well, sometimes some of the new recipes are so good that they become part of the "must have" list too. And so it grows and grows.

Many of our favorite Christmas treats are Scandinavian treats. I am a mixture of nationalities that come out at different times, but at Christmas time it is the Scandinavian in me that comes to the forefront. Scandinavian treats seem to take a lot of time, a lot of one-at-a-time work that leaves me time to think. I can't help but think of the many generations of my Scandinavian foremothers who have done the same things as I do, making krumkakka and rosettes (but I'm not making lefse - not yet). Imagine making those things on a wood-burning stove!

When I found the following poem, I knew it had been written by another Scandinavian granddaughter, even before I saw her name. I wouldn't be surprised if she, too, was making Scandinavian goodies and thinking about the same things as I was before she wrote this poem.

CHRISTMAS FILLS THE EMPTY CHAIR
by Connie Hessevick

Christmas reminds me of Grandma winters of lefse, krumkakke, fattimand...
My father's memories handed down through my imagination bring me the Grandma I have never met to share God Jule

I sit at the table
in a house fresh with baking you offer me coffee or lingonberry wine homemade lefse unrolled from checkered towels Butter?
Sugar?

Five boys fill your home the eldest son tall, pink and hearty labors at the wood pile the steady sounds of axe to wood our music for the evening

My young father on the quilt turns the pages of a book
you are stern with him he'll not damage the pictures of the Old Land slim heritage of a young bride bound for America
Norsk woman's pride stares squarely at the Proctor son a son who smiles his blue grey eyes gingerly turns another page and knows it is a holiday

Two round faced boys burst in from the cold snow deep in every fold of their bundling you help them inside out seat them chattering by the stove give hot milk and chocolate shavings as they begin their "What if..." game
"Just what if snow came down as milk and chocolate?"

I share your thoughts on things the boys don't hear of the youngest son in the Proctor earth now of the empty chair
Just what if their father would knock on the door
Just what if he had not worked on the railroad
Just what if he had not tried to unionize if he had not been black balled would he be here now?
Or would he have gone for other reasons as he had gone from Norway
we can share this story of men who have reason to go and not enough reason to return
We turn to warm milk and hard tack and ease the slow burning in our bellies

The evening stills
And the thin son lights the candles on the tree
Makes shadows of his father around the room
All of the family
Gathered together
For a Christmas Eve

Just as you join me fill my empty chair bringing the family together again
I sprinkle the fattimand with powdered sugar and offer you coffee Milk?
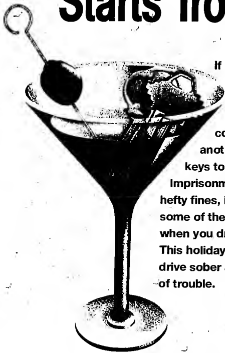
Sugar?

Drinking and Driving Starts Trouble.



If you're drinking during the holiday season, give someone else the keys to your car or you could be introduced to another set of keys — the keys to a cell at the local jail. Imprisonment, license suspension, hefty fines, injury or even death are some of the obstacles you face when you drink and drive. This holiday season, and always, drive sober and steer clear of trouble.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

So, the question becomes: What to do with all of the accumulated Christmas goodies that nobody wants to eat? What is it about Chrismas that brings out the very worst in the world of sweets?

Candy canes. One per year is enough, but in December they appear by the dozen. For the forty-forth year in a row, those squiggly rock candies worm their way into the bag of peanuts they hand you at Santa Day. People eat the peanuts, but the candy gathers at the bottom of the glass bowl with the peanut dust.

What is it with Christmas cookies? Why do they exist? Nothing beats a regular, generic chocolate chip cookie. Christmas would be fine with them alone. Yet, for some reason nobody can stick to plain old cookies in December.

In December, cookie makers bring out the food coloring for green and red frosting. Next come those little silver BB like things that pop out your fillings when you bite down on them. Red Hots. Colored sugar sprinkled on top. Layer upon layer of sugar of every form.

The worst cookies of them all are those rock-hard white things dipped in powdered sugar. While doing my research for this article, I finally discovered their name: Russian tea cakes. Or, if they are larger, Mexican wedding cakes. Who let that recipe across the border, anyway?

They should outlaw dipping things in almond bark. It has gotten way out of hand. Pretzels, potato chips, cheese curls—what next, almond-bark dipped sardines?

Thrown on top of the homemade goodies are the store-bought, packaged Christmas candies. Chocolate-covered cherries are my least favorite. Has anybody ever finished an entire box of them? I doubt it. You squish the first one, red syrup drools out, and the whole box gets sticky. Pretty soon you just throw them away to save further trouble.

A few Christmas sweets could be good if we were allowed to enjoy them one at time, apart from dozens of other kinds of sweets. For example, those peanut butter cookies dipped in sugar with a chocolate star pressed down in the middle are okay.

But you really have to dig to find the good stuff in those big boxes of Christmas goodies. And once one person discovers the little baggie which contains the good cookies, they're gone. If you don't move fast, you're stuck holding a baggie of Russian tea cakes.

They have recycle bins for everything else, why don't they put out some for Christmas goodies? They could let us think they will grind it all into bird food, or melt the stuff down to make next year's Christmas candy. In either case, recycle bins would take the edge off the guilt I feel for throwing away things which clearly were a lot of work to make.

Just listing all these gooey things makes me nauseated! And I haven't even mentioned fruitcakes, flatbread, rosettes, or krumkakke. I'll save them for next year. They'll be just as good then.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Andrea Hagen, Lincoln High School

On the other hand
by Andrea Hagen

Yesterday, after along day of school, cheerleading, and work, I retreated home to relax. I changed into some pajamas and washed my face. I was going to the kitchen for a drink of water when an amazing sight stopped me. It was my Christmas tree, looking especially beautiful that evening. I poured my glass and headed back to the living room. Taking a moment to breathe in the holiday spirit was exactly what I needed to clear my head.

My family's tree is the type that is filled with assorted ornaments ranging from a wooden Pinocchio from Germany to a Marilyn Monroe figurine in a classic pose. I used to hate how my Christmas tree didn't seem coordinated. I preferred the white lights accompanied by red shiny balls and golden ribbon on my friends' trees. I don't know what happened to change my mind, but now every ornament has a memory attached to it. That means more to me than a shiny red ball ever could.

Staring at my tree also made me think of the unavoidable future. I wondered what my Christmas tree would look like when I have my own home. Will there be Girl Scout snowflakes or Twins baseball memorabilia? When the time comes for me to leave this home, I will have to start accumulating ornaments of my own. I know my mother will be able to part with a few of them, but not nearly enough to fill a tree.

Although I am still a teenager and my official duty is to be in constant controversy with my family, there is something about this time of year that makes even me realize the important things in life. I don't mean for this to get sappy because I know it is probably something in my mom's fuoge that is making me feel this way. But it is undeniable; I am in the Christmas spirit. Until this year, Christmas has never really gotten to me. The words to "Oh Holy Night" have certain significance to me now, and I can't remember the last time I wanted just to go home on a Saturday night. Snuggling in my favorite pair of sweats with a cup of hot chocolate and a glowing Christmas tree has never sounded more appealing.

Embracing the Christmas spirit has been a little unsettling for me, but at the same time, pleasing. With my being a senior, I suppose it is just in time that I begin to appreciate my family's eclectic tree. As the year go by, it becomes increasingly difficult for my family to be together for the holidays. We all have our own lives to live and commitments we need to take care of. Hopefully, I will start to cherish these times with my friends and family, instead of taking them for granted.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
Thank You Notes

Christmas is over and now is the time to teach your child about the polite practice of thank you notes.

Thank you notes do not have to be long or painful. A good idea is to take a Polaroid picture of your child with the gift he or she received and send it to the person who gave the gift with a short "thanks." Another way to say thank you is to encourage your child to draw a picture and send it with a short note of appreciation.

Thank you notes are just one way to extend the holiday season. Let your child enjoy this, too.

When A Child Says "No!"

One of the most frustrating things for a parent is when their young child learns to say "No," and then he uses it loudly and almost constantly. We wonder what has happened to the "sweet, cooperative" child we used to have. Now the question is why this child is suddenly refusing to cooperate and what parents should do about it.

First, parents need to realize this is normal behavior and in fact indicates intellectual growth. Your child has now developed the ability to realize that he has a choice and can use a very powerful word. Previously when it was time to eat, he ate and when it was time to get dressed, you dressed him. Now your child is exercising his power to make a choice.

Secondly, he is experimenting with this powerful word. After saying it, your child will watch to see your reaction. This will tell him just how powerful it is. Try to avoid a power struggle. It may be necessary to ignore resistance and proceed gently, but firmly along the path you have chosen.

Finally, avoid asking questions that require a yes/no answer, especially if you are not willing to allow a "no" answer. Instead of saying "Do you want some carrots?", say "Here are some carrots." If you think your child may still be resistant to the carrots, give him a choice (and some power) by asking, "Would you like two or four?"

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Give your child choices of two things that you are willing to allow. Instead of saying "Do you want to go to bed?", say "It's time to go to bed. Do you want to walk or hop like a bunny?"

LHS media specialist receives award

Alice Hofstad, media specialist at Lincoln High School, was one of two winners of the 2001 Library Media Technology Leader awards presented at the fall 2001 MEMO conference in Rochester. This year's annual award was also presented to Pat Carson, media specialist at Humbolt High School in St. Paul.

Alice Hofstad, media specialist at Lincoln High School, was presented with the 2001 Media Technology Leader Award at the fall MEMO conference in Rochester.

Only commercial members of the MEMO Commercial Special Interest Division may submit an application form for an award candidate after rating the individual in the areas of leadership, collection, facility and management. They must also offer explanation as to why they nominated the individual. The awards committee of the division then contacts each candidate's administrator, asking him or her to rate the individual. Comments by the administrator are noted and are the overriding factor in selection. He or she is also asked to say nothing to the candidate. Once the committee reaches its decision, the administrator is contacted, encouraged to continue to keep the award secret and be in attendance when it is presented to the unknowing recipient.

Hofstad comments that it was a wonderful surprise to hear her name called as the award winner and receive a plaque and $500 cash award and paid MEMO dues for the coming year.

This was the ninth time the annual awards have been presented. Past recipients include Jane Cabaya, 2000; Paula Hansen, 1999; Diane Blenkush and Stacy Jo Volna, 1998; Dennis Harker and Chuck Mann, 1997; Steve Adams and Michael P. Buck, 1996; June Gross and Kathy Smola, 1995; Mary Alice Anderson and Nancy Mambi, 1994; and Audrey Bruggers, Rich Ledin and Jeanne Pahl, 1993.

Correction

Gladys Hallstrom, not Gladys Holmstrom, is the owner of Joey, whose photograph appeared in last week's edition of The Times.

Hallstrom's dog was named "most lovable" in the Thief River Falls Women of Today's annual pet photograph contest.

The Times regrets the error and apologizes to Joey's proud owner.

Applications for energy assistance being accepted

Applications for the 2002 Energy Assistance Program are now being accepted by Northwest Community Action.

Those who believe they may be eligible and have not applied since October 1, 2001 should either write to Northwest Community Action, Inc., P.O. Box 67, Badger, MN 56714 or call (218) 528-3258 or 1-800-568-5329 to receive an application by mail. However, subsidized housing residents who have both heat and electric costs included in their rent do not qualify for energy assistance.

Take time to notice changes in traffic signals/signs in TRF

Have we become so used to our routine that we fail to observe change?

Recently, the Thief River Falls City Council approved a proposal to install traffic stop signs on the frontage road in front of Kmart. In the past year, the city has improved or installed new traffic signals and signs at various locations, so this is not the first change to signs and signals that residents and visitors are getting used to. Hopefully, we have not become so used to our routines that we fail to recognize a change that improves the safety of all citizens.

I still hear comments about the Highway 59 and First Street intersection. It seems many drivers are having difficulty getting used to the idea of yielding on green when making a turn. I like the change made to the signals at Main Avenue and Third Street; however, I am told that the same problem exists at that intersection as well. I guess there are some motorists who prefer to exist in their own little world even while the world about them changes.

So, in case you haven't noticed, the two stop signs on the frontage road in front of Kmart replace yield signs. Police Chief Jim Haugen said that there have been a number of accidents and close calls at that intersection over the years. The need for the stop signs was apparently so evident that no member of the safety committee or the city council disagreed. In fact, anyone who has lived in Thief River Falls for any period of time can probably testify to some close calls and problems at that intersection, and probably a few others in the community.

Ron Lindberg, public works director, was also in agreement with the proposal. Lindberg said it's less confusing now.

But what about a stop sign on the Highway itself?

The issue has been discussed before. Chief Haugen said that not too long ago the police department proposed a signal on Highway 59 at Dale Street. He said they were short one warrant during an 18-month period. Warrants are incidents or events and circumstances that would justify the installation of a traffic signal. Haugen said they have had some pretty serious accidents at that intersection.

Since Highway 59 is a state highway, the state would be responsible for installing signals on Highway 59. Lindberg said the issue has been discussed before, but recently the state has been receiving pressure to reduce the number of signals, particularly signals in smaller communities. In any event, Lindberg thought the state probably would not install a signal on Highway 59 until the road becomes urbanized (removal of the ditches and installation of sanitary sewer lines, et cetera). He guessed that might happen sometime in the next 10 years.

Certainly, safety should be our first priority, but it isn't and shouldn't be our only consideration when determining where to place a signal light. Signal lights are expensive. In the 1990s, for example, it cost over $200,000 to replace two traffic signals on First Street. I don't imagine that traffic signals have gotten any less expensive since then. If you're thinking that since Highway 59 is a state highway the state should pay for it, you're right, and they will — for state aid roads and highways. If, however, a signal light was placed at Dale Street, which isn't a state aid road, the city could end up paying for half of the cost. Because Greenwood Street east of Highway 59 is state aid road, the city would end up paying for 25 percent of the cost, if the signal was put at Highway 59.

While the placement of stop signs on the frontage road in front of Kmart did not generate any debate, a proposal to install traffic signals on Highway 59 probably will generate debate.

During the same council meeting the stop signs were added on the frontage road near Kmart, the council also approved installation of a stop sign at Knight and Second Street, which now makes that intersection a four-way stop. I never did get used to just the one stop. For some reason I almost always stopped at that intersection. With the heavy pedestrian traffic, which includes many youngsters exiting cars and running to hockey practice in the old arena, that intersection was always a cause for concern.

While within this editorial there is room to debate several issues, the primary purpose of this editorial is to alert motorists that it's time to take a look at our familiar surroundings and notice the changes, specifically changes in traffic signs and signals. The stop signs on the Highway 59 frontage road in front of Kmart are just two of the most recent changes that have taken place in the community. It's time we get used to a few other changes and even prepare ourselves for a few more that might take place in the near future.

The Holidays: a time for giving

by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

I hope that you and your family are feeling the holiday spirit. By that, I mean a spirit of hope, comfort and reverence even, or perhaps especially in these challenging times, for our state and nation.

This time of year, many people's thoughts turn to giving. We can be proud that we live in a state full of caring and generous people. And, in fact, just last month Minnesota was ranked first in the nation, for the second year in a row, in a United Way quality-of-life index. The "State of Caring Index," compiled by the United Way of America, aims to measure the overall well-being of the nation and each state, and Americans' capacity to care for each other, which has been so strongly evident in these past several weeks.

We can be justifiably proud of our state's tradition of volunteerism and charitable giving by both individuals and corporations, but it's not an occasion to sit back and declare our work is done. Minnesotans have just learned that our state's projected budget shortfall is almost $2 billion for the 2002-03 biennium. What's more, economists say that the current recession likely will be more severe in Minnesota than in the rest of the nation. Minnesota has been losing jobs at a much higher rate than the rest of the country.

As a result, this year there are more people in our communities who are having a hard time making ends meet. The holiday season can be especially difficult for individuals and families who are struggling. There are many ways you can help. One way to find out how is to call the Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services at 651-296-4731.

You will almost certainly find that helping others gives you a boost as well. As Mark Twain said, "The best way to cheer yourself is to cheer someone else up."

If you could use a few ideas, let me pass along some suggestions that a friend shared with me recently. Here are "Eight Gifts that Don't Cost a Cent."

- The gift of listening. But you must really listen. No interrupting, no daydreaming, no planning your response. Just listening
- The gift of affection. Be generous with appropriate hugs, kisses, pats on the back and handholds. Let these small actions demonstrate the love you have for family and friends.
- The gift of laughter. Clip cartoons. Share articles and funny stories. Your gift will say, "I love to laugh with you."
- The gift of a written note. It can be a simple "thanks for the help" note or a full sonnet. A brief, handwritten note may be remembered for a lifetime, and may even change a life.
- The gift of a compliment. A simple and sincere, "You look great in red," "You did a super job," or "That was a wonderful meal" can make someone's day.
- The gift of a favor. Every day, go out of your way to do something kind.
- The gift of solitude. There are times when we want nothing better than to be left alone. Be sensitive to those times and give the gift of solitude to others.
- The gift of a cheerful disposition. The easiest way to feel good is to extend a kind word to someone. Really, it's not that hard to say "Hello" or "Thank you."

As always, I invite you to contact me anytime with your ideas and concerns. You can call me at 651-296-8660, send me e-mail at sen.leroy.stumpf@senate.leg.state.mn.us, or write to me at G-24 State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155-1606.

If your travels bring you to the Twin Cities in the coming months, I also encourage you to come and visit the State Capitol.

On behalf of my family, I wish you and your loved ones a safe and happy holiday season and New Year.

Minnesota faces budget crisis

Six months ago, Minnesota saw a huge political battle over what to do with a $2 billion budget surplus that culminated in a three-week special session and a threat to shut down the government. Now that all seems like ancient history. That $2 billion surplus turned out to be a $2 billion shortfall. Six months ago, many of us thought we were in a recession, but weren't believed. Now everyone knows it.

While much about our state, nation and society will be forever changed by the events of the past few months, many things will not change. We still need to educate children, pave and plow streets and highways, ensure quality health care and affordable prescription drugs for seniors and help all Minnesotans cope with the changing economy. State and local government will continue to provide these services, and we'll continue to have to find ways to pay for them.

It will fall to the State of Minnesota to cope with much of the economic fallout of the recession and the war on terrorism. Some 4,500 Northwest Airlines employees were laid off after the terrorist attacks, and the future of Sun Country Airlines and its 900 workers are in doubt. But that's the tip of the iceberg. Thousands more people have lost and will lose jobs in businesses large and small. And remember that 12,400 Minnesota manufacturing jobs were lost in the 12 months leading up Sept. 11.

As a result of the economic impact, state Finance Department officials are predicting that Minnesota will come up $2 billion short on revenue collections in the next 18 months. What's more, the experts forecast a shortfall of about $2.5 billion in 2004 and 2005. The state has reserves – $653 million in the Rainy Day Fund, $150 million in a Tax Relief Account, $350 million in a Cash Flow Reserve – but that won't even come close to covering shortfalls of this size.

In the coming months, lawmakers and Gov. Jesse Ventura will face a different set of hard choices and a cold new reality. For nearly a decade, Minnesota has been able to cut taxes while maintaining public services. Some $8 billion in cuts and rebates have been passed since 1997. And the issues that DFL'ers and Republicans argued over centered on priorities for use of the surplus dollars.

Now that all has to change. We need to be more realistic - and get a new dynamic leadership from Gov. Ventura.

Nearly three-fourths of state revenue comes from just three taxes – personal income, corporate income and sales – and all of them are very sensitive to the economy. They produce huge surpluses in good times, but plummet when a recession strikes. Of the current $2 billion deficit, all but $85 million is directly attributable to declining collections of these three taxes.

It seems clear the state will not have the resources for tax cuts or rebates for years to come. Today, where to make spending cuts will be a vexing challenge.

Education is our largest spending category, but even in good times we were not keeping pace with the needs of schools and colleges. Some schools are already slashing to the bone, even closing buildings and going to a four-day week. College tuition went up by 10% to 20% a year even in the good times. In any case, we should not sacrifice a long-term need like education to a short-term goal.

Health care and human service costs, the second biggest slice of the budget pie, are bound to increase alongside rising unemployment. Highway potholes don't care if we have the money to fill them. The parks have to be maintained, criminals apprehended, fires put out. And we will no doubt face increased costs for public security as the war on terrorism continues.

In this situation, the Governor should make his budget-balancing recommendations immediately. The Finance Department is scheduled to update the revenue forecast around March 1, but that's too long to wait when we know we have a big problem on our hands. The sooner Gov. Ventura makes his budget proposals, the sooner the Legislature can begin working on them – and the sooner we can take steps to solve the problem.

It is my hope – and my goal as a legislative leader – to work with the Governor on a reasonable and balanced solution to the shortfall. Right now, he has the opportunity to lead. If he lets the chance pass him by, we'll all be paying for it for years to come.

Rep. Tom Pugh of South St. Paul is the Democratic Leader in the Minnesota House of Representatives. He represents District 39A in northern Dakota County.

New policy goal should allow more farmers, not fewer

by Richard A. Levins
U of M Extension Service

I spent a week this fall visiting farms in Holland and the European Union headquarters in Brussels. As I had expected, we talked about high-profile issues such as food safety, mad cows and genetically modified organisms. But the discussions I found most interesting were about policies that would save small farms and preserve the character of rural areas.

The current member countries of the European Union have almost eight million farms, four times as many as we have in the United States. As other countries join the EU, millions more farms will come under Common Agricultural Policy. Should that policy demand that these farms "get big or get out," the path we have taken here, or should they try something else?

I think the answer depends on what you expect from a farmer. In the United States, our policies most often take a fairly narrow view of what a farmer does: plant and harvest crops, feed and care for livestock. Waves of new technology constantly make it possible for fewer people to do these vitally important tasks. Hence, we hear solutions to the farm income problem that would reduce the number of farmers. In short, we have too many farmers.

The Europeans I met took a different, broader view of the farmer's job description. In addition to producing food, the European farmer is expected to play a significant role in supporting rural economies and in protecting the environment. This is additional work, and it requires more farmers, not fewer.

Don't American farmers have the same goals for their communities and their environment? Of course they do. Two decades of working with farmers have, if nothing else, taught me that the farmer's heart is in the right place. But it is unrealistic for public policy to on one hand ask farmers to do more, and on the other hand, to talk of needing fewer farmers.

The European idea may not seem new for U.S. farmers, but we apply it all the time to other professions. Teachers, for example, must pass textbook knowledge along to students. But they also must encourage students and lend excitement to learning. They must be the first to diagnose all types of student problems. They must participate in the overall process of making sure that their school provides the best possible learning environment.

This is why, in spite of new teaching technologies, we continue to prefer smaller class sizes and more teachers. The same reasoning applies to nurses, police officers and many other professions. We want more of them, not fewer.

But somehow, the language of teachers, of nurses, and of police officers does not apply to farmers in this county. Surely, the best of farmers cannot do as much for the environment when they are responsible for 2,000 acres instead of 200, or 500 dairy cows instead of 50. And no one thinks that rural communities will be better off if we pursue a policy that basically "lays off" good farmers and asks them to move elsewhere.

It's time we stopped inventing policies to reward the largest farmers and do without the rest. Instead, we should be talking of farmers the way we do teachers, nurses, and other providers of services we all value. We would be better off with more farmers, not fewer.

Salvation Army Gives Out Baskets Of Food And Toys

"In accordance with its annual custom, the Salvation Army, working in cooperation with other local organizations, last weekend distributed Christmas baskets of food to needy families of the Thief River Falls community. At the same time, they brought for the children a supply of toys which had been renovated by members of the local fire department during the past few weeks."

Highway Department To Buy Garage Site At Edge Of City

"The state highway department Saturday notified H. B. Rafteseth of its decision to purchase from him a portion of his property on the Great Northern right-of-way at Zeh street. The tract will be used for the eventual construction of a new highway department garage, providing office and storage space, as well as a control room for the radio tower to be constructed next fall for the use of the highway patrol and other state agencies.

"The contract for construction of the tower was awarded several months ago, but its erection has been deferred owing to current restrictions on supplies of steel. A temporary control room will be arranged for until the new building is completed. The local board of education has indicated interest in the purchase of the site of the present highway garage at 215 Atlantic avenue North as a location for a proposed new grade school."

Fine Christmas Weather Prevails In Area Tuesday

"After dropping to 29 below zero Sunday morning and 13 below Monday, the temperature fortunately moderated Tuesday, Christmas Day, reaching a high mark of 15 above zero during the afternoon. The pleasant weather and open highways made possible a large amount of visiting throughout the countryside, in addition to which large numbers of students returned to their home here to enjoy their holiday vacations, while other residents left to spend Christmas with relatives and friends elsewhere."

Beautiful Yule Lighting Effects At Many Homes

"Many local residents during the past week have made tours of the city to admire the beautiful lighting decorations installed by a large number of homeowners. Never have the effects been more attractive. Especially outstanding is the illumination in the 'Kings Row' neighborhood on East Taft street and on Maple and adjoining avenues. With the downtown street also ablaze with colored lights, the city this year indeed presents a holiday aspect."

GENEROUS ACT
Seven Poor Families Receive Substantial Gifts.

"A gentleman who is always thinking of the welfare of others went around among his friends Tuesday and raised enough money to purchase a large amount of groceries for seven poor families in this city. Each of the seven families received the following list of goods: two 100 pound sacks of flour, 50 pounds of cream of wheat, $1 worth of sugar, $1 worth of coffee, 50 cents worth of tea and three chickens.

"It is needless to say that seven families spent a very happy Christmas as a result."

GOOD BUSINESS
Stores Have A Good Trade This Christmas.

"All the business houses of Thief River Falls enjoyed an excellent Christmas trade during the past week, in fact more business was done here this year than ever before. Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday were exceptionally good days, there being a large number of country people in town and they all had money to spend."

CHRISTMAS
As It Was Observed In Thief River Falls.

"Christmas Day was observed in a very quiet way in Thief River Falls. Few people were upon the streets, preferring to remain at home with their families. The day was a warm one, more like a spring day than one of midwinter.

"Religious services were held in all the churches and a large number attended. The churches all had their Christmas trees on Christmas eve, at which time attractive programs were rendered."

Take time to notice changes in traffic signals/signs in TRF

Have we become so used to our routine that we fail to observe change?

Recently, the Thief River Falls City Council approved a proposal to install traffic stop signs on the frontage road in front of Kmart. In the past year, the city has improved or installed new traffic signals and signs at various locations, so this is not the first change to signs and signals that residents and visitors are getting used to. Hopefully, we have not become so used to our routines that we fail to recognize a change that improves the safety of all citizens.

I still hear comments about the Highway 59 and First Street intersection. It seems many drivers are having difficulty getting used to the idea of yielding on green when making a turn. I like the change made to the signals at Main Avenue and Third Street; however, I am told that the same problem exists at that intersection as well. I guess there are some motorists who prefer to exist in their own little world even while the world about them changes.

So, in case you haven't noticed, the two stop signs on the frontage road in front of Kmart replace yield signs. Police Chief Jim Haugen said that there have been a number of accidents and close calls at that intersection over the years. The need for the stop signs was apparently so evident that no member of the safety committee or the city council disagreed. In fact, anyone who has lived in Thief River Falls for any period of time can probably testify to some close calls and problems at that intersection, and probably a few others in the community.

Ron Lindberg, public works director, was also in agreement with the proposal. Lindberg said it's less confusing now.

But what about a stop sign on the Highway itself?

The issue has been discussed before. Chief Haugen said that not too long ago the police department proposed a signal on Highway 59 at Dale Street. He said they were short one warrant during an 18-month period. Warrants are incidents or events and circumstances that would justify the installation of a traffic signal. Haugen said they have had some pretty serious accidents at that intersection.

Since Highway 59 is a state highway, the state would be responsible for installing signals on Highway 59. Lindberg said the issue has been discussed before, but recently the state has been receiving pressure to reduce the number of signals, particularly signals in smaller communities. In any event, Lindberg thought the state probably would not install a signal on Highway 59 until the road becomes urbanized (removal of the ditches and installation of sanitary sewer lines, et cetera). He guessed that might happen sometime in the next 10 years.

Certainly, safety should be our first priority, but it isn't and shouldn't be our only consideration when determining where to place a signal light. Signal lights are expensive. In the 1990s, for example, it cost over $200,000 to replace two traffic signals on First Street. I don't imagine that traffic signals have gotten any less expensive since then. If you're thinking that since Highway 59 is a state highway the state should pay for it, you're right, and they will — for state aid roads and highways. If, however, a signal light was placed at Dale Street, which isn't a state aid road, the city could end up paying for half of the cost. Because Greenwood Street east of Highway 59 is state aid road, the city would end up paying for 25 percent of the cost, if the signal was put at Highway 59.

While the placement of stop signs on the frontage road in front of Kmart did not generate any debate, a proposal to install traffic signals on Highway 59 probably will generate debate.

During the same council meeting the stop signs were added on the frontage road near Kmart, the council also approved installation of a stop sign at Knight and Second Street, which now makes that intersection a four-way stop. I never did get used to just the one stop. For some reason I almost always stopped at that intersection. With the heavy pedestrian traffic, which includes many youngsters exiting cars and running to hockey practice in the old arena, that intersection was always a cause for concern.

While within this editorial there is room to debate several issues, the primary purpose of this editorial is to alert motorists that it's time to take a look at our familiar surroundings and notice the changes, specifically changes in traffic signs and signals. The stop signs on the Highway 59 frontage road in front of Kmart are just two of the most recent changes that have taken place in the community. It's time we get used to a few other changes and even prepare ourselves for a few more that might take place in the near future.

The Holidays: a time for giving

by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

I hope that you and your family are feeling the holiday spirit. By that, I mean a spirit of hope, comfort and reverence even, or perhaps especially in these challenging times, for our state and nation.

This time of year, many people's thoughts turn to giving. We can be proud that we live in a state full of caring and generous people. And, in fact, just last month Minnesota was ranked first in the nation, for the second year in a row, in a United Way quality-of-life index. The "State of Caring Index," compiled by the United Way of America, aims to measure the overall well-being of the nation and each state, and Americans' capacity to care for each other, which has been so strongly evident in these past several weeks.

We can be justifiably proud of our state's tradition of volunteerism and charitable giving by both individuals and corporations, but it's not an occasion to sit back and declare our work is done. Minnesotans have just learned that our state's projected budget shortfall is almost $2 billion for the 2002-03 biennium. What's more, economists say that the current recession likely will be more severe in Minnesota than in the rest of the nation. Minnesota has been losing jobs at a much higher rate than the rest of the country.

As a result, this year there are more people in our communities who are having a hard time making ends meet. The holiday season can be especially difficult for individuals and families who are struggling. There are many ways you can help. One way to find out how is to call the Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services at 651-296-4731.

You will almost certainly find that helping others gives you a boost as well. As Mark Twain said, "The best way to cheer yourself is to cheer someone else up."

If you could use a few ideas, let me pass along some suggestions that a friend shared with me recently. Here are "Eight Gifts that Don't Cost a Cent."

- The gift of listening. But you must really listen. No interrupting, no daydreaming, no planning your response. Just listening.
- The gift of affection. Be generous with appropriate hugs, kisses, pats on the back and handholds. Let these small actions demonstrate the love you have for family and friends.
- The gift of laughter. Clip cartoons. Share articles and funny stories. Your gift will say, "I love to laugh with you."
- The gift of a written note. It can be a simple "thanks for the help" note or a full sonnet. A brief, handwritten note may be remembered for a lifetime, and may even change a life.
- The gift of a compliment. A simple and sincere, "You look great in red," "You did a super job," or "That was a wonderful meal" can make someone's day.
- The gift of a favor. Every day, go out of your way to do something kind.
- The gift of solitude. There are times when we want nothing better than to be left alone. Be sensitive to those times and give the gift of solitude to others.
- The gift of a cheerful disposition. The easiest way to feel good is to extend a kind word to someone. Really, it's not that hard to say "Hello" or "Thank you."

As always, I invite you to contact me anytime with your ideas and concerns. You can call me at 651-296-8660, send me e-mail at sen.leroy.stumpf@senate.leg.state.mn.us, or write to me at G-24 State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155-1606.

If your travels bring you to the Twin Cities in the coming months, I also encourage you to come and visit the State Capitol.

On behalf of my family, I wish you and your loved ones a safe and happy holiday season and New Year.

Minnesota faces budget crisis

Six months ago, Minnesota saw a huge political battle over what to do with a $2 billion budget surplus that culminated in a three-week special session and a threat to shut down the government. Now that all seems like ancient history. That $2 billion surplus turned out to be a $2 billion shortfall. Six months ago, many of us thought we were in a recession, but weren't believed. Now everyone knows it.

While much about our state, nation and society will be forever changed by the events of the past few months, many things will not change. We still need to educate children, pave and plow streets and highways, ensure quality health care and affordable prescription drugs for seniors and help all Minnesotans cope with the changing economy. State and local government will continue to provide these services, and we'll continue to have to find ways to pay for them.

It will fall to the State of Minnesota to cope with much of the economic fallout of the recession and the war on terrorism. Some 4,500 Northwest Airlines employees were laid off after the terrorist attacks, and the future of Sun Country Airlines and its 900 workers are in doubt. But that's the tip of the iceberg. Thousands more people have lost and will lose jobs in businesses large and small. And remember that 12,400 Minnesota manufacturing jobs were lost in the 12 months leading up Sept. 11.

As a result of the economic impact, state Finance Department officials — are predicting that Minnesota will come up $2 billion short on revenue collections in the next 18 months. What's more, the experts forecast a shortfall of about $2.5 billion in 2004 and 2005. The state has reserves – $653 million in the Rainy Day Fund, $150 million in a Tax Relief Account, $350 million in a Cash Flow Reserve – but that won't even come close to covering shortfalls of this size.

In the coming months, lawmakers and Gov. Jesse Ventura will face a different set of hard choices and a cold new reality. For nearly a decade, Minnesota has been able to cut taxes while maintaining public services. Some $8 billion in cuts and rebates have been passed since 1997. And the issues that DFL'ers and Republicans argued over centered on priorities for use of the surplus dollars.

Now that all has to change. We need to be more realistic - and get a new dynamic leadership from Gov. Ventura.

Nearly three-fourths of state revenue comes from just three taxes – personal income, corporate income and sales – and all of them are very sensitive to the economy. They produce huge surpluses in good times, but plummet when a recession strikes. Of the current $2 billion deficit, all but $85 million is directly attributable to declining collections of these three taxes.

It seems clear the state will not have the resources for tax cuts or rebates for years to come. Today, where to make spending cuts will be a vexing challenge.

Education is our largest spending category, but even in good times we were not keeping pace with the needs of schools and colleges. Some schools are already slashing to the bone, even closing buildings and going to a four-day week. College tuition went up by 10% to 20% a year even in the good times. In any case, we should not sacrifice a long-term need like education to a short-term goal.

Health care and human service costs, the second biggest slice of the budget pie, are bound to increase alongside rising unemployment. Highway potholes don't care if we have the money to fill them. The parks have to be maintained, criminals apprehended, fires put out. And we will no doubt face increased costs for public security as the war on terrorism continues.

In this situation, the Governor should make his budget-balancing recommendations immediately. The Finance Department is scheduled to update the revenue forecast around March 1, but that's too long to wait when we know we have a big problem on our hands. The sooner Gov. Ventura makes his budget proposals, the sooner the Legislature can begin working on them – and the sooner we can take steps to solve the problem.

It is my hope – and my goal as a legislative leader – to work with the Governor on a reasonable and balanced solution to the shortfall. Right now, he has the opportunity to lead. If he lets the chance pass him by, we'll all be paying for it for years to come.

Rep. Tom Pugh of South St. Paul is the Democratic Leader in the Minnesota House of Representatives. He represents District 39A in northern Dakota County.

New policy goal should allow more farmers, not fewer

by Richard A. Levins
U of M Extension Service

I spent a week this fall visiting farms in Holland and the European Union headquarters in Brussels. As I had expected, we talked about high-profile issues such as food safety, mad cows and genetically modified organisms. But the discussions I found most interesting were about policies that would save small farms and preserve the character of rural areas.

The current member countries of the European Union have almost eight million farms, four times as many as we have in the United States. As other countries join the EU, millions more farms will come under Common Agricultural Policy. Should that policy demand that these farms "get big or get out," the path we have taken here, or should they try something else?

I think the answer depends on what you expect from a farmer. In the United States, our policies most often take a fairly narrow view of what a farmer does: plant and harvest crops, feed and care for livestock. Waves of new technology constantly make it possible for fewer people to do these vitally important tasks. Hence, we hear solutions to the farm income problem that would reduce the number of farmers. In short, we have too many farmers.

The Europeans I met took a different, broader view of the farmer's job description. In addition to producing food, the European farmer is expected to play a significant role in supporting rural economies and in protecting the environment. This is additional work, and it requires more farmers, not fewer.

Don't American farmers have the same goals for their communities and their environment? Of course they do. Two decades of working with farmers have, if nothing else, taught me that the farmer's heart is in the right place. But it is unrealistic for public policy to on one hand ask farmers to do more, and on the other hand, to talk of needing fewer farmers.

The European idea may not seem new for U.S. farmers, but we apply it all the time to other professions. Teachers, for example, must pass textbook knowledge along to students. But they also must encourage students and lend excitement to learning. They must be the first to diagnose all types of student problems. They must participate in the overall process of making sure that their school provides the best possible learning environment.

This is why, in spite of new teaching technologies, we continue to prefer smaller class sizes and more teachers. The same reasoning applies to nurses, police officers and many other professions. We want more of them, not fewer.

But somehow, the language of teachers, of nurses, and of police officers does not apply to farmers in this county. Surely, the best of farmers cannot do as much for the environment when they are responsible for 2,000 acres instead of 200, or 500 dairy cows instead of 50. And no one thinks that rural communities will be better off if we pursue a policy that basically "lays off" good farmers and asks them to move elsewhere.

It's time we stopped inventing policies to reward the largest farmers and do without the rest. Instead, we should be talking of farmers the way we do teachers, nurses, and other providers of services we all value. We would be better off with more farmers, not fewer.

Salvation Army Gives Out Baskets Of Food And Toys

"In accordance with its annual custom, the Salvation Army, working in cooperation with other local organizations, last weekend distributed Christmas baskets of food to needy families of the Thief River Falls community. At the same time, they brought for the children a supply of toys which had been renovated by members of the local fire department during the past few weeks."

Highway Department To Buy Garage Site At Edge Of City

"The state highway department Saturday notified H. B. Rafteseth of its decision to purchase from him a portion of his property on the Great Northern right-of-way at Zeh street. The tract will be used for the eventual construction of a new highway department garage, providing office and storage space, as well as a control room for the radio tower to be constructed next fall for the use of the highway patrol and other state agencies.

"The contract for construction of the tower was awarded several months ago, but its erection has been deferred owing to current restrictions on supplies of steel. A temporary control room will be arranged for until the new building is completed. The local board of education has indicated interest in the purchase of the site of the present highway garage at 215 Atlantic avenue North as a location for a proposed new grade school."

Fine Christmas Weather Prevails In Area Tuesday

"After dropping to 29 below zero Sunday morning and 13 below Monday, the temperature fortunately moderated Tuesday, Christmas Day, reaching a high mark of 15 above zero during the afternoon. The pleasant weather and open highways made possible a large amount of visiting throughout the countryside, in addition to which large numbers of students returned to their home here to enjoy their holiday vacations, while other residents left to spend Christmas with relatives and friends elsewhere."

Beautiful Yule Lighting Effects At Many Homes

"Many local residents during the past week have made tours of the city to admire the beautiful lighting decorations installed by a large number of homeowners. Never have the effects been more attractive. Especially outstanding is the illumination in the 'Kings Row' neighborhood on East Taft street and on Maple and adjoining avenues. With the downtown street also ablaze with colored lights, the city this year indeed presents a holiday aspect."

GENEROUS ACT
Seven Poor Families Receive Substantial Gifts.

"A gentleman who is always thinking of the welfare of others went around among his friends Tuesday and raised enough money to purchase a large amount of groceries for seven poor families in this city. Each of the seven families received the following list of goods: two 100 pound sacks of flour, 50 pounds of cream of wheat, $1 worth of sugar, $1 worth of coffee, 50 cents worth of tea and three chickens.

"It is needless to say that seven families spent a very happy Christmas as a result."

GOOD BUSINESS
Stores Have A Good Trade This Christmas.

"All the business houses of Thief River Falls enjoyed an excellent Christmas trade during the past week, in fact more business was done here this year than ever before. Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday were exceptionally good days, there being a large number of country people in town and they all had money to spend."

CHRISTMAS
As It Was Observed In Thief River Falls.

"Christmas Day was observed in a very quiet way in Thief River Falls. Few people were upon the streets, preferring to remain at home with their families. The day was a warm one, more like a spring day than one of midwinter.

"Religious services were held in all the churches and a large number attended. The churches all had their Christmas trees on Christmas eve, at which time attractive programs were rendered."

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Rick Erickson of the Elks Club in Thief River Falls recently presented Wendy Mattson, representative of Christmas for Pennington County, with a donation for $650. The money was raised from the Spaghetti benefit held in December for the Christmas for Pennington County program, which provides presents for youth who might not otherwise receive a present this year. The benefit was very successful this year, more than doubling last year's effort. The event was sponsored by the Elks, but major contributions were made by the Prowler Wrestling cheerleaders who served the meals, the Lincoln High School photography club, which took pictures of youth with Santa, Denny's, The Times, Deans Foods, Super One and Thrifty White.

Birders wanted for Christmas count on December 29

Birders for the annual Roseau Christmas Bird Count on Saturday, December 29, are needed. Participants can help by driving or walking within the count area, observing your own neighborhood and birdfeeders, and alerting other birders about birding "hot spots."

The Roseau CBC areas to be surveyed is about a 15-mile-diameter circle (approximately 177 square miles) whose center is on Highway 310, just north of the Roseau County Fairgrounds. Its geographic and vegetative diversity provides habitat for a great variety of bird species.

Organizing for the day will be done at Brandt's Restaurant, Roseau at 7 a.m. where the group meet again for lunch and a warmup. After sundown, the birders will gather at the Betty and Bud Johnson home, two miles north of the Fairgrounds for warming Gluhwein, potluck supper, and the official compilation of the bird species and numbers sighted throughout the day.

Feel free to join any or all parts of the day. Please report sightings within the count circle on December 29, by calling the Johnsons at 463-2181 after 5 p.m., or join the birders there for the Tully Rally.

Participants do not have to be experts to join in the fun. Everyone will learn from each other and have fun doing so. Birds are acknowledged indicators of the continent's environmental health. Much is learned from these annual reportings of bird populations and migratory patterns.

This is the 102nd anniversary of the western hemisphere's Audubon Christmas Bird Count, and the 12th anniversary of the Roseau CBC. Other area counts are scheduled between December 14 and January 5 at Baudette, Beltrami Forest, Crookston, Edinberg, Erskine, Fertile, Grand Forks/East Grand Forks, Icelandic State Park and Warren.

For more information, call Betty or Bud Johnson at 463-2181.

On-line reservations coming in January...

State Parks have new system

Next year will bring a few changes for customers who wish to make camping or lodging reservations at Minnesota state parks. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has selected a new vendor to provide phone and online reservation services for Minnesota state parks starting in January. The start date will be announced on the DNR Web site (www.dnr.state.mn.us) and to media.

"Customers can expect a streamlined process for making camping and lodging reservations at Minnesota state parks," said Steve Anderson, state park operations coordinator. "In addition, the new reservation service will provide customers with the option of making reservations on-line, something we were unable to offer before."

According to Anderson, Daksoft Inc., a subsidiary of the Black Hills Corporation in South Dakota, was selected from proposals submitted by a number of reservation services. "We received some fine proposals," Anderson said, "but we thought that Daksoft has the capabilities to deliver the services our customers told us were most important to them.

"The ability to make campsite and lodging reservations on the Internet was a high priority for our customers," Anderson said. "Through our new service provider, customers will be able to see online what camping and lodging facilities are available and then complete their reservation online."

Web address to make reservations is www.stayatmnparks.com.

"In addition," Anderson noted, "customers will be able to link from the reservation site to the state park pages on the DNR Web site if they need additional information about a park's facilities."

Beginning in January, reservations by phone will be made by calling a new toll-free telephone number, 1-866-85PARKS (866-857-2757), including Alaska, Hawaii and Canada. The new toll-free number for the Telecommunication Device for the Deaf is 1-866-290-2267. International callers can dial 1-605-718-3030 to make reservations.

Reservation operators will be on duty from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. Information about facility availability and reservations will be available online 24-hours-a-day. Camping reservations will still be accepted up to 90 days in advance of arrival. Lodging reservations can be made up to one year in advance. Cost per reservation will be $8.50.

The new contract runs for a three-year period, with options for renewal. Daksoft Inc. also provides reservation services to state park systems in New Mexico and South Dakota.

Until Dec. 31, 2001, customers should use the current reservation number – toll free 1-800-246-CAMP.

For information about state parks, contact the DNR Information Center toll free at 1-888-MINNDNR, or visit the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us.

New director named to Minnesota Forest Resources Council

Dr. David C. Zumeta has been appointed executive director of the Minnesota Forest Resources Council, a 17-member group that advises the governor, Legislature and public natural resource agencies on forest policy matters.

Gene Merriam, Forest Resources Council chair and a former state senator from Coon Rapids, praised the appointment. "Dave Zumeta's extensive experience in the fields of forestry, natural resource policy and wildlife ecology make him well suited to help the Forest Resources Council achieve its mission of sustainable forest management practices on all ownerships in Minnesota," Merriam said.

Zumeta has worked for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources for the past 20 years in various managerial, supervisory and senior staff positions, mainly for the Division of Forestry. He previously worked for the Indiana DNR, the U.S. Forest Service in California, and a private consulting firm in Pennsylvania. He earned a doctorate degree in Forest Policy from the University of Minnesota in 1995. Zumeta replaces Dr. Michael Kilgore, who recently assumed a faculty position with the Department of Forest Resources at the University of Minnesota.

Minnesota Forest Resources Council represents diverse interests, including American Indian bands, conservation, environmental and wildlife groups, the forest products and tourism industries, loggers, private forest landowners, higher education, and county, state and federal natural resource agencies. Members are appointed by the governor, with the exception of one member appointed by the Indian Affairs Council.

Since its creation following passage of the Minnesota Sustainable Forest Resources Act of 1995, the Forest Resources Council has developed voluntary statewide timber harvesting and forest management guidelines, and a process for enhancing planning and coordination across forested regions of Minnesota.

DNR offers variety of books for public sale

Looking for something special for a nature lover? Consider adding to the person's book collection. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources offers a variety of books on outdoors topics ranging from bird feeding to landscaping to nature appreciation. Books by Carrol Henderson, the DNR Nongame Wildlife Program supervisor, are top sellers among books of their kind in Minnesota.

Woodworking for Wildlife, designed for the Midwest woodworker and wildlife lover, includes diagrams for building bird houses, nest boxes and platforms to attract wildlife.

Another popular book, Wild about Birds: The DNR Bird Feeding Guide, will help increase the number and species at feeders, with tips on 44 types of food. The guide offers woodshop basics for construction of 26 different feeders.

Landscaping for Wildlife offers diagrams on how to attract wildlife using inexpensive, easy-to-follow landscaping plans.

Lakescaping for Wildlife & Water Quality is a collaborative effort by Henderson, Carolyn Dindorf and Fred Rozumalski. The book offers alternatives to the practice of planting lawn all the way to the lake, which Henderson says is "extremely detrimental both to wildlife and to lake water quality."

Travelers on gift-giving lists may appreciate Traveler's Guide to Wildlife in Minnesota, co-authored by Henderson and Andrea Lee Lambrecht. The book, written for novice and veteran wildlife watchers alike, features 120 special places to observe and photograph wildlife in Minnesota. It features easy-to-read maps, and information about facilities and recreational opportunities at each site.

Henderson's books can be purchased at bookstores and from online booksellers. The books can be ordered from Minnesota's Bookstore by calling toll free 1-800-657-3757.

Snowmobile safety instructors sought by Minnesota DNR

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is seeking qualified volunteer instructors to teach safe, responsible snowmobiling skills during a series of upcoming Snowmobile Instructor Clinics. Volunteer instructors should be either experienced snowmobilers or skilled teachers.

"Teaching snowmobilers to obey laws, respect private property, avoid mixing alcohol with snowmobiling and drive under control within speed limits all should make for safer snowmobiling," Captain Jeff Thielen, DNR Education Program Coordinator said. "The more experienced snowmobile safety instructors we have sharing that message, the safer the sport will be."

DNR Enforcement Division will train candidates or teams interested in leading a clinic; aid clinic instructors in identifying communities and facilities in which to host clinics; provide clinic promotion; and furnish all support materials such as videos, slides, overhead transparencies, and props.

"Our comprehensive curriculum makes it easy for experienced snowmobilers who are not skilled teachers to present the material in an easy-to-understand and enjoyable way," Thielen said.

More than 1,800 volunteer instructors teach DNR snowmobile safety courses across the state, many of them snowmobile club members. If you are 18 or older and would like to become a snowmobile safety instructor contact your local conservation officer or regional safety training officer to schedule an instructor training session in your area. Clinics sites and dates will be listed on the DNR website – www.dnr.state.mn.us – as they are scheduled.

Regional training officers in northern Minnesota include Jim Hatlevig, Fergus Falls, 218-758-2460; Vic Koosmann, Bemidji, 218-755-3923; and Shelly Patten, Grand Rapids, 218-327-4109.

Tim Delmore (left), chief financial officer at Arctic Cat, Inc. handed to Northern Lights Council District Executive Hans Helgenset the keys to a new snowmobile recently. Arctic Cat donated its latest model, the new four-stroke 660 to the Northern Lights Council for Camp Wilderness where it will be used to groom trails, transport building materials and serve as an emergency vehicle. The snowmobile will be a welcome addition to the camp, and NLC is especially appreciative of the four-stroke model as it is quieter, cleaner to operate and more environmentally friendly that the traditional two-stroke model. Families benefit from traditions and rituals year around

The holiday season is a time of family rituals and traditions. Families gather for meals, religious observances, gift sharing and other special events that are eagerly anticipated all year round, according to Madge Alberts, program director for the University of Minnesota Children, Youth and Family Consortium.

Rituals and traditions strengthen families and can give family members a sense of roots and history that lasts for generations. When one thinks about his or her favorite memories as a child, many recollections center around rituals of one sort or another. In his book, The Intentional Family, University of Minnesota professor Bill Doherty talks about rituals as "the glue that holds families together."

Rituals are so important to families that they should not be limited to the holidays. There are many opportunities throughout the year to develop traditions and rituals in families that are meaningful and create lasting memories.

Following are a few ideas for family rituals; some of them are probably things you already do, and you may not think of them as rituals:

- Bedtime: A bedtime ritual of sitting with your child every night, saying prayers, singing songs, reading a story or just talking about the day is very meaningful for both children and parents and reassures children of their parents' presence and love. Some families carry memories of specific songs that were sung at bedtime from generation to generation.
- Birthdays - A special ritual for birthday events carries unique significance for the family member being honored. A special meal, a certain way of decorating a cake, a particular type of party and specific people in attendance are all things that can create special recognition for the celebration of a birthday.
- Meals - A regular family mealtime can be an important ritual for families. Some families are able to make daily meals a special time. However, with busy schedules, that may be unrealistic for most families. In these cases, a special weekly meal – such as a weekend meal that is understood to be a regular event that everyone participates in — can be traditional. Any time of day works, and breakfast/brunch is an opportunity that is sometimes overlooked. Meal traditions must be repeated regularly so family members can count on them and be flexible enough that these occasions don't become oppressive to family members or feel guilty if there are times when they are not able to participate.

Family Vacations - A regular week at a campground or resort, an annual canoe trip, an annual Memorial Day fishing trip, a regular ski vacation, an annual family night at a local hotel with a swimming pool, a night walk on the evening of the first snowfall — all of these and more can be very meaningful experiences for families and can be tailored to what the family budget and situation allows.

In order to become a ritual, events need to be predictable and meaningful. Family members need to be able to count on the ritual occurring on a regular basis. However, a ritual is not simply a repeat event. It must also hold special significance for the family members although this meaning may be developed over time as the tradition evolves.

As the traditions of this holiday season come to an end, the University of Minnesota Children, Youth and Family Consortium encourages parents to look for opportunities throughout the year to create traditions and rituals that have meaning for their families.

Zach Anderson was bandaged up after suffering a cut above the eye against Josh Plaisted of Greenway/Nashwauk-Keewatin, but it didn't stop the Thief River Falls freshmen from controlling the 135-pound match during Friday's high school wrestling action at Northland Community and Technical College. Anderson won 10-2.

High school wrestling quadrangular at NCTC...

Prowlers collect three wins

A three-match sweep at the Thief River Falls Quadrangular Friday boosted the Prowlers' dual meet high school wrestling record to 7-2.

Despite missing two top-of-the-line wrestlers (Beau Abrahamson-health; Arie Berg-family reasons), the Prowlers won the event by rolling over Greenway/Nashwauk-Keewatin 66-6, beating a strong Hibbing team 31-27 and then knocking off a Pelican Rapids squad by former Thief River Falls head coach John Anderson 39-27.

Hibbing finished the day 2-1, Pelican Rapids 1-2 and Greenway/Nashwauk-Keewatin 0-3.

The matches took place on two mats at Northland Community and Technical College.

"I was extremely pleased with our wrestling this week," said Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "The guys worked really hard in practice all week, and it payed off."

The win over the Bluejackets was impressive, according to Yanke. "We knew that the match against Hibbing was going to be close, but our guys were not going to disappoint the crowd. The hard work in the wrestling room is what made the difference. We had some things go in our favor, such as their heavyweight having to default because of an injury, but the same thing happen to us at 160."

Yanke has tried several different line-ups this winter, with many of the personnel decisions being made at the last minute. "One of the things I am very proud of is the fact that our guys aren't complaining when I change our line-up around," he pointed out. "Gavin (Martell) and Ryan (Bruggeman) never know what weight they are going to wrestle until right before their match, but they both are always warmed up and ready to go. Jeremy Anderson's match at 135 is another example. Jeremy is a 130-pounder, but he bumped up to wrestle another state-ranked kid. That was the most tense match of the day. My hands were shaking so much after Jeremy got the win that it was about three minutes before I could write down the score. I loved it; the adrenaline was flowing."

Others were also affected by the line-up alterations. "Jon Swanson, Phil Hermanson and Adam Lian also did a good job adjusting to our last-minute changes," explained Yanke, "and as usual, they did it without any complaints. It is refreshing to see such great attitudes from these young men."

Yanke gave a tip of the hat to the people at Northland for hosting the meet and to the parents and wrestlers for their help in transporting the mats between schools.

Thief River Falls will be back in action Saturday, Jan. 5, at the Pine to Prairie Invitational hosted by Fertile-Beltrami.

"We may have started slow this year, but like a train, we will be very hard to stop once we get up to full speed," offered Yanke.

Nordics' offense tops Wildcats

Andy and Josh Larson put together an impressive brother act Friday, but the Marshall County Central twins shared the spotlight with teammate Matt Wagner as the Nordics' offense rolled to an 85-65 boys high school basketball win over Tri-County at Newfolden.

The winners' attack featured a 36-point, 13-rebound game by Andy Larson; a 13-point, 12-assist effort by Josh Larson; and a 21-point performance off the bench by Wagner.

"Josh and Andy both played as good a game as they ever have," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "That shouldn't be surprising since they complement each other so well. They make each other better."

And that's not to forget Wagner. "Matt had a great game," noted Ueland. "We knew he had the potential; we've been waiting for a game like that from him."

Consistency was a Marshall County Central trademark as the Nordics registered quarters of 20, 21, 22 and 22 points.

Tri-County played Marshall County Central to a 20-20 first quarter draw, but fell behind 41-32 at halftime and trailed 63-52 through three quarters.

Brett Spilde had a 20-point game for the Wildcats.

"This was a quality win for us," noted Ueland. "They have a very good team. We're really pleased with our performance. It was fun to sit back and watch."

Marshall County Central was 34-for-59 from the field (58 percent) and 13-for-20 at the free throw line. Tri-County went 26-for-58 from the floor (43 percent) and had a 10-for-22 free throw night. The Nordics had more rebounds (36-19) and turnovers (13-11) than the Wildcats while stretching their season-opening winning streak to six games.

Prowlers stop RLF on 11 shots in 2-0 hockey match-up

Two goals that came exactly one minute apart in the first period was all the scoring Friday in a 2-0 Thief River Falls Section 8A boys high school hockey win over Red Lake Falls at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

It wasn't, however, a close game. The Prowlers out-shot the Eagles 37-11. Outside of a couple shots in the third period – his only saves of the final stanza – Thief River Falls goalie Ben Worker had an easy night of it.

"We absolutely dominated," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We just didn't finish. We could have easily had three-four more goals. I'm sure we hit four (goal) posts."

But Bergland was quick to compliment the effort by the underdog Eagles and sophomore goalie Charlie Schmitz. "Give them a lot of credit," he said. "They came ready to play. They made us work hard for everything we got."

Both goals came on goal mouth tap-ins.

The first one came off a strong puck-carrying rush by Jeff Schneider that ended with a pass and goal by Dane Kjono at 11:31.

Sixty-seconds later a perfectly-executed goal mouth feed from Dan Almquist to Robby Anderson doubled the difference to 2-0 and wrapped up the scoring.

Northland is 107-85 winner in Thursday game at Alexandria

Six Northland Community and Technical College scorers hit double figures, with three of them picking up 20 or more points, as the Pioneers out-gunned Alexandria Technical College 107-85 Thursday in men's basketball.

The winners' attack featured Justin Skjerven with 21 points; Jerry Shorter and Reggie Gaddis 20 each; Robbie Hyland, Matt Ulmer and Henry Wander 10 apiece.

Northland, a 113-60 winner when the two teams met for the first time ever back on Nov. 26 in Thief River Falls, had a 50-38 halftime lead in the rematch.

Despite the win that upped the Pioneers' pre-holiday record to 7-2, Northland coach Rick Nikunen wasn't satisfied with the trip. "I wasn't happy with our performance," he said. "I think we underestimated them. We played with no emotion or inspiration. They've added a couple of players since the first time we played them; they're a much better team now."

Ryan Trosdahl led Alexandria with 23 points.

"Offensively we did okay, but defensively we shouldn't be giving up that many points," explained Nikunen.

Northland resumes play Jan. 9 at home against Providence. That will be the final nonconference tune-up before the Pioneers begin their Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division schedule with a Jan. 11-12 weekend trip to Mesabi Range and Vermilion.

Park Rapids Area turned a 47-47 fourth quarter tie into a 65-58 boys high school basketball win over host Thief River Falls Friday.

Four Park Rapids Area scorers hit double figures, led by Brady Zubke with 21 points. Jason Schmidt added 13 points to the winner's total and Luke Herbert contributed 10.

The Prowlers got a 17-point game from Tyler Bosh and 11-point performances from both Nick Ricks and Jason Koch.

Prowlers post second shutout in two games

■ TRF winner over Detroit Lakes

Dan Almquist scored three goals and Ben Worker recorded his second shutout in as many nights Saturday as Thief River Falls welcomed Detroit Lakes back into Section 8A with a 5-0 boys high school hockey win.

The Prowlers, who shut out Red Lake Falls Friday, stretched their winning streak to five games and improved to 7-3 for the year.

"I thought all-in-all, we played pretty well," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "It was a good way to go into the holiday."

Almquist opened the scoring at 10:23 of the first period, added a second goal 31 seconds into the third period and ended the scoring at 7:15 of the final stanza.

Aaron Bendickson added a first period goal and Jeff Schneider came up with the only second period goal against the Lakers, who were moved back to Section 8A from Section 4A this year by the Minnesota State High School League.

Defenseman Justin Barron picked up two assists.

Worker stopped 23 shots for the shutout. Detroit Lakes goalie Matt Misson faced 38 shots.

"We capitalized better than we did against Red Lake Falls," noted Bergland, "and Ben played very well. He was tested a lot more than he was the last game."

Thief River Falls improved to 7-1 Thursday with a 50-36 girls high school basketball win over Park Rapids Area.

Chelsea Haviland scored 16 points and Nikki Tvedt had 10 for the visiting Prowlers, who posted quarter leads of 11-7, 26-13 and 38-21.

"We had a good effort," reported Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Offensively I saw some improvements in execution. Our team defense improved throughout the game."

Park Rapids' Megan Luther led all scorers with 19 points, but none of her teammates could muster more than a half-dozen points.

The Prowlers were 20-for-50 from the field (40 percent) and 7-for-12 at the free throw line. The Panthers were limited to 11-for-33 shooting from the floor (33 percent) to go along with 11-for-14 free throw shooting and a 23-22 rebound edge.

Both teams had trouble maintaining possession. The Prowlers lost the ball 22 times and the Panthers had 33 turnovers.

Grygla-Gatzke back in win column

Grygla-Gatzke regained its touch on offense Thursday behind a 26-point game by Tony Nordby that led the Eagles to a 69-63 boys high school basketball win at Roseau.

The Eagles' fifth win of the year came two days after their first loss and worst offensive showing of the season in a 35-32 defeat at the hands of Warroad.

"We did a pretty good job taking good shots," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson, "and we got our fast break going."

Roseau led 18-15 at the end of the third quarter, but a 26-point Grygla-Gatzke second quarter put the Eagles ahead 41-34 at halftime. They opened up a 57-39 third quarter spread.

"We got going in the second quarter," noted Johnson. "We did a good job in the two middle quarters, and our defense had a lot to do with that – it got us some fast breaks. If you play good defense, you can create a lot of opportunities at both ends of the court."

Cory Ostby and Nathan Gast joined Nordby in double figures for the winners with 14 and 13 points, respectively. Paul Rodebusch scored 20 points and Jordan Erickson had 19 for the Rams.

Grygla-Gatzke was 24-for-51 from the field (47 percent) and 14-for-24 at the free throw line. Roseau went 23-for-48 from the floor (48 percent) and 12-for-17 at the line. The Rams finished with a 24-23 rebound edge, but they also had more turnovers, 18-10.

The Eagles' next start will be Jan. 4 at Red Lake Falls.

Prowlers pin 67-2 loss on Ponies

Five Thief River Falls pins and five Warren-Alvarado-Oslo open-weight forfeits added up to a one-sided 67-2 Prowlers win over the Ponies Thursday in high school wrestling.

It was the 2001-02 home opener for the Prowlers, who received pins from Colt Bergeron at 103 pounds; Phil Hermanson, 160; Jon Swanson, 171; Ben Lofgren, 189; and Chad Olson, heavyweight.

In addition to the pins, Thief River Falls points came from Thain Abrahamson with a decision at 125, Jeremy Anderson with a technical fall at 135, and the five forfeits.

"We wrestled very well," said Thief River Falls coach Rick Yanke. "Granted, the Ponies aren't the toughest team that we will meet, but every match that we wrestled, we went out and took control right away. That's what I like to see in our wrestlers – don't wait around for an opportunity; go out and create one."

It was the fourth win in six dual decisions for the Prowlers.

"I like that our team came together for really the first time all year," mentioned Yanke. "They had fun. They cheered for each other, and that helps everyone try a little bit harder. Thain Abrahamson's match was a good example of that: our freshman vs. their senior. Thain came through with a takedown with only five seconds on the clock to win. That shows toughness. I love it."

Yanke also tipped his hat to the crowd. "The fans were great," he said. "I saw some new faces, which is nice. There were several former Prowler wrestlers in the crowd, from guys who graduated last year to ones who graduated many years ago."

Matzke, Eagles win 54-38 girls contest against MCC team

Heidi Matzke scored 25 points and helped a Red Lake Falls defense shut down the Marshall County Central offense Thursday in the Eagles' 58-34 girls high school basketball win over the visiting Nordics.

Matzke, who picked up 18 of her points in the second half, was 3-for-4 from 3-point range.

"Heidi Matzke was unbelievable," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We couldn't stop her."

Red Lake Falls had quarter leads of 13-7, 25-17 and 44-28.

"They shot the ball really well, and their defense dictated what we did on offense," explained Mjelde.

The 4-4 Nordics, who did not have a double figure scorer, had a tough shooting night that included a 38 percent 15-for-39 showing from the field and a 21 percent 3-for-14 effort at the free throw line.

Red Lake Falls shot 52 percent from the floor (23/44) and went 8-for-17 at the line.

A 25-17 Marshall County Central rebound edge was negated by 25 turnovers. The Eagles turned it over just nine times.

"We've got to take better care of the ball," noted Mjelde. "They pressed us and we turned it over."
